SAFE DRIVING'S IN!

IT'S BACK-TO-SCHOOL TIME

'We Must All Work Together'

Encourage Children To Follow Safety Rules To And From School

By JOHN BARTHOLOMEW
Quincy School Safety Officer

The end of summer and the early days of fall can be hazardous times on the city streets.

Youngsters of all ages are back in school, crossing the streets in droves, possibly on collision courses with motorists.

It is up to the citizens of Quincy — the school department, police, parents, youngsters and drivers — to work together in order to have a safe and happy school year.

Quincy has almost 20,000 students from pre-kindergartners to college men and women.

The main streets and intersections will be monitored by 46 women traffic supervisors and regular police officers, assisted by an estimated 1,000 pupils serving on the school safety patrol.

You can help to make the many travelled miles to and from schools a pleasure and not a hazardous chore by encouraging your children to follow these rules:

- * Always walk on the sidewalk.
- * Cross only at corners, looking both ways before crossing.
- * Use crosswalk whenever possible.
- * Don't cross from behind parked cars.
- * When crossing at a traffic light, wait for the light to change and for traffic to stop before crossing.
- * Obey your school traffic supervisor and patrol.

- * Watch for turning cars.
- * Never dart out into the street.

* Walk defensively; be especially alert for careless drivers.

Additional safety rules for school bus riders are:

- * Wait for the bus in an orderly line.
- * When boarding or leaving the bus, do not run.
- * Place books or bundles where they cannot slide or fall.
- * Keep arms and legs out of aisles.
- * Your head, arms and bundles are safest inside the bus.
- * Don't talk to the bus driver except in emergency.
- * Don't open windows without permission.

Remember that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Forty-six women traffic supervisors will guard Quincy school crossings during the 1976-1977 school year.

Be Sure To Stop For School Buses

School buses are back on the streets again after a summer vacation in the garage.

It's easy to forget that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has woven a protective web of laws around the yellow buses.

It is imperative that drivers re-acquaint themselves with the school bus law so that we can continue to protect the youngsters who use these buses. The Massachusetts law provides:

"When approaching a vehicle which displays a sign bearing the words 'SCHOOL BUS' and is equipped with front and rear alternating flashing signal lamps which are flashing, as provided in section 7B, and which has been stopped to allow passengers to alight from or board same, a person operating a motor vehicle shall, except when approaching from the opposite direction on a divided highway, bring his vehicle to a full stop before reaching said school bus and shall not thereafter proceed until said school bus resumes motion or until such person is signaled by the driver of the school bus to proceed or the said signal lamps are no longer flashing."

● Cross Country

North Seeks 4th Win, Quincy Chasing First

North Quincy's cross-country team, with a 3-1 record, will host Newton Friday while Quincy, still winless, goes to Brookline. Next Wednesday North goes to Weymouth South and Quincy travels to Waltham.

Last week Lou Tozzi's North harriers breezed to a 17-44 win over Brookline as Bob Levenson, Mike Morin and Mike Barrett finished in a dead heat for first. Matt Breslin was fifth, Jerry Keys sixth, Andy Laskowski seventh and Mike Kezner 10th. Co-Capt. Marty Levenson was injured and couldn't run.

North's girls topped Brookline, 18-45, for their first win. Sue Yee was the race winner, Debbie Coutts second, Michele Seltzer fourth, Carol Seeger fifth, Marie Voelkel sixth and Joan Petkun seventh.

Joe Catalano's luckless Quincy team dropped a 20-38 decision to Newton and the girls also lost, 26-30.

Last Friday North defeated Boston Latin, 22-35, in a non-league meet.

Morin and Bob Levenson finished 1-2, while Breslin was fourth, Keys seventh, Marty Levenson eighth and Laskowski ninth.

Montclair Men's Club Lists Golf Tourney Winners

The fourth annual Montclair Men's Club golf tournament was held last Sunday at the Pembroke Country Club.

Dave Adams shot low gross of 85, Pete Savage and Bill Smith tied for low net of 71, Ray Cunningham had low blind handicap net of 79, Joe Ouellette, Jim Locke and Smith shot low team net of 231, Smith had the longest drive, 265 yards, and Jim Kelly shot closest to the pin, 15 feet.

Bantam A's Top Braintree

Quincy Sons of Italy Bantam A hockey team topped Braintree, 6-4.

Tom Joe Connelly, Bobby Currier, Scott Richardson,

Chickie Milford, Paul McGrath and Neal Shea had the goals, with Currier having three assists and Connelly and Richardson one each.

Presidents Must Improve For Waltham

Quincy's football team will try to even its record at 2-2 Saturday when it hosts Waltham in a 1:30 p.m. Suburban League game at Veterans Memorial Stadium and the coaches have been working long and hard with the special teams.

"We have to do a lot of work with the special teams after our loss [39-18] at Revere," Coach Hank Conroy said. "They killed us in that game and they will have to be much sharper when we play Waltham."

Waltham defeated Arlington, 24-6, and Somerville, 12-6, after losing its opener to Norwood, 19-8.

"I know that 39-18 score looks pretty bad but it wasn't as bad as it sounds," Conroy said. "Revere scored on two long punt returns and a kickoff return and another time when we let the quarterback loose and he ran 89 yards. Lenny Picot got off some more booming punts but it didn't do much good today the way Revere ran them back."

Quincy lost two regular ends, Pat Gibbons and Paul Vallatini early in the game and Conroy hailed Don Heath for a fine job filling in.

"Mark Giordani took over at quarterback in the second half and picked the team up," Conroy said. "We controlled the ball in the second half and the only touchdown they scored in the half came late in the game when we gambled on fourth down and gave them the ball on our 35."

Despite the score the defense did a good job. It was the special teams which hurt. Singled out for their work on defense were Mike Duggan, Mickey Thorley, Tom Conine and Bill Daley.

Receiving praise for their work on offense were Duggan, Thorley, Steve Cassidy, Jim Constat, Wayne Gardner and Giordani.

The three long runbacks gave Revere a 26-0 lead before Dennis Walter, returning to action after missing the previous game with an injury, passed to Wayne French for 34 yards and a touchdown in the second period. Revere came back with another TD on a long run.

In the third period Mark Buchanan scored two touchdowns from the 11 and 10 yard lines.

Quincy gained 113 yards through the air with Walter hitting on four for seven, Giordani three for eight and Picot one for one. Buchanan also threw one incompletion.

Raiders To Nurse Wounds On Day Off

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy's football team is rolling along with a 3-0 record and usually a coach in this position hates to face an open date.

North Coach Dave Burke, however, is not unhappy that the Raiders will be idle this week.

"We have a lot of boys banged up and this will give us a chance to have everyone ready for our next game," Burke said. "You know, we don't have too much depth and can't afford to lose many players. We tried to fill the open date but right now I'm just as glad we couldn't fill it."

Last Saturday North and Weymouth North sloshed to a scoreless first half in a steady rain at Veterans Memorial Stadium but the Raiders came to life in the second half and pulled out a 17-0 win in their first Suburban League game.

A 30-yard field goal by Ed McElaney got North on the scoreboard with only 12 seconds left in the third period and a 66-yard run by George Wallace early in the final period gave North some breathing room.

"The defense was really outstanding again and the entire defensive unit did a great job," Burke praised. Dan Butts, filling in as a line backer, was singled out along with Paul Corliss, a transfer from Don Bosco, John Ryan, the secondary of McElaney, Art Bertoni and Kevin Doyle as well as Frank McGinnis and Mike Nolan. Particularly outstanding in the second half was Mark Wentzell.

Wallace was brilliant as North went to a spin play in which he gained 167 yards in 16 carries including his 66-yard touchdown run. Mike Adams and Bill McIntyre also did well and Wallace and McIntyre were hailed by Asst. Coach Tom Fitzgerald for their blocking. Although North had only one pass completion [that for a touchdown], Burke felt both quarterbacks, Brian Donaghey and Dennis Doherty played well and handled the ball well under atrocious conditions.

Junior backs Colin McEachern, Greg Zoia and John Wilkinson saw service and McEachern had one run of 16 yards.

Asst. Coach Ken McPhee, who handles the defense along with newcomer Jack Raymer, was ecstatic about the defensive unit.

"I feel this defense is at least on a par with last year's," McPhee said. "We should have three straight shutouts and be unscored upon this year. The Milton touchdown came against the reserves and was the result of three straight 15-yard penalties against our kids."

Neither team posed a threat in the first half. In the third period North drove to Weymouth's eight but was stalled and a field goal try by McElaney was wide.

A few plays later Corliss grabbed a fumble in the air and returned it to the Weymouth 14. Again the attack bogged down and another field goal try, this time from 35 yards, was blocked. However, Weymouth was offside and on his third try of the day from 30 yards out McElaney hit.

Early in the final period North had the ball on its 30 after a punt. Adams made four yards and Wallace then broke loose for his 66-yard scoring run, shaking off several would-be tacklers. McElaney kicked the point.

A few plays later, after the Weymouth quarterback was sacked three times in a row for 26 yards in losses, Charlie Crowley punted to North Quincy's 47. Seven plays later Doherty hit Adams for a 28-yard touchdown pass and McElaney again converted.

North Quincy ground out a total of 231 net yards rushing to only 77 for Weymouth. North had the only pass completion of the game and clicked off 13 first downs to five.

After the game the players presented game balls to Fitzgerald and former defensive coach Dick Meyer.

The Raiders' next game will be at home Oct. 16 against Weymouth South in their final non-league game of the season.

● Soccer

North Faces Brockton, Quincy Hosts Weymouth S.

North Quincy's soccer team will play at Brockton Friday, Tuesday will be home to Weymouth North and Wednesday will host Brookline. Quincy will host Weymouth South Friday, will play at Cambridge Latin Tuesday and will play at Brockton Wednesday.

Bruce Cochrane's North team, which has shown an excellent defense but has had trouble scoring, nipped Rindge last Saturday, 2-1, to make its Suburban League record 4-3.

Rindge took an early lead but North tied it in the first period on a goal by Tom White with Dave Harrow assisting. Jim McGinley won it in the final period with an unassisted goal.

North's junior varsity, with the same record as the varsity, breezed past Rindge jayvees, 10-0.

Jim McGuire's Quincy boters, who had started off with a win and three ties, were bombed by undefeated Newton, 9-0, last Saturday, as Newton ran its record to 7-0.

Last Thursday North Quincy squeezed by Quincy, 1-0, on a lucky goal by Harrow.

With confusion reigning in the penalty area, Quincy's goalie came out of the goal and when the ball was bounced high into the air, Harrow headed it past the goalie.

Earlier in the week North was defeated by Newton, 3-0, and Quincy was edged by Brookline, 2-1.

After a promising 1-0-3 start, Quincy has dropped to 1-3-3.

Records Broken In Track Club Cross Country Meet

The steady rain which fell last Saturday didn't dampen the spirits of the more than 20 runners who took part in the second Quincy Track Club cross country meet.

Four records were broken with 12-year-old Michelle Millane stealing the spotlight. She ran away and hid in the girls race, running a phenomenal 7:49 over the 1.35 mile course. Her time at the mile was an impressive 5:35. The second place finisher, Linda Morash, was far in arrears with a 9:25 timing.

"I'm sure Michelle could run even faster if she was pushed," said assistant director Joe Santo.

Other record breakers were Steve Rodriguez, a 15-year old sophomore running for North Quincy High, who did 7:27 in his age group, breaking John Furey's mark of 7:36; Steve Healey, a Sacred Heart eighth grader, who broke the 12-13-year old boys mark, and Art Douglas, with a new 11 and under record. Furey, incidentally, in the 14-15 group, also broke his previous record, finishing in 7:30.

These meets serve as qualifying for the national meet

Nov. 7 in New York. Qualifying to date are Michelle Millane, Linda Morash, Sheila Barrett, Terry Reinhardt, Joanne Connolly, Patty Storer, Bernadette Murphy, Steve Healey, Art Douglas and Jim Flaherty.

The club plans to run Monday in the Falmouth Invitational meet.

The club is desperately in need of parents to drive members to the meets. The club also needs more girls 9 years old and under. Contact Director Jeff Hennessy at 472-5537.

Last Saturday's summary:

BOYS

14-15 year old: 1. Steve Rodriguez, 7:27, course record; 2. John Furey; 12-13 - 1. Steve Healey, 7:59, record; 2. Dave Dindy, 3. Ricky O'Brien, 11 and under - 1. Art Douglas, 8:31, age group record, 2. Jim Flaherty, 3. Dan Johnson, 4. Jim White, 5. Mark Fishman, 6. Mike Flaherty.

12-13 - 1. Michelle Millane, 7:49, course record, 2. Linda Morash, 3. Denise Santo.

11 and under - 1. Patty Storer, 10:06, 2. Bernadette Murphy, 3. Lisa Locke, 4. Liz Garrigan, 5. Geraldine Murphy, 6. Kathy Welch.

PeeWee A's Romp Over Braintree, 9-1

Pee Wee B's Blank Walpole, 12-0

The Pee Wee B hockey team breezed to a 12-0 win over Walpole, sparked by Frank Reynolds' hat trick. He also had an assist. Andy Shannon and Timmy O'Connell excelled in goal.

Kevin Duff had two goals and Tom Dunphy, Tom Benson, Mike McGrath, John O'Connell,

Craig had three assists, Richie Stevens two and Murphy, White, Milano, O'Connor, Paul McCabe, Kevin Chase and Tom Lester one apiece.

Steven Ballis, Joe Livingstone and Bobby Reidy one apiece.

Dunphy, Livingstone, McGrath and Keith Blaney had two assists each and Reynolds, Duff, Benson, O'Connell, Reidy, Ralph Fitzmaurice, Chris Gorman and Bobby Lynch one apiece.

above the $300,000 contract. "I was shocked to learn this. I'd like to remind the Council that a clerk of the works was appointed for the Lincoln-Hancock School at a salary of $300 a week. Now all of a sudden we have a clerk of the works at a salary of $600 a week.

"I think an investigation is necessary. I want to know if this is being approved by the Mayor. If it is not, I think an explanation is due from the Budget Director and the Commissioner of Public Works."

Salenius sought to "seriously question the alleged facts and the way they were presented" when Tobin cut him off to read a letter, dated Sept. 16, from LoCicero to the clerk of the works-designate, whose name was not disclosed.

"As a result of your interview with Mr. Barry Coletti, as architect in charge of the addition to North Quincy High School, I am this day appointing you to the position of clerk of the works at the North Quincy High School project.

"Mr. Coletti feels that you are not only the best qualified but also thoroughly aware of the actual details of the construction; that you would protect the best interests of the city of Quincy.

"Since you will be working in a close relationship with the Kent Corp., the construction managers, you will be paid directly by the Kent Corp."

Tobin conceded that he was reading from a facsimile of the letter, which contained no signature. The original of the letter, he said, was on file at the Department of Public Works.

Auditor Charles L. Shea said the city has received a requisition from the Kent Corp. for $1,800 to pay a clerk of the works for three weeks work. He said the payment was "over and above" the $300,000 contract.

City Engineer Edward Leone, who is acting Commissioner of Public Works while LoCicero is out of town, agreed that he had never heard of a project with an architect, a consulting firm and a clerk of the works at the same time.

"I've heard of an architect and a clerk of the works," he said. "But not all three."

It was City Councillor James A. Sheets who pressed to have Kelly team up with Salenius in the investigation.

"I'll endeavor to share all the information I have with the Council," said Salenius.

"If a member of the City Council were with you," Sheets suggested, "it would avoid a lot of confusing statements."

"I'll bring forth any information I can," responded Salenius. "If it is with Councillor Kelly, I can't say now."

Councillor Kelly said the Kent Corp. has also been hired for $60,000 to act as management consultant for the addition to the Merrymount School.

"This is a small addition to a school," he said. "A number of other schools in the city have had additions. The Merrymount School seems to be unique in that it needs a management team to the tune of $60,000.

"The work is still out on bids so no clerk of the works has been appointed. I hope it doesn't need one now."

Salenius promised to look into that question to.

Said Councillor Dennis E. Harrington:

"I am shocked, too, to hear that the management team was hired for over $300,000. Also Councillor Kelly indicates that $60,000 is being paid to the same firm for a small addition to the Merry Mount School.

"In addition, the corporation was authorized to hire one of its own employees for $33 an hour for consulting.

"Beyond this, to put the frosting on the cake, we find that a clerk of the works was also appointed for $30,000 a year for a project that could last three or four years.

"We could end up with half a million dollars worth of consultants on this project. I see no reason for it.

"I also suggest that anyone who would drain one dollar from the North Quincy High School project should answer not only publicly but privately to whoever he believes in. "This is one of the worst things I've ever heard of."

TAX TIP IF YOU SELL FOR A PROFIT

Normally, taxpayers who sell their home for a substantial profit face a heavy tax load, but this burden can be avoided. If you buy another home that costs as much or more than the sales prices of the old one, within a specified time, the profit from the sale is not included in your taxable income.

The second home must be bought and occupied within a period ending 18 months after the sale. [This is a new change, previous time period was one year]. A 2-year period is permitted when building a new home. This tax deferment applies only to the sale of a home which is the family's main residence.

When figuring the amount of gain for which tax may be postponed you may deduct for "fix-up" expenses if they were accomplished within 90 days prior to the sale, and paid for no later than 30 days after the sale. Check with your accountant or the IRS on details if this matter affects you. It could be well worth your while.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

Keohane Funeral Home Sponsoring 'People Helping People' Seminars

People Helping People, a five-part seminar designed to aid those in grief will be sponsored by the Keohane Funeral Home of Quincy beginning Thursday, Oct. 7.

All sessions will be held at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall, 5 Hollis Ave., at 7:30 p.m.

Edward J. Keohane, a director at the Keohane Funeral Home, said "the firm's service to humanity is first, burying the dead with dignity and second rendering service to the living."

He said experts will discuss grief counseling, insurance, law, finance, problems of single parents, general maintenance and taxes. After each presentation, there will be a question and answer period. Persons will be able to discuss problems or solutions with those present as well as the speaker.

The first seminar "Coping With Your Grief" will be held Oct. 7. Speaker will be Rev. Victor F. Scalise, a Baptist minister from Brookline. His topics will be, "Effective and Realistic Acceptance of Death," "Making Life Meaningful Again," and "What Resources Enable Us to Enter the Land of Beginning Again."

The second talk Oct. 14 will feature Terrence G. Kennedy, a Certified Public Accountant associated with the Gerald T. Reilly Company of Quincy. He will discuss "Personal Tax Considerations".

At the Oct. 21 seminar, Edwin B. Lynch, Director of Children of Single Parents will discuss the problems and concerns between children with one parent.

The seminar Oct. 28 will have two speakers, Paul G. Gay, Norfolk County Register of Probate and David F. Bouley, Vice President of Riley and Reilly Insurance Company of Quincy. Mr. Gay will discuss the importance of wills and how it affects the survivors. Mr. Bouley will discuss insurance needs including automobile, home owners, medical and life insurance.

Anthony Tizzotti, an instructor in auto mechanics at Quincy Vocational School will conduct the program Nov. 4. He will discuss general auto maintenance.

The success of the program over the past few years has prompted the Keohane Funeral Home to continue it again this year.

Registration for the seminar is not required. The public is invited.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRai announces the names of the 24 persons who will serve as Quincy representatives to the Quincy-South Shore Cultural Commission.

The Commission will have the responsibility for planning the construction of a center for the Performing Arts and the creation of a regional program for the visual and performing arts.

Gerald M. Ridge, president of Metro Bank, will serve as chairman of the Commission. Vice-chairmen are: Ernest Montilio, president of Montilio's Bakeries; Frank Remick, president of Remick's Department Store; and Robert Faxon, president of Faxon Trust.

Other members of the Commission are:

president of Aqua Leisure Industries; Edna Gilmore; David Lord, manager, Procter and Gamble; Leo Meady, Republican City Committee chairman.

Members also include Mrs. Rudolph Morris; Seraphin Pappasianis, president of St. Catherine's Greek Orthodox Church; Charles Pearce, president Quincy Savings Bank; George Reardon, president, President Chevrolet; Dr. William Ridder, Norfolk County Medical Examiner; Peter Ruscito, Director of the Quincy YMCA; Albert Slate, attorney; Sabina Stenberg; Ronald Van Dam, president Bargain Center and Andrew Walsh, president of Walsh's Restaurant and the Quincy Symphony Orchestra.

Mayor LaRai said that the City Planning Department and volunteer consultants have been studying possible sites for the proposed Center, and that the data they have compiled will be made available to the Commission as resource material.

"We have taken the first step toward establishing a facility that will, I am confident, greatly enhance the cultural and artistic climate, both for Quincy and for the entire South Shore," he said.

"I know that the men and women who have agreed to serve on the Cultural Commission will do a most conscientious job and we will eventually have a facility for the arts that will compare favorably with any such center in the nation."

Commission Chairman Ridge is president of Blue Hill Cemetery, the Ridge Corporation and Plaza Tours. He is the former president of the Baintree Rotary Club and the Pere Marquette Council of the Knights of Columbus of South Boston. He is also a director of the Institute of Public Management, based in Newton.

Ridge announced that the first meeting of the Commission was held Tuesday in the Adams Room of the Quincy Savings Bank at 1200 Hancock St., to establish sub-committees and to discuss participation in the city's Oct. 30-31 celebration of Ruth Gordon Birthday Weekend.

proposed that the drawspan shall not open between the rush hours of 6:30-9 a.m. and from 4:30-6 p.m., Monday through Friday," he noted. "I suggest that the evening hours be expanded from 4:30-7 p.m."

"Often storms in extreme winter storm conditions, the rush hour is extended to 7 p.m. due to slower travelling speeds and late homebound commuters."

"It appears that the one extra hour of time in the evening would not adversely affect any potential ships entering or leaving the Fore River."

Q. Is there anything in the stars which would explain why our son, who had to go an extra year in high school because he failed math, could go into the Air Force and be sent to language school in Monterey. Because of his aptitude test he is being trained to translate Mandarin Chinese, one of the most difficult of languages. I understand that there are very few who have this ability. He was born on July 29, 1957 at 12:30 A.M. in Bristol, Maine.

A. In some states births are recorded in Standard Time while in others, births are recorded in Daylight Savings Time during certain specified months of the spring and summer. In the year of your son's birth, Daylight Savings Time was observed in Maine. If his birth is stated in D.S.T. he has the Sign of the Zodiac Taurus on the Ascendant.

However, if his time of birth was 12:30 A.M. Eastern Standard Time, then he has Gemini on the Ascendant and the planet Mercury [ruler of Gemini] in the Sign of Leo in conjunction aspect to the planet Pluto and Mars and in favorable aspect to the planet Mercury in Libra. These usually indicate excellent ability to quickly pick up and mimic that which is heard and it was probably clearly indicated in his aptitude tests.

His Sun, Uranus, Mars, Mercury and Pluto were all in the Sign of the Zodiac Leo and the Moon, Venus, and Jupiter were in Virgo. These are indicative of success through intellectual and creative means but not easily achieved through mathematical or scientific pursuits. From time to time he can be counted upon to do the unexpected.

As he goes through life he will be most anxious for recognition and being clever, adaptable and capable of original ideas. He has what it takes to achieve it.

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

The "National Bicentennial Celebration" is the theme for an exhibit at the Thomas Crane Public Library Art Gallery, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center during October. Presented by members of the Southeastern Massachusetts Professional Photographers Guild, the prints include a variety of interpretations from interesting views of local historic buildings to artistic subjects reminiscent of earlier times.

Photographers participating are Marguerite and Robert Spillane of Spillane Studio, Quincy, Clifton Fasch of Milton, Rudolph Mitchell of Scituate, George Loring of Hingham, J. David Congalton of Duxbury and Don Ayotte and Harry Griswold of Middleboro.

The Southeastern Massachusetts Professional Photographers Guild was founded in 1950 by a group of local professional photographers including John and Madeline Hobbs of Weymouth and Fasch, to propagate and enforce practices of high ethical levels among members of the profession. Present president is David Congalton of Duxbury. Members meet monthly and sponsor an annual print exhibit with judging by validated judges from the Professional Photographers of America Association, participate in educational seminars at the New England Institute of Professional Photography at the University of New Hampshire, the Winona School of Professional Photography in Indiana as well as affiliated state and regional associations.

Adams Birthplaces Have Record Number Of Visitors

The Presidents John and John Quincy Adams Birthplaces have closed for the regular tourist season but will open for the Columbus Day holiday weekend Oct. 9-10-11.

Mrs. Margaret S. O'Connell, chairwoman of the House Committee for the Quincy Historical Society, said figures are not yet official but between 15,000 and 16,000 visitors toured the two historic sites this season. This would be approximately double the number of visitors during an average tourist season.

She said the visitors came from just about every state and from as far away as Japan, China and India.

YMCA Dramatics Club Rehearsing 'Peter Pan'

The Quincy YMCA Dramatics Club, under the direction of Cate Mann, is now in rehearsal for its production of "Peter Pan".

Locicero, Commissioner of Public Works, Public Works Building, Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169, until 2:00 P.M. Eastern Standard Time, Wednesday, October 13, 1976, at which time and place the bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Plans and Specifications may be examined and obtained at the office of Coletti Brothers, Inc., Architect, 10 Industrial Park Road, Hingham, Massachusetts 02043, and at the office of Vincent R. Locicero, Commissioner of Public Works, Public Works Building, Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts, upon deposit of TEN DOLLARS [$10.00] in the form of a check made payable to the City of Quincy for each complete set, after 12 o'clock noon.

Copies of the Bid Form are available at no cost at the aforementioned offices. The full amount of the deposit will be refunded to all persons returning plans and specifications in good condition within ten [10] days after date of bid opening. The Owner may consider informal bids not prepared according to the forms included herewith.

THE CITY OF QUINCY, MASSACHUSETTS reserves the right to waive any informalities in, or to reject any or all bids, or to accept any bid which it deems most advantageous to the City of Quincy.

Every bid submitted by Contractors shall be accompanied by a Certified Check or a Treasurer's or Cashier's Check issued by a responsible bank or trust company, payable to the City of Quincy, Massachusetts. The amount of such check shall be not less than five [5] percent of the value of the proposed work, as estimated by the Awarding Authority, but in no event, less than one hundred dollars, nor more than fifty-thousand dollars.

Attention of Bidders is particularly called to the requirements as to the conditions of employment to be observed, and minimum wage rates to be paid under the Contract.

No Bidder may withdraw his bid within 30 days after the actual date of the opening thereof.

In Near Fist Fight

LaRaia, Kelly In Shouting, Shoving Match

By TOM HENSHAW

The bitter feeling between Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and the City Council nearly erupted into a fist fight between the Mayor and Councillor Leo J. Kelly last Thursday. The Quincy Sun has learned.

The two engaged in a pushing and shoving match in the Council Chamber late in the afternoon before Councillor James A. Sheets intervened and held them apart, sources told The Sun.

Kelly and Sheets declined to comment on reports of the fight but Rep. Andrew H. Card Jr. [R-Holbrook], who was visiting Sheets, confirmed that it took place, after which the Mayor was "shuffled out the door" by his aide, John Salenius.

LaRaia said only:

"Leo and I occasionally discuss matters concerning the city. We understand each other well. If he has something on his mind he says it and vice versa.

"I did mention to him that, because his brother-in-law is the former mayor's secretary, his thinking has been affected by that relationship."

Kelly's wife, Mary, is the sister of Joseph Shea, who was executive secretary to ex-Mayor Walter J. Hannon, whom LaRaia defeated for the office.

The Sun's sources described the altercation in the Council Chamber like this:

Kelly and Sheets were in the Council Chamber waiting for other councillors to start a meeting of the Oversight Committee. LaRaia came out of his office and walked toward the rear door to the chamber. He spotted Kelly and stopped.

"I hope you don't get egg all over your face from listening to that S.O.B.," he shouted, pointing to the empty chair usually occupied by Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

"He's leading you around by the nose!"

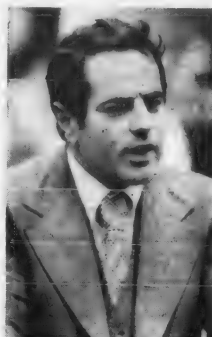

Kelly, who was leaning against a radiator by one of the Chamber windows, stood up and

LaRaia Challenges Tobin To Debate

Hostilities Escalate Between Mayor, Council Over Tax

Open hostilities between Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and the City Council, in particular its President Arthur H. Tobin, reached new heights of vituperation this week.

LaRaia challenged Tobin to a debate on the tax rate, which moved up and down like a fiscal yo-yo last week before finally settling at $194.80, an increase of $34.90 over the previous year.

Tobin, who insists that the tax rate need not increase by more than $10.25, issued what appeared to be an acceptance of the challenge to a debate "on all the issues, especially his [LaRaia's] erratic behavior."

The tax rate controversy is merely the latest in a long series of disputes between the Mayor and the City Council that threatens to make city government virtually inoperative for the remainder of LaRaia's term as Mayor.

It was set at $194.60 last Wednesday. Then a $1.3 million error was discovered. Prodded by the City Council, the state ruled that $1.3 million in anticipated hospital receipts could be applied in computing the rate.

The new rate was figured [but not set] at $189.40. Then Friday the state reversed itself and disallowed the $1.3 million. Not only that, but another $1.4 million in Blue Cross-Blue Shield coverage, not yet approved by the Council, was disallowed, too.

The result, said Budget Coordinator Sarah Saccone, was a tax rate of $194.80.

LaRaia told a hastily summoned news conference Tuesday morning that he and members of his administration had to go back to state tax officials Friday "due to the interference by the Council president in the procedures traditionally followed in establishing the tax rate."

"The Council President, through the City Auditor [Charles L. Shea], has been insistent that the administration establish a tax rate in the vicinity of $10 increase. The Saturday paper mentioned it as low as $10.25.

"He said the state tax officials did not have a chance to review his proposal.

"The Council President has no authority as a Councillor to interfere in the process of establishing the tax rate. That is the responsibility under law granted to the Board of Assessors.

"His only authority comes during the 45-day period that he and the Council have to review the budget and make suggested cuts and then finally vote on the budget. This has been completed as of May.

"Any further action between the City Council and the Mayor regarding any questions about the tax rate is simply an interchange of ideas that would help the administration in setting the rate.

"The Mayor has no obligation at all to include the City Council in setting the rate. I have tried to include them as much as possible...."

LaRaia said he went to Boston with figures that were "solid and able to stand close scrutiny" by officials of the State Department of Corporations and Taxation.

But, he said, "the state officials would not finalize the rate unless there were discussions between my office and the city auditor and that any questions of challenge were resolved.

"During the morning, the Council President put on his second hat as State Senator and made several calls to that office, using his influence to attempt to delay the setting of the tax rate.

"Let me repeat, he has no authority at all to interfere in setting the tax rate. I have welcomed his advice and comments but he has taken advantage of my welcome.

"Only after I talked to the auditor and told him I was not going to allow the public to be kept confused and put in limbo on the question as to who is right about the tax rate; then and only then, when it was too late, I received a call from the Council President as well as a couple of Councillors."

LaRaia described City Auditor Shea as "a close personal friend of the Council President who was sponsored as a candidate for auditor two years ago by Tobin and we find that the auditor is 1,000 per cent loyal right now."

The auditor, he said, "is not responsible for formulating policy but for reporting figures and approving payments of bills through his office."

"I know the public is disgusted with the bickering that is going on in their city government," said LaRaia. "Obviously the bickering does not come from the Mayor's office."

He cited an appropriation of $7,700 for senior citizens, an appropriation of $750,000 for Blue Cross-Blue Shield and

Lydon Opposes 2 Bus Lines Running To MBTA Station

City Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. has underscored his opposition to requests by the Unda Bus Co. and Hudson Bus Co. for permission to run on Quincy streets to the Quincy Center MBTA Station.

He noted his opposition in a letter to John Ingalls, director of the Rail and Bus Division of the State Department of Public Utilities.

Unda Bus Co. has before the DPU a proposal to run from the Brockton-Easton area to Quincy, depositing passengers at the MBTA station.

"I believe it would be a duplication of services existing in these communities," said Lydon.

"It adds to the Quincy taxpayers an assessment charge for every passenger that Unda brings into the Quincy terminal."

"It is against the philosophy of the expansion of the MBTA and its bus routes into the outlying communities."

"In the past, I have appeared before the DPU to protest the Hudson Bus lines from Weymouth to Quincy Center for the above three reasons and also indicated that these lines were purchased from Eastern Mass when the MBTA first came into this area."

"It was my feeling that the MBTA should have implemented routes into the Weymouth area to provide transportation for that sector and it was my belief that as the MBTA expanded further south that the state would be in the position of again having to purchase, for hardship reasons, the routes given to Hudson which were originally purchased from Eastern Mass."

"The DPU did rule over the objection of the Quincy City Council and Hudson was granted the route. As of the present, Hudson has pulled out of this route and the problem for the people further south has still not been resolved."

"Hudson Bus Co's withdrawal is a further indication that a private concern should not be issued licenses within the MBTA district as they can withdraw from any route if they do not operate at a profit. It is my opinion that this should not be the concept of public transportation."

"I would also like to make you aware that Hudson Bus Co. appeared before the Quincy City Council last Monday evening for the issuance of a limousine license to operate over the streets of the city of Quincy."

"Once again I expressed my extreme opposition to this proposal as we now have within the city our own taxi companies who perform this service. In future hearings, if Hudson Bus does apply for a license before the DPU, I would like to voice my strong opposition to the issuance of it."

Lydon added that he feels "the DPU has not acted in the best interests of the residents of Quincy and I do not think it is right that a state agency has the overriding veto of a local authority."

New Playground

Equipment At St. Moritz

Youngsters will soon enjoy new playground equipment at the MDC's St. Moritz Pond area in West Quincy, according to Commissioner John F. Snedeker.

Snedeker has informed Senator Arthur H. Tobin and Rep. James A. Sheets of Quincy that construction of new playground equipment, to be located across from the horseshoe pitch on Bunker Hill Lane, has begun. The project is expected to be completed within 10 days.

Play Timber Inc., Dorchester, low bidder on the contract, has been selected to erect the new structure. The contract specifications call for a four-foot high platform built of timbers and a slide, tire swing, ladder and pole. The low bid was $3,650.

Tobin and Sheets both praised the MDC "for its continued interest in upgrading the St. Moritz Pond area."

More Heaters To Be Installed On MBTA Line

Additional heaters will be installed on the deadend MBTA Red Line track just south of the Quincy Center Station to prevent icing during the winter months.

MBTA directors authorized a $266,459.18 boost in the original $399,400 contract for heater installations so as to include the Quincy track and a section leading to the Cabot Center Yard in South Boston.

Despite Contract Hassles

NQHS Proceeding Better Than Expected, Says Creedon

In spite of hassles over contracts and clerks of the works, renovation work and, more important, education at North Quincy High School is proceeding better than expected.

"The North Quincy High School situation has been going very well," said School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

"There will be no double sessions at North. Instead, we'll be able to have a staggered day in January when they start the structural steel work."

"We thought we'd have to close the school for a week or two in January while the closed classrooms are sealed off with a firewall. But now we learn it will only be five days."

"The kids have been well-behaved and responsive to the problems."

"Once again we have seen the spirit of North Quincy High School functioning well under adverse conditions."

Demolition and piling work, the first steps in the $13.5 million project to renovate and build an addition to the nearly 50-year-old high school, were finished Sept. 10, two days after the opening of school.

"There's a hiatus in construction right now," said Creedon. "The bids for steel have been awarded and it should arrive in December. We'll probably see structural steel going up around the first of January."

Creedon said it was anticipated at first that the school would have to go on double sessions in January when some 23 to 26 classrooms would have to be closed during the structural steel work.

"The absolute cutoff point that would have placed us on double sessions was 20 rooms," he said. "So we sat down and started figuring and we got it down to 17 classrooms."

"There will be no double sessions. We will have a staggered day. The older students will go to school earlier and the younger ones will stay later. We'll be running classes up to 4:30 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon."

"We'll start the staggered day at the beginning of the third marking period in late January."

Creedon said it is planned to clear the building of students while workmen do the masonry work that will seal off the 17 closed classrooms with a fire wall for safety purposes.

"It was thought that we'd have to close the school for a week or two," he said. "But now we learn it will only be five days. We'll try to have it happen during school vacation. If not, we'll have to find other alternatives."

Creedon pointed out that none of these disruptions will apply to Quincy High, except for those North students who "interface" at Quincy; that is, they attend North in the morning and the Quincy-Vo Tech complex in the afternoon.

"The only problem we have had was three weeks ago and that really wasn't our problem at all," said Creedon. "We lost water pressure in the building. Luckily it was on a Friday and we had the weekend to troubleshoot."

"It turned out to be nothing related to the construction situation. Three or four years ago they worked on a water main near the high school and they didn't completely open the gate when they were finished."

"Silt gathered at the gate and finally closed it. It was just a matter of cleaning out the silt and opening the gate."

The biggest disruption thus far at North Quincy High has been the physical education program.

"It is still operating," said Creedon, "but it's on wheels."

North Quincy phys-ed students — and a few from Quincy — are being transported around the city on three buses to attend certain classes at the Lincoln-Hancock School and at the Quincy Armory.

Some Quincy gymnasts also are being bused to the Armory and some swimmers are being transported to the Lincoln-Hancock pool to join their counterparts from North in a comprehensive program.

"The athletic program at North has been disrupted," said Creedon, "but you'll notice the football team has gone undefeated despite the fact that the players have to be bused to practice."

"The kids are taking it in stride. From the kids point of view I am pleased."

$468,590 MBTA Contract

A $468,590 contract has been awarded to The Quincy Corp., 33 Newport Ave., North Quincy, for structural and drainage repairs to the Red Line's concrete and steel viaducts at Ashmont Station.

The Board of Directors of the MBTA approved the award. The Quincy firm was the lowest of three bidders.

The work will be performed as part of the Authority's $3.2 million, federally-aided program for the restoration of track support structures throughout the system.

MODELING IN RECENT Diet Workshop "Before & After" Fashion Show were these two happy "losers" from Quincy, Barbara Papile (left), who lost 60 pounds and went from a size 20 to a 13; and Rosann Daniels, who shed 85 pounds and dropped from a size 20 to an 11. Both are inspiring all their fellow workers at the Quincy City Hospital to also diet. Proceeds from the spring celebration of weight loss were donated to CARE.

Referenda Questions Topic For Women's Republican Club

Women's Republican Club of Quincy will hold an information session on the Equal Rights Amendment and other referenda questions at Wollaston Methodist Church, Friday at 1 p.m.

Janice D'Avignon, Eastern Norfolk County Coordinator for the Committee to Ratify the Equal Rights Amendment, will speak on the benefits of the amendment, and Ann Connor will speak against the proposed amendment.

Edward Sanders from Massachusetts Electric will be among various proponents and opponents of the ballot questions to speak at the information session.

Kathryn Donelin Freshman At Marymount

Miss Kathryn Donelin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Donelin of Quincy, has been accepted as a freshman at Marymount College, Tarrytown, N.Y. this fall. She is a graduate of Fontbonne Academy, Milton.

ERA Opponents To Speak At St. Mary's Church Sunday

A panel discussion on the Equal Rights Amendment will be held at Mullarkey Hall, St. Mary's Church, Crescent St., West Quincy, Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The discussion will be moderated by Mrs. Rita Burke of Cohasset. Panelists will include Margaret Mahoney, Constitutional lawyer, an opponent to the ERA amendment. She says she is fearful of what the amendment will do to culture and family life.

She will be joined on the panel by Dr. Joanne Angelo, a child and adult psychiatrist, Alan McKay, a lawyer, and Ann Connor, a former member of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women.

Family Life Education Program To Be Held Here

The Family Service Association of Greater Boston announces a Family Life Education Program for individual and families at its South Shore office, 1159 Hancock St., Quincy.

Family Service, which is supported by the United Way, is a voluntary social agency providing individual and group counseling.

Family Life Education programs are eight week, education groups designed to improve and strengthen family life. Emphasis is placed on communication skills, problem solving, and on understanding the normal developmental stages of children, marriages and families.

The Family Service Association will run groups for various community organizations if requested, and does have groups at their own office in Quincy. The particular services that are now offered are: Personal Growth Groups, Groups for Separated and Divorced Persons, and Parents' Growth Groups.

Currently, a Parents' Growth Group is forming at the Quincy office. This group is open to parents who wish to improve their relationship with their child. It will be dealing with communication and problem solving skills as well as the specific concerns of the group members. The Parents' Growth Group will start Nov. 5, at 10 a.m. - 11:30 a.m. for eight weeks.

Those interested in joining are invited to call John Eaton, Family Life Education Coordinator for the group.

special bouquet of flowers from the Quincy leaders for playing the piano at the many Camp Fire Girls functions. After the awards ceremony a fashion show was presented and refreshments were served.

Martina McCarthy Exhibit

At N.Q. Library

An exhibition of paintings by Martina McCarthy of Milton, is being shown at the Art Gallery at the North Quincy Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library during October.

Done in oil, watercolor and pencil they include florals, portraits and landscapes of interesting historical landmarks and local scenes in Milton and Quincy.

Although her major field of study was social work at Regis College and at Boston University School of Social Work, she has always been actively involved in the arts, and has studied at the Museum of Fine Arts and with Mrs. Carmelita Rock, Milton watercolorist.

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

Watch The Weather

A 40-year-old nurse from Florida collapsed in a sudden August snowstorm while hiking at 5,000 feet in New Hampshire's White Mountains. She had developed hypothermia, a gradual but drastic lowering of the body temperature. Except for the alertness of rescuers, she might have died.

When you are intrigued by adventure ahead, it's easy to forget how fickle weather can be. This is particularly true in the mountains, where conditions can change abruptly from sunny and mild to cold and wet. Hikers who are poorly clad or too intent on proving their mettle risk the hypothermia that struck down the hiking nurse.

Be alert! To all kinds of weather signs. Distant lightning, towering thunderheads and low clouds moving fast all signal a storm. Get a weather forecast before you hit the trail. If it looks bad, either postpone your trip or dress adequately and take along proper foul-weather gear. Tell someone where you're going and how long you expect to be gone.

Women's Commission Plans Task Forces And Film Festival

Formation of Task Forces and plans for a fall film festival were discussed at a recent meeting of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

The film festival, co-ordinated by Ann Aronson will begin Wednesday, Oct. 27, with "Daddy Don't Be Silly: A case for Equal Rights". Mrs. Janice D'Avignon, Norfolk County Coordinator of the Mass. ERA, will follow the film with a discussion of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Films which will be shown on the following consecutive Wednesdays are: "Rape Culture", Nov. 3; "Not Together Now" and "Chris and Bernie", Nov. 10; "At 99", Nov. 17. All films will be shown at 7:30 p.m. at the main Thomas Crane Public Library.

Longer range activities were discussed by three task forces formed at the meeting. A task force, women and money, chaired by Elizabeth Van Twuyver, will be examining questions of women and credit; insurance rates, and budget management.

Workshops on how to find a job including resume writing and interviewing techniques are being planned. This group will also be exploring resources presently available to women seeking employment.

A task force on social service needs of women chaired by Anne Keating will be looking into the physical abuse of wives. Other areas this group may investigate include young mothers new to the community, and senior citizens.

In other business, the Commission heard a report on women in trade unions from Christine Heeg, and a report on women in vocational-educational programs at Framingham Voc-Tech from Shirley Dunbar.

Richard Newcomb Mayoral Contender?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Well, would you like a fresh name as a potential candidate for next year's mayoral derby?

How about: Richard Newcomb.

The name itself isn't 100 per cent fresh because he's pretty well known—and pretty well respected.

But it is fresh as far as running for office is concerned.

Newcomb, of course, was city purchasing agent and assistant director of Quincy City Hospital under former Mayor Walter Hannon. And did a good job at both posts.

Newcomb is a hard-working businessman who has toiled-still does many—long hours to make his business a success. He started out with one Mug'n Muffin shop in Wollaston and now has a chain of 11.

And right about now with all the financial feuding and fussing going on at City Hall, a lot of people might like to see a businessman running the city. Someone campaigning on a business-like approach to government with the tax rate taking off like a rocket, could be an appealing candidate to many voters.

Friends say Newcomb is "very serious" about running.

If he is that serious, it would kind of rule Walter Hannon out as a mayoral contender next year. The pair are close friends. Newcomb was one of his key advisers when Hannon first ran for the Ward 5 City Council seat and has been close to him in every one of his election battles since.

It would seem that Hannon then would be more likely to return as a council at-large candidate especially if Council President Arthur Tobin runs for mayor.

SPEAKING OF NEXT year's election, a long-time City Council watcher may become a City Council candidate next year.

Norman Forde, a constant observer at Council meetings and the man who spearheaded the drive for a new P.A. system for the council chamber, is giving "serious consideration" to running for an at-large seat, whether or not there is an open seat. He plans to make a final decision right after the November election.

He's "extremely concerned" about rising budgets and the "tremendous public apathy" to spending.

Political observers might be interested in knowing however, that Forde would not run against Walter Hannon for an at-large seat if the latter gets into the race but would run if there were an open seat, and Hannon was in the race.

A FEW WEEKS ago, I vented one of my pet peeves: the privileged character who seems to get away with parking his car between no-parking signs, sticking it out at intersections, on crosswalks and even on sidewalks. And no tag. But the poor shopper who comes to Quincy and parks at a meter, gets tagged if the meter expires.

And to add insult to injury, the "Public Enemy No. 1" usually has to walk between non-tagged but illegally parked cars in front of the courthouse to pay his [her] $2 fine.

That's still going on. But we may get that solved yet.

But do you have time for another of my pet peeves? It's bubble gum. Not so much the old fashioned kind but the new super-duper stuff that sticks like its made of glue. If you've ever stepped in it, its probably one of your gripes, too.

Trying to negotiate Quincy sidewalks without getting tangled up in it is an obstacle course all its own. Downtown Quincy, sidewalks are filthy from the gunk splattered all over the place. We may need an anti-bubble gum ordinance yet.

Meanwhile, I don't know about you, but I'd love to get the guy who invented the stuff and stick his nose in it. Just once, anyway.

CITY COUNCILLOR Paul Harold will be in northern Virginia over the weekend campaigning for Admiral Elmo Zumwalt, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate. Zumwalt is running against Independent Harry Byrd. Harold, who has been raising funds here for Zumwalt, was asked by the Democratic National Committee to tour with Gov. Ella Grasso of Connecticut stumping for Zumwalt.

REASON FOR THAT big smile former School Committeeman Paul Kelly is wearing: he and three partners won the Dixie Classic, a 36-hole foursome net tourney at Jacksonville, Fla., last week. The winning team included Bob Triglia, formerly of West Quincy now of Jacksonville, and two Chicago men, John Daniels and Randy Water. They put together a 33-under-par. Paul is proudly showing off his trophy: a sterling silver punch bowl with matching cups worth a good $750 or so. In the same tourney were former Quincy Public Works Commr. James Ricciuti, Mike Gaudiano and Pete Valle of Quincy, who will now have to listen to Kelly's playback all winter.

THE WEDDING SUNDAY of Andrea Quinn and Charles Santoro produced a break from tradition that could become a new fad. City Councillor John Quinn and his wife, Lorraine, parents of the bride BOTH walked down the aisle with the bride at St. Ann's Church, to give her away.

"We brought her into the world together, raised her together and felt this was the next most important thing to do together," said proud Pop.

"This," smiled Lorraine, "is another step forward for women's equality."

SAY, if George Fandel, the Quincy-Braintree heating contractor, turns up at a party or wedding reception you're at, get him to sing. He warbled a few tunes at the Andrea Quinn-Charles Santoro reception at Dreamwood, Scituate. Sounded as good as Sinatra or Bennett.

Commends School Committee For Women's Center

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The advisory committee for the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College would like to congratulate the Quincy School Committee for its awareness of community needs and its foresight in approving the proposal for reactivating the Women's Center.

The proposal is to create a coordinated resource center that will offer information, guidance, and support in the area of counselling, education, employment, health and legal services, volunteer opportunities, and personal needs.

The Center, which opened its doors in November, 1974 staffed only by volunteers, was so successful a venture that it became apparent in June, 1975 that it could no longer function without a paid director as coordinator of volunteers. This has been the experience of most women's centers which operate in other community colleges throughout Massachusetts.

The present advisory committee to the Women's Center was formed as an ad hoc committee specifically to draft and present the funding proposal to the School Committee. The majority of its members have been involved in the Center since its beginning and recognize the importance of this action in the further development of this community program.

The director will coordinate the many hours of constructive work performed by the conscientious volunteers without whom the Center could not function, as well as teach courses relevant to community needs.

Applications are now being accepted for this position; and when the School Department completes its selection process and appoints a director, all former volunteers and other interested persons will be invited to an open meeting to choose new committees for the current year.

Hospital Fire Brigade Training

The Quincy Fire Department's Fire Prevention Bureau recently held a training session at City Hospital to show its newly formed Fire Brigade the operation of fire hoses and the proper procedures for evacuation.

The classes were conducted by Lt. Robert Kelly and Capt. Carl Valenti.

The Hospital Fire Brigade is programmed to help in the removal of patients and others from the fire area and then fight the fire as efficiently and safely as possible until the Fire Department arrives.

Britain's First Woman Labor Minister Speaks Here

By TOM HENSHAW

Margaret Bondfield, the first woman labor minister of Great Britain, was the chief speaker at a kickoff dinner in the Masonic Temple that raised $136,000 for the Quincy Community and War Fund.

War Correspondent Joseph C. Harsch also spoke.

Mrs. Dora Ferguson, caterer for the dinner, presented a meatless menu so that none of the guests would go over the 2 1/2 pound a week meat rationing limit placed voluntarily on the nation.

POLICE WOMEN REJECTED

The City Council turned down a plan advanced by Mayor Thomas S. Burgin to employ women as operators in the fire and police stations and relieve men for heavier duties during a time of manpower shortage.

Councillors agreed that women's place was in the home, not the police or fire stations, even in time of war.

Burgin had proposed that the women be hired for $1,200 a year with annual raises to a maximum of $1,500 a year. Salaries for regular police officers and firemen were $2,100 for the same work.

QUINCY LOSES

End Tony Antonelli and Fullback Dick Maloney returned from the injury list but they were not enough as the Quincy High football team bowed to Revere, 12-7.

The Quincy starting lineup included:

BAN HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

The School Committee voted to ban interscholastic sports for the rest of the school year, once the football season was completed, as a wartime measure to save travel.

The move was proposed by James J. Carter, director of health education, and endorsed by School Supt. James N. Muir.

Carter recommended substituting a broad program of intramural sports with unofficial games pitting Quincy and North Quincy teams against schools from neighboring Braintree, Weymouth and Milton.

'I Think Of Myself As A Qualified Candidate First Who Happens To Be A Woman...'

de Benedictis Says Blanks Indicate Independent Can Win

By TOM HENSHAW

Danielle de Benedictis feels that Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] can be beaten by an Independent candidate because "a very high blank vote in previous elections shows that he is not attractive to voters outside the Democratic party." de Benedictis, an attractive 30-year-old attorney from Milton, is running as an Independent candidate against Burke, 66, who is seeking his 10th term as congressman from the 11th District in the Nov. 2 election.

In an in-depth interview with The Quincy Sun, de Benedictis made these points:

* Pat McCarthy lost to Burke in the Democratic primary because Burke is unbeatable in a one-on-one contest among Democrats and McCarthy ran a campaign that was too negative.

* She would vote for a constitutional amendment to ban forced busing because "to say anything else is just irresponsible in a district in which some 90 per cent of the people are against it."

* Many people are attracted to a woman candidate for public office because it is a novelty that gives a discouraged and apathetic electorate a chance "to vote for something totally different."

Text of the taped interview, edited for brevity and clarity, follows:

THE SUN: Are you the female candidate?

DE BENEDECTIS: - I simply think of myself as a woman who has a vast variety of background in governmental service who is running for office. I just happen to be a woman. I think of myself as a qualified candidate first, who happens to be a woman.

THE SUN: - How do people react to you as a candidate? Any differently than they would to a man?

DE BENEDECTIS: - I was kidding people at the beginning of the campaign, "I'm not going to tell people I'm a woman. If they don't know I'm a woman by looking at me there's something wrong with them." I've tried not to underscore "vote for me because I'm a woman." We will have visited 100,000 houses by the end of the month. I've found from having done this work with other candidates that people

This is The Quincy Sun's third in-depth interview with candidates for the 11th Congressional District seat.

Interviews with Democratic incumbent James A. Burke of Milton and challenger Patrick H. McCarthy of Randolph appeared before the primary election in September. McCarthy lost to Burke.

Because Danielle de Benedictis of Milton is running as an Independent, her name was not on the primary ballot but will be on the Nov. 2 final ballot. Thus, her interview appears now.

open their doors to me so much easier than they would to a male candidate. People are awfully friendly to me on the streets. It's easier to approach someone, I think, as a woman.

THE SUN: - So they're friendly. But will they vote for you as readily as they would a man?

DE BENEDECTIS: - I guess Nov. 2 will be the true test of that. I think that many people are attracted to a woman running for office today. We just did a subway today in North Quincy. We had a reporter from the Real Paper with us. She was just astounded by the number of people who said, "Great to see a woman running" and "It's about time we had a woman," from both men and women.

THE SUN: - Why do you suppose that is?

DE BENEDECTIS: - I think it's because we have so few women in Congress. We only have 19 women out of 435 representatives. So it's still an oddity and an oddity is attractive to someone. There is a great deal of apathy about government. Many people have expressed the opinion to me, "Let's give the women a chance and see what they can do." It's the same way in which in recent years there has been a trend toward electing younger people in hopes there will be some difference. I offer what some people would consider a different commodity and, since most people are discouraged or apathetic about what they have presently, it becomes a more viable alternative to vote for something totally different.

THE SUN: - Do you campaign differently as a woman? Do you hit the factory gates like guys do?

DE BENEDECTIS: - Sure. We've been doing subways since 5:30 this morning. We did the Mattapan subway at 5:30. We went to the roll call of the Police Department in Quincy at 7:30. We did Wollaston subway at 8 o'clock. Then we did door-to-door in Italian neighborhoods before coming here. After I leave here I'm doing door-to-door canvassing in Hyde Park and then I do two Bingos and a house party. That's a pretty standard schedule for any candidate.

THE SUN: - Have you done the shipyard or any other large industrial plant?

DE BENEDECTIS: - We do the shipyard next week but we've done a lot of factories in Brockton.

THE SUN: - What is the reaction to a woman at 6:30 in the morning at a factory gate?

DE BENEDECTIS: - It's been very good. I've gotten a great reception at most all-male places. I happened to be in Florian Hall in Dorchester the day after the Elizabeth Ray incident and everybody was asking me, "Are you going to hire me? How much are you going to pay me? $14,000?" Men's groups have been very good to me. In the last month we've done Quincy K of C and Quincy Elks clambakes in Brockton. I was the only woman at these functions. Everyone was trying so hard to be nice to me, really bending over backwards to make me feel as if they were glad that I bothered to come there. Generally, I like to start off talking to a male group by saying, "I want to make one thing perfectly clear; I love men, too - as long as they vote."

THE SUN: - Where would you place yourself on a scale between housewife and career woman?

DE BENEDECTIS: - I certainly don't think of the two roles as inconsistent. I'm not married myself but I think it's perfectly possible for someone to have a healthy vibrant marriage and have children and also have a career. I think when you run for office, though, the way I am now, it would be a practical impossibility. It's a 24-hour a day commitment. My brother's DANIELLE DE BENEDECTIS thinks of herself as, not the female candidate, but "a qualified candidate who happens to be a woman," in the race against Congressman James A. Burke in the 11th District.

19th birthday was this week and we all sat down to dinner at midnight. Lasagna, which I made. It was the first time we had sat down as a family at the dinner table in about nine months. We'd almost forgotten that we'd ever done that.

THE SUN: - Why did you point out that you made the lasagna?

DE BENEDECTIS: - Because my little brother wanted me to make lasagna for him on his birthday. Everybody was saying, "Oh, you're not going to take the time off to make lasagna!" It's a large scale mess. But it's the one thing he was asking me all summer and he's been so marvelous to me, working for me every day, going door-to-door.

THE SUN: - I'm going to ask a sexist question. Do you have any prospects of getting married?

DE BENEDECTIS: - I don't know what you mean by prospects. Of course, if someone is able to finance the rest of the campaign...

THE SUN: - Do you think of politics as your career?

DE BENEDECTIS: - No. I think of politics as something one should not think of as a career.

THE SUN: - Why not?

DE BENEDECTIS: - I think that's the way we get some very inadequate representation. I think we should limit the number of years a person can serve in Congress, for example, to the number of years a person can serve in the Presidency.

THE SUN: - Eight years?

DE BENEDECTIS: - Either four terms of two years each or two four-year terms. I think we've got to do away with the seniority system in Congress. The seniority system breeds what we have seen in this district, which is the incumbent Congressman voting for shipbuilding contracts on the Mississippi River - which is Wilbur Mills' district - when shipbuilding is our major industry here. It breeds voting for tax breaks for cigarmakers in the South, contracts for defense manufacturers in California. Nobody would have any reason for doing these things if it wasn't for the seniority system. I think being a representative means what it says. If you represent people in this district you are simply their voice. You vote their voice and not your voice. I feel that we must in fact return to a system of government that truly is representative. A major way to do that is not to allow people to think of it as a career. Pretty soon that becomes, "Well, this is my career and I need so and so to move me up in the system so therefore I must vote with what he or she wants."

THE SUN: - If you were elected, then, you would retire after four years?

DE BENEDECTIS: - Or run for something else.

DE BENEDECTIS: - I believe very strongly that judgeships should also be limited to a term of years. Lifetime tenure is wrong for judges. I think there's only so many good years somebody can have on the bench. I was in favor of the early retirement for judges bill, even though we did lose some fine people through it. You have to legislate for the majority, but, even more so, I don't think you should classify people according to years in the sense that there are some very effective people at age 72 and there are some very ineffective people at age 32.

THE SUN: - How would you limit tenure?

DE BENEDECTIS: - I'd say you could only serve as a judge for 10 years.

THE SUN: - Appointed or elected?

DE BENEDECTIS: - I think they should originally be appointed by a committee comprised of representatives from the bar association and representatives from community groups and have that kind of interaction. After being a judge for a certain number of years,

Richard Newcomb Mayoral Contender?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Well, would you like a fresh name as a potential candidate for next year's mayoral derby?

How about: Richard Newcomb.

The name itself isn't 100 per cent fresh because he's pretty well known—and pretty well respected.

But it is fresh as far as running for office is concerned.

Newcomb, of course, was city purchasing agent and assistant director of Quincy City Hospital under former Mayor Walter Hannon. And did a good job at both posts.

Newcomb is a hard-working businessman who has toiled still does many long hours to make his business a success. He started out with one Mug 'n Muffin shop in Wollaston and now has a chain of 11.

And right about now with all the financial feuding and fussing going on at City Hall, a lot of people might like to see a businessman running the city. Someone campaigning on a business-like approach to government with the tax rate taking off like a rocket, could be an appealing candidate to many voters.

Friends say Newcomb is "very serious" about running.

If he is that serious, it would kind of rule Walter Hannon out as a mayoral contender next year. The pair are close friends. Newcomb was one of his key advisers when Hannon first ran for the Ward 5 City Council seat and has been close to him in every one of his election battles since.

It would seem that Hannon then would be more likely to return as a council at-large candidate especially if Council President Arthur Tobin runs for mayor.

SPEAKING OF NEXT year's election, a long-time City Council watcher may become a City Council candidate next year.

Norman Forde, a constant observer at Council meetings and the man who spearheaded the drive for a new P.A. system for the council chamber, is giving "serious consideration" to running for an at-large seat, whether or not there is an open seat. He plans to make a final decision right after the November election.

He's "extremely concerned" about rising budgets and the "tremendous public apathy" to spending.

Political observers might be interested in knowing however, that Forde would not run against Walter Hannon for an at-large seat if the latter gets into the race but would run if there were an open seat, and Hannon was in the race.

A FEW WEEKS ago, I vented one of my pet peeves: the privileged car-parker who seems to get away with parking his car between no-parking signs, sticking it out at intersections, on crosswalks and even on sidewalks. And no tag. But the poor shopper who comes to Quincy and parks at a meter, gets tagged if the meter expires.

And to add insult to injury, the "Public Enemy No. 1" usually has to walk between non-tagged but illegally parked cars in front of the courthouse to pay his [her] $2 fine.

That's still going on. But we may get that solved yet.

But do you have time for another of my pet peeves? It's bubble gum. Not so much the old fashioned kind but the new super-duper stuff that sticks like its made of glue. If you've ever stepped in it, it's probably one of your gripes, too.

Trying to negotiate Quincy sidewalks without getting tangled up in it is an obstacle course all its own. Downtown Quincy sidewalks are filthy from the gunk splattered all over the place. We may need an anti-bubble gum ordinance yet.

Meanwhile, I don't know about you, but I'd love to get the guy who invented the stuff and stick his nose in it. Just once, anyway.

CITY COUNCILLOR Paul Harold will be in northern Virginia over the weekend campaigning for Admiral Elmo Zumwalt, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate. Zumwalt is running against Independent Harry Byrd. Harold, who has been raising funds here for Zumwalt, was asked by the Democratic National Committee to tour with Gov. Ella Grasso of Connecticut stumping for Zumwalt.

REASON FOR THAT big smile former School Committeeman Paul Kelly is wearing: he and three partners won the Dixie Classic, a 36-hole foursome net tourney at Jacksonville, Fla., last week. The winning team included Bob Triglia, formerly of West Quincy now of Jacksonville, and two Chicago men, John Daniels and Randy Water. They put together a 33-under-par. Paul is proudly showing off his trophy: a sterling silver punch bowl with matching cups worth a good $750 or so. In the same tourney were former Quincy Public Works Commr. James Ricciuti, Mike Gaudiano and Pete Valle of Quincy, who will now have to listen to Kelly's playback all winter.

THE WEDDING SUNDAY of Andrea Quinn and Charles Santoro produced a break from tradition that could become a new fad. City Councillor John Quinn and his wife, Lorraine, parents of the bride BOTH walked down the aisle with the bride at St. Ann's Church, to give her away.

"We brought her into the world together, raised her together and felt this was the next most important thing to do together," said proud Pop.

"This," smiled Lorraine, "is another step forward for women's equality."

SAY, if George Fandel, the Quincy-Braintree heating contractor, turns up at a party or wedding reception you're at, get him to sing. He warbled a few tunes at the Andrea Quinn-Charles Santoro reception at Dreamworld, Scituate. Sounded as good as Sinatra or Bennett.

Commends School Committee For Women's Center

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The advisory committee for the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College would like to congratulate the Quincy School Committee for its awareness of community needs and its foresight in approving the proposal for reactivating the Women's Center.

The proposal is to create a coordinated resource center that will offer information, guidance, and support in the area of counselling, education, employment, health and legal services, volunteer opportunities, and personal needs.

The Center, which opened its doors in November, 1974 staffed only by volunteers, was so successful a venture that it became apparent in June, 1975 that it could no longer function without a paid director as coordinator of volunteers. This has been the experience of most women's centers which operate in other community colleges throughout Massachusetts.

The present advisory committee to the Women's Center was formed as an ad hoc committee specifically to draft and present the funding proposal to the School Committee. The majority of its members have been involved in the Center since its beginning and recognize the importance of this action in the further development of this community program.

The director will coordinate the many hours of constructive work performed by the conscientious volunteers without whom the Center could not function, as well as teach courses relevant to community needs.

Applications are now being accepted for this position; and when the School Department completes its selection process and appoints a director, all former volunteers and other interested persons will be invited to an open meeting to choose new committees for the current year.

Hospital Fire Brigade Training

The Quincy Fire Department's Fire Prevention Bureau recently held a training session at City Hospital to show its newly formed Fire Brigade the operation of fire hoses and the proper procedures for evacuation.

The classes were conducted by Lt. Robert Kelly and Capt. Carl Valenti.

The Hospital Fire Brigade is programmed to help in the removal of patients and others from the fire area and then fight the fire as efficiently and safely as possible until the Fire Department arrives.

Britain's First Woman Labor Minister Speaks Here

By TOM HENSHAW

Margaret Bondfield, the first woman labor minister of Great Britain, was the chief speaker at a kickoff dinner in the Masonic Temple that raised $130,000 for the Quincy Community and War Fund.

War Correspondent Joseph C. Harsch also spoke.

Mrs. Dora Ferguson, caterer for the dinner, presented a meatless menu so that none of the guests would go over the 2 1/2 pound a week meat rationing limit placed voluntarily on the nation.

POLICE WOMEN REJECTED

The City Council turned down a plan advanced by Mayor Thomas S. Burgin to employ women as operators in the fire and police stations and relieve men for heavier duties during a time of manpower shortage.

Councillors agreed that women's place was in the home, not the police or fire stations, even in time of war.

Burgin had proposed that the women be hired for $1,200 a year with annual raises to a maximum of $1,500 a year. Salaries for regular police officers and firemen were $2,100 for the same work.

QUINCY LOSES

End Tony Antonelli and Fullback Dick Maloney returned from the injury list but they were not enough as the Quincy High football team bowed to Revere, 12-7.

The Quincy starting lineup included:

BAN HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

The School Committee voted to ban interscholastic sports for the rest of the school year, once the football season was completed, as a wartime measure to save travel.

The move was proposed by James J. Carter, director of health education, and endorsed by School Supt. James N. Muir.

Carter recommended substituting a broad program of intramural sports with unofficial games pitting Quincy and North Quincy teams against schools from neighboring Braintree, Weymouth and Milton.

'I Think Of Myself As A Qualified Candidate First Who Happens To Be A Woman...'

de Benedictis Says Blanks Indicate Independent Can Win

By TOM HENSHAW

Danielle de Benedictis feels that Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] can be beaten by an Independent candidate because "a very high blank vote in previous elections shows that he is not attractive to voters outside the Democratic party."

de Benedictis, an attractive 30-year-old attorney from Milton, is running as an Independent candidate against Burke, 66, who is seeking his 10th term as congressman from the 11th District in the Nov. 2 election.

In an in-depth interview with The Quincy Sun, de Benedictis made these points:

* Pat McCarthy lost to Burke in the Democratic primary because Burke is unbeatable in a one-on-one contest among Democrats and McCarthy ran a campaign that was too negative.

* She would vote for a constitutional amendment to ban forced busing because "to say anything else is just irresponsible in a district in which some 90 per cent of the people are against it."

* Many people are attracted to a woman candidate for public office because it is a novelty that gives a discouraged and apathetic electorate a chance "to vote for something totally different."

Text of the taped interview, edited for brevity and clarity, follows:

THE SUN: Are you the female candidate?

DE BENEDECTIS: - I simply think of myself as a woman who has a vast variety of background in governmental service who is running for office. I just happen to be a woman. I think of myself as a qualified candidate first, who happens to be a woman.

THE SUN: - How do people react to you as a candidate? Any differently than they would to a man?

DE BENEDECTIS: - I was kidding people at the beginning of the campaign, "I'm not going to tell people I'm a woman. If they don't know I'm a woman by looking at me there's something wrong with them." I've tried not to underscore "vote for me because I'm a woman." We will have visited 100,000 houses by the end of the month. I've found from having done this work with other candidates that people three years would be adequate, then he should come up on the ballot for the public to approve or disapprove of him. A totally elective system would be wrong because I'm sure you know what it takes to let of good men who just can't afford for nine months to be out campaigning.

THE SUN - Why did you pick Congress for your first run?

DE BENEDICTIS - It's the only race I ever had any interest in. When I was 16 I was the editor of my school newspaper at Jeanne d'Arc Academy and I was constantly writing to Burke about things I perceived weren't being done in the district and receiving either no response from him or a typewritten general response or an invitation to come down and tour Congress. It was from that point on that I felt that I had a congressperson in the district who was unresponsive to the people and, as my career progressed and I became assistant attorney general, the vast majority of the cases I argued had to do with Massachusetts involvement in federal programs. I would find myself arguing the meaning of a federal law that was just unpragmatically drafted in the first place without a view toward how it was going to be implemented at the local level. Often I wished that we could redraft the bill to make it not only constitutionally acceptable to the courts but workable.

THE SUN - Why did you choose to run as an Independent?

DE BENEDICTIS - I wanted my candidacy to appeal to the average person regardless of party affiliation. It goes back to my philosophy of what a representative should be. He or she should represent everybody in the district. It's not just that you'll do a better job for Democrats because you are a Democrat. That gets into the party boss system. Also running as an Independent gives me a shot at the average voter. The presidential ballot will bring a large turnout so the average person has an opportunity to be attracted to my candidacy and vote for me. In a primary you get only about 70,000 people turning out, a small fraction of those who are registered. Many of these people are party oriented people who would have allegiance to someone who has been in office a number of years the way the incumbent has. He might in fact owe him favors. As I've campaigned throughout the district many people have said to me, "I'd like to vote for you but Jimmy did this for me." Those are the kind of people who vote in the primary.

THE SUN - How do you respond to them?

DE BENEDICTIS - I'll generally say something like,

"Elect me and I'll have a chance to do a favor for you, too."

THE SUN - How much money do you plan to spend on the campaign?

DE BENEDICTIS - Probably about $50,000.

THE SUN - Where is it coming from?

DE BENEDICTIS - Basically from myself, my family, my friends. We're raising it in small amounts.

THE SUN - What's a small amount? $25? $1,000?

DE BENEDICTIS - No one other than myself has contributed $1,000 to my campaign.

THE SUN - What's the largest contribution outside of the family?

DE BENEDICTIS - I'd have to look at our records. I don't think anyone outside the family has contributed more than $250. Most people send you money because they've known you and they believe in you. It's one of the things that make it hard for a young person who is running because you don't know as many people who have extra money as an older person would know. And when you have a background in government service like I do you don't know too many people who are making a lot of money.

THE SUN - Why do you feel Pat McCarthy lost to Burke in the primary?

DE BENEDICTIS - I thought, and I still feel, that Burke is unbeatable in a primary because you're going one-to-one with an 18-year incumbent for votes that he has controlled for 18 years.

THE SUN - You mean Democratic votes?

DE BENEDICTIS - Yes. Very few non-Democrats have voted for the incumbent over the years. There has been a high blank vote in this district. That's one of the reasons political pundits feel that Mr. Burke is a very beatable person, that very high blank vote in this district. Burke has a tendency not to be attractive to people out of the party. Fifteen per cent of the people in this district are Republicans and 30 per cent are Independent so that's 45 per cent of the registered voters who are likely, I feel, to vote for me. Therefore I need a very small portion of his vote to win.

THE SUN - Then you don't feel McCarthy could have beaten him at all, no matter what he did?

DE BENEDICTIS - I think there were things I would do differently. For example, I like to run a positive campaign as opposed to a negative campaign. I don't go out and talk to people about Mr. Burke. I talk to them about Danielle De Benedictis.

THE SUN - Do you think McCarthy was too negative?

DE BENEDICTIS - I don't think he gave anybody a reason to vote for Pat McCarthy. It was just why they shouldn't vote for Jim Burke.

THE SUN - That's not good strategy, eh?

DE BENEDICTIS - It's not good or bad. It's not the strategy I would use. Of course, it's true that I have a substantial personal record in government to draw upon so it is much easier for me to run a positive campaign.

THE SUN - Do you think McCarthy's primary vote will go to you?

DE BENEDICTIS - I think so. It was an anti-Jim Burke vote.

THE SUN - Have any McCarthy people come to you and volunteered?

DE BENEDICTIS - We covered the polls on primary day and a lot of people who were covering the polls for McCarthy told us, "If he doesn't win it today, here's my phone number. Call me. I'd like to help Danielle out." People on the streets say to me, "I voted for Pat McCarthy but of course I'll vote for you."

THE SUN - How about Pat McCarthy himself?

DE BENEDICTIS - He has never contacted me.

THE SUN - What do you think of Jim Burke as a congressman?

DE BENEDICTIS - He simply doesn't represent this district. I don't think the way he votes in Congress reflects the will of the vast majority of people here on many issues. For example, I myself am personally opposed to busing and I would vote for a constitutional amendment banning it. Mr. Burke has 114 times voted either to prevent the issue from coming to the floor or voted for measures which have encouraged busing.

THE SUN - Are you calling him the pro-busing candidate?

DE BENEDICTIS - I'm not saying he's the pro-busing candidate anymore than I would say that I am the anti-busing candidate. But I can say something now that Jim Burke has never said to the people of the district - I would vote for a constitutional amendment and I would put the issue on the floor of Congress. I think that to say anything else is just irresponsible in a district in which some 90 per cent of the people in every poll are against forced busing.

THE SUN - Isn't an anti-busing stand a racist stand?

DE BENEDICTIS - I don't think so in the least. I don't think the two have anything to do with each other. I don't think blacks want to bus their children into unsafe neighborhoods any more than whites do.

THE SUN - Hasn't Jim Burke done a pretty good job getting money that means jobs for the district?

DE BENEDICTIS - It's quite clear statistically that we rank eighth out of the 12 congressional districts with respect to the amount of federal money in this district. I don't think he has delivered the jobs for us. You go from door to door in the Brockton area and find man after man at home and you'll see what the condition is. You try to find a factory to visit in Brockton and there are probably two of them that you can still have enough of a crowd at the factory gate to even make it worth while to go and shake hands there.

THE SUN - You're not blaming the demise of the shoe industry in Brockton on Jim Burke are you?

DE BENEDICTIS - I don't think he did anything to save it. He never fought for embargoes. He never fought for high tariffs on imported shoes. He had the clout in Congress to deliver and he didn't.

THE SUN - If jobs are the big issue, what would you do to improve the job situation in the district?

DE BENEDICTIS - A major priority would be a bill for the development of the continental shelf which would attract shipbuilding jobs into the district. At the same time I would create what I feel to be one of the major steps towards revitalizing the economy. That's the development of alternate energy. There are two reasons why people can't do business in Massachusetts. One is the high cost of taxes, which I could do nothing about as a federal congressperson. The other is the high cost of energy.

THE SUN - What could a congresswoman do about that?

DE BENEDICTIS - Many people have asked me "What would be your pet bill to sponsor in Congress?"

That's something that will have to come out of the federal government. State government certainly will not be able to fund any kind of energy development.

THE SUN - If people were voting today, what would be the outcome?

DE BENEDICTIS - I think I'd win. I can't give you any numbers but I think I would win based on the response I get.

THE SUN - Who would you have rather seen win the primary?

DE BENEDICTIS - It's hard to tell.

THE SUN - Did you vote in the primary?

DE BENEDICTIS - Yes.

THE SUN - Who did you vote for?

DE BENEDICTIS - I can't tell you.

THE SUN - If you lose this year will you go again in '78?

DE BENEDICTIS - Yes.

THE SUN - As an Independent?

DE BENEDICTIS - Yes. I've found that it is nothing but a benefit for me to run as an Independent. People come up to me in the street and say, "What party?" I say, "Independent." They say, "Great! I am too." Even people who are registered in a party today think of themselves as Independent voters.

McInnis Says Bids Advertised For Squantum Gardens

At a recent coffee hour at the home of Mrs. Carol MacDonald of 25 Meadow St., Squantum, Alley E. McInnis Jr., candidate for State Representative in the Third Norfolk District said the F. W. Dodge Reports is advertising for bids to renovate the present buildings at Squantum Gardens.

McInnis expressed deep concern that residents of the Third District have had inadequate information available to them on this important project.

He said he feels the Squantum Gardens area is very important to residents of Squantum and North Quincy.

"As the State Representative I would fight vigorously to insure the Squantum Garden area will be preserved as open space, properly landscaped and maintained for the enjoyment of the residents of the district," he said.

A Different Capricorn

Q. My daughter was born in Bridgeport, Conn. on December 30, 1959 on a Wednesday at about 7:30 P.M. According to the horoscope she is a Capricorn but everything that I have read does not seem to be her in anyway. I read your column regularly and would like to see what you would write about her.

Mrs. M.

A. Obviously there is still much that astrologers must do to enlighten the general public especially as regards to the difference between a Sun Sign [the Sign of the Zodiac that the Sun is moving through at the time of birth] and a Horoscope which is a complete chart of the positions of all eight planets and the Moon as well as the Sun position and also the various Signs that are on each of the twelve houses.

At the time of your daughter's birth, the Sign of Leo was on the Ascendant [just rising on the eastern horizon] and planet Uranus was in that Sign just below the horizon in a Favorable Aspect to the planet Mercury in Sagittarius as well as to Jupiter and Mars, all in Sagittarius in the Fifth House.

These usually indicate one who is blessed with a very creative mentality of a progressive nature so unlike what most of those born with the Sun in Capricorn are supposed to be like.

As she becomes mature she should disclose a broad perspective an interest in modern and advanced views and techniques which she is likely to adopt in practical ways to achieve her objectives. Others may find it hard to fully understand her or her sudden actions. She is apt to love speed, giving little if any consideration to the risks involved. She is capable of taking a gamble with ideas and plans as well as with her activities.

This horoscope is usually an indication of one who is very much in need of attention, recognition and the approval of others as well as self approval and may be inclined to use dramatic as well as unusual means to obtain same.

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

BANK IN YOUR OWN BACKYARD.

Quincy Cooperative Bank would like to tell you why banking where you live beats banking where you work.

First of all, it's more economical for you. If you bank at a commercial bank in Boston, you're getting a lower interest rate than we pay. The law allows cooperative banks to pay a higher rate of interest on savings accounts.

Secondly, people tend to bank by habit. That is, when you open an account you tend to keep it in that bank, even if you change jobs and move location. Therefore, banking may become more inconvenient. Since we're in your neighborhood, your whole family has easy access to us. And our hours are good, too.

Finally, by banking in your own "backyard," that money can be used to better your community. For things like loans and mortgages.

BACKYARD BANKING... JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

Former Mayor's Mother Dies

Mrs. William F. McIntyre Eulogized As 'Woman Of Generosities'

Funeral services were held Saturday at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston, for Mrs. Lillian [Pitts] McIntyre, 72, of Wollaston, eulogized as a "woman with ladylike qualities and generousities."

She was the mother of James R. McIntyre, Massachusetts Senate counsel and former Quincy mayor and State Senator.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Wife of late Quincy Police Capt. William F. McIntyre, she died Oct. 6 in Quincy City Hospital after a brief illness.

In delivering the eulogy at the funeral Mass at St. Ann's Church, Rev. Msgr. James Scally, pastor, said Mrs. McIntyre was "a woman with lady-like qualities and generousities, not only generous with her worldly possessions, but with her time and talents in helping others."

Principal celebrant at the celebrated mass was Rev. Msgr. Scally. Other celebrants were: The Most Rev. Bishop Thomas Daily, former assistant pastor of St. Ann's; Rev. John McMahon, pastor of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy; Rev. Msgr. Christopher P. Griffin of St.

James' Church, Boston; Rev. Msgr. John E. Mullarkey; Rev. John McMahon, pastor St. Mary's Church, West Quincy; Rev. Arthur J. DePietro, of Marian Manor of South Boston; Revs. William F. Sharkey and John T. Foley, assistant pastors of St. Ann's Church, Wollaston.

Special readings were by two of Mrs. McIntyre's grandchildren, William, 12, and Sheila McIntyre, 9.

Among those attending the Mass were:

chairman of the Quincy Board of Assessors; Dr. George Dalton, Quincy Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth; retired Fire Chief Thomas F. Gorman; Police Detective Edward Gentile and retired police detectives William Dillon and Anthony Caperci.

Mrs. McIntyre was born in Weymouth, graduated from Quincy High School, and lived most of her life in Quincy.

She was a member of the Democratic Women's Club, the Ward 5 Democratic Committee, and the Democratic City Committee.

A former secretary to the Weymouth Fair, she was also a member of the board of directors of the Weymouth Agricultural and Industrial Society.

She was past vice president of the Quincy Catholic Club, and a member of St. Ann's Marianns and St. Ann's Senior Citizens Club.

In addition to her son, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Barbara Hunt, coordinator of health services in the Quincy Public Schools, and eight grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, Hancock St., Wollaston.

Family Planning Project Council To Meet Thursday

The Quincy Family Planning Project Advisory Council will meet tonight [Thursday] at 7:45 p.m. at the Germantown Service Center, 9 Bicknell St.

The Council is the vehicle by which consumers participate in the functioning of the clinics. It is felt that in order to better represent patients in the clinic, residents of the community as well as human services agencies participate in the Council.

The Council acts in an advisory capacity to the project. The Project is a component of the Quincy Community Action Organization and is represented on the Quincy Community Action Organization Board of Directors.

The Project is open to all residents of the South Shore desiring family planning or related health services. It is an approved agency of the Department of Public Welfare and Medicaid patients are welcome. Patients may be treated at no charge if they are eligible under our sliding scale guidelines.

Anyone wishing to serve on the Advisory Council or desiring further information, is asked to call Norma Barriere, Quincy Family Planning Office, 372 Granite St., Quincy.

'Doctrine Of Atonement'

Christian Science Bible Lesson

This Sunday's Christian Science Bible Lesson-Sermon is on the topic of "Doctrine of Atonement". The Golden Text is from 1 Timothy 2 "There is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus; who gave himself a ransom for all, to be testified in due time."

Church Service and Sunday School begin at 10:45 at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 20 Greenleaf St., Quincy. A midweek Wednesday evening testimony meeting is held at 8 o'clock. Child care is provided. All are welcome.

Main Library Has

New Young Adult Books

The main library of the Thomas Crane Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center, has obtained a collection of young adult books from the Eastern Massachusetts Regional Library System, entitled Easy Reads for Teens.

The collection will be available for three months at the library after which another collection will be made available to young adults. The books were chosen for their popular interest, dealing with the occult, adventure stories, sports stories, rock stars, and stories about young adults. A browsing collection will be displayed in the main library, and these books are available to borrow immediately.

Our History

On January 16, 1920 a group of shipbuilders granted a charter to establish a Cooperative Bank at the Shipyard. As the bank grew, and in December 1965 the bank moved to the corner of Granite and Hancock Streets, the erroneous impression that one had to deal with the bank. Therefore, in September 1965, the board of directors unanimously voted to change the name of the bank to The Bank For All Ages.

'Digging Up History' Topic For Historical Society

Quincy Historical Society will hold two special interest programs this month at the Adams Academy for members and non-members on archeology and genealogy.

Wednesday, Oct. 13, at 3:30 p.m., Dr. George R. Horner, the society's archeologist will present "Digging Up History." He will offer pointers for the beginning archeologist and will identify and interpret any artifacts participants have found.

Monday, Oct. 25, at 7:30 p.m., Owen Della Lucca, society librarian, will lead a discussion on "Your Family Tree." He and other genealogy experts will answer questions on how to trace your family background.

These two programs are the beginning of a series of informal gatherings for adults and students with an interest in a specialized historical subject.

High School Students Testing Oct. 19-20

Several standardized tests will be administered to students in Grades 9 and 10, North Quincy High School, Quincy High School and Quincy Vocational-Technical on Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 19 - 20, announces Arthur S. Woodward, Coordinator of Secondary Education.

The tests will include the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Tests and California Achievement Tests and the Differential Aptitude Tests.

Juniors and seniors in the three schools will not be reporting to school at the regular time on these days. They are to report as follows:

Oct. 19 - Home room period begins at 11:15 a.m. for junior and seniors.

Oct. 20 - Home room begins at 10:30 a.m. for juniors and seniors. Freshmen and sophomores are to report at 8 a.m. on both days. Dismissal of all classes will be at the regular time of 2:30 p.m.

testimonial from a Smoker's Graduate

Smoking dominated a good many years of my life. I smoked 1 1/2 packs a day for 28 years and was sure I could never quit. At the outset I was SmokEnders' biggest critic. I am still amazed at how easy it was. Now 15 months later I am still a non-smoker and a grateful graduate. As a professional nurse and health educator of the public, I can now hold my head up and not feel embarrassed by my tobacco habit. It worked for me!

Andrew Walsh United Way Quincy Community Chairman

Andrew T. Walsh of 36 Stoney Brae Rd., Wollaston, owner of Walsh's Restaurant, North Quincy, and president of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra, is serving as Community Chairman for Quincy in the United Way of Mass. Bay Campaign.

Walsh was appointed by Joseph D. Buckley, vice president of BayBank Norfolk County Trust Company of Dedham and United Way South Region Campaign chairman.

Walsh is a graduate of Maryknoll College with a B.A. degree and he holds an M.A. from Fordham University. He served as a special agent for the FBI prior to entering the restaurant business.

He is a member of Quincy Rotary Club, a director of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, Chairman of the Quincy Business Council,

ANDREW WALSH

Director of the South Shore Cultural Alliance, a member of the Mass. Restaurant Association and an incorporator of the Quincy Savings Bank.

He served as an officer in the Army from 1951 to 1953 and is married to the former Patricia J. Halligan of New York City. The Walsh's have eight children.

Park Building On Kimberly's Site

New Wollaston Beach Facilities Outlined

Plans for new MDC facilities along Quincy's Wollaston Beach are now being finalized, according to MDC John F. Snedeker.

At the request of Senator Arthur H. Tobin of Quincy, Snedeker has outlined the improvements for the beach area. Snedeker reports a new park building will be constructed on the site of what was formerly Kimberly's Restaurant.

The building, containing public rest rooms and a room for MDC police patrolmen, will be designed and landscaped to correspond with the surrounding residential community. Plans for the project also call for a "turn around" area which will allow MDC police cruisers to be more easily dispatched to emergency calls along the beach.

Construction of three small rest room facilities with outside showers is also being contemplated. The three buildings would be built near those sections of the recreation area most heavily used by bathers.

Snedeker said that barring unforeseen delays, the architectural plans, required wetland hearings and selection of contractors should be completed early next year with construction beginning next summer.

Senator Tobin pledged he would continue to monitor the project's progress and personally review all designs. He said the MDC should allow ample opportunity for area residents to become involved in the project and that he would be working toward that goal.

Samuel Young Apartments Dedicated At Eastern Nazarene

The Samuel Young Apartments on the Eastern Nazarene College Campus were dedicated last week.

ENC President, Dr. Don Irwin, led the dedication ceremonies held in conjunction with the Fall Heritage Day festivities and the opening of the annual College Board of Trustees meeting.

The five-story 56 unit apartment complex bears the name of Dr. Samuel Young, fifth president of the college, who served from 1945 to 1948.

Dr. Young, who was the special speaker last week at ENC in three Heritage Series chapels dealing with the life and works of Abraham Lincoln, also served from 1940 to 1945 as the pastor of the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene and Chairman of the Department of Theology at Eastern Nazarene.

Prior to then he served as superintendent of the New England District of the Church of the Nazarene and also has held pastorates in Salem, Ohio and South Portland, Me. Eastern Nazarene College granted the A.B. degree to Dr. Young in 1928 and Boston University awarded him the Master of Arts degree in 1930 followed by his ordination in 1931. Born in Glasgow, Scotland of Irish parents, he had moved to Cleveland, Ohio as a small boy.

In 1948 while still President of ENC, Dr. Young was elected to be a General Superintendent, the highest elective office in the Church of the Nazarene—a position he held until his retirement in 1972. Dr. Young's family continues to exert strong positive leadership at Eastern

It also is the first apartment building in Quincy other than housing for the elderly to feature housing units for the handicapped. Other features include Presidential guest room facilities and a new faculty lounge donated and furnished by the late Pauline Vinnell.

Wollaston Park Assn.

To Hold Candidate's Night

Wollaston Park Association will celebrate its 20th anniversary with a candidates night, and an election of officers tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. at the Beechwood Knoll School, Fenno St., Wollaston.

The four candidates for state representative in the Third Norfolk District will each give a five-minute presentation on their candidacy, followed by a question-answer session.

The candidates are Michael W. Morrissey, Democratic nominee, Jens E. Thornton, Republican candidate, Alley E. McInnis, Independent, and Rep. Joseph E. Brett. The latter was defeated by Morrissey in the Democratic primary and is now running as a "sticker" candidate.

Brett Asks Chamber Find Use For Tubular Buildings

Rep. Joseph E. Brett (D-Quincy) has asked the South Shore Chamber of Commerce to investigate the vacant buildings in Wollaston that formerly housed the 'Tubular Rivet and Stud Co.' and come up with some sort of plan to turn this wasted space into a viable asset for the community.

Brett made the suggestion in a letter to Chamber Vice President Charles A. Pearce. Said Brett: "Every time I pass these buildings I get disheartened to see such a large plot of viable business space lying idle while I believe that, with a reasonable amount of consideration and effort, these buildings could easily be restored for business and manufacturing use, or perhaps, residential use, if no other alternative is practical.

Such a development could be of valuable benefit in the form of additional employment, and in tax revenue for the city."

Kevin Vey Completes Submarine School Course

Navy Machinist's Mate Fireman Apprentice Kevin F. Vey, 21, son of Mr. James J. Vey of 11 Ruthven St., North Quincy, has completed the Basic Enlisted Course at the Naval Submarine School, Groton, Conn.

During the six-week course, he was introduced to the basic theory, construction and operation of nuclear-powered and diesel submarines. In preparation for his first assignment, Vey studied shipboard organization, damage control, and submarine safety and escape procedures.

A 1974 graduate of North Quincy High School, he joined the Navy in December 1975.

Raiders Red Hot, Quincy Snaps Losing Streak

The North Quincy soccer team, which got away to a slow start under first-year Coach Bruce Cochrane, has been one of the hottest teams in the Suburban League during the past two weeks.

Tuesday the Raiders sought their sixth straight win against Weymouth North.

Yesterday [Wednesday] North faced Brookline, Friday will host Waltham, Tuesday will play at unbeaten league leader Newton North and next Thursday will face Quincy for the second time.

The Raiders, with their five straight wins, made their record 7-3 to keep alive their hopes of qualifying for the state tournament.

Meanwhile, Quincy, also under a first-year coach, Jim McGuire, snapped out of a four-game losing streak to win its last two games and make its record 3-4-3.

The Presidents Tuesday played at Cambridge Latin, yesterday went to Brockton, Friday will be at Weymouth North, Tuesday will host Brookline and next Thursday will try to avenge an earlier loss to North Quincy.

Cooney penetrated the left side and when he was close enough, slid the ball in front where White finished off the play, beating goalie Jim Mazeiko.

"We have played fine defense all season, but have had trouble scoring," Cochrane said. "In the last few games we have had better shots. We switched to two halfbacks and we have a back forward now and this has helped our offense."

Quincy edged Weymouth South, 3-2, for its second win in a row after four straight losses.

Earlier in the week North romped over Cambridge Latin, 7-2, with Bob Stack scoring four goals and Jim McGinley three. The Raiders peppered the Rindge goal with 23 shots. Jim McGinley had two assists and Walt McGinley and White one each.

Quincy nipped Rindge, 1-0, on a goal by Mike Kelley, his first of the year. Peter Martin headed the ball in front of the net where Kelly connected.

In its previous game North Quincy had edged Weymouth South, 2-1, on the first period goals by John Dolbec and Jim McGinley.

Sundial Tennis Clinics To Be Held At Boston Harbor Marina

The Boston Harbor Marina Tennis Club will conduct Sundial tennis clinics for the 1976-1977 indoor tennis season.

The clinics, which will benefit further work in eye research and blindness prevention, are open to the public and are geared to players of all levels.

Sundial Clinics not only offer players top instruction and an opportunity to meet new friends, but, more importantly, a chance to help a worthwhile cause.

Proceeds from the clinics benefit the research that is being done at the Eye Research Institute in Boston, which is today the world's largest independent research institute for the study of the eye. Over the years their pioneering research has literally revolutionized surgical and therapeutic techniques for retinal detachment; diabetic retinopathy; glaucoma, cataract; Herpes Simplex and other serious retinal and corneal conditions. Join with the thousands of other tennis enthusiasts in this fight against blindness.

A clinic will run six week sessions for 32 weeks. With one hour of instruction weekly. Cost per clinic entry is only $30.

For registration and further information call: Ellen Waystack at 742-3140.

The North Quincy football team [3-0] returns to action Saturday after a week off when it hosts winless Weymouth South in a 1:30 p.m. game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

This is the Raiders' final non-league game and after this week they will concentrate on defending their Suburban League co-championship.

Coach Dave Burke feels last week's open date was beneficial as several players were nursing bruises and the Raiders will be at top strength for Weymouth South.

"Despite its record, I expect a lot of trouble from Weymouth, as it has an outstanding defensive team," Burke said. "However, our defense also has been excellent and if we can move the ball as we did in the second half against Weymouth North, we should do all right."

Joe Kelly's luckless South team lost to Hingham, 14-0; Quincy, 12-7; and Boston Latin, 12-0. It completely outplayed Quincy but lost on two fumbles which the Presidents turned into touchdowns.

George Wallace, Mike Adams and Bill McIntyre have done some great running for North. Wallace gained 167 yards against Weymouth North and McIntyre picked up 104 and scored the only touchdown at Taunton.

Both quarterbacks, Brian Donaghey and Dennis Doherty, have done a good job and the offensive line has done an excellent job of opening the holes. The North coaches also have singled out Wallace and McIntyre for their blocking.

● Cross Country

North Wins Fifth, Quincy Gets First

Last year North Quincy's cross country team was 12-1 and the only loss was to Brockton.

This fall the Raiders, following a win, bowed again to the Boxers' runners, who haven't lost in four years, and since that time have won four in a row, including three in the Suburban League.

Lou Tozzi's North team topped Newton North, 24-32, last Friday, to make its record 5-1 [4-1 in the league].

The Raiders ran at Weymouth South yesterday [Wednesday], Tuesday North will host Weymouth North in a league meet.

Newton's Duncan Scott won the meet against North and became only the second runner to break 12 minutes [11:59] over the North course. The Raiders' Bob Levenson was second, Mike Morin third and Mike Barrett fourth with their best times. Morin Levenson, coming off an injury, did well in sixth place. Andy Laskowski was ninth and Matt Breslin 10th.

Meanwhile, Joe Catalano's

Quincy harriers, after four losses in a row, notched their first win, a 27-28 squeaker over Brookline.

Drew Lally of Brookline won on his home course and Quincy's John Saville was second.

Quincy ran at Waltham yesterday and will be at Cambridge Latin Tuesday.

Earlier last week North Quincy had breezed past Rindge Tech, 16-47, with Marty Levenson the winner. Teammates Andy Laskowski, Jerry Keys and Matt Breslin finished 2-3-4, Mike Ketzner was sixth, Dave Abbott seventh and Bill Murphy eighth.

Quincy bowed to Weymouth South, 22-37, as Weymouth's undefeated George Rose won the meet and broke the old course record set by Quincy's Saville, who placed second. Other Quincy scorers included Don Jones, fifth; and Rick Walkama, seventh.

The Quincy girls lost, 25-32, with Paula Costas in third place the First Ladies' first finisher. Mary Ilacqua was fourth, Ellen Caramanica sixth and Dottie Irvine seventh.

Presidents Hope To Regroup For Newton

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy football coach Hank Conroy is not in the most enviable of positions this week.

Last Monday, his Presidents played their poorest defensive game of the year when they bowed to Waltham, 38-20, in a game rained out the previous Saturday.

Saturday Quincy must go to Newton to face Newton North's unbeaten powerhouse which is 4-0 on the season including a shocking 35-6 romp over huge Brockton.

And to make matters even worse four of Conroy's starters are out of action with injuries.

Monday's loss to Waltham, dropping the Presidents' record to 1-3, was not as close as the score indicates. Quincy scored its last two touchdowns late in the game against Waltham's reserves.

"They could have beaten us worse," Conroy said. "Our defense was just bad today and again we made too many mistakes. Our mistakes are killing us every week. We have to cut down on them."

Quincy made things easy for Waltham as it lost the ball four times on fumbles, three times on pass interceptions and was hit with costly penalties several times.

The one bright spot for the Presidents was the running of Wayne French, who hadn't done much ball carrying in previous games. He gained 169 of Quincy's 247 net yards on the ground, scored the first touchdown on a brilliant 90-yard run which he made pretty much on his own, after apparently being stopped several times, and added runs of 34 and 26 yards.

Quincy had 247 yards rushing to 117 for Waltham but a good deal of it came late against the Waltham subs. Len Picot, Quincy's outstanding punter, ran well in the late stages, breaking loose for a 34-yard run and sepring a touchdown.

"I can't say much about anyone else today, it was just a real bad game and we have to regroup for Newton, which will be one of the toughest teams on our schedule," Conroy added.

Waltham took a 6-0 lead late in the first period on a 47-yard pass from Don Cusano to Dave Dankens.

A few minutes later the first of Quincy's four fumbles gave Waltham the ball on the Presidents' 24 and three plays later Mark Hachey scored from the eight and a pass to Dankens made it 14-0. The touchdown came on the first play of the second period.

The third touchdown minutes later was also set up by a fumble, recovered on Quincy's 22.

A screen pass good for 18 yards from Cusano to Dankens made it 20-0 and workhorse Bob Martin, who gained 61 yards himself in the first half, added the two points.

On the second play following the kickoff French made his dazzling 90-yard run. He appeared stopped at the line of scrimmage, broke away and, hemmed in again, shook himself loose and went all the way.

Late in the half John Houten's pass was intercepted, giving Waltham the ball on its own 41 and two plays later a long pass from Cusano to Dankens was good for 50 yards and a touchdown. There were just 40 seconds left when the touchdown was made. Cusano rushed for the points.

Still another fumble set up the last Waltham touchdown late in the third period. A Waltham punt was fumbled and the visitors had the ball on Quincy's 19 and four plays later Chris Moran scored and Martin rushed for the points.

Quincy began to roll when Waltham coach Bob Connors inserted his shock troops but another pass interception halted a threat. However, a bad pass from center on a punting situation gave Quincy the ball on Waltham's four and Picot went in from the three.

Quincy added its final touchdown following a Waltham punt which carried only to Waltham's 38. French raced to the four, Picot added three and Mark Buchanan scored from the one. Picot rushed for the final points.

Waltham had 122 yards through the air with four for nine, while Quincy's six for 14 gained only 32 yards and the three interceptions hurt badly. Quincy had 11 first downs to nine for Waltham.

Oilers Host Marlboro Sunday

The Randolph Oilers football team, in third place in the Eastern League with an 8-3 record, will host the Marlboro Shamrocks Sunday at 2 p.m. at Randolph High School Field.

Ed Sylva, former Quincy High standout and one of five Quincy players on the Oilers' squad, played a big part in last Sunday's 14-9 win over the Merrimack Valley Colts with a stellar defensive performance.

Sylva had several unassisted tackles and was in on many others as he and the other members of the brilliant Randolph defensive unit held Merrimack Valley to just 25 yards rushing.

Randolph, trailing only the Middleboro Cobras [11-1] and Plymouth Rocks [10-1], appears certain to finish among the top four teams and qualify for the Eastern League playoffs.

Pee Wee B's

Wallop Weymouth, 8-2

The Pee Wee B hockey team wallop Weymouth, 8-2, with Mike Marshall and Frank Reynolds scoring two goals each and Dean Phillips, Kevin Duff, Steve Baylis and Chris Gorman one apiece.

Ralph Fitzmaurice, Bobby Ready and Joe Livingstone had two assists apiece and Marshall, Reynolds, Duff, Baylis, John O'Connell and Tommy Benson one each.

First Ladies Seek Revenge

Quincy, North Girls Swimmers Meet Oct. 20

The Quincy and North Quincy girls are in the midst of their second year of swimming and are pointing toward their second annual meet next Wednesday [Oct. 20] at 7 p.m. at the Lincoln Hancock School pool.

A year ago in the first meet in history, the North Girls won, 94-77, in an event which featured a lot of close and interesting competition.

"We have scheduled this meet for the evening to give parents and friends of the girls a chance to see them," said Quincy Coach Elaine Murphy. "We hope there will be a large crowd at the meet. The girls have been working extremely hard and deserve encouragement."

Both squads are still handicapped by lack of experience as most Suburban League schools have had swim teams for many years. Although the First Ladies and Raiderettes have been taking some lumps, several individuals have done well.

In a recent Quincy loss to Newton North, Sheila Burke won the 50-yard freestyle in 27.8 seconds and won the 100-yard freestyle in 1:04.0. Sue Murphy won in diving with 119.35 points and took second in the 100-yard backstroke in 1:30.8.

These two girls also excelled in a loss to Brookline.

The Quincy and North girls practice together afternoons from 3 to 5 [diving from 5 to 6] at the Lincoln Hancock pool with Miss Murphy and North Coach Bill Walker not only coaching their own girls but helping out the girls on the other team.

Quincy's squad includes Laurie Burke, Sheila Burke, Susan Chiochio, Judy Clarke, Valerie Collins, Margaret Doran, Lori Laracy, Jane Morrison, Valerie Morrison, Cory Morrison, Sue Murphy, Kathy Picardi, Sue Tautvaisis, Jean Milne and Andrea Creedon.

North Quincy's squad includes Jeanine Rich, Jill Sweeney, Barbara Toland, Debbie Rodriguez, Jane McGuigan, Kathy Boudreau, Ann Joyce, Marjorie Donlan, Maureen Clabby, Maureen Santry, Laurie Adams, Paula Stoholberg, Marie Flaherty and Alicia Burns.

Also Paula Keane, Carol Watt, Bernadette Fenney, Eileen Fenney, Karen Melanson, Linda Walker, Betsy Johnson, Pam Henry, Ann-Marie Boness, Lisa Coletta, Donna Walsh, Mary Tenney, Lee Gullage, Lorraine Conroy and Sandy Stober.

Track Club Wins 13-Year Old Title In Falmouth Meet

The Quincy Track Club, competing in its first outside cross country meet, overcame some disheartening events Monday to win the 13 and under age group title in the two-mile Falmouth Invitational open and age group meet at Clauson's Golf Club in Hatchville.

The most disappointing part of the day for Quincy occurred when Michelle Millane, 12-year old sensation, opened up a big lead in the field of 30 only to get lost and run about a half mile out of her way. She fought back to take fourth place but was understandably upset.

Quincy coaches Jeff Hennessy, Joe Santo and Harry Williams all felt Michelle would have won the meet and feel no one will beat her when she is at her best.

Quincy took fourth, fifth, eighth, ninth and 10th places to win the team title with 36 points. Sheila Barrett, Linda Morash, Joanne Connolly and Bernadette Murphy were the other scorers. Stealing the spotlight was eight-year old Mary Ann Kelleher, who took 16th place and received an ovation from the spectators.

In the 14 and over division Linda Cellini, an Abp. Williams junior, placed eighth.

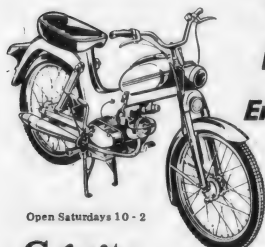

The top 10 in all races received jerseys with "Falmouth Invitational" imprinted on them.

The QTC will hold its fourth meet Saturday at 10 a.m. at Pageant Field. The club is still seeking more girls 9 and under.

The club directors and coaches wish to thank all the parents who drove to the Falmouth meet.

Homecoming Weekend At ENC

This is Homecoming Weekend at Eastern Nazarene College and several athletic events Saturday will highlight the festivities.

At 10 a.m. the women's volleyball team will host Barrington College, Gordon College and Kings College at LaHue Center.

At 2 p.m. the Crusaders' soccer team will be entertaining Barrington and at 2:30 the cross country team will be host to Assumption and Stonehill. The meet will start and finish in front of LaHue Center.

At 8:30 p.m. this year's basketball candidates will face a team of graduates featuring many of ENC's former players including Ron Bradley, one of the Crusaders' all-time standouts and the new varsity coach.

Bantam B's Tie Weymouth

The Bantam B hockey team played to a 3-3 tie with Weymouth.

Chuckie Marshall, Mike

Rowell and Tommy Roche had Quincy's goals and Tommy Hannon, Rowell, Joey Rathgeb and Marshall had assists.

took a few steps toward LaRaia. The Mayor took steps toward Kelly.

"No one tells me what to do," said Kelly. "I stand on my own two feet. Don't you tell me that the Council President is telling me what to do."

The two came together at that point and began pushing each other when Sheets, who stands well over six feet and weighs close to 250 pounds, grabbed each of them by a shoulder and moved in to pry them apart.

DeFalco Named Hospital Director On 7-2 Vote

Anthony P. DeFalco of Needham, once a top aide to Gov. John A. Volpe, has been named director of Quincy City Hospital, ending at least temporarily several months of strife surrounding the post.

The vote of the Board of Managers was 7-2, split like this: For - Chairman Edward V. Cronin, Hugo Fabrizio, Mrs. Syria Mayo, Charles Ross, Gino Marini, John Cheney and Joseph Arnside.

Against - Leslie Brierley and

"There's no need of this," said Sheets. "It's not worth fighting over."

Salenius, the Mayor's executive secretary, came out of the Mayor's office and put his hand on Sheets' shoulder, evidently thinking the Councilor was part of the action. The scuffle ended there.

Card said LaRaia's first words to Kelly and Sheets when he came out of his office were:

"You guys made a big mistake. You'll really pay for this one. You guys are naive. I wish you'd learn the game better."

Card said the Mayor told

Kelly:

"If you come into my office looking for anything specific or if you want anything from my people, I'm going to throw you out on your a--."

"Leo said, 'Oh, you are, are you,' and it got a little heated. They pushed and shoved and Jim Sheets got in the middle."

Moments after LaRaia left by the door in the rear of the Council Chamber Tobin entered by the front stairs. They missed one another.

LaRaia and the Council have been at odds over the tax rate, some of the Mayor's appointments and, most recently, contracts awarded to the Kent Corp. for management consulting work at North Quincy High School and Merrymount School.

Kelly has been critical of the LaRaia administration over a $60,000 contract with Kent Corp. for work with a $1 million addition to the Merrymount School.

Interest Down - Cost Up

Are you waiting until interest rates drop before you buy a home? Do you think that this will save you money? The home you have your eye on will cost you more in monthly payments two years from now - even if the interest rate drops one percent.

For example, take a home that costs $40,000. With a 20% down-payment and financed with a 25 year, 9% mortgage, the monthly payment would be $268.80. But two years from now, if prices keep rising at the average rate, the now $40,000 home would likely cost $45,000. If the interest rate decreased to 8% not only would the down payment be $1,000 more, but the monthly payment would increase to $277.99. If the interest rate stayed at 9% the payment would come to $302.40.

So, it's obvious that the overall value of the home - not the interest rate - makes the biggest impact on your monthly payment. Since there is no indication of property values decreasing, the moral of the story is - Buy now or pay more later.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

Phone or drop in. We are here to help.

More Celebrities Coming Here For Ruth Gordon Tribute

BROADWAY actress Claire Bloom [left], accepts assignment as member of the Honorary Committee for Quincy's Ruth Gordon 80th Birthday Celebration, and purchases first ticket to the 80th Birthday Ball from Judy Mallock. The Ball, honoring the academy award winning Quincy native, will be held at the State Street South Auditorium, North Quincy, Saturday evening, Oct. 30. Proceeds will launch a campaign to establish the Ruth Gordon Center for the Performing Arts, in Quincy.

RSVP Seeks Volunteers For Ruth Gordon Booth

The RSVP [Retired Senior Volunteer Program] in Quincy needs the assistance of senior volunteers to attend a booth in Quincy Center to promote events honoring actress Ruth Gordon.

Miss Gordon is a former resident of Wollaston and star of stage and screen. A reception at State Street South and a dinner and ball at The Chateau de Ville are planned in her honor.

RSVP is seeking senior volunteers to serve at the Ruth Gordon Booth, selling tickets and making reservations for these special events. The booth needs to be attended from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday thru Saturday, through Oct. 28.

Movie star Cliff Robertson, film critic Rex Reed, Academy Award winning composer Marvin Hamlisch and New York Times theatrical cartoonist Al Hershfield will be among celebrities paying tribute to award winning Quincy born actress Ruth Gordon here Oct. 30-31.

They will join Natalie Wood, Robert Wagner, Tovah Feldshuh and Christopher Plummer, who positively said they would be here for the special tribute in honor of Miss Gordon's 80th birthday.

The weekend celebration will feature the Ruth Gordon Birthday Ball Saturday evening, Oct. 30, at State Street South Auditorium and the 80th Birthday Banquet, Sunday evening, Oct. 31, at the Chateau de Ville, Randolph.

Invitation flyers and posters available at City Hall and throughout the city, give complete details about reservations and ticket prices for both events. Information may also be obtained by calling the Quincy Heritage, (773-1380).

Co-chairmen for the events, Simon Fireman and Sabina Stenberg for the ball and Dr. William Ridder and Mrs. T. Vincent Corsini for the banquet, announce that among the entertainers on the weekend program will be the cast of the Proposition Theater and Cynthia Carpenter, Miss Massachusetts of 1975.

Both committees have been expanded. Co-chairmen include: Hugo Fabrizio, Mrs. Emma Delkranian, George Fay, Kathleen O'Donnell, Louise LaRaia, Anita Fireman, George Montillio, Frances Leiberman, Nissie Grossman, Blanche Rimmer, Judy Mallock, John McAuliffe, Mrs. Francis X Bellotti and Addie Duane.

Other members of the Ball Committee are: Marie Sullivan, Kay Rivera, Beth Sheppard, Maureen O'Brien, Emery Fontaine, Mary Riley, Sam Zack, Cantor Morris Semigran, Richard Crystal, Jan Blanchard, Joseph Angelo, Francis Davis, Bernie Reisberg, Francis McCabe, Mary Wickens, John Mahoney, Shirley Keller, Harold Crowley, Ross DiMaggio and Andrew Walsh, Ethel Carlson. John Herbert is Treasurer of the Ball Committee. The banquet committee includes:

Leo Meady, Mrs. Daniel Shea, Mrs. Edward Fitzgerald, Mrs. William Ridder, Virginia Crismond, Bert Eckblom, Paul Benzaquin, Dr. Peter Leahy, Dr. Lawrence Creedon, Mrs. Edward Gordon, Lou Cassani, and Eric Swider. Philip Lawrence is treasurer.

Mrs. Simon Fireman and Mrs. Joseph LaRaia, chairmen of Ball Decorations, have enlisted the support of members of the Drama Club at Quincy High School.

Bethany Players To Present 'Star Spangled Surprise'

The Bethany Players will present a minstrel and variety show, "Star Spangled Surprise", Oct. 29-30 at 8 p.m. in the social hall of Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy.

The cast of about 75 is directed by Ed Bohlsen with Edith Ryder at the piano.

Tickets may be obtained from members of the cast, in the church office, or at the door.

Early American Music Concert At First Parish Church Oct. 24

An instrumental and vocal concert featuring music from the late 1700's to early 1800's, the period of the Adams' presidencies, will be held at United First Parish Church Sunday, Oct. 24 at 4 p.m.

The concert, sponsored by the church music committee, will be directed by Ann Dhu Shapiro, assistant professor of music at Wellesley College.

The program is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served.

Mayor, Council Hostilities Escalate approval of a director for the central maintenance facility as examples of measures held up by the Council as a result of bickering.

"It seems like the City Council, through its Council President, is intending to bicker for everything that comes down the pike," he said.

"I'll be glad to debate the Council President on the subject of this year's tax rate. If he wants to accept my challenge he is welcome.

"I suggest he present his figures to me first. Mine are public. Then we will know what facts we have to work with. Right now I can't refute his figures. He hasn't got any except the $10."

Tobin said in a statement to The Quincy Sun:

"The Mayor is going to have ample opportunity to debate me in the months ahead. I want to debate him on all the issues, especially his erratic behavior.

"He has a lot to answer for. I hope he will stand up and answer questions and have questions asked by the news media of this city."

Tobin said on three separate occasions he asked LaRaia to sit down with the members of the City Council before the rate was set but the Mayor refused.

"I talked to LaRaia on the telephone on that fateful Friday, Oct. 8, and I begged him to come back to Quincy and sit down with the City Council and he adamantly refused," said Tobin.

"He and his executive secretary paid $160 to put a paid political announcement on the local radio station to make derogatory remarks against the City Auditor and the Council President.

"It was a paid political ad to tell the big lie.

"He said the reason he didn't want to sit down with the City Council was because we intimidated his budget director and his aides. I'd give 50 cents to send the budget director and his aides to the movies and then we'd sit down."

Tobin suggested that LaRaia should go downstairs in City Hall "and help the assessors with abatements to help the poor people pay their taxes instead of throwing figures around to confuse everybody."

Regan Rolls 364 In Little Loop

Mike Regan, who set a new high average mark in Quincy Bowling Little Loop last year, continued to star with a three string total of 364 as the league opened its 23rd season at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome.

Joe Piazza, who holds the all-time three string record of 401, was runner-up to Regan with a 343.

Rep. Joseph E. Brett, who has sponsored a team in the Little Loop for the past 22 years, rolled the first ball.

For the first time in the league's history, four boys from one family are participating. They are Andy, Tom, Scott and Craig Orrock.

There are still a few openings for boys 11 through 16. Registration can be made at the Bowladrome Saturday at 8:30 a.m.

Midget A's Defeat Braintree, 5-2

The Quincy Youth Hockey Donnelly Midget A team defeated Braintree, 5-2, in a South Shore Conference game at Squantum for its first win of the season.

Brian Bertoni had two goals and Dave Lewis, Mike Storer and Mike Gulizia one each. Mike Van Tassel had two assists and Storer, Leo Doyle, Lewis, Don Perdios, and Jack Campbell one apiece. Goalies were Jim Deitsch and Kevin Cotter and others contributing to the win were Pat Bamberry, Jim Moore, Bob Hayes, Jim Fitzpatrick and John Norton.

The Midgets, defending conference and state champions, are 1-1.

Pee Wee A's Tie Weymouth 4-4

The Pee Wee A hockey team played to a 4-4 tie with Weymouth.

Richie Stevens, Paul McCabe,

Bill Bradley and Mike Cullen had the Quincy goals with McCabe having two assists and Stevens, Cullen and Kevin Duff one apiece.

Bantam A's Bow

The Sons of Italy Bantam A hockey team lost to Weymouth, 3-1, with Tom Joe Connelly

Squirt A's Bomb

Quincy's Squirt A hockey team bombed Weymouth, 9-3, sparked by Chris Hurley's two goals.

Also scoring were Steve White, Paul Marshall, Peter Quinn, Scott Messina, John O'Connor, Keith Smith and Billy Hughes. O'Connor had two assists and Mark Chambers, Danny Kelly, Tim Barry, Bobby McCabe, Messina, Quinn and Marshall one each.

The Quincy Bantam B hockey team defeated Walpole, 7-3, for its second win of the season.

Chuckie Marshall had the hat trick and John Martin and Robbie Zanardelli also sparked on offense. Defensively Mark Veasey and Paul Flynn stood out.

Mayor Takes Exception To LaRaia-Kelly Story

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia has taken exception to a story that appeared in The Quincy Sun last week detailing a reported shouting and shoving match between the Mayor and City Councilor Leo J. Kelly in the Council Chamber.

In a statement given to The Sun Tuesday, Mayor LaRaia said:

"I realize people in public service are in open season to the press and do not have the same immunity from the type of journalism displayed in The Sun.

"Nevertheless, because I feel that most of what was said in The Sun was erroneous and completely distorted it has concerned me enough to consult with my attorney on the issue as to how far a newspaper can go in attacking through unknown sources the character of a public official."

The Sun's story quoted sources that The Sun regards as highly reliable and, in addition to that, obtained supporting statements from Rep. Andrew H. Card Jr. [R. Holbrook], who was present in the Chamber at the time.

LaRaia's statement went on: "I have not limited the discussion with my attorney to the journalism displayed by The Sun but I include the Republican representative from Braintree [sic] if he does not retract the statements supposedly made by him. He too will be the subject of the discussions when I meet this week with my attorney. I'll have more to say about this in the future.

"It was necessary for me to comment on this now to show that I'm not going to stand pat and accept the comments made last week."

Prior to publication of the story, Mayor LaRaia was asked for comment on his confrontation with Kelly. His comments were reported in last week's story.

After the story appeared and the Mayor protested, he was offered an opportunity by The Sun to tell his side of the story in detail this week. He declined.

Hearing Oct. 26 On Proposed Downtown Building

The Board of Zoning Appeals will hold a hearing Tuesday [Oct. 26] at 7:45 p.m. in City Hall on a proposal to build a seven-story, 54-unit multi-dwelling building with a first floor devoted to commercial and professional use at 23-27 School St., Quincy Center. The location at 52-58 Hancock Court is also involved in the plan.

LaRaia Sees Possible 'Nominal' Tax Rate Increase For Next Year

By TOM HENSHAW

Next year's tax rate increase may be only nominal - but Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia won't guarantee it.

"Right now I'm not overly optimistic," the Mayor told a news conference this week. "I hope to keep the increase nominal but it will be difficult when you consider that we can't expect any large increase in funds from the state, new investment in the city is slow and you have a constant rise in the cost of living.

"I wouldn't care to speculate on next year's rate now. There are too many intangibles."

Mayor LaRaia's comments were made as his feud with City Council President over this year's tax rate grew warmer during separate news conferences held Monday morning.

Tobin, responding to what he called an "insulting" letter from the Mayor, listed several possible ways in which he said the tax rate could be cut from $194.80 to $170; an increase of only $10.10 instead of the official $34.90.

LaRaia called his tax rate "realistic", adding, "It is what is needed to run the city government. We'd only be fooling ourselves and the public by trying to establish a tax increase that is politically popular."

Tobin said he plans to consult with state tax officials to see if they could nullify their approval of the rate given Oct. 8 and allow the City Council time to talk to the Mayor about accepting some of Tobin's suggestions.

Decreasing Faster Than Expected

Quincy Schools Enrollment 14,772, Lowest In 20 Years

Enrollment in Quincy public schools has been set at 14,772 for the 1976-77 school year, its lowest point in more than 20 years.

And, says School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Crendon, it is decreasing faster than expected.

The School Department is trying to find out why.

"Two or three years ago I would have told you that enrollment, which was at its peak in 1971, would bottom out in 1980 or 1981," Dr. Crendon told The Quincy Sun. "But we are already at the 1980 projections.

"We are trying to figure out what is happening. We are in the process of tracing the kids to see where they are going."

Dr. Crendon explained that the Quincy School system lost 654 students this year, almost twice as many as projected a few years ago. Elementary schools are down 412, junior high schools 58 and high schools 184.

"Obviously," says Dr. Crendon, "part of the loss is due to the downward trend in the birthrate. The incoming kindergarten class is 240 kids smaller than the graduating senior high school class.

"The Quincy school system lost 306 youngsters during the year through the process of immigration and outmigration. Despite the impact of kids coming into Quincy, still more are going out.

"Add 240 and 306 and you get 546 of the 654 total. The rest are drop outs."

The makeup of the school population in Quincy is constantly changing. The average youngster does not start in kindergarten in Quincy public schools and continue through high school.

"The kindergarten class is always bigger than the next year's first grade class because some of the kindergarten kids go on to parochial schools," says Dr. Crendon.

"There is a slight upsurge in the third grade population as many of the kids who are having academic difficulties in parochial schools switch to public schools for the remedial help.

"There is another impact at the end of the sixth grade when some parents elect to switch their kids from parochial to public schools for social reasons, that is, to play in the band or take part in a sport.

"At the end of the eighth grade there is a great deal of switching, as public school youngsters go to private or Catholic high schools and vice versa."

Quincy could very well consolidate some of its elementary schools, says Dr. Crendon, since some of them are down to around 200 pupils. He doesn't expect that it will happen.

"This year about Christmas time I will present to the School Committee a report showing that consolidation is possible," he says.

"Quincy has a long tradition of neighborhood schools. Up until three years ago this was of great significance. The kids were making two trips a day to

Not Too Much Reaction To Tax Rate, Says LaRaia

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia says he is "not getting too much reaction" to his $194.80 tax rate, an increase of $34.90 over last year.

"I'm getting more reaction from the Council President than anyone else," he told The Quincy Sun Tuesday.

"I think most people are aware that the increased cost of living has affected everybody, including the city.

"I have attempted to discuss openly and repeatedly the situation in the city as far back as January.

"My feeling is that the people who concern themselves with the everyday happenings in city government should be pretty well informed by now, even though it's pretty hard to penetrate the distortions."

5 Cents A Day Fine Adopted On Overdue Library Materials

The Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy, have endorsed a new fine policy. Beginning Jan. 1, 1977, five cents a day will be charged for all overdue materials in both adult and children's departments.

Increasing concern over the alarming number of books and other library materials kept beyond their due date prompted the measure, the Trustees said. Throughout the public library system, thousands of books are long overdue. Many of these books are requested by other library borrowers, but the costly overdue notices frequently are unheeded.

Neighboring public library systems that have had similar problems have found it necessary to enforce the state law by taking court action. This law provides for fines up to $25 dollars for the detention of library materials.

Patrons are urged to return all overdue materials before the increase in fines takes place in January. Library materials may be returned at any library building in the City, the Bookmobile, or dropped in the bright yellow book deposit box at the Main Library on Washington St., Quincy Center. Non-resident borrowers may return materials at their own public library.

Cerasoli Commends Board For Demolition Refusal

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli has commended the Quincy city Zoning Board of Appeals for denying a variance to Shop'n Save market, South Quincy, for demolition of two houses at 179 and 185 Franklin St., and utilization of the vacant land as a parking lot.

Cerasoli praised the board for,

"patiently listening" to him and 50 residents who attended the Sept. 15 public hearing of the variance. Cerasoli said: "I am glad that the variance was denied because I do not want to see any more residential land in South Quincy taken and used for parking lots. The people who have put their savings into establishing a home for their families in South Quincy should not be deprived of the fine residential areas in which they now live."

"In this matter the Zoning Board of Appeals has shown great foresight and intelligence in listening to the demands of the people and in deciding in favor of their well-being."

Quincy Man Media Advance Man For Carter

Boston Mayor Kevin White's Director of Broadcast, George K. Regan Jr., 27, of Quincy, has taken a leave of absence to serve as media advance man for Democratic Presidential candidate Jimmy Carter.

Regan will serve until the Nov. 2 Presidential election. He will fly ahead of the candidate to set up and advance all news conferences, media appearances and interviews. Regan, a graduate of Suffolk University with a degree in journalism, performed a similar function for former Democratic Presidential candidate, Morris Udall.

A former reporter, Regan has been with Mayor White's Press Office for three years serving as assistant press secretary and, since April, director of broadcast, responsible for communicating administration policy to local broadcast media.

Regan will take two weeks paid vacation and a week's official leave without pay until the completion of the campaign.

Public Hearing On S. Quincy Waste Water Project

A public hearing will be held tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock School Cafeteria to invite public comment on a proposed waste water treatment project in the South Quincy Faxon Park section of the city.

The meeting is open to all Quincy residents, with residents from the above-mentioned areas particularly encouraged to attend.

The overall objectives of the proposed project is to provide for future capacity for anticipated growth in the study area, and to eliminate present problems of surcharging in the main interceptor sewer system.

Major elements of this proposal include the rehabilitation of portions of the existing sewer system, the construction of new segments of sewer piping and the construction of an on-line pumping station.

Funds for the proposed activities will be sought pursuant to Title II of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972.

Neil Farren To Teach In England

Neil Farren of Quincy is one of 19 student teachers from Salem State College who will be practicing teaching in England for 10 weeks starting Oct. 18.

Home base will be the suburban Bradford community of Bingley on the moors of Yorkshire.

The program is designed to develop insights into the international aspects of education, to experiment with British educational programs, and to reexamine American educational practices through comparisons.

The students also will participate in work shops, seminars and field trips.

'Project Pantry Week' Food Drive Underway

Mayor Joseph LaRaia has proclaimed the week of Oct. 17-23 as "Project Pantry Week". The city of Quincy Community Action Organization, Inc., and the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, is conducting a non-perishable food drive for the benefit of Quincy's less fortunate residents.

Any item of non-perishable food such as canned goods, flour or sugar can be dropped off at any Quincy fire station. The food items will be collected by the Atlantic Neighborhood Center and the Community Action Organization, which is made up of the South-West Community Center, the Germantown Multiservice Center and the Quincy Point Community Center. Eligibility to receive assistance from this project will be determined by the staff of these centers.

Mayor LaRaia said, "I expect a good turnout because it's an opportunity for Quincy residents to help their neighbors. Hopefully, this project will be successful enough to carry through the winter months."

Minute Of Meditation In All Quincy Schools

Periods of meditation or silent prayer have been observed at the start of each day in Quincy schools since the beginning of the school year - with only one small hitch.

How do you explain "a minute of silent meditation" to a youngster in kindergarten?

One innovative teacher, reports School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, solved the problem by telling her class:

"Just sit quietly and think of something nice."

Dr. Creedon said all Quincy principals have been directed to carry out the provisions of the silent meditation law which was passed in 1973 and recently upheld by the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

The law reads:

"At the commencement of the first class of each day in all grades in all public schools the teacher in charge of the room in which each such class is held shall announce that a period of silence not to exceed one minute in duration shall be observed for meditation or prayer and during any such period silence shall be maintained and no activities engaged in."

Dr. Creedon said his office has had only one call on the subject.

"The person asked if we were doing it," he said. "I told him we were and that was it. I don't know what motivated the call."

OUR REGULARS COME IN ALL SHAPES AND SIZES.

There's one thing our Regular Savings account customers have in common . . . common sense.

Because it's a shrewd move to open not only the most convenient of all banking accounts, but also one that pays a healthy interest on your money.

A Regular Savings account at Quincy Cooperative pays 5-1/4% interest. That's the highest rate allowable by law. The effective annual rate climbs to 5.47%. And your interest is compounded daily from day of deposit to day of withdrawal. Your money, of course, is insured in full. No wonder everyone from the milkman to the meter maid, the doctor to the dog catcher, has a convenient Regular Savings account with us. Why not join the regulars and watch your money grow? It's the very idea Josiah Quincy, Jr., the man we named the bank for, had in mind when he founded cooperative banking in this state. A Regular Savings Account. It's of interest to everyone.

And we know for certain . . .

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

Today's Women

Joint Session Oct. 25

Women's Political Caucus, LWV Plan Referenda Meeting

The South Shore Women's Political Caucus and the League of Women Voters of Quincy will hold a joint meeting on the referenda which will appear on the Nov. 2 ballot.

The meeting will be Monday Oct. 25 at 8 p.m. at the Hollow Restaurant, Quincy.

Lois Kanter of the Massachusetts Committee to Ratify the Equal Rights Amendment will speak on:

Question 1, the ERA.
Question 2, the graduated income tax will be explained by Rep. Thomas Brownell of Quincy.

Jane Sullivan, vice-president of the League will discuss Question 3, absentee voting for religious reasons.

Question 8, oil refinery and deep water port, and Question 9, Sunday closing laws.

Questions 8 and 9 are non-binding advisory questions placed on the ballot by the state legislature to measure public opinion on certain issues.

Question 4, the Massachusetts Power Authority and Question 7, uniform electric rates will be explained by Atty. Ruth Paven of Quincy.

Sam Greenwald, League member and a member of People vs. Handguns will speak on Question 5, banning private handguns.

Question 6, the bottle bill will be discussed by Clara

Yeomans, executive secretary to the Quincy Conservation Commission.

The South Shore Women's Political Caucus supports the passage of Question 1. The League of Women Voters supports the passage of Questions 1, 2, 5 and 6.

The meeting is open to the public. The League and the Caucus invite all citizens to attend and to participate in the question period following the presentation. Both groups encourage a careful reading of the "red" books-Massachusetts information for voters 1976 which Massachusetts residents have received by mail from the Secretary of State's office.

'Daddy Don't Be Silly', Equal Rights Film At Library

A half-hour color film, "Daddy Don't Be Silly: A Case For Equal Rights" will be shown Wednesday Oct. 27, 7:30 p.m. at the main Quincy Public Library.

The first in a series of four films sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, the film explains how the federal Equal Rights Amendment came into existence and how its ratification will affect both men and women.

The film presents views of proponents and opponents, including the opinions of Judge Burnice Mathews, an author of the original ERA in 1923. It also relates the experiences of three individuals who did not receive equal treatment because of their sex.

"Although this film relates to the federal ERA, its timing is particularly important since the Massachusetts ERA will appear as Referendum question No. 1 on the Nov. 2 ballot," said Ann Aronson, coordinator of the film festival. "We hope to encourage as many people as possible to attend and learn about this amendment."

A discussion of the Massachusetts ERA by Janice D'Avignon, Norfolk County Coordinator of the Committee to Ratify the Massachusetts ERA will follow the film. The public is invited to attend.

Women's Evening Fitness Program At Lincoln-Hancock School

The Quincy Recreation Department is sponsoring women's fitness programs two evenings a week at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School gymnasium.

The program, which started this week, is being held Tuesday and Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. It consists of supervised exercises, organized games and basic strokes of tennis. The program is under the direction of Mrs. Sara Cobban who will be assisted by Miss Cathy Ilaqua and Miss Sara Kane.

On both evenings at 9 p.m. participants will have the option of utilizing the swimming pool located in the same building. The Tuesday pool program is co-recreational while the Thursday swim is for women only.

The program is open to Quincy residents age 19. They must wear suitable gym attire. There is open registration and no fee.

Those wishing to go swimming must have a pool participation card, which may be obtained at the pool.

Swine Flu

The biggest mass inoculation drive in the nation's history will begin this Fall when millions of Americans will get their shot against the swine flu virus. Plans are for 200 million people to be inoculated by December. Hopefully, this will put a stop to the most potentially dangerous virus detected in this country since the devastating pandemic of 1918 when a similar virus killed 500,000 Americans and about 20 million elsewhere within a few months.

The swine flu was first detected last February at Fort Dix, N.J. when over 500 soldiers were suspected of having caught it. Twelve cases were positively identified; one soldier died.

The symptoms are the same as for any flu: headache, fever, weakness, general malaise. The real threat comes when the disease leads to more serious and deadly complications, primarily pneumonia.

Many medical authorities say the only course is mass inoculation before flu weather arrives. Pharmaceutical manufacturers are working around the clock to stockpile doses for the entire nation. The vaccine itself will be free - the government is paying for it.

Nurse, Health Aide Also Named

Deborah Eaton Appointed Quincy Family Project Director

The Quincy Community Action Organization Board of Directors recently appointed Deborah Eaton as director of the Quincy Family Planning Project.

Mrs. Eaton received her bachelor's degree from San Diego University where she was associated with the Center for Women's Studies and Services. She was Director of Counseling Services at the Parent Aid Society in Boston before coming to Quincy Family Planning. Mrs. Eaton is married and lives in Allston.

The Board also approved the appointments of Mrs. Sue Maginnes as part-time Family Planning Nurse. Mrs. Maginnes is a registered nurse and received her training in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Maginnes, a Quincy resident, is married and has four children. Approval of the appointment of Julie Morrissey to the position of Health Aide was also given by the Board. Mrs. Morrissey is a resident of Wollaston, and the mother of 12 children.

Mrs. Eaton will direct the operations of the family planning clinics. Presently, two clinics are held at the Germantown Service Center, 9 Bicknell St., Wednesday evenings from 4 to 9 p.m. and on Friday afternoons from 11:15 to 5 p.m.

A third clinic is held Wednesday afternoons at the Quincy City Hospital Out Patient Department from 1 to 4 p.m.

The Quincy Family Planning Project is a component of the Quincy Community Action Organization, Inc. Other components are the Germantown Service Center, Southwest Community Center, Headstart, and the Quincy Point Community Center.

The Family Planning Project receives grants from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and from the Department of Public Welfare. All residents of the South Shore are eligible to receive services as there are no geographical or financial guidelines. Medicaid is accepted.

Recommend Flu Shots For Children With Asthma

Children aged 3 to 18 who suffer from chronic bronchopulmonary illnesses such as asthma should receive flu shots this fall, recommends the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association, the local Christmas Seal organization.

There is no recommendation being made yet for immunizing healthy children 18 years of age and under, the Association said.

The recommendation was announced as part of the nation-wide "Flu Alert" program of the group, a program calling for flu shots for those affected by lung illness. Such persons are considered among the "high risk" groups for whom attacks of flu could be more serious than the general population.

Special procedures are being followed by physicians administering flu vaccines to the "high risk" groups.

Further information may be obtained by calling or writing the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association, 745 High St., Westwood, 02090.

LPN's Holding Coronary Care

Nursing Lecture Series

District 17 of the Licensed Practical Nurses of Massachusetts was scheduled to hold the first of its three-part lecture series on Coronary Care Nursing, Wednesday in the board room of the South Shore National Bank, Quincy Center.

A short business meeting was to precede the lecture scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Guest speaker Susan Lynn Zorb is a Clinical Instructor at Mount Auburn School of Nursing; also a staff nurse in Surgical Intensive Care at Massachusetts General Hospital. Her subject will be the Anatomy and Physiology of the heart and its response to stress. A question and answer period will follow.

North Quincy K. Of C. Sponsoring Hearing Clinics

Grand Knight John J. Lydon of the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Council announces that the Grand Knight Charitable Event of the 1976-77 fraternal year will be a hearing screening and hearing conservation program.

The program will be implemented with the cooperation of the Boston Guild For the Hard of Hearing utilizing the services of a mobile hearing testing unit.

The hearing tests will be from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m., Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Oct. 26-27-28-29.

The Guild will provide a trained audiometric technician to give screening tests of hearing to adults. If further examination is required there will be referrals to medical resources.

Lydon said persons taking the screening test will be asked to fill out a simple questionnaire and to make a $1 donation to help support the program.

He also noted that some clients, failing the test may be eligible for financial help from such public services as the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission, Veteran's Services, and Supplementary Security Income. Complete diagnostic tests, otological examination, and even the purchase of a hearing aid, if one is recommended, may be covered by public services, he added.

The mobile hearing unit will be located at the Senior Citizen Drop-In Center, High School Ave., directly behind the Quincy Central Fire Station.

Robert F. Tweedy, director of the Quincy Council On Aging, said volunteers acting as receptionists will be Gertrude Ready, Cathleen Desmond, Mary Bucklin, Lydia Chesholm and Mae Dewey.

Public health nurses from the Quincy Health Department will follow up test failures to aid them in obtaining medical assistance, if needed.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the Quincy Council on Aging Office, 773-1380, extensions 243, 244 and 247.

Lydon said he hopes that as many adult Quincy residents as possible will participate in the community service program.

Point Congregational Plans

'Night At The Movies'

Quincy Point Congregational Church will hold a "Night at the Movies" Saturday, from 7:30 to 10 p.m., at the church social hall.

Proceeds from the evening of films will benefit the church soft ball team.

Films will include cartoon, newsreels, Marx Brother and Abbott and Costello films, and special 20-minute featurettes of: Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid, M.A.S.H., and The Sound of Music.

Others are the Three Musketeers, Mary Poppins, Snow White, and the Walt Disney World Tour.

Popcorn and tonic will be sold.

Tickets will be sold after church services and at the door.

Handcraft Class For Seniors At Lincoln-Hancock

Don't Underestimate Buyer

In the arena of real estate transactions - there are two parties to every transaction - a buyer and seller. Some sellers have the mistaken impression that they are at a financial advantage when negotiating directly with a prospective buyer. Unfortunately, they couldn't be more mistaken!

Never underestimate the hard financial bargaining ability of the average buyer. Spend one day in the field with any Realtor, negotiating and handling offers and counter-offers and you'll appreciate what I'm saying. Frankly, if the typical buyer knows you are not selling through a Realtor, right off the bat he'll expect you to deduct the commission for his benefit before you even START serious negotiations.

Then you're on your own, possibly at a great disadvantage, in the intricate areas of financing, negotiating, and protecting yourself from all sorts of do-it-yourself pitfalls. You've got a lot invested in your home. It makes sense to list it with a Realtor. He'll sell it for you - without hitches, for the best price and in the shortest amount of time.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

10th Ballot Question: Can Joe Brett Do It?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

In Quincy, you might say, there really are 10 -- not nine -- Nov. 2 ballot questions.

The nine referenda, of course. And the big local political one: Can Joe Brett do it?

The veteran legislator lost the Democratic nomination for state representative in the Third Norfolk District in the September primary.

Young Michael Morrissey, making his first bid for public office at age 22, wrested the Democratic nomination from Brett in one of the most stunning local political upsets in recent years.

Brett was -- and now, still is -- seeking his 10th term on Beacon Hill.

Brett is riding with a "sticker" campaign to win back the seat that Morrissey knocked from under him in September.

Brett supporters plan to distribute an estimated 60,000 stickers -- four to a sheet -- at each of the approximate 15,000 homes in the Wollaston, North Quincy area.

They are to be mailed and hand distributed starting next week -- the campaign homestretch. They will also be available near the voting precincts on election day.

Main reason for not distributing the stickers early is that they might become misplaced or lost in homes before election day.

The sticker reads: "Joseph E. Brett, 254 Fenno St., Quincy [X]." He cannot use the word incumbent.

Brett's name does not appear on the ballot in the Third Norfolk District. Three other names will be in this order:

Morrissey, Democratic candidate; Jens Thornton, Republican candidate and Alley McInnis, Independent candidate.

Brett's name, ordinarily would have appeared first as the Democratic incumbent.

Morrissey is now the Democratic nominee and Brett now has an open space to which a sticker can be affixed.

Well, can he win?

Running on stickers is always an uphill battle. Voters handling stickers is, no pun intended, a sticky matter. They might leave them home. They might put them in the wrong place on the ballot, etc. Any sticker candidate runs into those problems.

In Brett's bid, there could be additional problems. Some Democrats -- especially recent transplants from South Boston and Dorchester -- may resent the fact that Brett is running against the man who is the rightful Democratic nominee.

But if any man can win a sticker victory, it's Joe Brett. He has ardent supporters who probably didn't turn out for the primary thinking he was a shoo-in.

Some of them are now hard at work for him in the sticker campaign and will be voting in the final election Nov. 2.

With three other candidates on the ballot -- Morrissey, Thornton and McInnis -- Brett could benefit from them splitting anti-Brett votes while his loyal followers remain just that -- loyal.

But by the same token, he could cause a split of Democratic votes between himself and Morrissey giving McInnis or Thornton a better shot at victory.

Regardless of the outcome, Brett's "sticker" campaign certainly has added considerable more interest to the Third Norfolk District race.

SPEAKING OF MCINNIS, his committee is holding an open-house party Friday night, for all the voters of North Quincy, Squantum and Wollaston.

Admission is free.

The party, will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Hollis Ave., North Quincy, starting at 8 p.m. There will be dancing and refreshments and the opportunity to meet McInnis and his family.

A LOT of people would like to see more women in public office. Like, for example, in the City Council. Someday we may have another like Mrs. Edna B. Austin, the only woman ever to serve in the council since Quincy became a city.

Well, maybe we have a couple of budding "Madam Councillors" in Linda and Donna Chiampa, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Chiampa of North Central Ave., Wollaston.

Fourteen-year-old Linda is president of her ninth grade class and Donna, 16, is president of her 11th grade class, both at North Quincy High School. They're also honor roll students.

FPERSONAL to "An Unhappy Customer": Thanks for your "letter of protest". If you identify yourself, we'll print it. Our policy is not to print anonymous letters regardless of content. And when someone fires at us like you do we think it's only fair to know who's holding the gun.

DEMOCRATIC State Committeewoman Kathleen O'Donnell and Councillor Paul Harold will jointly sponsor a TV Night, Friday to view the final Ford - Carter debate. The TV night is part of a state-wide effort to maximize enthusiasm for the Carter-Mondale ticket in the last weeks of the campaign.

The TV night will be held at 1025 Hancock St. from 9:30 p.m. - 11 p.m. and is open to Carter-Mondale supporters.

BUMPER STICKER: "Don't give Panama our Canal! Give Them Kissinger Instead."

LaRaia Hopes Next Year Tax Rate Increase 'Nominal'

LaRaia said the tax rate stands and "as far as I'm concerned the matter is all over."

Tobin charged that Lt. Condy Solimini, inspector of divisions at the Quincy Police Department, told members of the South Quincy Boose Club that "what we are doing is nothing but a personal ethnic attack" on the Mayor, who is of Italian descent.

Solimini denied it, saying, "Never at any time did I say this. I would never say it about Arthur. Whoever called him, the statement is untrue. I'm sorry Arthur feels that way."

Detailing his rate-cutting suggestions, Tobin told a 9 a.m. news conference:

"On the Monday of the week that the Mayor and his advisors went to Boston, the chairman of the Board of Assessors, Mike [Elmer] Fagerlund, stood before the City Council and stated that, at that time, if we took no action at all, the city of Quincy would be facing a $40 increase in taxes.

"Meanwhile a delegation of officials, led by myself, went to state officials and, by getting figures set estimating excise taxes and documenting a change in rate setting for the hospital, we were able to document approximately $5.30 from the tax rate. If you subtract $5.30 from the $40 you come down to the $34.70 figure the Mayor set on Oct. 6.

"That was done by City Council action, not by any financial advisors to the Mayor. They have done nothing.

"Subsequent to that, the city auditor found another mistake where $1.4 million [for Blue Cross-Blue Shield] was plugged in. There was an order for $750,000 pending before the City Council but they plugged in $1.4 million, which gave him a $700,000 slush fund.

"This further reduced the tax rate by $5.20 which then brought it down to $29.50.

"But, with egg on their faces that the mistake had been made -- and to this day we cannot fathom the logic of why they did it -- two days later they went back and made sure the figures were justified and manipulated to increase it back up to $34.90. Had they stayed in Quincy and left it alone at least the advantage would have gone to the taxpayers of Quincy.

"State officials informed us that, had the Mayor waited until Oct. 15, they could have taken advantage of adjustments in the Norfolk County budget that could have been beneficial to the taxpayers because of $201,000 in additional funds coming in; because of a counter-cyclical $518,800 appropriation by Congress and other county adjustments we could have picked up another $2.90 on the tax rate which would then have brought the rate down to $26.60.

"There is enough money in the overlay account -- that is the amount that is put aside to handle abatements -- we feel that since all law cases against the city have been settled the amount is a little high. By increasing the amount of the overlay you have to increase the amount to be raised by taxation. We advocated a $700,000 decrease in the overlay.

"There's $2.50 on the rate. That now brings it down to $24.10.

"These actions are strictly under the control of the Mayor.

"I've also been informed by the City Auditor that our bonded indebtedness next year is going to decrease. We then could have received a letter from the City Auditor increasing the miscellaneous receipts, which would have had no impact on next year's tax rate because the bonded indebtedness of our city would have been decreased.

"This would pick up another $2.50. Now the tax rate is $21.60.

"The fiscal year runs from July 1 to June 30. However, teachers' contracts go from September to August so that when the fiscal year ends June 30 there still are two months going on teachers' contracts that will be incurred in the next fiscal year but are put on this year's tax increase.

"Beverly and other communities took advantage of this and it was allowed by state officials. It is a bookkeeping entry whether we pick up part of it this year or next year but we see a better financial situation next year so we think it could be absorbed.

"The amount just for July and August is $1.5 million which would have been another $5.50 on the tax rate which now brings it down to $16.10.

"The City Auditor also has informed members of the City Council that we have each year through attrition a 5 to 10 per cent cut back in personnel. The Mayor vetoed a City Council order that would have cut back expenditures by 20 per cent. What the City Auditor proposed was a 2 per cent cut across the board in jobs and expenses by not firing anyone.

"That gives us about $6. We now have a $10.10 tax rate, which the Council and the Council President have advocated from the beginning.

"The only thing stopping this is having the Mayor say, 'Yes, let us work together; let us move ahead.' But because of the vendettas, because of the hatred permeating this city the tax payers are going to suffer."

Mayor LaRaia, after listening to a tape recording of Tobin's news conference, told his own 11 a.m. news conference:

"We set a tax rate and we had to return to set it again because of the Council President's dual capacity as senator. His influence as senator was a contributing factor in attempting to interfere in the Mayor's authority.

"I would never entertain returning again as suggested by the Council President. It would serve no purpose other than to confuse the public. If we delayed any further we would have people paying tax bills during the Christmas season.

"The rate was settled after all the advice had been channelled into my office from administrators who have expertise in their own areas.

"The city treasurer has informed me of our cash balances and reserves. We have borrowed some $12 million to run the city government since July in comparison to $2 million that was borrowed last year, the reason being that we have little or no reserves available.

"Hence it was important to levy a tax rate to receive funds to operate the city government.

"Quincy also had a cash deficit of $1,250,000. If the budget was not properly calculated to cover a full year we would be borrowing money to pay off our obligations as we have borrowed to pay them off this year.

"Having a cash deficit position we will not be able to draw on any available funds, hence it is important we levy a tax increase that covers the requirements of our budget.

"We have a very delicate balance sheet, to meet our obligations. We'd only be fooling ourselves and the public by trying to establish a tax increase that is politically popular.

LaRaia noted that conditions in the city of New Bedford for the past few years have been similar to those in Quincy and New Bedford has come up with a tax rate increase of about $38.50. He added:

"I welcome every opportunity to work with the Council President and I hope that his comments prior to my setting the rate that he was going to slow everything down to a standstill are not true.

"I am willing to resolve any differences that he has and to settle any disputes that have been the reason for the feeling between himself and my office.

"I think the reason for the constant argumentative position between the City Council and the Mayor's office goes back to my election. Obviously I upset a tradition of some 10 years by my victory.

"Proof of this is in the constant disputes and criticisms levelled at me or my office for anything and everything under the sun."

LaRaia charged that, in his efforts to obtain a lower tax rate hike, Tobin "put pressure on the assessors, telling them that unless assessments were high in the city of Quincy obviously the rate we were committed to would be high. They told him that under law they must establish a true assessment."

"He is nickel and diming the whole situation," LaRaia said. "What he wants to do is further strain our commitments to a point where we're only going to be facing the same problem next year.

"I approved figures that are realistic. Obviously when you try to wipe the slate clean, and I'm talking about last year, obviously you are going to pay for it and we're paying for it this year with realistic figures."

"We have to face the music."

Eleanor Tormey Appointed

Detoxification Center Acting Director

Mrs. Eleanor Tormey has been appointed acting director of the Quincy Detoxification Center.

Her appointment is announced by Dr. Samuel Solomon, M.D., City health commissioner and chairman of the board of directors of the Detoxification Center.

Mrs. Tormey has worked at the center since it opened in 1972, and is stepping in for former director Joseph F. Collins who recently resigned because of illness, and assistant director Richard Murphy, who is undergoing medical tests.

The heaviest dog on record was a Saint Bernard in Wisconsin who at age 5 weighed 295 pounds.

Literary Review Board Removes Comic Books, Reprints

By TOM HENSHAW

The Quincy Literary Review Board announced plans to seek removal from city newstands of 15 crime comic books, four paperback reprints and the entire works of author Nelson Algren.

The Rev. Joseph D. Parkman, chairman of the review board, said the comic books were of the "blood and thunder" variety and he described the four proscribed paperbacks as "sexy in plain language."

NEW STATION OPENS

The new Houghs Neck Fire Station on Sea St., was opened for occupancy after being under construction for two years, since October, 1947.

The Vara Construction Co. said the delay was caused by the failure to move the old fire station out of the way while the building was going on. Vara asked and additional $2,500 over the $143,000 contract because of the delay.

RAIDERS UPSET

Bob [Chick] Nelson bucked over for a second period touchdown but the North Quincy High football team was upset by Danvers, 19-6.

The North Quincy lineup included:

ERA Would Strengthen Laws Against Discrimination

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would like to address myself to the meaning of the State ERA: "Equality under the law shall not be denied or abridged because of sex, color, creed or national origin."

The amendment gives us a guarantee in our state constitution, that will enable all people in Massachusetts to pursue their goals and interests without discrimination from government.

It will strengthen existing Massachusetts law against discrimination, and make sure new laws are consistent and fair. It is a guarantee for our sons and daughters. It ensures fairness for men and women, for homemakers and officeworkers, for everyone living in Massachusetts.

Massachusetts citizens have always led the country in supporting justice. Now let's turn our good laws into constitutional guarantees.

Quincy 'One Of The Finest Cities In The Country'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

It is with great pleasure that I wish to express my opinion about Quincy that is also the opinion of many others with whom I came in contact with throughout the city.

I was born in Chicago, Ill., but I have lived in Quincy most of my life. Why? Because I like it. I have traveled in many cities of the United States, and might I say, that we do live in one of the finest, cleanest cities in the country. Many, that have not seen some of the other places cannot appreciate Quincy as much as it deserves. Take Times Square in New York City, the loop in Chicago - need I go further?

A short time ago while I was in New York, I went to see Jack Dempsey at his place of business, a few blocks from Times Square. Jack told me things had changed to a great extent and he said, he was leaving this place for good. And, he did. So what I want to say is let's stick together, work together and keep Quincy the most wonderful, beautiful and best city in the whole United States.

26th Christmas Parade To Be Held Nov. 28

The 26th annual Quincy Christmas Festival Parade will be held Sunday, Nov. 28, with a crowd of more than 300,000 expected.

Colorful floats will be keyed to the theme "Especially for Children" announces George C. Fay, general chairman of the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee.

Feature of this year's parade will be the participation of musical units from all parts of Massachusetts competing for the High School Parade Marching Band Championship. The Hoosac Valley High School Band will journey from North Adams in the Berkshires to take part.

Invitations have been extended to Abington, Braintree, South Weymouth, North Weymouth, Silver Lake Regional, Mansfield, Whitman-Hanson Regional, Milton Dartmouth, Somerville, Quincy, North Quincy, Hull, Holbrook, Walpole, Hanover, Beverly, Rockland, Hingham, Scituate and Bridgewater-Raynham, according to Bill Morrill, chairman of the bands division.

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, sponsors of the parade, expect community groups in the area to provide some of the most spectacular floats ever seen in the quarter century history of the parade.

Richard Venna, chairman of the floats division, has received entries from the Curtain Call Theatre, Quincy High School Alumni, North Weymouth Knights of Columbus, Milton Rainbow Girls, South Shore Campfire Girls, Broad Meadow School, Post 86, American Legion, Braintree; North Quincy Knights of Columbus, Supporters of Survival, Sons of Italy and the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

In addition to the adult and youth groups other floats will be entered by commercial firms.

The 1 p.m. parade will step off from Beale St., Wollaston and proceed up Hancock to downtown Quincy to School and Franklin St.

MONEY TALKS

Home Owners Are Acquiring Capitalist-Minded Affluence

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
and Loan Association of Quincy, Hobb Brook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

A decade ago, the senior editor of a national magazine described development houses as "long lines of house-sized piggy banks, set upon dollar-green strips of grass."

The house-with-mortgage had become the surest way to translate current income, before it evaporated, into a family financial basis, he said.

This observation is even more true today than it was ten years ago.

Median value of owner-occupied single-family homes increased faster than the income of owners from 1970 to 1973, according to a report released jointly by the United States Department of Commerce and the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Median value of owner-occupied single-family homes rose 41 percent between April 1970 and October 1973. Meanwhile, the median income of homeowners rose less than 19 percent, according to the report.

The value of owner-occupied homes in 1973 was about twice the income of their owners. This ratio varied considerably, however, according to income level. For example, the value of homes in the low-income group [owners with incomes of less than $5,000] was four times or more than their annual income; many of these owners were elderly. In the high-income group [owners with annual income of $15,000 or more], however, the value of homes was only 1.6 times median income.

Approximately 36 percent of the owner-occupied homes in the United States were owned free and clear of any mortgage in 1973. The percentage was 65 percent for homes valued under $10,000 but only 24 percent for homes valued at $35,000 or more.

More than ever, we can agree with the national magazine editor in his observation that "the housing market, with its long-term rise in values, has done far more than the stock market, with its limited group of customers, to turn the American majority to capitalist-minded affluence."

Child Abuse Meeting Topic At Atlantic

The problem of dealing with child abuse and neglect will be discussed next week at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 150 East Squantum St. The program for the week includes:

Monday - Women's health information, with Norma Barriere, from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon. Appointments may be made at this time for the Women's Health Clinic.

Tuesday - Girls knitting classes, under the direction of Mrs. Grace Iacqua, will be held at 2 p.m. Girls may sign up any day before Tuesday. Seniors who wish to participate in the tour of the Quincy Market area in Boston should confirm reservation and time of departure. Food coop pickup.

Wednesday - Senior citizens day. Knitting from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon. Seniors may make reservations for lunch program, sponsored by the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, by calling Mary Travers at 328-1708 by Tuesday noon. Lunch is 65 cents. Bingo for senior 1-3 p.m.

The Child Abuse and Neglect Committee of the South Shore

Council for Children will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday to explore ways in which to work towards helping deal with the problem of child abuse and neglect.

Thursday - Well Baby Clinic will be held at 9:30 a.m., open to all Quincy children up to 6 years of age. Norfolk County Nutrition Program will be held at 1 p.m.

Friday - Boys ages 8 through 14 can sign up between 3 and 5 p.m. for the Atlantic Neighborhood Association's bowling league.

Wollaston Park Association Re-elects Major Officers

Re-elected are:
Benjamin Rudner of 148 East Elm Ave., president; Thomas F.

Dowd of 19 Vassall St., vice president; Anna E. Lucey of 39 Ridgeway St., treasurer; and Dorothy C. Kelly of 108 Davis St., secretary.

Newly elected to the board of directors is William M. MacDonald of 74 Copely St.

Other directors re-elected are: Leonard C. Delaney of 116 Davis St., Madeline and Dominic Falcutta of 55 The Strand, Herman Gauger of 141 Bromfield St., Anna E. Lucey of 39 Ridgeway St., and Harold A. Natis of 107 East Elm Ave.

Public Hearing On MDC Park Improvements

Rep. Joseph E. Brett reminds residents the MDC has scheduled a public hearing for today [Thursday] at 11 a.m. in their headquarters, 20 Somerset St., Beacon Hill, so public officials and private citizens can present suggestions for improvements to the MDC Parks and Recreation programs.

Brett is chairman of the Legislature's Committee on Urban Affairs which has jurisdiction over MDC legislation.

Brett expressed hope that citizens in the Quincy area who are desirous of improvements or additions to the MDC parklands, beaches, and other facilities in the area will make an effort to attend the hearing or, if unable to attend in person, to forward their ideas and suggestions to Representative Brett, who can relay them to the Commission.

The yard sale is being run by the North Quincy High School band, choir, color guards and majorette. Some 175 students will participate. Items will include furniture, books, appliances, curtains and other items.

Anyone wishing to donate items is asked to call 328-1531 after 3 p.m. or 328-5800, Ext. 28.

Reception Held For Morrissey

A fund raising reception for Michael W. Morrissey was held Friday at State Street South with an estimated more than 400 attending.

Morrissey thanked those attending for their support and help in his campaign for State Representative in the Third Norfolk District and reminded them he needs their continued support in the final election.

Morrissey said he had proven he was a hard worker by running an aggressive and vigorous campaign that defeated an 18-year incumbent. He pledged to be a full time representative and to open up area office hours to make it convenient for residents to confer with him.

A coffee hour was held recently for Morrissey at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Mahony, 222 Quincy Shore Drive, North Quincy. With more than 20 people in attendance, Morrissey spoke of problems in the Wollaston Beach area, the referendum questions, and also about bringing in more state revenues to ease the city taxes.

He thanked those attending and asked for their continued support in the final election as the Democratic nominee.

North Racks Up 9th, Quincy Upsets Brockton

North Quincy's red hot soccer team, unbeaten in seven straight games, played at Suburban League-leading Newton North Tuesday, and will host Quincy today [Thursday].

The Raiders will be at Rindge Tech Saturday at 10 a.m. and will be home to Weymouth South Tuesday as it hopes to qualify once again for the state tournament.

Bruce Cochrane's first Raider team ran its record to 9-3-1 last Friday with a 2-1 win over Waltham. In qualifying for the tournament, ties count as wins. North overcame a 1-0 deficit with third period goals by John Dolbec and Jim McGinley. Bob Reed assisted on Dolbec's goal and Dave Harrow set up that by McGinley.

Earlier in the week North had played to a scoreless tie with Brookline, in a game dominated by the goalies. Both teams had good scoring chances but were foiled by some outstanding saves.

In their previous game the Raiders had blanked Weymouth North, 2-0, on goals by Jim McGinley and Harrow. Sean Jago and Bob Stack had assists.

Quincy, under new coach Jim McGuire, has also been playing excellent soccer and last week upset Brockton, 1-0, to make its record 5-4-3.

The winning goal was scored by Pete Martin, who was set up by John Golub. Quincy goalie Mike Kennedy, who has been superb all year long, turned in one of his finest performances.

Earlier in the week the Presidents topped Cambridge Latin, 3-1, as Joe DiCesare scored twice and Peter DiCenzo once. Joe DeVello had an assist.

Quincy played Brookline Tuesday, today meets North Quincy, hosts Newton North at 10 a.m. Saturday and plays at Waltham next Tuesday. The Presidents have an outside chance of making the tournament.

● Girl's Basketball

Broad Meadows Girls Defeat Central, A-N

The Broad Meadows Junior High Girls' junior varsity basketball team won the city championship the past two years and this year the varsity appears ready to make Central work hard to win its fourth straight crown.

Boostered by most of the members of the two championship jayvee teams, Corinne Mitchell's varsity is off to a great start with a 27-8 win over Central and a 52-4 breeze over Atlantic-North.

Capt. Susan Callahan, sparked the win over Central. Maureen Maher was high scorer and Linda Brennan excelled defensively.

In the romp over A-N, Co-Capt. Laura Riley, Janet Sims and Laura Miller, all veterans, led the offense. Carol Carpenter, Patrice Bohmbach and Donna Reardon show great improvement in all areas of play since last year and newcomers Cheryl Higgins and Terri Flynn show excellent potential.

The eighth grade has its own team this year and, after being edged by Central, 21-18, came back to wallop A-N, 17-2.

Members of this squad are Ann McCarron, Kathy Petrilli, Karen Deady, Nancy Chluczinski, Marie Callahan, Robin Lotti, Ruth Ann Roche, Peggy Morrell, Brenda Fratolillo, Katie Donovan, Marie McArdle and Sandy Pellicone.

The seventh graders also are playing on their own with Kathy Glennon from Northeastern coaching. The team won its first two games, 18-6 over Central and 11-6 over A-N.

The roster includes Michele Abboud, Nancy Bullis, Gina Cascarano, Tricia Craig, Kathy Flynn, Maureen Flynn, Margaret Goldrick, Debra Hennessy, Mary Kamb, Jean Holler, Kathy Megnia, Kristin O'Gara, Kathy Riley, Karen Robertson, Laura Lee Rodgers, Pam Shields and Janet Whitman.

"We are looking forward to this season and the girls have all practiced very hard to make it successful," Ms. Mitchell said. "We have a fine example for the seventh and eighth graders in our ninth graders. Their dedication and spirit is to be admired. They have worked very hard. The seventh and eighth graders show great potential. We are pleased to have Kathy Glennon with us and she is doing a great job helping develop our talent in the seventh grade.

"I can promise two things - The season will be exciting and the girls will always give 100 percent."

Improved Presidents Take On Malden

Quincy's football team will again seek its second win Saturday in a non-league game at Malden and a heartening performance last Saturday against Newton North's unbeaten powerhouse has raised Coach Hank Conroy's hopes of getting that win.

Although defeated, 29-13, at Newton, Quincy turned in one of its top performances after its poorest effort of the season in the previous game against Waltham.

"The boys really played hard and I'm just as pleased with today's showing as I was dissatisfied with the game against Waltham," Conroy said. "We had them on the run and shut off their vaunted running game but they took advantage of a rookie secondary to score on two long passes. I had four starters out with injuries and three of them, Jim Maze, Pat Gibbons [he appeared for a few plays] and Mark Giordani play in the secondary."

Newton is known as a running team but it could gain only 66 yards on the ground as Quincy's defense was immense. Quincy dominated the first half as it led, 7-0, had nine first downs and gained 113 yards rushing.

Mark Buchanan, Wayne French and Billy Brennan ran well and assistant coach John Bogan had words of praise for the offensive line, singling out Tom Constat, Pete Cassidy, Wayne Gardner, Mike Duggan, Dave Eastwick, Rich Coose and Mike Farrell for their performances.

Defensively Conroy had praise for Coose, Ron Moore, John Barry, Dave Shields, Conine and Larry Calley.

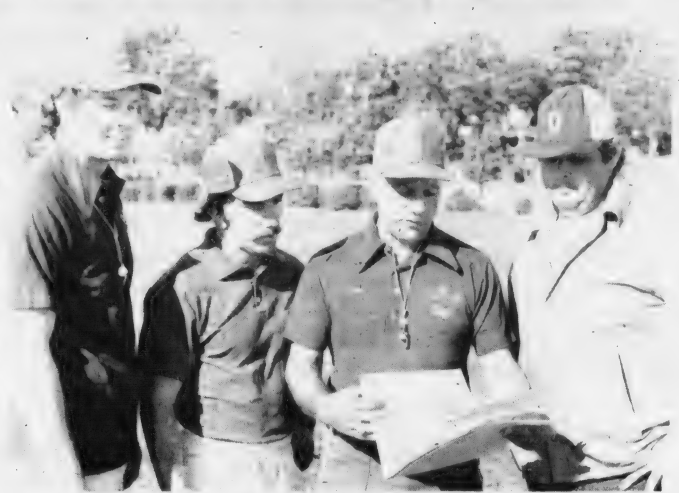

The first half was all Quincy and the Presidents drew first blood in the second period when Buchanan scored from the one and Steve Anderson kicked the point.

Three times Quincy drove deep into Newton territory but was stopped.

In the third period Newton drove to its first touchdown with Jim Acheson scoring from the one and Mario Luchetti rushing for the points which put Newton ahead, 8-7.

Quincy fumbled on the first play following the kickoff, giving Newton the ball on the 13. Three plays later Newton fumbled, the ball rolled into the end zone and Dave Brackett came out of a scramble with the ball for another touchdown.

Kevin Hinchey passed to Kevin Jones for 45 yards and another Newton score.

Quincy scored again when quarterback Dennis Walter grabbed a fumble in the air and ran it in from the six.

Quincy rushed for 119 yards, most of it in the first half, to 66 for Newton but Newton passed for 141 yards to only 36 for Quincy despite completing seven of 16. Quincy had 13 first downs to only six for Newton.

Malden, this week's opponent, has been coming on strong and was impressive last week in a 20-7 win over Revere. Malden is an old Greater Boston League foe of Quincy and is still in the GBL, while the Presidents are now in the Suburban League.

WHAT A DEFENSE — Here is a big reason why North Quincy completely bottled up Weymouth South's attack last week. Rich Kennedy [31] and Mike Nolan [24] bring runner down while Kevin Doyle [28] also helps.

HAPPY RAIDER — John Wilkinson, who got his chance to play when Mike Adams was injured on his first carry, exults after scoring the second North Quincy touchdown in last week's 16-0 win over Weymouth South. The junior ran 41 yards for the score.

Raiders Face Big Test By Newton North

By TOM SULLIVAN

If North Quincy's unbeaten football team [4-0] hopes to keep alive its chances of making a second trip to the Super Bowl, it must pass its big test of the season Saturday when it hosts Newton North's unbeaten powerhouse [5-0] in the game of the week in the Suburban League.

Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Dave Burke's Raiders, who won the Division I title a year ago, were rated second a week ago and kept their slate clean last Saturday with a hard-fought 16-0 win over Weymouth South, a tough defensive team.

Meanwhile, Newton North continued to roll along with a come-from-behind 29-13 win over Quincy. Earlier Newton had defeated Framingham North, 20-0; Medford, 20-0; Brockton, 35-6 and Weymouth North, 31-6.

"This is a truly fine Newton North team and we will have to be at our very best to beat them," Burke said. "We have seen them and know what is in store for us. Hopefully, we will be at top strength and it should be a great game."

North lost ace runner Mike Adams with a sprained ankle on his first carry last week but he is expected back for Newton.

Thanks to Adams' injury, the Raiders came up with a new star against Weymouth South. Junior John Wilkinson took over and had a super day. He gained 102 yards in 11 carries, including a 41-yard touchdown run late in the game, and also caught a pass for 10 yards.

"We knew John could do it," assistant coach Tom Fitzgerald said. "We have several fine junior ball carriers we have been grooming in case one of the starters was hurt. Greg Zoia and Colin McEachern are others. It paid off for us today as John was outstanding."

George Wallace and Bill McIntyre also ran well again and Brian Donaghey and Dennis Doherty did another fine job at quarterback.

North's defense was again superb as the Raiders won their third straight shutout and the first defense continued to be unscored upon.

Ken McPhee, who shares the defensive coaching chores with Jack Raymer and who has to be one of the most exuberant coaches around, was extremely high on the defense once again.

He had special praise for Steve Bonoli, Mark Wentzell, Paul Corliss, Mark Nagle, John Ryan and the outstanding secondary of Steve McElaney, Rich Kennedy, who returned after missing two games; Kevin Doyle, Art Bertoni, Frank McGinnis and Mike Nolan.

North held Weymouth to just 56 yards overall, not permitting a pass completion in six attempts. Kennedy had one interception and Wentzell knocked down a pass soon after it left the passer's hands. He also recovered a Weymouth fumble.

Standouts in the offensive line were Tom Nee, who has played well at center all season, Keith Lindberg, Dan Butts, Harry Knudsen and Jim Frye.

North, which dominated the game but found Weymouth's defense tough as usual [South had upset Brookline the previous week after three losses in a row], drove 68 yards after the opening kickoff, clicking off five first downs, and Donaghey scored on a sneak from the one. The stiff wind carried McElaney's kick for the extra point wide.

Weymouth could do nothing with North's defense and the Raiders staged another drive from their 38 with five more first downs. They were stalled by a penalty and, on fourth and 10, McElaney kicked his second field goal of the year, a 35-yarder. This came midway in the second period.

Late in the game Weymouth gambled on fourth down and failed giving North the ball on its own 45. Six plays later Wilkinson broke through the left side and romped 41 yards for a touchdown and McElaney kicked the point.

Kennedy intercepted a pass on Weymouth's 16 with time running out and Doherty's pass to Wilkinson brought the Raiders to the six but the clock ran out.

North gained 207 yards on the ground and 64 through the air on five for six [Donaghey was three for four and Doherty two for two.] North ground out 17 first downs to five for Weymouth.

Homecoming Tourney

ENC Volleyball Winner, Bows In Varsity Soccer

The Eastern Nazarene College Homecoming festivities last weekend got off to a good start as the ENC women's volleyball team defeated King's.

Eastern easily disposed of King's in first round play, 2-0, taking the games, 15-5 and 15-4. Leading the Crusaderettes was Quincy's Donna Fandel and Donna Brickley, who were consistent in overall play.

ENC met a strong Barrington team next, and taking the first game 15-6, ran into trouble in the second game, losing, 15-8. ENC came back in the third for a 15-9 win, to take the match, 2-1. Excellent spiking from Gen Beck [Madison, Wis.] and Fandel pulled out the win.

In its third and final match of the day, ENC easily defeated Gordon in two straight games, 15-5 and 15-0. Quincy's Jean Macchi and Cindy Tozzi performed exceptionally throughout the matches.

In her fifth year as varsity volleyball coach at Eastern Nazarene, Nancy Detwiler is pleased with this season's 9-2 record thus far.

"The girls are performing very well," she said. "They've developed a steady style of play that I strive for each season. Our girls keep their cool when the pressure is on and that's important to win games." ENC's only losses this year have been to Boston University and tough MIT.

In varsity soccer the Crusaders met Barrington College, which was on the scoreboard at 6:45 of the first period when Ron Murphy assisted in Tim McConville's 18-yard shot to the far corner. At mid-point of the first period Barrington's Paul Edinger took advantage of a screen, and put the ball past Eastern's goalie, Dave Wilfong.

Late in the period, ENC scored when Glenn Karker rifled a shot into the upper right hand.

corner of the goal. Less than a minute later, North Quincy's Walter Melton fed Garth Davis who dribbled one by the goalie.

Barrington took control of the second half and dominated on a defensive error as ENC's Don Reed was attempting to clear the ball in front of the goal. McConville tipped the loose ball past a diving Wilfong, providing the game winning goal.

Barrington controlled play with 25 shots to Eastern's 9. ENC's next home game is Saturday when it hosts Nasson College at 2 p.m. ENC's record is now 2-3-1.

At the halftime of the Barrington-ENC soccer game, the cross-country teams of Assumption, Stonehill, Barrington and Eastern Nazarene crossed the finish line at Bradley Field to end their 5-mile competition. Eastern's Tim Woodbridge of Rochester, N.Y. placed fourth with John Stanley of Braintree eighth, and Cohasset's Steve Smith 11th. Assumption took first in the meet with a total point score of 33 followed by Stonehill with 47. Eastern placed ahead of Barrington 54 points to 99. ENC's next competition is Saturday when it participates in Boston's NCAA District 1 meet.

Rounding out the day's athletics was an old-timers game, pitting the alumni against this year's Crusader prospects. The Crusaders led throughout the game until the "old men" applied pressure with five minutes to go. Veterans Steve Shoff, Rick Reyenger, Ron Bradley and Don Constantine, all former Quincy or North Quincy athletes, and 1975 graduate Howie Briggs played like old times as they fought off a 14-point deficit to tie the game at 64.

With just seconds remaining, the "old men" pushed the score to 86-84 which they held till the buzzer, giving them the upset victory.

Track Club In Improved Performances

Everything came up roses for the Quincy Track Club last Saturday as, for the first time in three weeks, it didn't rain and many of the club's cross country runners turned in vastly improved performances in the club's weekly meet at Pageant Field.

Improving the most were Danny Johnson, who took 1:14 off his last time; Liz Wiot, Denise McCall, Sheila Connolly and Denise Santo.

Eight-year-old Mary Ann Kelleher turned in a tremendous performance as she finished sixth in the 11 and under class, running an outstanding 10:07, about 7:30 per mile. Mary Ann had sparkled the previous week in the Falmouth Invitational meet.

The girls' team will compete in the Seacoast Invitational at Phillips Exeter Academy in New Hampshire on Sunday, Oct. 24.

The QTC is planning its first annual Quincy City Cross Country championship on Oct. 30 at 10 a.m. at Pageant Field. Trophies will be presented to the outstanding athlete in each age group.

Michelle Millane, Art Douglas and Mark Fishman had slight injuries and didn't run last week as Coach Jeff Hennessy held them out as they will be running in New York City Nov. 7.

Last Saturday's summary:

● Swimming

North Girls Tie Newton S., Quincy Bows

The Quincy and North Quincy girls' swimming teams, lacking competitive experience, are still having rough sledding but are improving all the time and last week they made excellent showings as they tuned up for their meet yesterday [Wednesday].

Bill Walker's North girls tied Newton South, 85-85, paced by Linda Walker's wins in the 200-meter freestyle and 500-meter freestyle and Jeanine Rich's wins in the 100 butterfly and 100 breaststroke.

Maureen Santry placed second in the 50 freestyle and 100 backstroke and Eileen Feeney was second in the 100 backstroke.

The team of Feeney, Mary Tenney, Donna Walsh and Jill Sweeney took second in the 200 medley relay and the team of Lee Guillea, Lorraine Currey, Walker and Santry won the 400 freestyle relay. In the same event the team of Tenney, Paula Stohberg, Betsy Johnson and Sweeney placed third.

Quincy Coach Elaine Murphy received some fine individual performances as the First Ladies bowed to Weymouth North, a Suburban League power, 97-63.

Sheila Burke was again Quincy's standout performer as she won the 100 freestyle and 50 freestyle and anchored the winning 400 freestyle relay team.

Susan Murphy won the diving competition, setting a team record of 130.85 points. Jane Morrison won the 200 freestyle. Cory Morrison placed second in the 500 freestyle, Val Morrison was third in the 100 butterfly, Laurie Burke was second, Sue Tautvaigas third and Margaret Doran fourth in the 100 breaststroke. Laurie Davis fourth in the 100 backstroke and Sue Murphy, Janie Milne and Jan Morrison joined Burke on the winning 400 freestyle relay team.

Sue Murphy took third in the 200 individual medley and Laurie Davis, Susan Tautvaigas, Valerie Morrison and Laurie

Burke took third in the 200 medley relay. Quincy will swim at Weymouth South Friday at 8 p.m. and North will be at Newton Saturday at 10 a.m.

● Cross Country

North Defeats Weymouth S., Quincy Loses To Waltham

The North Quincy cross country team, which all but clinched second place in the Suburban League for the second year in a row last week, faced Weymouth North last Tuesday and will run at Waltham next Tuesday.

On Saturday, Oct. 30, the Squirt A's, Hingham Tie

Quincy's Squirt A hockey team played to a 3-3 tie with Hingham.

Chris Hurley had two goals and Mark Chambers one, while Chambers, Danny Kelly, Tim Barry and John DePietro had assists.

Peter Quinn, Steve White, Billy Hughes, DePietro, John O'Connor and Dennis Cronin played well on defense.

Pee Wee A's Bow

Quincy Elks Pee Wee A hockey team dropped a 4-2 decision to Hingham.

Kevin White and Tommy Murphy scored for Quincy, with assists for Paul McCabe and Kevin Craig.

Raiders will take part in the State Coaches Meet.

Lou Tozzi's North runners, beaten only by undefeated Brockton, got by its big test last week in topping Weymouth South, 23-34, to run their record to 6-1.

Weymouth's George Rose continued unbeaten as he won the meet in record time, but North took the next four places with Bob Levenson second, Mike Morin third, Mike Barrett fourth and Marty Levenson fifth. Andy Laskowski was ninth and Mat Breslin 10th.

The North girls remained winless as they lost, 15-48. The Raiderettes' first finisher was Sue Yee in seventh place. Debbie Coutts was eighth and Michelle Seltzer 10th.

Joe Catalano's Quincy harriers lost to Waltham, 19-41, to drop their mark to 1-5.

John Saville was Quincy's first finisher in fourth place. Don Jones was fifth and Rick Walkama ninth.

The Quincy girls lost to Waltham, 24-33, dropping their record to 2-4, but the First Ladies' Paula Constas won the meet in the record time of 13:16. Ellen Caraminca was fifth, Dotty Irvine seventh and Mary Ilacqua eighth.

Help Through Hypnosis

C.A.L.M. Opens Adams St. Office

"The days of vaudeville are behind us," says Rudolph R. Bustos.

Bustos is a hypnotist who recently opened an office of C.A.L.M., Inc., at 24 Adams St., Quincy, to help people achieve such personal goals as quitting cigarettes, losing weight, relieving tensions through the modern science of hypnosis.

"Hypnosis is probably one of the most misunderstood sciences," says Bustos, who is coordinating director of C.A.L.M., which also has an office in Stoneham.

"Many people are harboring misconceptions about the science of hypnosis. We used to think of hypnosis as being a magical form of entertainment where a bearded man waved a crystal ball in front of a sleepy person and the 'hypnotized' person did silly stunts for the audience's amusement.

"But the days of vaudeville are behind us. Since its acceptance as a beneficial technique by the American Medical Association in 1958, hypnosis has been helping many people in many ways.

"In professional hands it is successfully used to eliminate smoking, control food habits, mobilize the powers of concentration, facilitate psychotherapy and relieve a variety of fears.

"An increasing number of doctors and dentists are using hypnosis to control pain. Some obstetricians use it as an effective aid in childbirth.

"In fact, hypnosis may be quite the opposite of what you perceive it to be. You experience some form of hypnosis every day of your life. It is a natural part of living."

The services of C.A.L.M. are by appointment only.

Hancock Group

"It's kicking a dead horse now but part of the idea of building a new North Quincy High School was to enable us to close Central Junior High School and the Massachusetts Fields School."

In addition to losing students, the teaching staff at Quincy schools is down, too.

"We have a total of 20 less classroom teachers than last year," says Dr. Creedon. "And we have eliminated two positions on the administrative staff, a savings of $32,000."

In all, the Quincy school system has 1,500 full time employees and 22,000 students, including those attending Quincy Junior College and those taking part in the Adult Continuing Education Program.

Here are the enrollments in the various schools in the Quincy system, as of Oct. 1, 1976:

Harold Urges Dukakis To Sign 19-year Drinking Age Bill

Councillor Paul D. Harold has sent a telegram to Gov. Michael Dukakis urging him to sign a recently enacted bill which would raise the drinking age in Massachusetts from 18 to 19.

Harold said he supports the change because he has witnessed the "devastating increase in vandalism in recent years to the city's parks, school yards, beaches and even cemeteries. Much of this increased vandalism is directly related to the lower drinking age since the 18-year-old-law allows 17 and 16-year olds easy access to alcohol.

"Raising the law to 19 will not solve all our problems of this type, but I believe it would be a step in the right direction and would certainly reduce the abuse of our city facilities by gangs of drinking youth," Harold said.

A pocket veto of the bill by the governor would effectively kill it since the legislature is not in session to over-ride a veto.

NQHS Contract

The City Council Monday night took a quick peek at Kent Corp.'s $310,000 contract to manage construction at North Quincy High School and then recessed for a deeper look last night [Wednesday].

Officials from Gilbane and Turner Construction Cos., two firms that lost out on the contract, also were invited to appear by Councillor Leo J. Kelly, chairman of the Public Works Committee.

Public Works Commissioner Vincent LoCicero promised that the addition and renovation to North Quincy High School would be accomplished well within the $13.5 million bond issue.

'Memorandum Of Understanding'

Kent Corp. Agrees To Ceiling Cost On NQHS Contract

Kent Corp. President George Cuker has signed a "memorandum of understanding" specifying the amount of money Kent Corp. is to receive from the city of Quincy under its controversial contract to manage construction work at North Quincy High School.

The contract, valued at $310,000 in fixed fees, has been under fire from the City Council over an apparent open-ended article under which the city is to reimburse Kent Corp. for a series of additional expenses.

It had been deduced, following testimony given to the City Council last week by Kent Senior Vice President Sheldon Bennett, that the city was in a position to be charged twice for $170,000 in reimbursable expenses under the contract.

The memorandum, worked out between Cuker and City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams Monday and signed by Cuker Tuesday, specified that the city will not be billed for the same employees under both the fixed fee and reimbursable articles.

The memorandum said: "This 'memorandum of understanding is being executed to clarify any misunderstanding that might exist in the terms of an agreement entered into between the city of Quincy and Kent Corp. on July 2, 1976."

"Under the terms of the contract, city is to pay Kent a fee of $140,000 as outlined in Article 7, Sections 7.1.1 for the performance of services as Project Management, more specifically outlines in Article 2 of the contract.

"In addition, City is to pay

Kent a fee of up to $170,000 for a fulltime staff at the project site for the performance of services during the Construction Phase more specifically outlined in Article 2, Sections 2.1.7.1 of the contract.

"City further agrees to reimburse Kent under Article 9 for expenses enumerated therein. Kent acknowledges that Section 9.2.2 is to be read as an entire statement. Employees of Kent would only be paid under 9.2.2 if they were specifically enumerated, no employees being listed under Section 9.2.2, Kent will not bill City for any employees salaries under this section."

"The City Council's confusion, said City Solicitor Williams, was in Section 9.2.2 of the article listing reimbursables which

A chance to vote for a President and a controversial set of referenda is expected to draw a turnout of slightly less than 80 per cent of the registered vote in Quincy for the general election next Tuesday (Nov. 2).

"If there were more local contests then the vote would be higher," said City Clerk John Gillis, noting that the last presidential election in 1972 attracted 83 per cent of the registered vote.

The total number of registered Quincy voters is 52,380, an increase of 3,614 voters since the September primary. The figure includes 31,046 Democrats, 13,420 Independents, 7,844 Republicans and 70 American Party members.

The heaviest vote is expected in the Third Norfolk District, which includes Ward 6 and part of Ward 5 in North Quincy, where there will be three names on the ballot and a fourth candidate, the incumbent Rep. Joseph E. Brett, running on stickers.

Michael W. Morrissey is the Democratic nominee after having upset Brett, a veteran of nine terms in the post, in the September primary. Jens E. Thornton is the Republican candidate and Alley E. McInnis Jr. is running as an Independent.

Brett's name does not appear on the ballot but his workers

Legal Action Planned Against Dump Violations

City Councillor James A. Sheets reports the City Solicitor's office is taking steps toward legal action against those companies who have allegedly violated city law by bringing garbage to the Quincy city dump from outside areas.

Sheets also said the Council's Disposal Committee will begin hearings into the dumping violations in two or three weeks.

He said he is currently in the process of determining the scope and magnitude of the hearings, adding that he may invoke a state law giving the Council and its committees the power to summons witnesses.

Sheets also said he is trying to set up a date to meet with the citizen's disposal committee, which was established last year, sometime in November.

Tobin Proposes MBTA

Extension Tracks Be Depressed

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin (D-Quincy) has proposed that the tracks of the Red Line extension south of Quincy Center station be depressed below street level for 150 feet between Granite St. and the School St. bridge.

Tobin said he plans to confer with Quincy business leaders tomorrow (Friday) about the plan which, he said, has been looked upon with approval by William Moore, the architect for the project.

"Depressing the tracks and the Upland Rd. extension," said Tobin, "will link the Ross Parking Area with the parking area around Turnstyle and Grossmans, thus uniting the east and west side of the tracks for the first time."

"This would open up the area to development by generations to come."

Furnace Brook 6th Graders See Presidential Race 'Tossup'

By CATHY CONLEY

Watch out ABC, CBS and NBC. FBS Election Central is predicting the outcome of the '76 Presidential Elections. And so far they're right on target.

FBS Election Central is headquartered in John Lavery's sixth grade at Furnace Brook School and is featured in this week's "Young Ideas" four-page pullout starting on Page 19.

As of today (Thursday), the children's prediction for the electoral vote is: 223 for Carter, 104 for Ford and 211 votes "a toss-up".

The children feel that the election is a close one because these 211 undecided votes could go either way.

In a poll of the 21 students in the classroom, there were 12 votes for Ford, 7 for Carter and 2 undecided.

This issue of "Young Ideas" is sponsored by SGM Advertising Agency, Hancock St., Quincy Center. It focuses on Mr. Lavery's sixth grade's coverage of the election. On one wall of the classroom there is a huge map of the U.S. on which the children have predicted who will win each state. A blue dot gives the state to Ford. A green dot means Carter will win. A yellow dot indicates a toss up. A few weeks ago, the children awarded 11 states to candidates. The next day, Newsweek came up with the exact same predictions!

For the "Young Ideas" issue, the children put on mock debates and told us who they think will win and why. They have written letters to the president whoever he is, telling him what they hope will happen in the next four years.

As a special feature, Betty Georgaklis, Vice President/Administration and Assistant Treasurer of SGM Agency visited the classroom and talked about the advertising business with the children. Then the class wrote ads about the upcoming election zeroing in on the thing that bothers them the most - voter apathy.

"Young Ideas" features 11-year-old Shelly Romberg's ad.

"I can't believe how much these children know about the candidates, the issues and the workings of a political campaign," Miss Georgaklis said after leaving the classroom.

Referendum Issues Topic For Chamber Breakfast

A breakfast meeting dealing with two referendum issues on the Nov. 2 ballot - flat rate electric charges and public ownership of electric utilities - was scheduled for today [Thursday] by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

Some 200 Chamber members and guests were expected to attend the 7:44 a.m. meeting at the Weymans Restaurant, Weymouth.

Leon Charkoudian, executive director of the Council for Employment and Economic Energy Use, was to discuss the economic impact that would result if voters endorse the flat rate proposal.

James M. Lydon, vice president of Boston Edison, was to explore in detail the question of public take-over of the state's electric utilities and present reasons why he believes that the proposition should be rejected by Massachusetts voters.

'Flat Rate' Would Have Serious Negative Effect, Says Baharian

"Unless it is soundly defeated, Referendum No. 7 would have a serious negative effect on people living in the Quincy area and on Massachusetts as a whole," according to Rev. Bedros Baharian, President of Quincy Point Congregational Homes, Inc., and chairman of the Quincy Planning Board.

Speaking on behalf of the Council for Employment and Economic Energy Use, Rev. Baharian discussed the local impact of the so-called "flat rate" electricity recently at a public forum on the November referendum held at 1000 Southern Artery in Quincy.

"If voters gamble on Referendum No. 7, said Rev. Baharian, "master-metered housing projects in Quincy, Weymouth, Randolph and Holbrook would have to pay over $120 more per unit for electricity in the coming year." He noted that the 64-unit elderly housing project at 1000 Southern Artery itself would be forced to pay electric utility companies over $36 more per unit per year if Referendum No. 7 is passed.

"Referendum No. 7 would also force hospitals in the Quincy area to pay an averaged 41 percent more in electricity costs, schools would pay 30 percent more, manufacturers would see a 38 percent increase and supermarkets would pay 26 percent more. Also, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts would be forced to pay some $2,785,989 more per year in electricity costs."

"The ultimate loser would be the consumer who would have to pay for the passed-along increased costs or higher taxes resulting from "flat rate"; or the employee who would have to find another job if his company is forced to cutback, shut down or move out of the state."

The Council For Employment And Economic Energy Use is a coalition of labor, industry, hospitals, commerce, schools, cities and towns and citizens from all sectors of Massachusetts to defeat Question No. 7 in November. Council Executive Director, Leon Charkoudian, said "with an ill-conceived gamble like "flat rate" electricity, everyone loses."

Charkoudian said "careful study shows that 'flat rate' would: Eliminate 35,000 jobs in Massachusetts (independent research); cause price hikes for consumer goods and services; force businesses competing outside Massachusetts to cutback employees, shut down or move out of state; stifle the most efficient conservation efforts; and ultimately raise taxes."

The measure has been opposed by both labor and industry; the Governor, the Legislature and municipal officials; consumer groups; Chambers of Commerce; and many others.

Cerasoli Suggests MDC Park At Ashmont Discount Property

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli asked the MDC to consider the feasibility of acquiring the Ashmont Discount property on Southern Artery in Quincy Point.

"The property is for sale and there has been much controversy in Quincy Point regarding the use of this property for business purposes," Cerasoli said.

He made his request in response to an Oct. 21 public hearing at which residents and public officials were asked to suggest and recommend improvements and extensions to the MDC parks and recreation programs.

"I would like to see this property used as a small park and for the construction of six outdoor basketball courts with lighting for the children of the area," Cerasoli said. "The property is split-zoned with half being in a business B district and the other half being in a residential B district. The property is near the Thomas B. Pollard Elementary School [Grades K-6] and the St. Joseph's Parochial School [Grades K-9]. Many children traverse this area to and from school and most of the residents of the area would not like to see this land go to business purposes because of the traffic congestion that would result."

President Real Estate

LET THERE BE LIGHT

Your telephone rings. It is your REALTOR saying that he is coming right over with a prospect. You hang up the phone. What's the next thing you do? Turn on every light in the house. Why?

Because you want to give the prospect the best image you can of the comfort, beauty and livability you are offering. In other words, you want to sell a home not a house. And full illumination is the best way to give your home that "lived-in" look. Furniture and rug and fixtures take on a warm glow from the proper lighting. Here are a few "bright" ideas:

Turn on every lamp in the living room, bedrooms and family room. Be careful about turning on the overhead lights in these rooms for it could be harsh and make the room look unwelcoming. Turn on every light in a storage room or closet. Go all out in illuminating the kitchen - the cheerier the better. Brighten up the bathroom too - but carefully choose the right wattage for bulbs by the mirror, pick the most flattering one. Remember, it's just as important to have lights on in the afternoon as it is for a nighttime showing.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-4345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

'Debates Helpful To Both'

Kennedy Sees Ford, Carter Close

By TOM HENSHAW

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) sees a close national election between President Gerald Ford and his challenger Jimmy Carter.

The decision of the voters next Tuesday may well depend upon their reaction to the third Ford-Carter debate last Friday night, said Kennedy during a visit to The Quincy Sun last week.

"I think the debates have been helpful to both candidates," he said.

"Clearly, the awareness and understanding of foreign policy issues that was reflected by Mr. Carter was very reassuring to people who questioned whether he could really deal with foreign policy."

"Mr. Ford appeared much stronger in terms of competency and awareness than he was generally portrayed. So I think it helped them both."

Kennedy said he thinks the Ford-Carter debates differ from the Kennedy-Nixon debates of 1960 in that they grew in importance as they went along.

"From what I've read, the closing of the gap between Ford and Carter was accelerated by the first debate," he said. "Then it began to widen again in the second."

"There is a general feeling that it was beginning to close a little bit. The third debate was important in terms of whether it's going to continue to close."

"In 1960, the most important debate was the first one and then the interest dwindled off."

Kennedy has been having problems of his own in his race for reelection against Republican Michael S. Robertson of Berkley. His views on busing have proven to be unpopular with a large segment of his Boston constituency.

City To Receive

$5-8 Million

In U.S. Funds

Quincy will receive $5,864,712 in federal funds over the next four years under the recently enacted Revenue Sharing Extension Act, it was announced by Congressman James A. Burke (D-Milton).

Burke noted, however, that the amount is based on information currently available from the city and will be revised quarterly.

According to Burke, Quincy will receive $1,145,385 from January through September, 1977, and $1,573,109 a year in 1978, 1979 and 1980.

"In the Senate," he said, "we're voting about 500 times a year on issue after issue and people are going to have strong views on these issues. I understand and respect their feelings."

"I wish that everyone could agree with me on all the issues but that is obviously unrealistic. I don't think I was elected to come back here every six years and win a popularity contest."

"I was elected to try to exercise a balanced and informed judgment on all the issues. People are going to agree and differ but I want to be judged on the total performance, not on a particular issue."

Kennedy's visit to The Sun came on a day of campaigning on the South Shore during which he appeared at Kemper Insurance Co. in North Quincy and the Senior Citizens Apartments at 1000 Southern Artery.

'Rape Culture' Film At Main Library Nov. 3

"Rape Culture" a 35-minute color film about the causes of rape and emotional aspects of rape will be shown Wednesday, Nov. 3, at 7:30 p.m. at the Thomas Crane main library.

This is the second in a series of four films sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

The program includes a representative from the Boston Rape Crisis Center discussing rape fantasies and the ways in which women often react to being victims. Mary Daly and others present their views along with the statistics.

In order to examine why this crime occurs, an organization of incarcerated rapists, Prisoners Against Rape, are shown attempting to help themselves understand their actions.

The role of cultural emphasis on sex and violence is also discussed. Scenes from movies show the influence the media has on sex-role conditioning.

The public is invited to attend.

'Will Not Affect Federal Laws'

ERA Would Prohibit Discrimination, Spokesman Says At Quincy Meetings

Janice D'Avignon on the Committee to Ratify the ERA, stressed the need to pass the State Equal Rights Amendments at a recent meeting at the home of Christine Help of Quincy.

She said the ERA will strengthen fair credit laws and prohibit discrimination in obtaining charge accounts and loans. It will also protect or strengthen laws against discrimination in employment so that people will be hired, paid, and promoted on the basis of individual merit, she said.

"There is a lot of confusion about the state ERA," Mrs. D'Avignon declared.

"First this is a state amendment affecting only State law. It will not affect social security, the draft, or abortion which are all federal issues. Federal laws will continue to apply to matters regulated by the federal government and the State ERA will not change this."

The State Equal Rights Amendment is Question 1 on the Nov. 2 ballot.

Mrs. D'Avignon also discussed the ERA at a coffee hour at the home of Toby Felton of Quincy.

"We do know what will happen when the amendment passes by looking at what has happened in the 16 states that already have ERA provisions, including our neighboring states of Connecticut and New Hampshire," she said.

"In none of these states have husbands stopped supporting their families. Nor have homosexual marriages been legalized."

What has happened, she said, is that women can no longer be discriminated against with the passage of the ERA. In Pennsylvania the Attorney General ruled girls cannot be prevented from working as newspaper carriers. In Maryland, the State ERA insures that health insurance benefits for maternity leave are now covered to the same extent as for other illnesses.

"Homemakers do not have to be afraid that the ERA will destroy the home," she said. "It will not." Actually, homemakers will benefit from the passage of the ERA. Currently a homemaker does not own the family property because she doesn't 'earn money'. With the passage of the ERA the role of homemaker will be recognized as a valuable contribution to society and her right to own family property will be recognized."

Ms. D'Avignon urged everyone to vote Yes on Question No. 1 on the Nov. 2 ballot.

PREVENT KITCHEN FIRES

For most people, there's no finer investment than a home. But a fire can—in a matter of seconds—turn that dreamhouse into a nightmare. And neither homeowners insurance nor life insurance can compensate for the loss of a home, or certainly, the people who live in it.

More fires start in the kitchen than in any other part of the house. Most of them, however, are food fires—a problem not related to construction of the building. But if there is a window above the stove, don't plan to hang curtains there when and if you become the owner. If you have small children, you will want to be sure that burner controls on built-in ranges are not within reach of inquisitive fingers. Many kitchen ceiling fixtures are unventilated and overlamped, producing heat that bakes insulation on wiring to a crisp. After moving in, such wiring should be replaced and lower-wattage bulbs installed.

Koch Club Seeking Women, Girls For Dress-A-Doll Project

The Koch Club is seeking women and girls for its Dress-A-Doll project to assist in cleaning, dressing and grooming dolls to be given to children at Christmas. A number of dolls already have been collected.

The Dress-A-Doll Program was initiated during the Christmas season of 1974. Previously, dolls had been presented as they were received from the donors. However, although in good condition, some needed new clothes and cleaning and a volunteer group of women and girls for the past two years have provided this service.

Women or girls interested in working in this phase of the Koch Club Christmas For Needy Children Project may contact Mrs. Simone Koch, 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, chairperson of the Quincy area or Mrs. Ginny Derringer of 4 Edward Cody Lane, South Weymouth, coordinator of the South Shore Area.

Students of the Woodward School for Girls have assisted in packaging the dolls in Christmas wrapping for the past two years as a community project.

Persons wishing to donate other toys, games, dolls, bicycles, tricycles or books are invited to do so.

Started in Christmas, 1971, with 200 gifts for children whose homes were destroyed in a fire during the Christmas season, the Koch Club has continued the program each year with the assistance of residents of Quincy and neighboring towns who have donated thousands of good usable toys.

Children of the Koch Club Bowling and Basketball Leagues, Massachusetts Fields School, and South Shore Juniors Ten Pin Bowling League will be joined this year by boys and girls of the Parker School in the collection of toys.

Toys collected are channeled through churches and various other agencies in Quincy, and the Greater Boston Area. Last year, the Indian Council of Boston was provided with 100 gifts at their Childrens' Christmas Party.

YMCA Leaders Club

Plans Halloween Party

The Quincy YMCA Leaders Club, under the direction of Jackie Whitcomb and Sue Kinney, will hold a Halloween party for "Y" youngsters Saturday, Oct. 30 from 1:30 to 3 p.m. in the Y Auditorium.

A minimal fee will be charged to help send leaders to Wilbraham Leaders School in the spring. There will be costume prizes awarded, games, refreshments and prizes. Serving on the committee are the following leaders:

Donna Reade, Patti Walsh, Lynn Colletti, Cathy Maguire, Patty Long, Kristen Pratt, Margaret Sheehan, Joe McKenna, William Harris, Jeffery Moy, Edward O'Gara, Paul Ouellette, Larry Ouellette, Ed Melanson, Marjorie Donlan, Donna Lydon, Donna Kavanaugh, Marie Gallagher, Carol Gallagher and Lisa Salvaggio.

'Treats Not Treatments'

Do's And Don'ts For A Safe Halloween

"Children at Halloween are looking for treats, not treatments," warns Police Chief Francis X. Finn as the costumed little rascals prepare to hit the neighborhood streets at Trick-or-Treat time.

"Halloween is the children's night out. Unfortunately, every year children suffer from auto accidents, fire injury, cuts, bruises and other unnecessary mishaps."

With this in mind, Chief Finn, along with Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon have issued the following list of safety hints for children:

- Do not go trick-or-treating alone; go in groups for safety.
- After dark wear light colored clothing or reflective tape.
- Use a good flashlight and do not use matches or candles in pumpkins, it can cause fire or injury.
- Do not go into houses - if there is to be a "treat" let the treat be received outside.

- Do not get into cars of strangers who say they will drive you home.
- Know where you are at all times; stay in your own neighborhood.
- Be careful crossing streets; do not cross in front of or in back of parked cars.
- Watch out for dogs which might become overly excited around strange costumed individuals.
- Do not take any "treat" which is unwrapped or looks suspicious.
- Do not eat any "treats" until you are home so parents can check it.
- If you get a "treat" which seems suspicious, remember where you got it and have your parents notify police.

- Do not do any destructive trick-or-treating.
- Be polite and say the magic words, "Thank you".
- Have fun but remember, we need your help to make it a safe Halloween.

And for parents and other adults:

- Very young children should be accompanied by a parent; it is suggested that they not wear masks but rather use mother's makeup, the better to see.
- When giving out treats lock your rear door.
- Turn on your porch lights if you are "treating".
- Put your car in your driveway and off the street.
- Report street lights that are out on your street to the Mass Electric Company.
- Keep your stairs or stairways well lit.
- Keep any pets in the house or fenced in yard.
- If you see anything unusual in your neighborhood call the Police 479-1212 immediately. If a serious emergency exists call police at 911.

OUR REGULARS COME IN ALL SHAPES AND SIZES.

There's one thing our Regular Savings account customers have in common... common sense.

Because it's a shrewd move to open not only the most convenient of all banking accounts, but also one that pays a healthy interest on your money.

A Regular Savings account at Quincy Cooperative pays 5-1/4% interest. That's the highest rate allowable by law. The effective annual rate climbs to 5.47%. And your interest is compounded daily from day of deposit to day of withdrawal. Your money, of course, is insured in full. No wonder everyone from the milkman to the meter maid, the doctor to the dog catcher, has a convenient Regular Savings account with us. Why not join the regulars and watch your money grow? It's the very idea Josiah Quincy, Jr., the man we named the bank for, had in mind when he founded cooperative banking in this state. A Regular Savings Account. It's of interest to everyone.

And we know for certain...

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

Young Joe Kennedy

A Local Threat?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

As the 11th Congressional District race comes down the homestretch, an interesting rumor is making the Washington rounds.

And, if there is any truth to it, it should jar-to put it mildly-local political figures who have seriously considered or even flitted with the thought of one-day being the successor to James A. Burke in Congress.

There is local speculation that this year's run for a 10th term could be Burke's "last hurrah".

Of course, if Danielle deBenedictis should upset him Nov. 2, it will mean Burke's exit.

He is expected to win. But some observers think he may step down after this next term and take life easy.

But that may be wishful thinking on their part. Someone once said that it would take dynamite to get Burke out of the 11th Congressional seat. He might just run again-and again.

But getting back to that Washington rumor. Word in the big political town is that Senator Edward Kennedy is looking around for a "safe" Congressional seat on which to launch the political career of Joseph Kennedy, III, 24-year-old son of the late Robert Kennedy.

If Burke is out of the picture two years from now, young Kennedy could be a candidate here.

And that would give a number of prospective candidates something to think about. People like former Quincy Mayor-Senator James McIntyre, Senator Joseph Timilty of Boston, Dist. Atty. William Delahunt, former Dist. Atty. George Burke, Senator Joseph Walsh of Dorchester, Rep. John Finnegan of Dorchester, etc.

Kennedy is still a tough name to beat in Massachusetts. They know.

SPEAKING OF Ted Kennedy, during a visit to The Quincy Sun office last week, he was asked the inevitable question: Will Ted Kennedy be a Presidential candidate four or eight years from now?

He tilted his head back, laughed loudly, and replied: "We'll see." Well, he didn't say no.

DON'T KNOW ABOUT YOU, but I still haven't made up my mind about who to vote for next week. I just really don't feel that strong about either Ford or Carter.

I've never forgiven Ford for the quickie pardon of Nixon. And I've never forgiven myself for voting for Nixon in '72 (the only time I ever did) after convincing myself then that "at least I know where Nixon stands."

And if anything should happen to Ford if he is elected, I just can't see Dole as a president. The last thing we need in the White House is a political comedian, and a bad one at that.

As for Carter, in my own mind, I just haven't been able to pin him down on issues. He's not getting through to me.

Don't know. Maybe I'll toss a coin in the voting booth. Or just pass it up this year.

A FEW COLUMNS back it was noted here that City Councillor and Mrs. John Quinn both walked down the aisle with their daughter, Andrea, when she was married to Charles Santor at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston. We called it "a break from tradition that could become a new fad."

Well, it may become a fad but it apparently was not the first break from tradition. Mrs. Gerald Feeley of 213 Beach St., Wollaston, so informs us.

Her daughter, Jean, was wed a year and a half ago to Charles Murphy at St. Ann's. Jean not only was escorted down the aisle by both her father and mother, but the groom walked down the aisle first with his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Murphy of Norwell.

"This was my daughter's wish as she believed both sets of parents were equally responsible and involved in a good part of their lives and should now be a part of this important day," says Mrs. Feeley. And, why not!

ALL IN THE FAMILY: When Jack Scanlan, assistant principal at Atlantic Junior High School, gave up his duties as statistician for Quincy High football coach Hank Conroy, Hank didn't have to go far for a replacement. Taking over very capably last year was Jack's younger brother, Jim, who is doing an outstanding job. Jim, incidentally, is one of the premier goalies in the Quincy Youth Hockey Association.

RECUPERATING: Harold Winerip, head of the copy desk at the Boston Herald American and formerly with the Patriot Ledger for several years, is recuperating at his Marlboro St., Wollaston, home following a heart attack. Harold was a patient at Quincy City Hospital for three weeks before going home. He will be out of work at least another month.

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Kiwanis Club Newsletter: "Exhilaration is that feeling you get just after a great idea hits you, and before you realize what's wrong with it."

Plymouth was not the first settlement in New England. A colony was founded in Maine in 1607—13 years earlier—but didn't last.

Urges Feuding City Officials To Use 'Common Sense'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
Common sense - Reason - Sound Government.

These three concepts are almost synonymous and correlative. Each used and working in conjunction with the other, results inevitably in the Common Good.

We look about us today at the way various levels of National, State, and Local Governments conduct the business of Government and we certainly must ask ourselves, "Whatever happened to Common Sense"? When we as individuals try to rationalize many of the commitments and overt acts executed by those in public office we must seriously question - "What has happened to Mankind's Reason"?

Without the use or implication of these first two how can we expect to have the resultant i.e. "Sound Government". The process or business of Government at best is oftentimes slow, tedious, exasperating. With cooperation, bartering, compromise and reason the resultant is intended or is in fact generally for the common good of the public.

Without this type of spirit and goal, the process of government can fast become chaotic.

In speaking to many residents throughout our city it is seriously feared and felt that this chaotic state of government is prevalent in Quincy.

While the warring factions of our city government are bickering and squabbling over issues, which most voters consider minor, but appear major to the warring parties because of a power struggle, the real serious issues of concern to all taxpayers and residents become a political football and the citizenry of Quincy are the losers regardless of the team they are rooting for.

As a life-long resident of Quincy, as a taxpayer, and as the President of one organization, The Houghs Neck Community Council, in just one community of our city I ask that this constant bickering and political in-fighting come to a halt now before the process of government in this city deteriorates into the chaotic state of disruption, discord and indecision to which it appears to be headed.

The voting populace of Quincy put you men in office believing in your ability to face issues, solve problems, and by working together strike a mutual accord that would result in a better Quincy. I believe that a general consensus if taken today would show that the average Quincy citizen does not care "who's to blame" but rather "what can a cooperative effort do to resolve the major problems facing our city."

I ask you gentlemen to sit down together, and with the spirit and desire to attain the common good, resolve in a gentlemanly manner using your political bargaining expertise, which the populace believed you had, and the authority of your office to which the populace voted you.

It is my personal feeling and that of those to whom I have spoken - by acting as the gentlemen we know you are, by using "common sense" and "reason", once again you can restore "sound government" to the citizenry of Quincy.

For the sake of all of us! Please try!

ERA Would 'Protect' Other Massachusetts Laws

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Many people ask why, with the excellent laws Massachusetts already has that give equality to women, do we need an Equal Rights Amendment?

We need an ERA to protect these laws. Each year, countless attempts are made in the state legislature to weaken or repeal laws that forbid discrimination.

Although Massachusetts state law does forbid sex and race discrimination in the area of housing, public accommodations, public education and credit, without a constitutional amendment, benefits could be wiped out in one legislative session; and if Massachusetts voters do not vote for the ERA we would be telling our state legislators that we don't want these beneficial laws.

The ERA is a constitutional amendment that cannot be repealed at the will of one legislative session. It sets a constitutional framework for future legislation.

Until passage of the State Equal Rights Amendment, our Massachusetts constitution will be incomplete.

Please vote yes on Question No. 1.

'Vote Against ERA To Preserve Family Unit'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I'm not surprised at the Study Commission Report on the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) chaired by Sen. Robert E. McCarthy (D-E, Bridgewater) that the ERA won't affect many laws in Mass.

Why did Sen. McCarthy wait 'till a week before the November election to publish this report? Since this Commission consisted of all pro-ERA people, I feel this is a biased report.

However, 55 courageous Mass. legislators voted against the State ERA at the State House in '75 and these men (no woman would defend us women) tried in vain to defeat this legislation. Also, the Judiciary Committee, consisting of all lawyers, gave the ERA an unfavorable report.

ERA proponents are members of the League of Women Voters and Now and if these women want to be plumbers, electricians, construction workers, "policepersons", "firepersons" (under ERA, fireman and policeman would be sexist and unconstitutional) then, go ahead but I like things as they are now and enjoy role of wife and homemaker.

These women want girls to join all-boys' sports and sex-neutral language in books so that boys will be playing with dolls and girls with toys or there will be charges of "sex discrimination". ERA will outlaw all all-girl and all-boy schools and colleges.

If you want to preserve the family unit, hold onto protective labor legislation for women, please vote NO to question No. 1 (ERA) on the November ballot.

Says ERA Will Not Destroy Home, Ruin Family

I have been following with interest the numerous articles you have published on the Massachusetts Equal Rights Amendment. I commend you for your fairness in providing space for both the proponents and the opponents of Referendum Question Number One.

As election day draws near, I am concerned about the organized efforts to convince Catholics that this amendment will destroy the home and ruin family life. This effort is sponsored by a small group, but the publicity it has received has been wide and effective.

I think two points must be stressed. First, the passage of the Massachusetts Equal Rights Amendment will only affect actions taken by the state; it will in no way interfere with the practices of religious institutions. Second, the Boston diocese of the Catholic Church has taken no official stand on this amendment.

The clergy in this area, of course, have a right to their own personal opinions. They do not have a right to use church facilities to advocate their position without express permission from the Chancery. This permission was never given. And yet, many people in the area are now convinced that the ERA conflicts with their Catholic beliefs. This is just not so. As a life-long Catholic, I feel it is my duty to set the record straight. I would like to close with a quote from one of the documents of Vatican Two which bears a remarkable resemblance to the wording of the Massachusetts Equal Rights Amendment:

"...forms of social or cultural discrimination in basic personal rights on the grounds of sex, race, color, social conditions, language or religion, must be curbed and eradicated as incompatible with God's design."

Sincerely,
Jane Bunyon Ford

Landon Carries Quincy Over FDR

By TOM HENSHAW

While a Democratic tide led by President Franklin D. Roosevelt swept across the country, Quincy was turning in stout Republican pluralities in the General Elections.

Kansas Gov. Alfred M. Landon outpolled Roosevelt in the city by a margin of 17,627 to 15,116.

In other contests, John W. Haigs, Republican, drew 18,838 votes for governor to 13,730 for Democrat Charles F. Hurley; and Henry Cabot Lodge got 18,387 to 11,496 for James Michael Curley in the race for the U.S. Senate.

Meanwhile, an investigation was begun into events that resulted in the foul-up of an election eve Democratic rally at Quincy High School.

Angry Democrats wanted to know why some notices said the rally was at Central Junior High School and why Chairman Leo J. Halloran closed the rally 15 minutes before Gov. Curley arrived to find the building dark.

And Democrats were also peeved when the Republican majority on the School Committee refused to let youngsters out of school the day President Roosevelt visited the city.

LUCKY WINNERS?

Brothers Charles and Frank Kranefuss of 16 Seagull Rd., Adams Shore, were revealed as the purchasers of a $2.50 ticket that won $150,000 in the Irish Sweepstakes.

But Frank, a shipper in a Boston paint company, further revealed that he had sold his half of the ticket to a broker for $10,000 for fear the horse, "Dan Budger", the 100-15 favorite, might break a leg and be disqualified.

CASE DISMISSED

Alfred Hagbloom, 20, of Quincy won the verdict in an Olean, N.Y., court on a charge of disorderly conduct when he erased a chalk mark that had been placed on the tire of his car by Policeman Nick Patronick.

"As we are not sure the police have the right to chalk the cars we are not sure you haven't got the right to rub the marks out," ruled the judge in dismissing the case.

"It's hard work putting those marks on," grumbled Patronick. "I have to bend way over."

NORTH LOSERS

Al Handrahan, brother of Dartmouth star Johnny Handrahan, scored both touchdowns as Hingham High defeated North Quincy, 14-7, at Welcome Young Field.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By ERIC SWIDER

Knowing When To Say No

The final scenarios before the election are now unraveling.

Vote "YES" on this question, vote "NO" on another. Conflicting statistics. Confusing claims. Catchy slogans. We are being bombarded, bewildered, and have been made enough promises of "disaster" or the "bright tomorrow" so that we know on balance and from experience that despite all the instant cures being promoted by the new medicine men, that if we vote "YES" on too many of the economic referendum issue questions, we're gonna end up paying even greater taxes and prices to finance these schemes.

Graduated Income Tax, Returnable Bottles and Cans, the Public Power Authority, Flat (Uniform) Electric rates, and Sunday closing laws are all referendum questions that deserve each other and have drawn a national spotlight on us once again.

My basic belief is that the voters of Massachusetts will reject all, or close to all of those issues, and thereby re-establish our longtime national image as a thoughtful and responsible State.

Despite the bent of a few powerful and liberal members of the media to make folk heroes out of the Mass. Fair Share leadership and promote their ideas of using utility rates as a form of social welfare, I am confident that most voters recognize this ploy and will vote instead to keep their taxes and food costs down.

It has been intriguing of late to find that this radical program is being financed by Big Religion, Big Government and aided and abetted by the Federal Communications Commission. It seems under the "fairness doctrine" that the FCC has ruled that for every two advertisements that Flat Rates opponents buy and pay for from radio and TV stations, the stations must give one free to the proponents.

Taking that one to its logical conclusion, it would seem that government will be soon telling us that "in fairness," for every two minutes we spend in church, we must commit ourselves to one minute of hearing from the opposition.

The Bottle and Can issue has drawn a lot of attention also. The most vigorous reason the proponents have forwarded to us to obtain our "YES" vote is that the bottle and can industry is spending too much money communicating their feelings about the deleterious impacts of this Question. What would they have the industry do when threatened with financial disaster — lay over and play dead?

They've achieved success in getting the opposition to the Grad Tax to do that by removing the ability of corporations here to contribute to the informational campaign aimed at explaining the negative impacts that a Grad Tax would have over the long haul. Remember the initial modest rates of both our Federal Income Tax and Social Security? Remember all of those temporary taxes that our Legislature has heaped upon us which now have permanent status? Remember the initial use the sales tax was to be put to? Remember the basis for the Lottery? Try to remember and if you remember...

It seems that most certain defeat awaits the Massachusetts Public Power issue. The effective industry educational program has done much to give us all better insight into how our Private Utilities operate and the problems they're facing. The idea of having the same people that operate the MBTA, build the Middlesex County Courthouse, or the Boston Common Garage, responsible for keeping my refrigerator going never had much appeal anyway.

I sure hope that Sunday Law thing goes down to defeat. Some of my best friends own small retail businesses and it would be a shame if they are forced by competition to have to give up their Sundays with their families to keep open businesses which can't afford to employ additional help.

There are lots of conflicting opinions — and reasonably so. The issues are not all black and white. If the proponents of these concepts didn't make some valid points in their appeal to the voters, they never would have gotten this far. None of us like the Arab induced high electric bills, the slob who litters our society with his trash, to pay any more taxes than we should, or not to have the world of commerce available to us when we want it... but will any of these deals make the situation better. I think not. I'll vote no. See you at the polls.

Thinks Mayor Should Be 'Ashamed' Of $34.90 Tax Increase

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

A front page article in your issue of Oct. 21, tells us that Mayor LaRia is not getting too much reaction to his new tax rate of $194.80. What does he expect us to do — congratulate him for taking us to the cleaners? Surely he knows there is no use in our complaining and under the system, if we don't pay, it will cost us more!

However, I am shocked at his lack of compassion for Quincy taxpayers. He might have listened to other elected officials instead of using his authority as a dictator would and as though we were all his enemies.

If he really wants to know, I think an increase of $34.90 is an outrage and as Mayor he should be ashamed of himself for this treatment of Quincy taxpayers.

Critical Of Brett's Sticker Campaign

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would appreciate an opportunity to publicly express my views on an issue that has created a deal of anguish in the mind of a 20 year old. This anguish is the result of a letter sent to me by "Joe" Brett. It appears to be printed on official House of Representatives stationery and is entitled, "A Personal Message From 'Joe' Brett." The following is the first paragraph of this letter:

"Perhaps because of my 18 years of service to you as State Representative and, also, because of an underestimate of the vigor and aggressiveness with which one of my opponents would campaign in the Primary Election, I personally conducted a very modest campaign in the Primary, which, evidently, was a factor in my Primary loss."

This paragraph represents to me the feeble voice of a man, too small to graciously accept defeat in a Primary Election.

Mr. Brett refers to Michael W. Morrissey, the duly elected Democratic candidate for State Representative, as an opponent who ran a vigorous and aggressive Primary campaign. One must assume that with such praise coming from Mr. Brett, he realizes [as those of us who observed Mr. Morrissey realize] that Mr. Morrissey is a hardworking, open-minded, sincere person. These qualities are very important. If one observes the current political situation in our city, most assuredly one would find that it is of even greater importance that these qualities be possessed by a person who portrays himself as a political candidate.

A "modest campaign", in the words of Mr. Brett, was in actuality a campaign of incredibly low visibility. I have been a registered voter for two years and I am a student of Political Science. I have studied various political campaigns and the behavior of the electorate in these campaigns. In my opinion, Mr. Brett's loss was only an outgrowth of his "very modest campaign." In Mr. Brett's own words, "because of my lack of proper foresight," we are afforded a personal description of a man's own lack of ability to evaluate a situation, despite the fact that he has dealt with these situations for 18 years.

Mr. Brett's half-hearted campaign smacked of overconfidence. It appeared that as an incumbent he felt he could dismiss Michael Morrissey and Mr. Morrissey's campaign. It now appears to me that Mr. Brett wants to dismiss the results of the Primary Election. If he receives a second chance, the underlying theme of his letter, he will promise to make a more serious effort in this campaign.

We have all been brought up to believe in the Democratic election process and I have never been made aware that second chances were awarded to members of a single party [in this case, the Democratic party] after a loss in a Primary Election.

In view of these facts, I am terribly upset by Mr. Brett's mysterious "sticker" campaign. It appears to follow that all other firm believers in our election process should accept Mr. Brett as an outgoing incumbent; an incumbent that failed to make the final election ballot as a candidate for State Representative. Mr. Brett has given the Third Norfolk District 18 years of faithful representation. Our area is deeply appreciative of his efforts, but the Primary Election has shown us that this area is ready for a new, vigorous and aggressive representation.

reads: "Salaries of Construction Manager's employees when stationed at the field office in whatever capacity employed and employees in the main or branch offices the functions listed below."

"Since there is no one listed below," said Williams, "we will not be billed under Section 9.2.2. The memorandum spells that out."

Williams also explained what he called a misunderstanding over Article 6 of the contract, which contains the typewritten words: "No guaranteed maximum price." It refers to the entire $13.5 million cost of construction, he said, not Kent's fee.

"In some instances, the management firm is hired even before the plans for a project are drawn," Williams said. "They guarantee the whole price of the job. This firm was hired along the way because we did not know if we were going to build. They were in no position to guarantee the $13.5 million."

The City Council hearing last week turned up the fact that Kent Corp. was smaller (only 14 employees) than two competitors and had considerably less experience (six years in existence).

But not even the persistent questioning of Councillor Daniel G. Raymond could ascertain whether the Kent Corp. proposal was cheaper or more expensive to the city than those of the competitors, Gilbane Construction Co. and Turner Construction Co.

"It's like comparing apples and oranges," said C. C. Smith, representing Turner.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia told The Sun that he selected the Kent proposal (competitive bidding was not required) because "they are a young firm anxious to put their best foot forward to prove themselves."

"They are interested in promoting themselves by their accomplishments in the field of construction management and the success of the North Quincy job is going to enhance their position in the area."

"I know that Turner recently received a multi-million dollar contract in Boston and my concern is that some talent they would have to deploy to other projects would not necessarily put their priorities on the North Quincy project."

"Gilbane is also a big firm with a good reputation but they have major projects which would be given priority over a much smaller project such as North Quincy High School.

"In the final analysis," he said. "I didn't feel the others could do it for less because of their national operation, their larger overhead and their other projects. I'm not sure we could have gotten the best talent on the job."

"These thoughts came to my mind when I made the decision."

LaRaia also defended the hiring of a clerk of the works, paid by Kent but reimbursible by the city, a move which has also drawn down the wrath of the City Council as an unnecessary duplication of some of Kent's duties.

"Their functions may overlap in some areas," he admitted, "but they are completely different. The hiring of a clerk of the works is simply a further assurance that the city's interests are paramount."

Last week's Council hearing, at which Bennett represented Kent Corp., Smith represented Turner and Kenneth Parker represented Gilbane, produced a number of exchanges, particularly with Councillors Raymond, Tobin and Kelly.

Tobin was particularly interested in the clerk of the works job, a $480-a-week post that went to Ralph Capolla, once a LaRaia campaign worker.

Tobin - Are you submitting bills to the city of Quincy for his salary now?

Bennett - That is correct. We decided to do it that way. His salary could have been paid directly by the city of Quincy as well.

Tobin - But he is there now. Bennett - That is correct.

Tobin - Over the objections of the City Council and the City Auditor not to pay him, etc., but he is there right now.

Bennett - I believe so.

Tobin - The City Council has addressed the City Auditor not to pay the salary because it is our feeling that we have been informed that one was not needed. You've been there since September, August. How long have you been there? The exact date?

Bennett - We've been involved with the project since the successful signing of the contract which was the 1st week of July.

Tobin - Now we see that a clerk of the works has been assigned there and you didn't request it. Now that you have a clerk of the works at the site, one that you didn't ask for, he must be taking the place of someone. Had he not been sent down by the city of Quincy someone would be doing this function, would they not?

Bennett - There is truth in that. If the person who is there now were not there we would have someone else performing his functions. On the other hand, he is performing something over and above what our person would be performing in that he is serving as an independent watchdog for the city.

Tobin - But not needed. Bennett - That is the decision of the city. We cannot perform the function of an independent watchdog over and above ourselves.

Tobin - But when you negotiated in good faith with the city of Quincy, and when you put your figures in, you stated to the city that you were going to perform this function. And up until this time you have not had a clerk of the works, but someone down there has been doing the function.

Bennett - Prior to the clerk of the works being employed there was very little construction activity on the site ...

Tobin - The point I'm trying to make, since a clerk of the works at $480 a week could run for the term of the project, we're talking $50-$60,000 over the basic $310,000. So why could not the project now be reduced by mutual agreement - since you never requested him and since you now have him and every member of this council knows it's nothing but a political payoff, that's all it is and nothing more. What I'm asking for now, since the sentence says that anything can be modified by mutual agreement, would not the Kent Corp. sit down with the chief executive of this city and modify those figures, and make it deductible from the $310,000 if they insist that he be down there as a watchdog to the watchdog?

Bennett - "As far as the reimbursables are concerned, I say again that within the $310,000 figure $140,000 of that is fixed for the overall management of the project; $170,000 of that represents the field staff, expenses and will be billed at cost against the budget of $170,000."

Tobin - Then I believe you estimated there could be an additional $40,000 ...

Bennett - That's right. The additional $40,000 would be field expenses, not field staff expenses, but field expenses, for example, trailer, electricity, telephone, etc.

Tobin - So there's $350,000. Bennett - That's correct. I think that number compares favorably with the scope of the services ...

Tobin - And then another $50-$60,000 over and above that for two years for a clerk of the works and now we're up to $400,000.

Bennett - That's possible if our field staff expenses were to run up to the $170,000 figure, then it would be over and above that, that's correct.

Tobin - My notes show, Mr. Bennett, that you said that the clerk of the works would be in addition to the $40,000.

Bennett - If our field expenses were to run up to the $170,000 for field staff then the clerk of the works would be reimbursible over and above that ...

Tobin - I think it should be abundantly clear here this evening for the press, the radio and everyone that we can reach, showing that we are not dealing with a $310,000 contract. At a

MBTA To Register Seniors, Handicapped For Reduced Fares

An MBTA registration team will be in Quincy Wednesday, Nov. 3, from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., to process applications for reduced fare identification cards for eligible senior citizens and handicapped citizens of Quincy and surrounding communities.

Registration will take place at the Quincy Drop-In Center, High School Ave., Quincy Center.

To be eligible for a senior citizen reduced fare identification card, which contains the name and address of the holder and a color photograph for positive identification, senior citizens must bring proof of age—65 years or older—such as a birth certificate, baptismal record, or driver's license; proof of residency such as a driver's license; library card or charge plate; and a 50-cent cash fee.

Medicare cards will not be accepted as proof of age.

The MBTA stressed that senior citizens who already have a reduced fare identification card do not need to register again. What appears to be an expiration date is used merely for internal auditing and control purposes. Once a reduced fare identification card is issued, it is good for life.

To be eligible for a handicapped citizen reduced fare identification card, good only during off-peak hours, handicapped persons must present acceptable proof of their disability such as a Medicaid card showing Category 03, handicapped; a certificate of award letter from the Social Security Administration; evidence of 70 percent more disability as determined by the United States Veterans' Administration. Or completion of MBTA Form No. SN-7 which must be approved and signed by a physician or state or federal agency serving the handicapped.

The MBTA forms will be mailed to anyone requesting them by calling the MBTA's Special Needs Office at 722-5123.

Burke Presented Baystate Award

Cong. James A. Burke was presented recently with the Bay State Award of the Massachusetts State Society at luncheon in the Speaker's Dining Room of the Capitol in Washington.

The award was presented by Society President George C. Viau in recognition of Burke's 18 years of service in Congress. Mrs. Aileen Burke was on hand to see her husband receive the honor.

The award read:

"To Cong. James A. Burke, in recognition of outstanding leadership qualities he has forthrightly demonstrated as distinguished statesman, legislator, lawmaker and patriot, by sponsoring and promoting legislative policies that prudently effect every social-economic levels of our society...."

"I am deeply honored to receive this award," said Burke.

"My allegiance to my home state of Massachusetts and the welfare of its people has been a

This Is Ruth Gordon Weekend

Quincy honors Ruth Gordon, her most famous daughter, on her 80th birthday with a Ball and a Banquet this weekend.

About 1,200 people are expected to turn out for the Ruth Gordon Birthday Ball Saturday evening at the State Street South Auditorium and between 700 and 800 persons are expected to attend the Banquet Sunday night at Chateau de Ville, Randolph, a committee spokesman estimated.

As an added treat, the brand-new official Quincy song, "Quincy Is Our Name," composed by John Fantucchio of Quincy, a student at the Berkeley School of Music, will be sung for the first time at the Ball.

The artist will be Mrs. Lambert Brandes, wife of Prof. Lambert Brandes of the music department at Eastern Nazarene College, who will accompany her at the piano.

The original score, embossed and framed and signed by the composer, will be presented to Miss Gordon by Simon Fireman, who with Sabina Stenberg is co-chairman of the Ball.

Cynthia Mary Carpenter, Miss Massachusetts of 1975-76, also will entertain at the Ball while the Quincy Symphonette, the string section of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra, will play at the Banquet.

The reception line at the Ball will start at 9 p.m., headed by Miss Gordon and her husband, playwright Garson Kanin. The line will also have celebrity guests from New York, California and Quincy.

The Banquet speakers will include Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti, Gerald Ridge, chairman of the Quincy-South Shore Cultural Commission; Dr. William Ridder, co-chairman of the Banquet Radio's Jess Cain will be toastmaster.

Diners will be shown film clips of the movie "Rosemary's Baby," in which Miss Gordon won an Oscar as best supporting actress.

The weekend is being filmed by a "Good Morning, America!" film crew from ABC in New York and portions of it will be shown on national TV on Tuesday morning when Miss Gordon makes a live appearance.

Four new celebrities have signified that they will be on hand as head table guests at the Banquet. They are actress Maureen O'Sullivan, Cong. Bella Abzug (D-NY) and Fritz Holt and Barry Brown, producers of Miss Gordon's latest stage appearance, "Ho Ho Ho".

Proceeds of the two events will be used as seed money by the Quincy-South Shore Cultural Commission to launch a campaign for a Ruth Gordon Center for the Performing Arts.

NQHS, QHS Student Government Delegates Election Nov. 2

Elections will be held Nov. 2, in Quincy and North Quincy High Schools to choose the students' delegates to the 30th annual Student Government Day Program in which student delegates take over the State House for one day, April 1, 1977.

Each secondary school in the state sends one delegate to the program and the names are placed in a bowl from which are drawn those students who will occupy the various state offices for the day.

The election date was announced by Reps. Joseph E. Brett, Thomas F. Brownell and James A. Sheets.

Welch Guest Lecturer At NU

Barry J. Welch, Quincy, assistant director of Recreation, was a recent guest lecturer at Northeastern University, Boston Bouve' College.

Welch spoke to freshmen students in the Recreation Education Curriculum on the "Personal and Professional Attributes of professionals in Community Recreation". The lecture is part of a series designed to acquaint students with practitioners in various disciplines of the recreation profession.

Welch is a graduate of Boston Bouve' College and is currently enrolled in the masters program at Northeastern University. He has been employed by the Quincy Recreation Department for 13 years.

SOMETIMES THE EXPERTS CAN BE WRONG

When we projected our new Braintree branch a couple of years ago, the experts told us it would probably take a year to achieve our first million dollars of assets. We opened Braintree late in February this year for a dry run but actually started business March 1st. This would mean, if we were to believe the experts, that March 1st in 1977 we should be at the million dollar mark at our Braintree branch.

We take great pleasure in announcing that our Braintree branch reached the million dollar mark on October 16, 1976.

We also want to say thanks to a lot of people. First and foremost, to Jim Sheard, our Braintree Manager, and his great staff. And to the hundreds of customers of our Braintree branch, we offer our deepest thanks for your support and patronage. Situated as we are on Grove Street near Liberty Street in South Braintree, we are handy to South Weymouth and Randolph as well as all parts of Braintree. We think we have one of the most attractive and handy branches of any bank on the South Shore in our Braintree operation. But more important, we have a staff you would enjoy banking with; we know this because hundreds of new friends made it possible to reach our first million for the branch in less than eight months—not 12 months as the experts projected.

To everyone, customers and staff, who helped make this achievement possible, we give our sincere appreciation. To folks living in the area who have not visited us yet, we would like to suggest that you stop by and see our Braintree branch and talk to Jim Sheard and his crew. They are about as nice people as you can find in any bank.

Our extension of bank services into the Braintree area as part of the broadening of community development is in keeping with the tradition of service and personal consideration of Josiah Quincy, Jr., founder of cooperative banking in Massachusetts and the man for whom our bank is named.

Service and consideration, we know for certainJosiah would have liked that.

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

Voter Information Night Thursday At Lincoln-Hancock School

The Lincoln Hancock Community School Council and the League of Women Voters of Quincy will sponsor a Voter Information Night at the Lincoln Hancock Community School, 300 Granite St., Quincy, tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room.

Moderator for the evening will be Mrs. Lawrence Flavin, second vice president, League of Women Voters.

Speakers will be Janice D'Avignon, of the Massachusetts Committee to Ratify the Equal Rights Amendment, and Jane Sullivan, vice president of League of Women Voters, discussing Question No. 3, absentee voting for religious reasons.

Question 4 on the state power authority and Question 7 on unified electric rates will be explained by Atty. Ruth Paven of Quincy.

Question 5 on the use of handguns will be discussed by a member of Committee of People against Handguns.

Question 6, the Bottle Bill will be explained by Clara Yeomans, executive secretary to the conservation committee.

Voters in Massachusetts have all recently received Voter Information Bulletins from the Secretary of State Paul Guzzi's Office. The League of Women Voters and the Lincoln Hancock Community School Council are concerned with providing an opportunity for residents of Quincy to be better informed on referendum issue. The public is invited.

Carl Leinonen Named James Bowdoin Scholar

Carl J. Leinonen of 8 South Junior Terrace, South Quincy, was recently named a James Bowdoin Scholar at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Me.

A member of the class of 1977, he is among 50 students from Massachusetts and 191 undergraduates to receive the honorary scholarship for academic achievement.

Koch Club Bike-A-Thon For Kidney Foundation Sunday

The Koch Club will sponsor its second annual Bike-A-Thon for the benefit of the Kidney Foundation Sunday afternoon (Oct. 31). Last year's initial event raised $1,200.

The Koch Club Girls Senior Bowling League will lead the drive under the direction of Mrs. Marilyn Nestor, league founder and director.

The Bike-A-Thon will leave Faxon Park at 12:30 and follow a 17-mile route to Chickatabot Rd. in the Blue Hills and back to Faxon Park where light refreshments will be served to participants.

Edward F. Gentile has been named Honorary Chairman of the event. Gentile, a Quincy Police detective, had a successful kidney transplant three years ago through the Kidney Foundation.

Other committee members include: Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony T. Delmonico, Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Crowley, Mr. and Mrs. David J. Donaghy, Mr. and Mrs. Gary DeMole, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Cattaneo and Mr. and Mrs. Paul P. Nestor.

Each cyclist will have a number of sponsors pledging a certain amount for each mile covered in the 17-mile event.

Applications for participation may be obtained from Gentile at the Quincy Police Station, 1 Sea Street, Quincy, or from Mrs. Nestor, 98 Glover Avenue, North Quincy, or from Koch, 241 Newbury Avenue, North Quincy.

Koch, general chairman of the Bike-A-Thon, invites other organizations to participate in this worthy endeavor and any volunteers wishing to serve on the committee may contact Koch at his home.

Quincy Taxpayers Association Annual Dinner Meeting Thursday

The annual meeting of the Quincy Taxpayers Association will be held tonight (Thursday).

The event will be a dinner meeting 6:30 p.m. at Dutton's Restaurant, 125 Sea St., Quincy.

Women are encouraged to attend. There will be a brief meeting.

The nominating committee will make its report. The election of officers will follow.

A discussion on all referendum questions on the Nov. 2 ballot will be held.

The business meeting will be held as close to 7:30 p.m. as possible.

Local Youngsters In UNICEF Campaign Sunday

South Shore children and adults will join more than three million other Americans in the celebration of National UNICEF Day this Halloween, Mrs. Richard S. Allen announces.

Mrs. Allen is chairwoman of South Shore UNICEF Day activities, which will be coordinated under the auspices of the South Shore Committee for UNICEF.

On Sunday local youngsters in Halloween costumes will be canvassing door-to-door with orange-and-black UNICEF cartons, collecting not just treats for themselves, but pennies, dimes and dollars for the world's neediest children.

"We want to do our share in helping the literally millions of children in Asia, Africa and Latin America who so desperately need our support," Mrs. Allen said. "Our children and adults can learn so much about international understanding through UNICEF Day activities. And the need is so great."

Across the country thousands of communities will be involved in the unique annual effort - Trick-or-Treating, sponsoring benefit sports events, conducting carnivals, holding rummage sales, and many other activities - all to benefit the many children assisted by UNICEF.

UNICEF can do a lot with just a little. Just 30 cents buys enough low-dose Vitamin A and D capsules to supplement the diet of a mother and child for four months. A dollar contributed to UNICEF buys enough vaccine to immunize 66 children against tuberculosis. Five dollars contributed to UNICEF stocks a pond with baby fish for a potential protein supply for a rural village.

Carroll O'Connor, award-winning star of "All in the Family", and his real-life wife, Nancy, are chairmen for the 1976 National UNICEF Day Campaign. Mrs. Betty Ford, for the second year is honorary chairwoman.

Here are the facts:

The purpose of this fact sheet is to give you the information you need to cast an informed vote on the state Equal Rights Amendment. Please take a few minutes to read it now. You'll be happy you did on November 2.

★ — This is what the Amendment says: — ★

"Equality under the law shall not be denied or abridged because of sex, race, color, creed or national origin."

That's it. No more, and no less. This Amendment, which will be Question #1 on the November ballot, adds one sentence to Article 1 of the state Constitution which now contains a general statement of individual rights.

★ — This is what the Amendment means: — ★

The Amendment gives us the opportunity to build into our state Constitution the guarantee that all people in Massachusetts will be able to pursue their goals and interests without discrimination from government.

It is a guarantee for all of us now. But it is also a guarantee for our sons and daughters, because as part of the Constitution, it will live on as one of the principles that govern our state.

The state Amendment differs from the Federal Equal Rights Amendment because it applies only to our own state Constitution and laws. But it will strengthen existing Massachusetts laws against discrimination, and make sure new ones are consistent and fair. To women. To men. Homemakers.

Officeworkers. Minorities of both sexes. To everyone who lives in Massachusetts.

It isn't surprising that we already have good anti-discriminatory laws in Massachusetts. Our citizens have always led the country in supporting justice. Now we have the opportunity to make history again, by turning our good laws into Constitutional guarantees.

It Sounds Simple And It Is. Vote Yes on Question #1.

QHS Band Parents Hold Organizational Meeting

The first organizational meeting of the Quincy High School Band Parents for the 1976-77 school year was held recently with a large turnout.

Michael Cahill, band director, outlining plans for the band noted it will be participating at football games, parades, one of them the annual Quincy Christmas Parade, and a state competition at Cawley Memorial Stadium, Lowell, Nov. 11.

The competition is divided in A, B, and C Classes. Class B and C will perform in the morning. Class A competition begins at 12:30 p.m. Participating units in addition to Quincy are:

Billerica High School, Barnstable, South Hadley, Silver Lake Regional, Tenney High School, Methuen, Norwood and Beverly.

The Quincy band recently performed at a National Educators Conference held at the Hynes Auditorium, Boston.

Parent participation is encouraged to lend support to the band's activities. Band Parent meetings will be held on the second Tuesday of the month in the QHS band room at 8 p.m. with the exception of November when it will be held on the third Tuesday.

Officers for the year are: President, Peter Ricciardi, vice president, George Thurston, secretary, Brenda Ricciardi, treasurer, William Leaman.

'Peak Load' Chamber Topic

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce will hold a meeting for business people tomorrow [Friday] at 9 a.m. in the South Shore National Bank conference room to discuss peak load, time of day electric rate pricing.

Harold J. Keohane, chairman of the Board of Commissioners of the Mass DPU, will explain what the DPU and the electric companies hope will or will not be accomplished by peak pricing.

Brownell Endorsed

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy], has been endorsed by the Massachusetts State Labor Council, AFL-CIO.

Brownell, in a letter of endorsement from the organization, was commended for compiling a legislative record which merited support by organized labor. This is the third consecutive time that the labor group has endorsed Brownell on the basis of his legislative record.

What Your 'Yes' Or 'No' Will Mean On The 9 Referenda

By TOM HENSHAW

In addition to casting a ballot for President next Tuesday, Quincy voters will also have a chance to make their feelings known on several major issues, including women's rights, handgun control and the old Sunday Blue Laws.

The nine referendum questions are found in small print on the right of the ballot and, in the furor that surrounds some of them, they may well bring out as many voters as the individual races on the left hand side.

Here is a rundown of the nine referenda with a summary of each question and the meaning of a "yes" or "no" vote:

Question 1 — The so-called Equal Rights (ERA) Amendment. It would provide that equality under the law may not be denied or abridged on the basis of sex, race, color, creed or national origin.

A YES vote adds the specific guarantee of equality to the State Constitution.

A NO vote leaves the State Constitution the way it is.

Question 2 — The Graduated Income Tax Amendment. It would authorize the State Legislature to institute a system of personal income tax rates graduated according to the total amount of income received in place of the current flat rate system.

A YES vote changes the State Constitution to permit the establishment of a graduated income tax.

A NO vote retains the present flat rate system.

Question 3 — The Absentee Voting Amendment. It would authorize the State Legislature to provide for absentee voting by persons whose religious beliefs prevent them from voting on Election Day.

A YES vote permits absentee voting by such persons.

A NO vote leaves the State Constitution the way it is.

Question 4 — The proposal for a Massachusetts Power Authority. It would set up an authority to establish and operate a bulk power supply system to furnish wholesale electric power to utilities in the state.

A YES vote would set up such a power authority.

A NO vote is against establishment of such a power authority.

Question 5 — The so-called Gun Control Bill. It would ban possession, ownership or sale of any gun with a barrel less than 16 inches in length. It would also require owners to surrender their guns with compensation provided by the state.

A YES vote would prohibit private possessions and sale of handguns.

A NO vote would continue to allow licensed individuals to possess handguns.

Question 6 — The so-called Bottle Bill. It would require every beverage container sold in the state to have a refund value of at least five cents and would ban the sale of cans with flip-top caps.

A YES vote would establish such controls on beer and soft drinks in bottles and cans.

A NO vote would leave controls the way they are now.

Question 7 — The Uniform Electric Rates Bill. It would require that every electric utility company charge a uniform rate per kilowatt hour of electricity. It would also permit a different rate for the first 300 kilowatt hours each month and authorize higher peak load rates.

A YES vote would establish uniform electric rates for most users.

A NO vote continues the present system allowing different rates for different users.

Question 8 — The Oil Refinery and Deep Water Port Advisory. It would advise the State Legislature of popular opinion on construction of an oil refinery and deep water port in Massachusetts.

A YES vote would advise the legislature that voters are in favor of allowing such construction, with local approval.

Political Advertisement

A NO vote would advise the legislature that voters are opposed to it.

Question 9 — The so-called Blue Law Advisory. It would advise the State Legislature of popular opinion on permitting certain stores, including liquor stores, to remain open on Sunday.

A YES vote would advise the legislature that voters are in favor of allowing the stores to open on Sunday.

A NO vote would advise the legislature that voters are opposed to it.

MBTA Taking North Quincy

Land For Parking

The MBTA is starting proceedings to take by eminent domain a vacant piece of land on the west side of the Red Line tracks to provide additional parking at the North Quincy station.

Robert R. Kiley, chairman of the MBTA, notified Rep. Joseph E. Brett (D-Quincy) of the move recently, about a year after Brett first brought the subject to the attention of the authority.

"To date," said Kiley in a letter to Brett, "we have been attempting to reach an agreement with the city of Quincy concerning this parcel of land."

"This process (eminent domain) is much slower, but at least the authority is moving in the direction of setting up the additional parking lot."

Halloween Party Sunday

The Atlantic Neighborhood Association will sponsor its annual Halloween Party on Sunday, 5:30 p.m. at the Quincy School - All Purpose Room, Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

Prizes, games, contests, apple bobbing and donut dodging will be among the activities.

Reservations may be made at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 150 East Squantum St., Wednesday, Thursday or Friday. Admittance is by ticket.

The Halloween Party will conclude at 7:30 p.m. All the children in the Atlantic area are invited to attend.

Squantum PTO Holds

Candidates Nights

The Squantum School PTO was scheduled to meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Squantum School Media Center.

A "Meet the Candidates Night" was the highlight with candidates running for the Third Norfolk District State representative seat having the opportunity to state their stand on issues.

The candidates are: Michael Morrissey, (D), Jens Thornton, (R), Alley E. McInnis, (I) and Rep. Joseph Brett, running on stickers.

ERA Information At Atlantic

Jane Ford, chairwoman of the South Shore Women's Political Caucus will be at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 150 East

Squantum St., Friday at 1 p.m. to distribute information and answer questions on the Equal Rights Amendment.

The ERA is Question 1 on the November 2 ballot.

A NEWSPAPER BY AND FOR THE CHILDREN OF QUINCY

Who Will Our Next President Be

--Carter Or Ford?

Who's going to win the presidential election on Nov. 2 - Ford or Carter? Our assistant editors, Mr. Lavery's sixth grade at Furnace Brook School, have been following the candidates very closely. Their classroom looks like Election Central.

On one wall is a huge map of the U.S. under the words: "F.B.S. Election Central predicats. [F.B.S. stands for Furnace Brook School] On this map the children have predicted who will win in each state. A green dot means Carter will win. A blue dot means Ford will win. A yellow dot means a toss-up. Yellow and blue means it's a hard decision but Ford has the edge. A yellow and green dot means Carter has a slight edge. A few weeks ago, the children awarded 11 states to candidates. The next day, Newsweek Magazine came up with the exact same predictions. Watch out CBS, NBC and ABC!

As of today (Thursday), the children's prediction for the electoral vote is: 223 for Carter, 104 for Ford and 211 votes "a toss-up".

The children feel that the election is a close one because these 211 undecided votes could go either way.

In a poll of the 21 students in the classroom, there were 12 votes for Ford, 7 for Carter and 2 undecided.

The assistant editors have written letters to the next president telling him what they hope will happen in the next four years.

by JOSEPH MATTES, II

Dear Mr. President,

Dear Mr. President,

In the next four years I would like to see a change in America.

1. I would like to see the tax rates go down.

2. I would like to see capitol punishment in all of the states, because the crime and murder is ruining the United States.

I know that you are a very busy man but with your power I think you can get it done. And also the unemployment should go down because a lot of people are out of work. Hospital rates should be lower and you should only allow people to charge one price for certain things.

Sincerely yours,

Brian Shea

We need more farms and not factories. Don't destroy forests. Bring down the unemployed rate.

Sincerely yours,

Wendy Gunnison

Dear Mr. President,

I hope you will lower the tax rates. They're up really high. They went up a lot in the last year. Can you try to feed the poor people to keep them from starving, and give them clothes so they won't freeze. The prices in food have gone way up and it makes it hard to pay for everything. Before you could pay around $.33 for a gallon of gas but now you pay about $.60 for a gallon. Can you try to keep us out of war so American men won't get killed.

Michael Cullen

I hope you will think carefully on any decision you make. And I hope you will keep peace with all other countries.

I also hope you will think of a way to save energy.

Michael Keddy

Dear Mr. President,

I'm writing to you because of some problems I have in the country. If you can, within the next four years please make more jobs available for the people in this country. Then if it's possible, let the taxes go down. Then please keep us out of war, so we could have a wonderful country to live in.

Sincerely,

Michelle McCann

Dear Mr. President,

I am writing to you something I would like to happen in the next four years. I would like to see lower tax rating. I would like you to keep the unemployment line down. I would like you to make peace with a lot of countries.

Sincerely yours,

Sylvia Robbins

Dear Mr. President,

These are some of the things I would like to see happen in the next four years:

1. The taxes lowered.
2. People who need jobs get them.
3. Prices lowered.
4. All hungry and poor people are to be better off.
5. Less animals being put asleep.
6. All the animals who live in alleys and are starving to each have homes.
7. All hunting endangered species forbidden.
8. Cruelty to animals forbidden.
9. Polluting not allowed.
10. All smoke stacks never to be used again.
11. All fishing in the ocean stopped until the fish have multiplied greatly.
12. No more killing whales for dogfood or oil.
13. All cigarette factories closed down.

Shelly Romberg

Dear Mr. President,

My name is Denise Ryan. I live in Quincy, Mass. I go to Furnace Brook School. My age is 11 going on 12. Two Presidents came from my home town.

I want taxes to be reduced so the poor will be able to buy things like they never have. I want the unemployment to go down, because since the unemployment has gone up too! I want inflation to go down because, food, clothes and equipment cost too much. Foreign politics should be that all the countries help themselves and not rely on the United States. They should work on their own country.

The United States should think of our own defense.

Sincerely yours,

Denise Ryan

Best wishes and good luck in your term of office. Yours truly,

Vinnie Cristiani

Sincerely, Mr. Lavery's Sixth Grade

I think Carter will win. One reason is his post-Vietnam stand on draft dodgers and deserters. He feels it is best to heal the wounds of the past and unite the people of this country. He feels that those who opposed the war in Vietnam and refused to be drafted or to fight should be pardoned or "forgiven". He feels they acted according to their consciences.

What Mr. Carter is trying to do is to show kindness, charity, and forgiveness. He wants the people of this country to be at peace and united again.

Vincent Cristiani, 11

I think President Ford will win because of his stand on economy. He is for slowing down inflation and lowering unemployment. He will use his presidential veto on any bills which could have an inflationary effect. President Ford wants to insure jobs. He is for welfare reforms which will tighten people's eligibility for food stamps. He wants to redesign unemployment compensation, so that the people who can will have to go looking for jobs. Then he wants to have jobs for them. He is trying to keep the taxes from going higher.

ing To Win?

I think President Ford will win because of his stand on defense and foreign policy. He wants to have more defense machinery and tanks so if we get into a war we can be ready. His stand on foreign policy is not to help our allies if they don't ask and don't fight unless we have to. But be strong all the time.

Frankie Reynolds, 10

I think Carter will win. He seems to be a fair man and he knows what he's talking about. He says he will lower unemployment and slow down inflation. In regard to welfare, he is for a simplified income maintenance. He also will help the big cities and he will help with some state expenses also.

I think Carter will win. He will bring back faith and trust in the U.S. He wants many government reforms in welfare, health programs, foreign aid and in the disclosure of finances by public officials so that they are not indebted to certain groups. We need Carter to restore faith in basic good government and faith in the American flag. Our government is for the people and by the people.

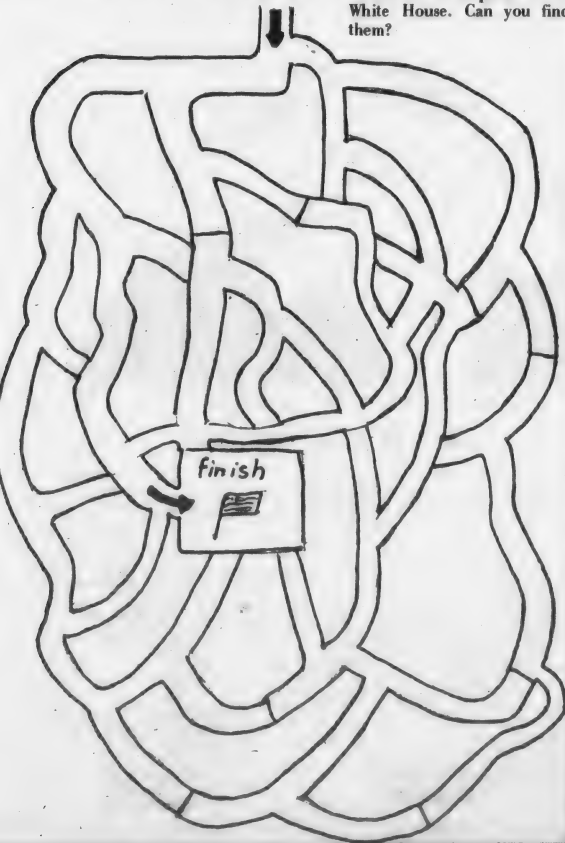

Wendy Gunnison, 11

I think Ford will win. He cares about Medicare and taking care of people's health. He would give more money to medical research. He cares about people in catastrophes, too. He would raise money for towns what are hit by hurricanes or tornadoes.

Michael Bourikas, 11

Mike's A-Mazin' start

Michael Cullen, 11, has given our two presidential candidates three paths to the White House. Can you find them?

What If You Were President, Albie?

If I were president I wouldn't spend so much on the space program and spend more on the people who are starving in the United States. I would give more jobs to people who need them. I would make the taxes go down and the price go down on gas and other products. But most of all I would make peace.

Let's Talk About the Advertising Business

Miss Betty Georgaklis from SGM Advertising Agency explains the advertising business to our assistant editors.

SGM Advertising Agency has sponsored this election issue of Young Ideas. Miss Betty Georgaklis, Vice President/Administration and Assistant Treasurer of the agency came into Mr. Lavery's sixth grade to tell our assistant editors about the advertising business.

Miss Georgaklis explained that the purpose of advertising is to sell a product - whether it be tooth paste or a presidential candidate.

She asked the children the different media advertisers use. This means the places where they put the ads for their clients. Our assistant editors mentioned newspapers, magazines, radio, TV, billboards. Michael Keddy even brought out that airplanes which carry banners or sky write are media.

Miss Georgaklis explained how advertisers decide where and when to place ads for their clients. One big function of the advertiser is the study of demographics. This means deciding how to reach the people who would be most likely to buy the product.

Ms. Georgaklis and the class decided on a product to sell - a strawberry scented, super sudsy shampoo. "Who would your market be?" she asked. The class decided that young teen-agers would be the market. Then they discussed what magazines they would place ads in, and what TV shows they would sponsor.

Miss Georgaklis then showed the class an advertising campaign from beginning to end. She showed how an image is decided on first. Then this image is followed through in each piece of advertising: magazine ads, newspaper ads, posters, tools for salesmen, mailing pieces that go directly to the home. She showed that advertising is a lot more than just writing copy and doing artwork. There is a great deal of research and follow up involved.

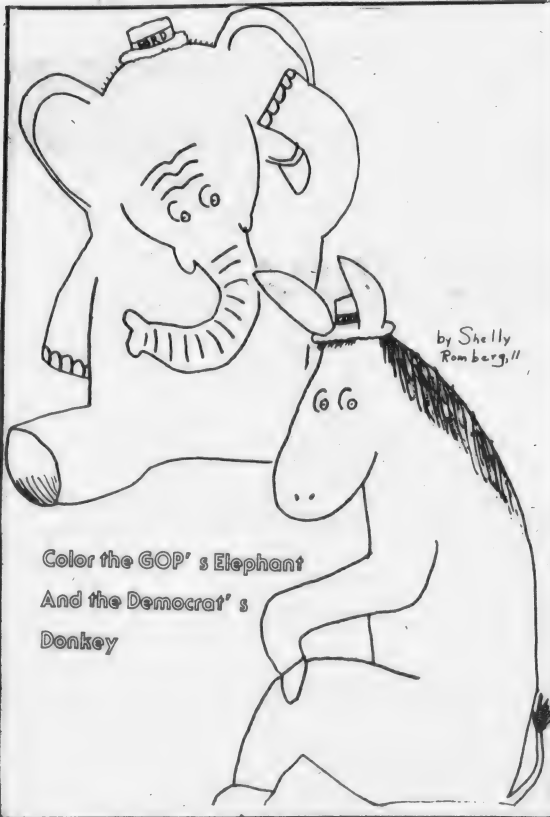

Our assistant editors decided to do an ad on the upcoming election. The thing that bothers the children the most is the number of people who will not vote. Shelly Romberg, 11, created Mr. Voter Apathy.

"Poor Politicians Are Elected By Those Who Don't Vote."

have been distributing stickers to homes throughout the district and will be on hand to pass them out near the polls.

Congressman James A. Burke (D-Milton), who survived a tough primary fight with Patrick H. McCarthy of Randolph, is facing general election opposition for the first time since 1966 when he easily defeated James L. Hoffer of Quincy.

This time the opposition is Danielle de Benedictis, 30, of Milton, a former assistant attorney general who is running as an independent for the seat that Burke has occupied since 1958.

The only other contested local office on the ballot is that of Norfolk District Attorney, where William D. Delahunt of Quincy is seeking to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of George G. Burke, also of Quincy.

Delahunt, a former state representative who was appointed to succeed Burke by Gov. Michael Dukakis, is opposed by Louis Goldstein, a Milton attorney who is on the ballot as an independent.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass) is expected to triumph for re-election over three opposing candidates, although his margin may not be as large as in 1970 due to disenchantment on the part of anti-busing forces in Boston and some suburbs.

Michael S. Robertson of Berkley is the Republican senatorial candidate and Carol Henderson Evans of the Socialist Workers Party and H. Graham Lowry of the U.S. Labor Party are also on the ballot.

Six years ago, Kennedy easily defeated Republican Josiah Spaulding, rolling up a margin of 22,232 to 12,413 in Quincy.

Presidential tickets composed of Gerald Ford and Robert Dole for the Republicans and Jimmy Carter and Walter Mondale for the Democrats are familiar to everyone but there will be four other sets of candidates on the ballot.

They are Anderson and Shackelford for the American Party; Camejo and Reid for the Socialist Workers Party; LaRouche and Evans for the U.S. Labor Party; and McCarthy and Stouffer, running as an independent ticket.

In the past two elections, Quincy has voted heavily Democratic in the Presidential contest, both times in losing causes.

The McGovern-Shriver ticket outpolled Nixon-Agnew by 23,528 to 17,763 in 1972 and Humphrey-Muskie won the city 26,209 to 12,604 for Nixon-Agnew in 1968.

Unopposed for re-election are Democrat Reps. Thomas Brownell in the First Norfolk District; Robert Cerasoli, Second Norfolk District; and James A. Sheets, in the Fourth Norfolk District. All are incumbent representatives.

Arthur H. Tobin has no opposition for re-election to the State Senate, as has Patrick J. (Sonny) McDonough of Boston for Governor's Council; John P. Concannon of Braintree for Norfolk County clerk of courts; and Barry T. Hannon of Braintree for register of deeds.

George B. McDonald of Quincy and James J. Collins of Milton are unopposed for the two Norfolk County commission seats.

The nine referendum questions that have attracted considerable attention during the campaign are:

1. The Equal Rights

Amendment to the State Constitution.

2. The graduated Income Tax Amendment to the State Constitution.

3. The Religious Absentee Voter Amendment to the State Constitution.

4. The Massachusetts Power Authority petition.

5. The Anti-Hand Gun Law petition.

6. The Bottle Bill petition.

7. The Uniform Electric Rate petition.

8. The Oil Refinery and Deep Water Port advisory.

9. The Blue Law Repeal advisory.

Quincy polling places will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Election Day.

basic minimum, right now, according to testimony here this evening, we are talking $400,000. We are talking $170,000 plus $140,000, plus $40,000 plus an additional $50-$60,000 for two year clerk of the works which the Council says is not needed. So we are talking a minimum $400,000 and we ought to get off the $310,000 figure. It's extremely misleading, through no fault of yours. But I just want to make sure that is abundantly clear here this evening that we're talking a $400,000 contract with the Kent Corp. Not knowing what other reimbursables are going to be forthcoming because we believe Section 9 is open ended. It could be much more. Is that a fair statement?

Bennett - I believe that's a fair statement.

Raymond - I feel that the "bottom line", the total of expected expenses that were to be reimbursed by the city.

Raymond - What is the estimate of the Kent Corp. at this point in time with the respect to the cost of Article 9 to the city of Quincy?

Bennett - Our estimate, at this point in time as to the reimbursables under Article 9 of our contract is somewhere in the order of $400,000. Also it might help the Council if I reviewed the breakdown going back to Article 7. Article 7 of our contract calls for Kent Corp. to be compensated as follows: Project management services, which does include our home office expenses and direct overhead is fixed for the duration of the project at $140,000. Also included in Article 7 during the management of the construction itself is the Kent Corp. management field staff salary costs charged against the budget of $170,000 as per the proposal.

Raymond - Does the $170,000 include the clerk of the works?

Bennett - No it does not.

Raymond - And does the clerk of the works come under Article 9?

Bennett - Yes, I believe it would but it would be over and above the $400,000 number that I mentioned.

Raymond - When you say Article 9 would cost the city $400,000 you're saying now its going to cost the city $70,000.

Bennett - The $400,000 number we have included under Article 9 as reimbursables are field office expenses, excluding the field staff. These are miscellaneous expenses: trailer rental, electricity, telephone for the trailer, copying, data processing services, etc. that total...we're projecting at this point $400,000. Over and above that, and I think this addresses your question, we are projecting additional owner costs that if they were to be billed through Kent Corp. rather than directly to the city would be reimbursable to Kent under Article 9 these are costs that an owner would experience regardless of who is managing the contract. The major item here would be the quality control expenses. We are projecting these at approximately $60,000. There's one further item - security. To date an independent security company has been engaged to provide security after working hours. We are projecting this expense until Nov. 1 of this year of approximately $5,000.

Raymond - When you add up all the contingencies that could arise in a project of this magnitude, what can the city of Quincy expect for a cost of work under Article 9?

Bennett - The total cost, including Article 7, or simply Article 9?

Raymond - Article 9, what would it cost the city of Quincy?

Bennett - If I were to add those three numbers together that I gave you, the $400,000 for the field office expenses, the quality control expenses, $60,000, and the security until Nov. 1, that would be $5,000, that totals $105,000. I think it might help the Council if I were to point out that, to the best of my understanding, on the basis of the comments made by Mr. Parker and Mr. Smith, that to compare our three proposals, it's my impression that one should add the $310,000 from Article 7 to the $400,000 from Article 9, which produces a figure of $350,000 and compare that with the $370,000 that Gilbane is proposing and also, if I understood Mr. Smith correctly, you would compare that $350,000 number to approximately $240,000 plus a number ranging from $120 to $200,000 which would be a number ranging from $360,000 to $440,000.

Councillor Kelly explored a new field.

Kelly - Just where is your office, Mr. Bennett?

Bennett - We are located in Boston at 125 Water St.

Kelly - The reason I asked you that question, the proposal says you are at 125 Water St. and the articles of organization say that you are at Landsdowne St. in Jamaica Plain.

Bennett - What company do you have there? We have never been in Jamaica Plain that I know of.

Kelly - Excuse me, it's 116 Longwood Ave., Brookline, Mass.

Bennett - When the company was formed that was the corporate office. We relocated our company last year. We purchased a building in Boston at the corner of Water and Broad Sts. That is our current address.

Kelly - How many people are in your home office?

Bennett - We have 14 employees, although some of those from time to time are in the field. For example, two of the 14, the two personnel that are in the field in Quincy are in that number.

Kelly - Correct me if I'm wrong, some of that staff has only been hired in the past month or so?

Bennett - Earlier this year, late spring, that is correct.

Kelly - The people down at North Quincy now, how long have they been in the employ of Kent Corp.?

Bennett - I believe since approximately the end of June, the first of July.

Kelly - They went on the job in June. You hired them in June, so that would be about possibly three months, then?

Bennett - Since June, that's correct.

Kelly - The trailer on the site, the field office, you rent that?

Bennett - I believe that's correct.

Kelly - Who do you rent it from?

Bennett - I don't know the answer to that question.

Kelly - Mr. Auditor, could you answer that question for me?

Shea - On Requisition No. 1, which is the first one I took out, the trailer is rented from BCM Inc.

Kelly - Thank you. Mr. Bennett, that's a reimbursable item, that's correct, right?

Bennett - That's right. It's correct.

Kelly - Do you have any connections with BCM Inc.?

Bennett - Yes. BCM Inc. is a subsidiary of Kent Corp.

Kelly - Could you tell me who the officers are on it?

Bennett - I believe George Cuker is president. I don't know who the other officers are.

Kelly - I'll read them to you. BCM Inc., the office is, again, at 116 Longwood Ave., the address that Kent Corp. originated out of, as you said. The president is George Cuker; the treasurer is Rita Cuker; the clerk is Rita Cuker; the directors are George Cuker, Rita Cuker and Bertha Cuker. Could you tell me who George Cuker is in regard to Kent Corp.?

Bennett - George Cuker is the president of Kent Corp.

Kelly - Could you tell me who Rita Cuker is?

Bennett - Rita Cuker is the wife of George Cuker.

Kelly - She's the wife of the president...

Bennett - Excuse me, Mr. Chairman...

Kelly - Could I ask you who Bertha Cuker is, sir?

Bennett - You can ask me, I don't know the answer.

Kelly - What you're saying to me in essence is that the president and the wife of the president of Kent Corp. are really being reimbursed through BCM Inc.

Bennett - I'm afraid I don't quite follow your line of questioning and secondly I'd like to ask Mr. Chairman if this line of questioning is appropriate.

Tobin - Mr. Bennett, you do not have to answer the question if you do not want to. It's solely within your prerogative.

Bennett - Basically I am not familiar with the corporate structure of the two companies and I have no knowledge as to...

Tobin - If you don't have any knowledge of it then I think it is an unfair question to you if you do not have any knowledge of it. Bennett - I cannot speak with authority on these subjects.

Kelly - Mr. President, if Mr. Bennett has no knowledge of it I certainly am not going to continue the questioning.

Tobin - The chair would rule, Councillor Kelly, that the documents speak for themselves.

Kelly - I was just going to say that the documents speak for themselves, and I would like to...

Tobin - The public documents.

Kelly - The public documents...

Tobin - The chair would rule that Mr. Bennett does not have to answer the question. He has stated that he has no personal knowledge but if you are in possession of documentation the documents speak for themselves.

Brett To Seek Lowering Abatement Age To 65

Rep. Joseph E. Brett (D-Quincy) has announced his intentions to file legislation in the 1977 session of the legislature to lower the eligibility age for elderly homeowners to qualify for abatements from local property taxes.

Brett, a veteran of 18 years in the State House, lost his reelection bid to Michael W. Morrissey in the Democratic primary but is running in next Tuesday's election on stickers.

Brett said his legislation will lower the eligibility age from 70 to 65 years.

Currently, homeowners 70 or older are eligible for a $4,000 abatement from the assessed value of their homes, subject to certain net worth and income limitations.

"Approved abatements result in a tax reduction of four times the community's tax rate," said Brett. "In Quincy, for example, this would result in a saving to eligible homeowners of almost $800 this year."

Retired Federal Employees Install Officers

The National Association of Retired Federal Employees met recently at the Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy to install officers.

Past President Patricia Werners installed the following:

President, Everett Richmond of Holbrook; first vice president Margaret Gallagher of Avon; secretary, Doris England of Holbrook; treasurer Frank McCormack of Weymouth; assistant treasurer Edith Keels of Weymouth; chaplain William Ryder of 85 Faxon Rd, Quincy; legislative Charles Hasey, Eventide Home, 215 Adams St., Quincy.

Members voted to hold a Christmas party. The president appointed all officers and Frank Howard and George Rollins to serve on the committee to make plans for the party.

Hasey read a letter explaining the new method of annuity raises will be handled in the future.

The next regular meeting will be Nov. 9, at 2 p.m. in the same location.

Partial List Of Accomplishments

- Strong and Vigorous opposition to "re-valuation" of homeowners' property
- A long-time leader in the campaign to preserve the Blacks Creek marshlands for open space
- Active in preventing the high-rise development of Wollaston Golf Course
- Actively concerned with improvements to Wollaston Beach area, including the acquisition of the so-called Kimberly property
- Involvement in the acquisition of the Squaw Rock area and improvements to the Moswetustett Hummock
- Brought to Quincy its only MDC Skating Rink, the Shea Rink in West Quincy
- * The prime mover in legislation which grants real estate tax abatements for elderly homeowners.

The key leader in the years-long struggle to legalize the game of BEANO which has brought so much enjoyment to hundreds of thousands of persons, many of whom would otherwise be subjected to loneliness and the monotony of being confined within their "four walls".

Joe Brett is a full-time legislator with a 99.5% attendance record at the State House. He listens to the "voice of the people" and is always available and ready to listen to any of his constituents.

For the good of the people of Quincy and the entire State of Massachusetts we urge you to put your BRETT "sticker" on the ballot for Representative in General Court when you go to the polls on Tuesday, November 2nd.

"BRETT STICKERS" will be delivered to your homes prior to Election Day. BRETT WORKERS at the polls will have stickers available in the event you should leave home without them.

If you will put your "BRETT STICKER" on the ballot for JOE BRETT, you can be darn sure JOE BRETT WILL STICK BY YOU.

4 Pre-Cana Conferences To Be Held At St. John's

Rev. Joseph M. Connolly announces that four Pre Cana Conferences for engaged couples will be held at St. John's Rectory Hall, Quincy Center.

They will be Sunday, Oct. 31 at 2:30 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 3 at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 9 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 14 at 2:30 p.m.

Any couple contemplating marriage may attend the conferences.

The first conference is given by the priest who speaks on contemporary marriage, touching upon such topics as role of husbands and wives, the needs of both partners, responsible family planning, nuclear family versus extended family, etc.

The second conference is given by a panel of married couples of different ages, backgrounds and situations. They share many things which will help couples to know each other better and communicate more fully with one another.

A doctor gives the third conference, in which he speaks of the physical and biological aspects of marriage and dispels many of the old wives tales surrounding sexual expression. The final conference is given by a priest who goes into the spiritual aspect of marriage, presents all the options available for the couple to plan their marriage celebration and concludes with an engagement ceremony and blessing of engagement rings.

All couples planning marriage are welcome to attend these conferences. There is no pre-registration or fee required.

Family Life Series Starts Nov. 3

The Adult Education Committee of St. John's Church, Quincy, will sponsor a three part series on family life on Wednesdays from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at St. John's School, Phipps St., Quincy.

At the first meeting Nov. 3, the topic will be "Communication of Parental Values". Emphasis will be on communicating, social, faith, and cultural values to other members within the family.

"Understanding Early Childhood Development" will be the topic of the second session

Nov. 10. The psychological and faith development of children in their early years will be presented.

Adolescent development and family response to the development will be the topic of the third meeting entitled "Understanding and Relating to the Adolescent", Nov. 17.

A panel comprised of two parents from the community and a professional staff member from the child development team of the South Shore Mental Health Association will discuss the topic at each session. The panel will be moderated by a member of the adult education committee.

Time will be allowed during each session for questions and answers, and discussion.

Coffee and refreshments will be served. The public is invited to attend.

Christian Science Lesson-Sermon

The Christian Science Bible

Lesson-Sermon this Sunday considers the subject "Everlasting Punishment" with the Responsive Reading from Isaiah 59: "Behold, the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear: But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear."

Church Service and Sunday School begin at 10:45 at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 20 Greenleaf St., Quincy. A Wednesday evening testimony meeting is held at 8 o'clock. Child care is provided. All are welcome.

MURIEL PEARCE'S SOCIAL SECURITY CHECK HAS TO COVER RENT, FOOD, MEDICINE, AND NOW MAYBE LITTERBUGS.

If the Bottle Bill passes, prices on every bottle and can of beer and soft drink you buy will go up.

Forced deposits are only the beginning. The higher costs will also reflect non-returnable sorting and handling charges.

It's the price we'll all have to pay for litterbugs.

And it's going to be tough on everybody. But it's going to be especially tough on people living off fixed incomes.

As if higher prices weren't enough, it's also the older people who'll find it most difficult to wash and find a place to store empties, lug them back to stores, and stand in lines to get deposits back.

The trouble is, the Bottle Bill is a false solution. We've tried monetary punishments. Unfortunately, they haven't worked. And if a $50 fine doesn't stop a slob, 5¢ a can won't.

It's an expensive solution that may cost the average Massachusetts family over $100* a year.

But most of all, it's an unfair solution.

How many people Muriel's age are throwing beer cans on our highways?

It's the same old story.

If the Bottle Bill passes, people with the least to give will have the most to lose.

And that's no solution at all.

*Some people have questioned the $100 figure. But if you have any questions please write to us. We'll be glad to send you the same substantiating material we showed the state authorities.

This is a 23 percent increase over last year's freshman class of 669 students.

Dr. Edward Pierce, President, said "two major factors contributing to the college's continued enrollment growth are low tuition and new programs".

"Quincy Junior College has not raised tuition for the past five years. In today's current economy, students are seeking good quality, low cost education. They are finding it at Quincy Junior."

Dr. Pierce also stressed that new programs are attracting increasing numbers of students.

"Our new Law Enforcement program, which began this September, has proved most popular for people interested in careers in criminal justice as well as for law enforcement officials who seek to upgrade their skills."

"In the last few years we have added to our curriculum programs in Early Childhood Education, Computer Science, Electronics Technology, a one-year pre-nursing program, as well as revising our programs in Business Administration, Secretarial Science, and Liberal Arts," added Dr. Pierce.

Overall, QJC enrollment is 4,240 students, including 1,370 day students, 2,177 evening college-credit students, and 693 students in community service credit-free courses.

Quincy Junior College is accepting day students as well as evening students for the January, 1977 semester.

3 QHS Seniors 'Commended Students'

Principal Lloyd M. Creighton announces that three seniors at Quincy High School have been named Commended Students in the Merit Program by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC).

Letters of Commendation were presented to Caren N. Gottlieb, Robert L. Nord and Michael S. Vitulano.

The three are among 35,000 Commended students nationwide who are being recognized for their outstanding performance on the 1975 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT). Commended students represent less than 2 per cent of the nation's secondary school senior class. Although Commended students scored below the level required for the 15,000 Semifinalists who will continue in the Merit Scholarship competition, their test performance indicates exceptional academic promise.

Shirley Harrow Takes Part In Tufts Program

Shirley A. Harrow of 62 Bay St., Squantum, and a member of Save Our Shores, Inc., recently participated in the Environmental Advocacy Program at Tufts University in Medford.

The program enables members of area citizen groups to enroll in one-year courses designed to broaden and enrich their understanding of environmental problems and to improve their ability to deal effectively with such problems.

QUESTION NO. 1

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution summarized below, which was approved by the General Court in joint sessions of the House of Representatives and Senate on August 15, 1973, by a vote of 261-0, and on May 14, 1975, by a vote of 217-55?

Yes
No

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment would provide that equality under the law may not be denied or abridged on the basis of sex, race, color, creed or national origin. This amendment adds one sentence to Article 1 of Part the First of the Constitution which now contains a general statement of individual rights, including the right to enjoy and defend life and liberty and the right to acquire and protect property.

QUESTION NO. 2

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution summarized below, which was approved by the General Court in joint sessions of the House of Representatives and Senate on August 15, 1973, by a vote of 199-66, and on May 7, 1975, by a vote of 228-41?

Yes
No

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment would authorize the Legislature to substitute for the present system of flat or uniform personal income tax rates a system of rates graduated according to the total amount of income received. The Legislature would also be authorized to provide for reasonable exemptions, deductions, credits, and abatements and could base Massachusetts income tax provisions on provisions of Federal income tax law.

QUESTION NO. 3 PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution summarized below, which was approved by the General Court in joint sessions of the House of Representatives and Senate on August 15, 1973 by a vote of 259-0, and on May 12, 1975, by a vote of 262-17?

Yes
No

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment would authorize the Legislature to provide for absentee voting by persons who hold religious beliefs in conflict with the act of voting on the day on which an election is to be held.

QUESTION NO. 4

LAW PROPOSED BY AN INITIATIVE PETITION

Do you approve of a law summarized below, which was disapproved by the House of Representatives on May 5, 1975, by a vote of 179-46, and on which no vote was taken by the Senate before May 7, 1975?

Yes
No

SUMMARY

SECTION 1 of the act inserts a new chapter 164B into the General Laws and establishes a Massachusetts Power Authority, a body corporate and politic with seven members appointed by the Governor to staggered six year terms. The Authority is to establish and operate a bulk power supply system to supply wholesale electric power to utilities throughout the Commonwealth. The primary purpose of the Authority is to supply the Commonwealth with power with the minimum adverse impact on the environment. The Authority is also authorized to engage in research and development of new sources of power, new siting techniques, and methods of environmental protection.

In carrying out its responsibilities, the Authority is authorized to adopt by-laws; adopt an official seal; maintain offices; sue and be sued; construct or acquire facilities either within or without the Commonwealth; issue revenue bonds and borrow money in anticipation of issuance of revenue bonds; acquire real and personal property; employ professional, managerial and other employees deemed necessary and fix their compensation to be paid solely out of revenues of the Authority; appear before other government agencies; apply for and receive federal or other grants of funds; and enter into contracts and agreements.

The Authority will build and operate all new generating and transmission facilities in the Commonwealth and has the option to purchase existing facilities through negotiation, condemnation, or eminent domain. After an initial two-year period, no other utility may construct a new facility unless the Authority certifies that it lacks the capability to finance the facility and the facility would further the purposes of the act.

The Authority will finance its activities by issuing revenue bonds. The bonds will be exempt from state taxation, but will not be backed by the full faith and credit of the Commonwealth. Power will be sold to other utilities by contract but no special discounts or bonuses to promote the increased use of power may be given. Public hearings are required on all major contracts.

The Authority is required to develop a master, 20-year demand study and siting plan within 18 months of its incorporation, to be updated each succeeding year. Sites will be selected in accordance with the Electric Power Facilities Siting Council Act of 1973. The Governor and the community in which any facility is to be located must affirmatively approve the facility before it can be constructed.

The Authority will be subject to all applicable federal and state environmental standards and must obtain all necessary federal and state permits and complete all necessary environmental impact statements.

The Authority will be exempt from taxation but will make payments in lieu of taxes to cities and towns in an amount equal to the tax which would be paid if the Authority's real and personal property were owned by a private electric utility company.

The Authority is forbidden from engaging in promotional or image advertising. The Authority has the authority to bargain collectively with its employees and is subject to the provisions of Chapter 150 of the General Laws, which governs the conciliation and arbitration of industrial disputes. Employees of the Authority are not subject to the civil service law and rules. Employees of utilities displaced by the activities of the Authority have first preference in employment by the Authority.

SECTION 2 of the act amends section 43 of Chapter 164 of the General Laws to provide that if a city or town votes, in accordance with the provision of Chapter 164, to establish a municipal utility and acquire the facilities of the utility currently serving the community, and the utility refuses to sell its property to the city or town, that the Department of Public Utilities will establish a fair price for the facilities, and the utility will be required to accept the price determined by the department and tender the deed for the facilities to the city or town.

QUESTION NO. 5 (This question appeared as question 5 (a) in the Information For Voters booklet.)

LAW PROPOSED BY INITIATIVE PETITION

Do you approve of a law summarized below, which was disapproved by the House of Representatives on May 3, 1976, by a vote of 197-35, and on which no vote was taken by the Senate before May 5, 1976?

Yes
No

SUMMARY

The proposed legislation would prohibit the possession, ownership, or sale of any weapon from which a shot or bullet can be discharged and which has a barrel length of less than sixteen inches. The prohibition would not apply to military personnel, law enforcement officers; federally licensed handgun manufacturers and wholesalers; common carriers in the ordinary course of transport; or to historical societies and museums. The act would not affect the possession of rifles, shotguns, and certain antiques and replicas. The proposal also does not change the existing statutory penalties for unlawful possession, ownership or sale of handguns, including provision imposing mandatory jail sentences.

The proposal would permit owners of handguns to surrender their weapons to any law enforcement agency in the Commonwealth within six months of the effective date of the act without incurring criminal liability. Those surrendering handguns within that six months will be compensated at a rate to be determined by the Commissioner of Public Safety.

QUESTION NO. 6

LAW PROPOSED BY AN INITIATIVE PETITION

Do you approve of a law summarized below, which was disapproved by the House of Representatives on May 3, 1976 by a vote of 146-85, and on which no vote was taken by the Senate before May 5, 1976?

Yes
No

SUMMARY

The proposed act would require every beverage container sold or offered for sale in the Commonwealth to have a refund value of at least five (5) cents, and would prohibit the sale of metal beverage containers with flip-tops. It would apply to containers for beer and other malt beverages and to soft drinks. It would not apply to containers for dairy products or natural fruit juices, nor to containers which are biodegradable.

The act would authorize the Secretary of Environmental Affairs to certify containers as reusable or recyclable. It contains both enforcement and penalty provisions and would take effect on February 1, 1977.

QUESTION NO. 7

LAW PROPOSED BY AN INITIATIVE PETITION

Do you approve of a law summarized below which was disapproved by the House of Representatives on May 3, 1976 by a vote of 182-49, and on which no vote was taken by the Senate before May 5, 1976?

Yes
No

SUMMARY

The proposed act would impose a general requirement that every electric utility company charge a uniform rate per kilowatt hour of electricity. The proposed act would exempt from this general rate rates charged to other electric utility companies and to residential customers who heat their principal place of residence by electricity. The Act would also permit a different rate to be charged residential customers for the first three hundred (300) kilowatt hours they consume each month, and would authorize "peak load" pricing whereby a higher rate than the uniform rate per kilowatt hour may be charged during the periods of the day or seasons of the year when consumption of electricity is the greatest. The Act would authorize the Department of Public Utilities to issue implementing rules and regulations and provides for enforcement.

QUESTION NO. 8

THIS QUESTION IS NOT BINDING

The following is a non-binding advisory question: "Shall the General Court enact legislation authorizing the construction of an oil refinery and a deep water port, subject to the approval of those communities directly affected and any reservations that the General Court may prescribe?"

Yes
No

SUMMARY

The Legislature has placed this question on the ballot in order to determine whether the people favor or oppose the construction of an oil refinery and deep water port in Massachusetts. The vote on this question is not binding on the Legislature. The question deals with the general advisability of such construction and is not a specific proposal for a facility. If a specific proposal is made, it would be subject to approval by the communities directly affected and subject to any restrictions imposed by the Legislature.

QUESTION NO. 9

THIS QUESTION IS NOT BINDING

The following is a non-binding advisory question: "Shall retail stores including package liquor stores, so called, be allowed to open for business on Sunday?"

Yes
No

SUMMARY

The Legislature has placed this question on the ballot in order to determine whether the people favor or oppose the Sunday opening of certain retail stores, including package liquor stores. As the law now stands, most retail and all package liquor stores must be closed on Sundays. The vote on this question is not binding on the Legislature.

First Quincy Architectural Poster Presented To Mayor

The first official copy of the Quincy Architectural Poster, designed to create new interest in Quincy's architectural heritage, was presented to Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia Tuesday by Planning Director L. Norman Lundin.

The poster, containing a photographic collage of architectural achievements in the city, was paid for through a federal grant.

Distribution of the posters will be handled through the Public Library and the School Department but residents wishing a complimentary copy for personal use may contact the Department of Planning and Community Development.

Brownell Poll Shows 58% Favor Graduated Income Tax

A graduated income tax, which was rejected overwhelmingly in a referendum four years ago, was approved by 58 per cent of those who took part in a recent poll conducted by Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy].

The question was among a list of nine involving random issues distributed to 8,000 homes in the Second Norfolk District. Brownell said he received 310 replies.

He said 58 per cent approved the graduated income tax, 35 per cent opposed and 6 per cent had no opinion.

"This may signal a shift in people's attitudes since in previous years people have rejected constitutional amendments to permit a graduated tax in Massachusetts," said Brownell.

Other questions asked in the poll and the percentages received were:

Should further reductions be made in the state budget even if such reductions result in additional cuts in human services programs? Yes - 71, No - 29, Abstention - 0.

Would you support legislation to permit insurance companies to offer competitive prices for auto insurance so that people can shop for the lowest cost insurance, rather than the present system of uniform insurance rates by the state? Yes - 87, No - 7, abstention - 6.

Would you support a local option rent control law? Yes - 55, No 45, abstention - 0.

Do you favor voluntary, tax-supported busing of school children to achieve racial integration [such as METCO] between Quincy and any other community? Yes - 16, No - 81, abstention - 3.

Should Massachusetts ban the private ownership of handguns?

Yes - 48, No 48, abstention - 4.

Do you support the following referendum question: "An act to lower electric bills for residential customers, small business, and other small users by establishing Fair Share Rates by requiring electric companies to charge a uniform rate per kilowatt hour?" Yes - 74, No - 23, abstention - 3.

Do you support the building of a secondary Sewage Treatment facility at Nut Island in Houghs Neck to achieve federal water quality standards? Yes - 35, No - 52, abstention - 13.

Tuitions at state supported University of Massachusetts and state community colleges should be based on the family's ability to pay rather than a minimal tuition that enables almost anyone to attend the college regardless of financial standing. Yes - 87, No - 10, abstention - 3.

Panel Named To Judge Christmas Parade Floats

Hugh Sloan, co-ordinator of art for the Weymouth Public Schools, has been named to head the panel judging the floats in this year's Quincy Christmas Festival Parade, announces General Chairman George C. Fay.

Thomas Folan, president of the Milton Art Association, and Harold Hawkes, president of the Braintree Art Association, have been named members of the three-man panel.

The panel will be called on to judge the adherence of floats to the parade theme - "Especially for Children". They will also consider the originality, use of material and color, and the overall look of the entry.

Richard A. Venna, chairman of the Floats Division, reports 22 floats are already entered in the parade. These include Youth Division entries from Sir Thomas More, St. Joseph's CYO, North Weymouth K. of C., Milton Rainbow Girls, South Shore Campfire Girls and Broad Meadow's School.

The Adult Division entries include: Quincy High School

Alumni, Curtain Call Theatre, Quincy Lodge of Elks, Sons of Italy, North Quincy K. of C., Braintree, Post 86, American Legion, Supporters of Survival and Headstart.

A number of Quincy commercial organizations have also entered floats. Among them is the Patriot Ledger's "Leapin' Lena", Jason's, Peter's Landing, Montilio's Bakery.

The judges will view the entries at the First National Parking lot at Beale and Hancock Streets at 11 a.m. and the judging will continue until 12:30 p.m. The floats will also be judged during the parade as it moves along Hancock Street through the city.

The panel will give it's decision after the parade passes the main reviewing stand in front of St. John's church. The committee has announced that all floats in the Youth and Adult categories and competing will be awarded a $100 prize. The top winners in each class will win $500 plus a trophy. The best Commercial entry will be awarded a trophy by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, sponsors of the parade.

Who will take over the World?

by Carroll O'Connor

"Who will take over the world?" Archie Bunker would ask. "Who will take over the neighborhood?" But with the increasing interdependence of our planet, the neighborhood and the world are pretty much the same thing. So the answer to both questions is certainly the same—children.

We Americans take a lot for granted for our children: clean living conditions, good food, good schools. But in the poor countries, where three-fourths of the world's children live, other things are taken for granted: disease, malnutrition, illiteracy. Under these conditions a peaceful, secure world of the future is in grave doubt.

My wife Nancy and I are chairing this year's National UNICEF Day Campaign. We are happy to be a part of the activities that will be taking place across the country for UNICEF this Halloween: Trick or Treating, benefit intramural sports events, collections in shopping centers, cyclethons, hayrides, arts and crafts sales, and many more. Please help us observe UNICEF Day in whatever way you can.

The O'Connors are for UNICEF because UNICEF is for children—children who especially need our help.

Police Boys Club Babe Ruth Champs Honored At Banquet

The Quincy Police Boys' Club, the city Babe Ruth League champion, was honored recently at a banquet at the Winfield House.

The Police Club finished with a 26-2 record, including a post season win over a team of Puerto Rican players from New York. The team won its last 21 games and is sponsored by the Quincy Police Betterment Association.

Trophies went to Fran Donovan, the top batter with a .406 average; Tom Brennan, the leading pitcher with a 9-0 record; Bob Mezzetti for pitching a no-hitter against Granite City; Larry Baker, all-star outfielder; and Billy Oakes, the unsung player.

The other players were presented baseball medallions, inscribed "1976 City Champs". They were, Bill O'Connell, Bob Cronin, Kevin McKinnon, Steve Sweet, John Sullivan, Gary DiNardo, John Costigan, John Sweet, Ron Pettinelli and Bruce Tobin. All players received jackets and autographed team baseballs in a personalized holder paid for by members of the Quincy Police Dept.

Fifty attended the banquet including the players and their parents. Head table guests included Quincy Baseball Leagues Comr. George Derrane and his wife, Stat Rep., and City Councilor Jim Sheets, Police Chief Francis X Finn, Quincy Police Betterment President Jack Tocchio, Mike Peatridge representing Mayor Joseph LaRaia, State Sen. and Council President Arthur Tobin, whose son is a member of the team, Coach Dick Laracy and Asst.

Coach Shorty Donovan and their wives.

Mrs. Lena Strout, owner of the Winfield House, honored the players by feeding them free of charge. A picture of the players with their awards was taken by photographer Ed Sweeney.

The following night at Montello's in Quincy Point the players received their championship trophies.

Bantam B's Win, 7-2

Quincy's Bantam B hockey team defeated Randolph, 7-2, as Tom Roche, Joe Rathgeb and Mark Boussy paced the offense and John Heard and P. T. Kelly excelled in goal.

The strong defense was sparked by Robert Palamo and Mark Veasey.

Donovan, Austin Win Most Valuable Player Awards

Fran Donovan of the city champion Police Club won the National League Kenneth Battista Memorial Award as the Most Valuable Player in his division in the Quincy Babe Ruth League.

Austin is also a football, basketball and baseball player at Broad Meadows and received the French's pennant 15-year-old hit, run and throw award this year.

The Battista Award is given each year by the Quincy Police Betterment Association and the Grasso Award is donated by Houghs Neck Legion Post.

Donovan, a standout athlete at Broad Meadows Junior High where he plays football, basketball and baseball, is also an honor student. He led his team to a 26-2 record this summer. The award is named for Kenneth Battista, who was shot to death while a member of the 1973 Police club team which also won the city title.

Dave Austin, who led the Firemen to the American League crown, received the Paul Grasso Memorial Award as the division's MVP. This award is named for a former Houghs Neck Legion player who was killed in Vietnam.

'Comeback' Presidents Host Weymouth N.

Quincy's football team, buoyed by a great comeback win in the last four seconds at Malden last week, returns to Veterans Memorial Stadium Saturday for a 1:30 p.m. Suburban League game with Weymouth North and the Presidents should be sky high after last Saturday's thrilling 18-17 non-league win, their second.

"This win should give us a big boost, coming back from a 17-6 deficit," a happy Coach Hank Conroy said. "The defense was outstanding and hit hard, forcing seven Malden fumbles, which we took advantage of."

Quincy, playing away from home the last two weeks, will face a Weymouth North team which has shown good defense in most games but has only two wins, a 7-3 decision over Braintree and a surprise 8-7 squeaker over Brockton. It has lost to North Quincy, Brookline, Newton and Waltham.

"It was a wide open game with both teams moving the ball well, but our defense was tough when it had to be and their fumbles were caused by our hard hitting," Conroy said. "Our passing game carried us through at the end with Dennis Walter passing well and Ron Donovan, Paul Vallatini, and Rick Coose kept us alive with some fine receptions."

They stopped the clock by going out of bounds, which enabled the Presidents to keep the winning drive going. Walter completed five of six passes on this drive and the winner was a nine-yarder to Coose with four seconds remaining on the clock.

"Walter was injured in the first period and John Houten came on in the second period and did a fine job," Conroy said. "Walter came back in the third period and he was just great on that winning drive."

"All our ends, Donovan, Vallatini, Coose and Mike Farrell, played very well. Malden blitzed all afternoon but our offensive line rose to the occasion. Mark Buchanan had another outstanding day, carrying the ball 143 yards, and Len Picot had one of his better days, playing well on both offense and defense and his punting was outstanding as usual. Mark Merlis started in the backfield but was injured early and Picot came on. The offensive tackles, Mike Duggan and Dave Eastwick, did a fine job and Billy Brennan had another good game with some more fine blocking."

The entire defensive unit was lauded by assistant coaches John Bogan and Bill Mayer, including Coose, Donovan, Duggan, Tom Conine, Bob Derbes, Don Heath, Steve Shields, Jimmy Maze, Larry Calley, Picot, Pat Gibbons, Rich Burns and Eastwick.

Quincy took an early lead when Buchanan scored from the 12 after the Presidents had recovered a fumble on Malden's 20.

Malden took the lead later in the opening period on a 34-yard run by Sean Brickman, who also kicked the go-ahead point.

In the third period Malden's Tim Buckley scored from the four and Dennis Grace rushed for the points to put the home team ahead, 15-6.

Early in the final period Buchanan was tackled in his end zone to make it 17-6.

Buchanan soon cut the lead to five points with a brilliant 84-yard touchdown run after Picot had recovered another of Malden's many fumbles.

With time running out Walter began his passing drive which culminated with the winning touchdown just before the final whistle.

Malden had 10 first downs to six for Quincy, while the losers ground out 229 yards on the ground to Quincy's 172. Both teams had 85 yards in passing, with Quincy having 5 for 13 and Malden 6 for 12.

After the game the Quincy coaches and players signed the game ball and went to Quincy City Hospital where they presented it to Wayne French, who had developed into one of the team's best runners but was injured the previous week and required knee surgery.

North Quincy's cross country team, virtually assured of second place again in the Suburban League, will take part in the State Coaches Meet Saturday and will wind up its league season next Tuesday against Quincy over the North course. Quincy will also compete in the coaches' meet on Saturday.

Boasting a 7-1 record (6-1 in the league) and defeated only by Brockton, which is unbeaten in four years, Lou Tozzi's North runners last week breezed over Weymouth North, 17-37, as Bob Levenson, Mike Morin and Mike Barrett tied for first place in 12:35 over the 2.3 mile North course.

Weymouth took the next two places but the Raiders' Mike Ketzner was sixth, Jerry Kiebs seventh and Dave Abbot 10th.

The North girls, however, continued winless as they lost to Weymouth North, 22-35.

The Raiderettes' first finisher was Debbie Coutts in fifth place. Sue Yee was sixth, Mary Leonard seventh, Michele Seltzer eighth, Judy Malloy ninth and Carol Seegraber 10th.

Newton N. 13, North 9

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy's football team [4-1] will attempt to rebound from what had to be one of the most frustrating defeats in many years when it plays at Brookline Saturday in a 1:30 p.m. Suburban League game.

The Raiders faced Newton North in a battle of the undefeated last Saturday at Veterans' Memorial Stadium and were picked to lose by all the newspapers.

Trailing, 13-7, with about a minute left, North had a first down on Newton's one-yard line and, with "automatic" Ed McElaney waiting to go in and try for the winning point, things looked extremely bright for the Raiders.

However, a North Quincy player was caught for a personal foul, the Raiders were penalized back to the 16 and a pass interception ended the big threat as Newton held on for a 13-9 win, giving up an intentional safety soon after the interception.

North Quincy's defense was superb as it held Newton's vaunted ground game to 48 yards, while the Raiders picked up 136 yards rushing.

Newton, which won on two first half scoring passes, had a slight edge in passing with 113 yards to 110 for North. Newton

NORTH QUINCY SCORING

McElaney	0	7	2	13
Adams	2	0	0	12
McIntyre	2	0	0	12
Donaghey	1	2	0	8
Doyle	1	0	0	6

had four for eight and North nine for 18, but North had two intercepted, including the fatal one at the end. North Quincy had 19 first downs to a mere five for the winners.

"This was just a great game and I thought we had it at the end, but that penalty killed us," said a disappointed Coach Dave Burke. "We'll never have a more costly penalty called on us. The defense did another fantastic job and the offense also played very well. We moved the ball well against a real tough defense. We pushed them all over the field but those two big passing plays killed us."

The coaches were reluctant to single out any particular player on defense or in the offensive line, as everyone had a good day.

Mike Adams, one of North's better running backs, was on crutches but junior John Wilkinson, who had performed admirably in his place the previous week, came up with another excellent game. Bill McIntyre and George Wallace had good days once again and Brian Donaghey and Dennis Doherty did a fine job at quarterback.

The many North fans had a chance to cheer right away as the Raiders drove from their 30 on the opening kickoff and scored in nine plays. Wallace raced 26 yards to the Newton 21 and on the next play McIntyre, apparently stopped at the line of scrimmage, broke loose and went the rest of the way for the touchdown. McElaney kicked the extra point.

North's joy was shortlived as Newton's Kevin Hinchey went for the bomb on the first play, threw a perfect pass into Bob Manning's hands and he raced 39 yards to complete a spectacular 71-yard scoring play. Dallas Morgan kicked the tying point.

"I guess you'd have to say they caught us by surprise on that pass," Burke admitted.

Early in the second period Manning recovered a North Quincy fumble on the Raiders' 47 and Newton scored on two passes, both to Mario Luchetti, the first for 22 yards and the second for 19 and the score. The kick for the extra point was blocked.

North received a tough break a few plays later when a long pass from Donaghey to Wilkinson was dropped near the goal line.

A North pass was intercepted on its 43 on the third play of the final period but Newton had to kick, and two plays later Newton's Chris Flaherty recovered a fumble on his 27.

A few plays later North's Frank McGinnis fell on a Newton fumble on Newton's 11-yard line but when Newton held and North had to kick, it looked to be all over for the Raiders.

However, on the first play Newton's top ball carrier, Ray Acheson, fumbled and the Raiders' Steve Bonoli recovered on his 47.

PeeWee B's Blank Milton, 9-0

The Pee Wee B team, sponsored by Adams Shore IGA Foodliner, breezed past Milton, 9-0, sparked by hat tricks by Steve Baylis and Frank Reynolds. Other goals were scored by Mike Marshall, John O'Connell and Kevin Duff.

Squirt B's Win 4th Straight

Quincy's Squirt B hockey team won its fourth straight game, 6-3, over Milton.

John Krantz had two goals and Bobby Kane, Sean Barry, Richie Horrigan and Jamie

North picked up a first down on Newton's 39, and, following two short gains, Doherty passed to Jim Fry, who lateraled to McIntyre. It appeared he was on his way to the tying touchdown but was forced out of bounds on the Newton five. Pass interference then gave North the ball on the one, but the fatal 15-yard penalty ended the Raiders' hopes.

Hinchey stepped out of the end zone to give North two points and, following the Newton kick, North could do nothing as Newton took the ball on its 35 and ran out the clock.

Brookline, Saturday's opponent, has only a win over Weymouth North, while losing to Wellesley, Waltham, Weymouth South and Brockton.

Ralph Fitzmaurice had three assists, Marshall, Joe Livingstone, Keith Blaney and Bobby Lynch two each and Reynolds, Baylis, Tommy Dunphy, Tommy Benson, Dean Phillips and Chris Gorman one apiece.

Seamon one each. Dave Edgren had two assists and Seamon, Kane, Horrigan, Richie Marnell, Billy Glavin and Barry one apiece.

The Top Ten: Hallberg, 115.0; Mike Regan, 105.3; Joe Godas, 103.7; Brian O'Toole, 102.3; Joe Crico, 100.3; Bill Stewart, 100.3; Fred Norton, 99.3; John Reardon, 99.3; Jim Sullivan, 98.0; Paul Anastas, 97.0 and Joe Piazza, 97.0.

Track Club X-Country City Championships Saturday

The Quincy Track Club will hold its first city cross country championships Saturday at 10 a.m. over the 1.35-mile course at Paganet Field.

Trophies will go to the winner in each age group.

Last Saturday the club held the fourth in its series of five meets which was dedicated to Mrs. Esther Doherty, mother of QTC assistant coach Paul "Doc" Doherty and two members of the club, Steve and Peter. Mrs. Doherty died suddenly last Thursday.

Two records were set and two tied in the meet. Art Douglas took four seconds off his old record of 8:31 and Linda Kelleher improved by 18 seconds in setting a 14-15 girls mark. John Furey tied Steve Rodriguez' record in the 14-15 boys and Sheila Barrett tied her own record in the 11 and under girls. Kathy Kelly and Mark Fishman also turned in excellent times as the members continue to improve each week.

The summary:

BOYS

14-15 years old - 1. John Furey, 7:21 (ties record), 2. Pete Rizzo, 3. Mike Crowley, 12-13 - 1. Gerard McCormick, 7:44, 2. Steve Healey, 3. John O'Connell, 4. Dave Dindy, 5. John Hogan, 6. John O'Hare, 7. John Connolly, 11 and under - 1. Art Douglas, 8:28 (new record), 2. Jim Flaherty, 3. Dan Johnson, 4. Jim White, 5. Mark Fishman, 6. Mike Flaherty, 7. Paul Connolly.

GIRLS

14-15 - 1. Linda Kelleher, 8:51 (age record), 12 - 13 - 1. Michelle Millane, 8:07, 2. Linda Morash, 3. Kathy Kelly, 4. Sheila Connolly, 5. Denise Santo, 6. Sheila Bellotti, 7. Tricia Canavan, 11 and under - 1. Sheila Barrett, 8:56 (ties age record), 2. Laura Kelleher, 3.

Bernadette Murphy, 4. Joanne Connolly, 5. Terry Reinhardt, 6. Patty Storer, 7. Mary Ann Kelleher, 8. Lisa Kerr, 9. Linda Kennedy, 10. Lisa Locke, 11. Geraldine Murphy.

The QTC girls' team made a fine showing in the Seacoast Invitational meet at Exeter Academy.

The 11 and under team placed second with 54 points, being nipped by Dorchester TC with 50. AAU rules state that age groups are determined by age as of Jan. 1, 1976, dropping such standouts as Michelle Millane and Linda Kelleher down a class. Michelle had missed a week of practice due to a knee injury and had to settle for fifth in the 11 and under group.

Sheila Barrett, ninth, Bernadette Murphy 12th, Laura Kelleher, 13th and Denise Santo, 15th, were QTC scorers. Tracey Crossman, only seven years old and running her first race ever, showed great promise as she finished 37th.

Of 41 finishers in the race 23 were from Quincy. In the 12-13 group Linda Kelleher was 14th and Linda Morash 15th. In the 14 and over group Linda Collina was eighth with a respectable 20:49 timing. The top 20 in all age groups won shirts and all finishers received ribbons.

SYC Auxiliary Bowling League

The Quantum Yacht Club Ladies Auxiliary has formed a bowling league, to be known as "The Hot Flashes". The ladies will bowl Tuesdays from 7 to 9

● Girls Volleyball

Quincy Off To Good Start, North Rebuilding

Girls' volleyball is still in its infancy at Quincy and North Quincy High but Barbara Webster's Quincy girls are off to a fine start and have high hopes of qualifying for the state tournament.

Quincy's win over North Quincy last Friday gave the First Ladies a 6-2 record. Friday they will play at Brockton and next Wednesday they will host Brookline at the old Quincy High gym.

Ms. Webster's varsity squad is small in numbers but makes up for the lack of numbers with skill in all departments. Five of the seven varsity players are back from last year.

The varsity includes Seniors Lois Malvesti, Carole Lynch, Claire Oliverio and Nancy Mattson and the two newcomers, juniors Kathy Flaherty and Janice Russo.

The Quincy girls have wins over Newton twice, North Quincy, Brockton and Brookline. They lost to Waltham and Cambridge Latin.

The win over Brockton marked only the second time that any Quincy or North Quincy girls' team had defeated Brockton. The other win was last spring by the Quincy softball team.

"The offense is sparked by Lois Malvesti and Carole Lynch, who can spike the ball as hard as anybody in the league," Coach Webster said. "Nancy Mattson and Claire Oliverio are our setters and the defense revolves around Kathy Flaherty and Janice Russo in the back line. It is hard to single out any one player. This team is unique in that any girl can do any skill when called upon, spike, block, dig or bump.

"They are a well-rounded, skilled group and work hard. If we keep playing the way we did against Brockton, we may just qualify for the state tournament.

"An afternoon would be well spent in dropping by to see the girls play. One may be quite surprised to see girls diving to the floor, digging a ball out of the net, or serving an overhead serve which would give any boy a little trouble returning."

The junior varsity team includes seniors Debbie Lyons and Patty Cannon, juniors Tricia McPhillips and Patty Maloney and sophomores Karen Murphy, Debbie Russo, Susan Jones, Carol Anderson, Paula Lynch and Donna Morrissey.

Things are not so bright at North Quincy where new coach Ralph Koelsch is rebuilding with only one player with varsity experience.

"The varsity was only 1-11 and the junior varsity 2-10 a year ago and we have only one varsity returnee," Koelsch said.

"However, the desire to excel is great and the girls are showing steady improvement. Although we are 0-8, we have given the tough Suburban League teams all they can handle. Next year, look out, Suburban League."

The varsity is led by Co-Captains Gayle Kelly, a senior, and Roseann Befera, a junior. Gayle is the only experienced player and only senior. Rounding out the squad are juniors Donna Chiampa, Julianne Drain and Jeanette Nolan, and sophomores Phyllis Germain, Ann Geribo, Diane Kiley, Lisa Belcastro and Debbie Belanger.

The junior varsity includes Capt. Carol White, a junior; juniors Claire Wildes, Kathy Forrest, Sue Ivey, Liz Fronduto, Debbie Stanton and Linda Hoffstin and sophomores Ellen MacDonald, Carol Flynn, Irene Stevens, Amy Constat, Beth McCarthy and Lori McGrath.

North will host Waltham Friday and next Wednesday will play at Brockton.

Love Works Wonders

Q. Would you be so kind as to analyze my nineteen year old son's horoscope? I would value any help I can receive, as I am a widow and find it difficult to replace the void in his life. He was nine when his dad lost his life heroically and my son was deeply affected by it. His birthdate is July 24, 1957 at 10:52 A.M. in Marlboro, Mass. He has a rebellious streak and blames the times.

F.S.

A. Your son has the unusual combination of the Sun, Uranus, Mars, Mercury, Venus and Pluto, all in Leo; the Moon in Gemini; Neptune was in Libra; Saturn in Sagittarius; Jupiter in Virgo; and a Libra Ascendant. There is not a single planet in any Water Sign.

These indicate much vitality, a strong mind, quick temper and a tendency to be direct and to the point in expressing himself. There appears to be considerable nervous pressure and a tendency to "kick over the traces" so to speak, especially during the early half of life.

He seems to need some ideal person whom he can look up to and emulate. His Sun quadrature aspect to Neptune is indicative of deceptive feelings, some confusion and an inner sense of insecurity at times.

His Sun in Favorable Aspect to the planet Jupiter, [Sextile], is indicative of an ability to overcome the feeling of insecurity giving him self-confidence and strengthening his constitution by obtaining ample sleep and rest. He has much love to give which at times may be inhibited and he is in need of much affection.

In time he could achieve recognition, which inwardly he wants so much, and reach a high degree of success as an organizer, administrator, executive or teacher.

Tom Dowling President Hingham Civic Music Theater

Tom Dowling of Quincy has been elected president of the Hingham Civic Music Theater, succeeding Myles McCabe of Hingham.

Other officers are: Marion Hawkins, Marshfield, vice president; Ruth Ferrara, Squantum, treasurer; Mary Ela, Hingham, recording secretary and Cathy Caruso, Cohasset, corresponding secretary.

Directors are Vilet Villani, Ruth Bliss, Joe Ela and Mr. McCabe, all of Hingham. Committee chairmen are Nancy McArthur, Hingham, program; Sharon Petti, Hanson, scholarship; Lois Pothier, Hingham, finance; Barbara McSwan, Weymouth, membership; Mary Carlin, Hingham, tickets and Mel Caruso, Cohasset, printing.

The group is currently rehearsing Gilbert & Sullivan's "The Mikado", for presentation at Hingham High School at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Nov. 5 and 6, and at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 7.

Films For Young Adults At Adams Shore Library

A series of films for young adults will be held every other week beginning Nov. 1, at the Adams Shore Branch Library, 519 Sea St.

The first program is entitled

"On the Move" and is composed of four films: "Vicious Cycles", a spoof about a motorcycle gang, "Popsicle", motorcycle riding in America, "Burn On!", a cinematic essay about drag racing, and "Braverman's Condensed Cream of Beatles", a film collage-history of the Beatles.

The program will be presented from 3 to 4 p.m., free of charge.

Stories To Give Shivers At Main Library Friday

"Stories to give shivers" will be told at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Center, Friday, at 3:30 p.m.

The program is one in a series of story hours, "The Enchanted Hour," for children from seven through ten years old.

In Friday's story hour there will be a parade of sinister characters including Bluebeard, some wicked One from Japan, a poetic bogeyman, and a more familiar assortment of ghosts and witches. One spirited activity invites children to create their own witch by selecting features from a variety of eyes, eyebrows, noses, and mouths and attaching them to a styrofoam head.

The story hour series continues on Fridays at 3:30 p.m. through Nov. 19, with: "Spooky Stories" Oct. 29; "American Folk Tales" Nov. 5; "Fools and Foolishness" Nov. 12; and "Stories in Song" Nov. 19.

● Executive Hockey

Millot's Hat Trick Paces Hofbrau, 5-3

Paul Millot had the hat trick as the Hofbrau topped the white team, 5-3, in Executive Hockey League action last Sunday at the Youth Arena.

Warren Mills, Paul Lewis and Dave Towle had the other Hofbrau goals with assists for Towle, Art Boyle, Jack Powers, Russ Erickson and Fran Whalen. John McNeil, Bob Hayes and Bill Sweeney scored for the Whites with Bob Kallstrom and Ron Fletcher having assists.

Washington Tap defeated the Green team, 9-5, sparked by Dave Malchon's hat trick and two goals each by John Emmott and Wayne Gauthier. Pete Laberge and Bob Duffy also had goals. Marty Tolson had three assists and John Mitie, Emmott, Kevin White and Duffy one each. For the Greens Dave Hickey, Al Bonani, Joe Noonan, Fran Bonani and Joe Gandin had the goals. Tom Roberts had two assists and Al Bonani one.

Al's Cafe and Darcy's Pub fought to a 5-5 tie. Ted Cuniff, with Joe Larkin assisting, and Bob Donovan, with Larkin and Cuniff assisting, put Darcy's ahead, 2-0, in the first period. Larkin made it 3-0 in the second on Larkin's goal but Al's came back with four goals, two by John Gibbs and one each by John Mallone and Dick McCabe, with McCabe having two assists and John Crossbow and Gibbs one apiece.

Alan Gullickson tied it up for Darcy's in the third but Bob O'Connell put Darcy's ahead with Donovan and Cuniff assisting. With 16 seconds left in the game Mike Haynes scored the tying goal for Al's with Gibbs assisting.

Tax Reform Measure Chamber Breakfast Topic Nov. 4

A tax reform measure that is expected to have greater impact on taxpayers than any previous attempt at such reform, will be explored in detail by two tax experts at a South Shore Chamber of Commerce breakfast on Thursday, Nov. 4.

The Tax Reform Act of

Political Advertisement

1976, recently signed into law by President Ford, is a complex measure, the major thrust of which is restrictions on the use of tax shelters by high-bracket taxpayers, according to Chamber President Jack Conway.

Conway, pointed out that the new tax law will raise many important questions that will require specific and detailed answers. He urged area business firms, especially those planning transactions which would be affected by the new tax rules, to attend the 7:44 a.m. breakfast session.

The two speakers at the breakfast meeting in the Sheraton Tara, Braintree, are from the Certified Public Accountant firm of Alexander Grant & Co.; Thomas Geary, partner-in-charge of the Boston Office, and William D. MacGillivray, tax supervisor.

In addition to explaining tax shelter restrictions, the speakers will cover tax rules and a variety of provisions affecting individual taxpayers and business firms.

A question and answer period will follow the presentations.

● ERA 'Yes' ● Handgun Ban, Uniform Electric Rate 'No'

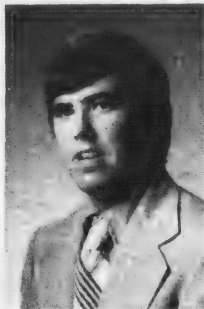

Carter, Burke, Morrissey Win

JAMES CARTER

JAMES A. BURKE

MICHAEL W. MORRISSEY

By TOM HENSHAW

Young Michael W. Morrissey repeated his stunning primary upset of Rep. Joseph E. Brett in Tuesday's general election, defeating the veteran legislator by a margin of better than 3-1 for the Third Norfolk District seat.

With two precincts still uncounted at Quincy Sun press time early Wednesday, Morrissey had 6,231 votes to 1,804 for Brett.

The 22-year-old Morrissey, running for his first political office, soundly trounced the 69-year-old Brett in the Democratic primary in September but Brett chose to continue their rivalry on stickers in the general election.

Young Morrissey credited his victory to "hard work" and pledged to voters in his district that he will continue that hard work for them on Beacon Hill when he takes office in January.

President-elect Jimmy Carter of Georgia, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and Cong. James A. Burke also swept to victory in the city.

Carter triumphed nationally over Republican President Gerald R. Ford by taking 51 per cent of the vote with 48 per cent for Ford and Eugene McCarthy, running as an Independent, getting 1 per cent.

With 95 per cent of the vote in, Carter had 38.5 million, Ford 36.6 million.

Carter took Quincy with 57 per cent of the vote, leading the President 22,906 to 16,687 with two precincts still to report.

Kennedy, who has held the Senate seat since 1962, easily prevailed over Republican Michael S. Robertson of Berkeley, collecting 71 per cent of the vote statewide and nearly 70 per cent in Quincy.

Burke, 66, running for his 10th term in Congress, demolished 30-year-old Danielle de Benedictis, a former assistant attorney general from Milton, running as an Independent.

With 90 per cent of the district vote in, Burke was in front 111,549 to 51,429.

In Quincy, with two precincts missing, he had a lead of 28,240 to 11,747 for Miss de Benedictis.

Norfolk Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt of Quincy easily turned back the challenge of Milton attorney Louis Goldstein, who was on the ballot as an Independent.

Delahunt out-pollled him by a 5-1 margin in Quincy.

On the referendum side of the ballot, the Equal Rights Amendment apparently won statewide by a narrow margin and was taking Quincy with an equally narrow advantage.

With four of the six wards complete, the ERA amendment was holding a 14,492 to 13,548 lead.

The referendum that would ban hand guns went down to a resounding defeat in Massachusetts and Quincy went right along with the state vote, defeating the proposal by a vote of better than 2 to 1.

As The Sun went to press, the fate of the so-called Bottle-Bill was in doubt statewide but Quincy voters turned thumbs down on it.

With two wards still out, it was 13,171 in favor of returnable bottles and cans and 15,470 against.

Reps. James A. Sheets, Thomas Brownell and Robert Cerasoli, all Democrats, won re-election without opposition.

So did Sen. Arthur H. Tobin, Governor's Councilor Patrick (Sonny) McDonough, Clerk of Courts John P. Concannon, Register of Deeds Barry T. Hannon and County Commissioners George B. McDonald and James J. Collins.

The voter turnout in Quincy was a hefty 84.1 per cent, about 5 per cent higher than that expected by City Clerk John Gillis.

Flag Of Truce?

Mayor Planning Meetings With Council

The initial shock of a $34.90 tax rate increase is wearing off and Quincys day-to-day problems of dealing with an austerity budget in the face of strife between Mayor and City Council is about to begin.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia acknowledged the problems this week when he held out a tentative flag of truce to the Council.

"I'm going to try to plan a series of meetings with the Council on a continual basis," he told The Sun.

"We are going to set a time when we can meet together so we can at least understand what major requests are on the Council agenda and Councilors can be informed of any other critical matters that must be discussed."

The Council has been collectively angry over what Councilors feel has been the Mayor's refusal to communicate with them particularly on financial matters affecting the city.

Some Councilors have threatened to withhold action on the Mayor's financial requests until he consults with them.

One of the problems facing the Mayor, as he spells it out, is the fact that the city's financial reserves are depleted and deficiencies in one department's finances can be made up only through transfer from the excesses in another. He needs the Council's help in that.

"I'm going to meet with department heads," said LaRaia,

"to monitor their budgets since we are aware that appropriations are going to be needed for several reasons.

"This will create the obvious need for full cooperation between the City Council and the Mayor.

"We are going to have to agree to transfers for various accounts that run low because of unanticipated needs.

"These things happen in the normal course of city government but it is different this year because we have no reserves to draw from.

"Last year we were able to appropriate $3 million after the budget but now the city does not have three cents in its reserve accounts."

with outside firms."

Phillips was the low bid among three or four bidders, the Mayor said.

"We hope to be able to start using the computer on the payrolls at the beginning of the calendar year," said LaRaia.

$100,000 Contract To Put City Accounts On Computer

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia has signed a $100,000 contract with Phillips Corp. of Somerville which, said the Mayor, will save the city money by putting its accounts on its own computer.

"It will save money in two areas," said the Mayor.

"First, it will be a more efficient method of accounting to provide the administration with the needed data quickly to make intelligent decisions.

"Second, we will be able to do the work internally and reduce the cost of contracting

To Serve In Gloucester

Fr. Tierney Retires 'With Sadness' As St. John's Pastor

By POLLY DREDGE

Rev. John J. Tierney has retired "with much sadness" as pastor of St. John's Church, Quincy, a position he has held since 1972.

Fr. Tierney, whose announcement at Masses this weekend caught many parishioners by surprise, will continue his priestly duties at Our Lady of Good Voyage in Gloucester where he has volunteered to assist pastor Rev. Eugene Alves, who has been serving there alone.

Fr. Tierney's successor at St. John's is not expected to be named for several weeks.

A farewell reception will be given by St. John's parishioners Thursday, Nov. 11, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club, Glendale Ave., Quincy.

Fr. Tierney who is voluntarily retiring upon reaching age 65, told The Quincy Sun:

"I am leaving with much sadness." "It is very hard to leave. It is not easy.

"The decision I have made to retire as pastor is best for the parish and for myself at my age," he said.

"The priests, the sisters, the women in the rectory have been wonderful. The parishioners have been most cooperative and generous. Quincy is a lovely city. It is hard to leave.

"But," he added, "St. John's is not a large parish - it is a colossal parish. A young man is needed. I have asked the Cardinal to send a young pastor.

Our Lady of Good Voyage is a parish of approximately 800 families. St. John's has about 3,000 families.

He made his decision a year ago on his 64th birthday to retire at age 65.

Fr. Tierney, born in Charlestown, in 1911, attended St. Catherine's School, Charlestown, English High School, and graduated from Boston College and St. John's Seminary.

After he was ordained in 1940, he was assigned to St. Mary of the Hills in Milton. In 1947, he was reassigned to St. Peter's in Cambridge where he remained for 10 years.

He served as director of Catholic Charities of the North Shore from 1957 to 1967, and was then assigned pastor of Immaculate Conception Parish, Cambridge. He served there until 1972 when he became pastor of St. John's in Quincy, succeeding Bishop Joseph Maguire.

A member of the board of directors of the Cardinal's Stewardship Appeal and the board of directors of Archbishop Williams High School, Braintree, he is also a member of the Quincy Kiwanis Club and the Quincy Historical Society.

He is a past president and member of the Quincy Clergy Association, Spiritual director of Quincy Catholic Club, St. John's Holy Name Society and the Vincent DePaul Society.

He is also president of the parish council executive board and an advisor to the administration commission at St. John's.

Koch Club Bike-A-Thon Reset For Sunday

The Koch Club of Quincy has rescheduled its 17-mile Kidney Foundation Bike-A-Thon for Sunday, starting at 12:30 p.m. from the Faxon Park Field House.

The event was originally scheduled for last Sunday, but was postponed when inclement weather rendered the course to the Blue Hills hazardous, with falling rain, slippery roads and wet leaves.

The Bike-A-Thon is not a race, but individuals are asked to pledge an amount of money per mile to their favorite cyclist with all proceeds going to the Kidney Foundation.

Vietnam Veterans May Get Exam 'Make-Up' Opportunity

Recently discharged veterans of the Vietnam Conflict, who were unable to take Civil Service examinations because of their service in the armed forces, may soon be given the opportunity to "make up" those examinations.

House Bill No. 5308 would allow a Vietnam veteran to request he be given any open competitive or continuous Civil Service examinations which were given during his term of military service.

The bill was engrossed in the Senate recently after being amended by Senator Arthur H.
Tobin, Quincy. The Tobin amendment allows any Vietnam "era" veteran to take any examination given up to the date of his discharge, which he was unable to take because of his service.

"The Vietnam Conflict ended officially in 1975," Senator Tobin stated, "and there were many Vietnam veterans who continued to serve after the Conflict was officially declared at an end and who should not be penalized for continued service."

The bill has been sent to the House of Representatives for concurrence upon the Tobin amendment. If agreed to by the House, the measure will be sent to Governor Dukakis for his signature. The new law would be effective May 7, 1979.

Quincy Police Team 2nd In Shooting Competition

The Quincy Police team of Patrolmen Louis McDonald and Peter Kendall recently finished second in the Massachusetts police combat team shooting competition that included more than 200 contestants at Agawam - and it couldn't have been closer.

McDonald and Kendall, who shot a 1138 out of a possible 1200, actually tied for first but lost out to the team from the Hamden County Sheriff's office on the basis of six more bullseyes.

It is the first year that Kendall and McDonald have fired together as a team although both have won individual trophies in previous competitions around the New

Make-Up Clinics Underway For Flu Vaccine

Make-up flu clinics for the Bivalent flu vaccine are being held at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, now through Friday from 1 to 3 p.m.

On Thursday and Friday, vaccine will be given in the Baby Clinic on the first floor. On Wednesday, it was scheduled in the Adult Clinic on the ground floor.

The make-up clinics are for those age 65 and over, or people with chronic ailments such as heart or lung disease, diabetes mellitus, who missed prior clinics.

An announcement will be made shortly as to when the Monovalent flu vaccine will be available for the general public.

After Friday (Nov. 5), persons wishing to receive the bivalent vaccine should contact their own physicians.

$75,000 Contract Awarded For Germantown Mini Park

Department of Housing and Urban Development.

A contract has been awarded to L. Russo Co. of Boston to construct a 9.7-acre mini-park off Bicknell St., Germantown, which will include garden plots for senior citizens, a Little League baseball field and improvements to the beach at Germantown Point.

Russo's bid of $75,000 was the lowest.

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly said grading of the area should start soon and actual construction of the park will begin in the spring. It is to be completed in 270 days.

Kelly, who shepherded the idea of garden plots for senior citizens from plan to fruition, said the work will be done under a grant of federal funds from the

THAT PAYS 5% INTEREST.

A Quincy Cooperative NOW account works exactly like a regular checking account.

With a few added attractions.

For a start, it's free. (Minimum $10.00 balance required.) And you'll end up with 5% interest on your savings. (Daily interest compounded continuously.) With those benefits in its favor, we doubt it'll bother you that NOW account 'checks' are called withdrawal orders. They look similar. And they'll do the same job whether you're shopping or paying bills. So don't leave your money in a do nothing checking account. Move it to Quincy Cooperative and put it to work.

Josiah Quincy, Jr., who founded cooperative banking in this state, believed that the work ethic should pay dividends. That's why we named our bank for him. And now offer the NOW account.

Babysitting Co-op Plans

'Koffee Klatch' Nov. 8

The Quincy Babysitting Co-op will hold its November "Koffee Klatch" Monday, Nov. 8 at 8 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Karen Morin, 270 Billings St., North Quincy.

Organized to provide a service to mothers of small children, the Babysitting Co-op operates on an exchange of babysitting hours rather than of money. In addition, the Co-op sponsors weekly playgroups for two and three year olds, and maintains a thrift shop, "The Exchange", for buying and selling good used children's clothing.

New members of the Babysitting Co-op are always welcome. For information contact Mrs. Morin or Mrs. John Chase, 40 Filbert St., West Quincy.

Marriage Dissolution Films Topic At Main Library

The dissolution of a marriage and the problems of being a single parent are the subjects of two films to be shown Wednesday, Nov. 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the main branch of Thomas Crane Public Library at 7:30 p.m.

The movies are part of a fall film festival sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

"Not Together Now: End of a Marriage" is a revealing documentary about the feelings and problems involved in the separation of a husband and wife. Their attitudes about marriage, their children, careers, their lives apart and plans for the future are explored.

A narrated story by two

Joanne Knasas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benedict Knasas of roommates, "Chris and Bernie" examines the difficulties of being a single parent. These two 25-year-old divorced women frankly discuss their changed life styles, being alone, and raising children alone.

The public is invited to attend.

Joanne Knasas Attends Conference

Coronary Risk Evaluation Testing

The second of two general information sessions on an exercise testing and coronary risk factor evaluation program will be held tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Quincy YMCA.

The program will be conducted by doctors and staff of the New England Cardiovascular Health Institute, Sunday, Nov. 14, but interested persons must register in advance.

During the test, a participant's blood pressure, heart rate, and electrocardiogram will be measured and recorded while he pedals a stationary bicycle and also while he rests.

This information will determine whether his cardiovascular function is normal or whether he has a serious risk of disability from cardiovascular disease in the future.

Blood sample will also be taken to be analyzed for serum cholesterol and plasma concentration of glucose.

Recommendations will be made to each participant to help him decrease the risk of developing serious cardiovascular disease.

GOLDEN WEDDING - Mr. and Mrs. E. Nandor Carlson observed their 50th wedding anniversary at a reception given them by the Church Council of Faith Lutheran Church.

Mr., Mrs. E. Nandor Carlson Honored On 50th Anniversary

More than 350 people attended a 50th wedding anniversary reception for Mr. and Mrs. E. Nandor Carlson of 394 Granite St., Quincy, recently at Faith Lutheran Church, where they were married in 1926.

Rev. James L. Kimmell, pastor of Faith Lutheran Church, officiated at the ceremony in which the Carlsons renewed the wedding vows they first took before Pastor Edgar Malmstrom when the church was known as Salem Lutheran Church.

Members of the original wedding party attended the anniversary reception. They included Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso A. Carlson of South Yarmouth and J. Harold Nelson of Popponesset Beach.

Mr. Carlson was born in Oland Island, Finland, while Mrs. Carlson is a native of Quincy who grew up in Hasveda, Sweden. He is a retired painting contractor.

They have two sons, Edgar N. Carlson of Braintree and E. Richard Carlson of Smithtown, N.Y., and eight grandchildren.

Four of their grandsons, Mark Carlson of Smithtown, and Richard, David and Peter Carlson, all of Braintree, served as ushers at the ceremony while a granddaughter, Cynthia M. Carlson of Braintree, was flower girl.

Mr. Carlson is sexton of Faith Lutheran Church, a member of the Property Committee and a former member of the Church Council. Mrs. Carlson is active in women's groups at the church. They are members of Vasa Lodge and Golden Agers of Wollaston.

The reception was given by the Church Council, assisted by Mrs. E. Richard Carlson and Mrs. Edgar N. Carlson.

Among the gifts the Carlsons received was a trip to Bermuda, given by their children and grandchildren.

'Breakfast Table Blahs' Topic For Heritage Seniors

Shirley R. Grahame, a consumer lecturer-consultant with the Boston Gas Consumer Information Division, will explain how the country's energy crisis has created a household crisis, and the "Breakfast Table Blahs" at a meeting of the Heritage Senior Citizens of Wollaston today (Thursday).

The presentation will be at St. Chrysostom's Church, Hancock and Linden Sts., Wollaston, at 2 p.m.

Using slides, Miss Grahame will outline in detail why prices are going up and why some commodities are becoming scarce, with specific reference to common household items whose prices have risen due to the nationwide natural gas shortage.

"Breakfast Table Blahs" is one of nine different programs currently being offered to local consumer and civic groups by Boston Gas CID staff members.

Chairman of the event is Grimaldi Pace of Wollaston.

Women's Club, Margaret Mulliken; Catholic Club, Loretta Fay, Evelyn Kelly, Lillian McIntyre, Elizabeth Ward, Eva Wuerth; Sodality, Marie Bracchi, Annie Garity, Anne Goodhue, Helen Igo, Marion Lavache, Ann MacDonald, Ellen MacMillan, Helen Murray and Mary Stenson. If anyone knows of any woman whose name should be included, is asked to contact Mrs. Frank Lomano, Prefect.

Rev. Kevin Cronin, a member of the staff at St. Anthony's Shrine, Arch St., Boston, will be the guest speaker. His topic: "On Time".

Coordinator of the Folk Mass at the Shrine, Fr. Cronin is also director of the Young Catholics, an organization for men and women. He is an assistant Chaplain on a part-time basis at Norfolk Prison and has also worked with migrant workers in South Jersey.

Anyone needing transportation is asked to call Mrs. Lomano or Mrs. George Doran.

Montclair PTA Harvest Supper One Of Most Successful

Mrs. Evelyn B. Vasile, president of the Montclair School PTA reports the recent Harvest Supper at the Montclair School auditorium was one of the organization's most successful.

Mrs. Vasile outlined to the large gathering of parents some of the activities scheduled for the school year. They include: student picture taking, cake sale and mini-bazaar, book sale, candy sale, the 43rd annual May Festival, and parties for the children.

She also invited parents to become actively involved in the PTA and to assist at the various functions throughout the year.

Mrs. Vasile praised members of the PTA for their support and cooperation.

A brief business meeting was held before the dinner. The Secretary's report was read by Mrs. Mary Ann Flukes, and the Treasurer's report was given by Mr. Robert Wilson. Leon Gould, Montclair's principal introduced the faculty and staff and gave a brief talk on some of the innovative programs being offered the students.

Also at the head table were: Vice-president, Mrs. Ann Quintilliani and her husband Robert; secretary, Mrs. Mary Ann Flukes and her husband Fred; treasurer, Robert Wilson and his wife, Mary, Mr. Leon Gould and Albert J. Vasile.

Mrs. Ann Quintilliani was chairwoman of the Harvest Supper committee. She was assisted by Mrs. Joan Bunker, Mrs. Barbara Marcou and Mrs. Marie Mortell. Mrs. Carol McCarthy was in charge of publicity.

An audio visual program was presented by members of the Montclair Media Center.

Katherine Roche Celebrates 100th Birthday

The Congressman brought greetings from the President recently to the 100th birthday party for Miss Katherine F. Roche, who lives at the Crestview Nursing Home on Greenleaf St., Quincy.

Cong. and Mrs. James A. Burke presented best wishes from the President and Mrs. Ford and Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia presented a plaque from the city of Quincy to the lady who was born while Ulysses S. Grant was president and Quincy was still a town.

Former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin was master of ceremonies, a fitting role since his father, Clarence Burgin, was president of the Quincy Savings Bank where Miss Roche worked for 50 years.

The birthday party was organized and supervised by Mrs. Florence Carley, activities director for Crestview, and sponsored by Miss Roche's longtime friend, Miss Catherine Laing of Braintree.

Friends attended from Quincy, Braintree, Cape Cod, Philadelphia and Richmond, Va. Many birthday cards, gifts and flowers were received from other friends who were unable to attend.

Germantown Garden Club Holds 'President's Day'

The Germantown Garden Club held a "President's Day" meeting recently at the Adams Academy, Quincy, preceded by a tea.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Margaret Lewis. Her topic was "Discover the Fascinating World of Mushrooms".

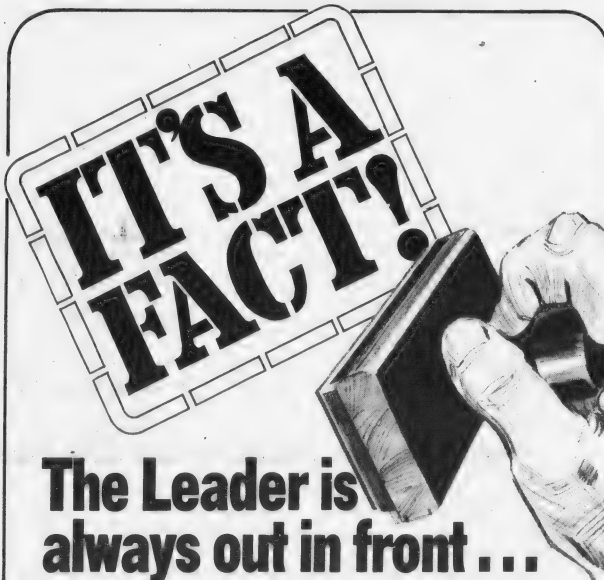

Mrs. Nancy Alvord and Mrs. Charles Hodgkins served as hostesses. Mrs. Joseph Cinano and Mrs. Robert Spillane were pourers.

Guests of honor were Mrs. Stephen N. Bobo Jr., president of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts; Mrs. Brewster Davis, South Shore district director, and presidents of garden clubs in Abington, Braintree, Hull, Wollaston, Seaside Gardeners of Squantum and the Weymouth Gardeners.

Real Estate

President Real Estate

Opportunity Knocks... NOW!

When it comes to making a good real estate investment, if there was ever a good time to buy - that time is NOW!

From all indications, the real estate market has bottomed and is on its way upward. The mortgage market has turned around and adequate funds are now available. Although mortgage interest rates have become more favorable they are not expected to drop below the current levels, rather, they are expected to ease upward. The supply of good housing diminishes in the next 12 months. Last year's output of 1.16 million was the lowest in 29 years. This year's production will be somewhat higher, but will not meet housing requirements. Demand will outrun current supply. When this happens, prices always rise.

Real estate has always been a sound investment and the best hedge against inflation. Its value historically increases faster than the cost of living. With all these factors falling into place, if there was ever a good time to buy real estate - that time is NOW!

Mayor, Council Passing Peace Pipe?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Peace—or a reasonable facsimile thereof—seemed to be settling over politically embattled City Hall.

Of course, the war between Mayor Joseph LaRaia and some members of the City Council, could flare up again at any moment.

But there seems to be a special effort being made by both sides to sit down and talk -- instead of shouting back and forth -- over an "emergency borrowing" issue.

It looks like the council is willing to bring the peace pipe, if the mayor will bring the tobacco.

City Auditor Charles Shea thinks LaRaia may have to seek emergency borrowing approval from the state to finance requests by the mayor that total $955,520 but were not in the budget when the historic and controversial $194.80 tax rate was set in October.

The figure includes $750,000 for city employees group insurance. The council's Finance Committee referred the requests back to LaRaia with an invitation to meet "in a spirit of cooperation" to solve the problems.

LaRaia said he doesn't think emergency borrowing will be necessary because of $518,000 anticipated in federal public works funds, $100,000 in federal revenue sharing and some $260,000 returned by the school committee to cover employees' insurance premiums.

But His Honor, grasping the olive branch extended by the council, noted he welcomed the opportunity "to accept the spirit of the City Council in resolving any appropriations problems."

That's progress--on both sides.

And it may have come at the right time--for both sides.

The public has become fed up with all the fighting on the City Hall battlefield. Most of the people really don't care who is right or who is wrong -- or so it seems. They just want the feuding to end and the city to start moving ahead again.

In fact, some people are so tired of it all that they have been looking ahead to next year's city election with the thought that voters may have one of three choices:

[1] Throw the mayor out. [2] Throw the City Council out. [3] Throw them both out.

That's how bad it has become.

If the mayor and some members of the council don't personally like one another, that's one thing. But people can dislike one another and still work together for the good of the city.

Other mayors and councils have had their problems without pushing the city to the brink of skidding down the drain.

Amelio Della Chiesa in the late 1950's and early 1960's was a Republican mayor with a Democratic controlled council to contend with. He had his work cut out for himself trying to get measures through the council. But the bitterness that has been with us this year was not there in Della Chiesa's time.

He and certain council members may have disagreed but they did it in a professional manner.

Everyone hopes that there will be more cooperation between the mayor and council in the months ahead. Even though it seems a little hard to believe that the new honeymoon will last.

But let's try, boys. Quincy deserves a break.

IT WAS TOUGH for Fr. John Tierney to say farewell to parishioners of St. John's Church at weekend Masses, as he announced his retirement as pastor. The fact he was retiring came as a surprise to many, although he had indicated a year ago he would retire at age 65 in the belief a parish the size of St. John's should have a younger man as pastor.

"I said my farewell with my lips only," he confided. "If I had, said it with my heart I would never have been able to get through it."

He left his tears in the rectory.

QUINCY ALSO SUFFERS a loss in the departure of Pierre Boulanger, manager of the Quincy Sears store since March, 1975. "Pete" has been promoted to manager of the big new Peabody store. In the short time he was here, he was quite active in the business community as a director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association. A classy guy and apparently Sears knows one when they see one.

He is being succeeded here by Ove Strandkov, a Canton resident. It's a promotion for him, too. He comes from the old Peabody store where he had succeeded Pete.

THE BIRTHDAY BANQUET for Ruth Gordon at the Chateau de Ville Sunday night underscores the fact once again, that Quincy needs a fancy spot to hold its fancy functions. Last year's Quincy birthday ball was also held at the Chateau. Hope the day will come soon when we can go to a major Quincy social in Quincy instead of having to go out of town.

LOOK ALIKES: Quincy's Irving Boyes, and President Ford, notes Atty. Stephen Keefer.

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Rotary Club newsletter: "Most people in Washington have lost sight of what a billion is. One billion seconds ago, the first atomic bomb had not been exploded. One billion minutes ago, Christ was still on earth. One billion hours ago, men were still living in caves. One billion dollars ago [in terms of government spending] was YESTERDAY!"

Tobin Replies To Brophy Letter

Editor's Note: Following is an open letter from City Council President Arthur Tobin to Joseph Brophy, president of the Houghs Neck Community Council. It is Mr. Tobin's response to a letter from Mr. Brophy that appeared in last week's issue of The Quincy Sun.

Joseph Brophy, President
Houghs Neck Community Council
156 Babcock Street
Quincy, MA

Dear Joe:

I wish to thank you for your recent article addressed to the Editors of the Quincy Sun and the Patriot Ledger urging city officials to stop squabbling, to use common sense, and to sit down and reason together. I quite agree with this statement and with your concern that if government cannot work cooperatively and harmoniously, then chaos will prevail. Guess what Joe, the city councillors have been saying this for months and we have been requesting the Mayor of our city to sit down and talk and reason together, but the Mayor has turned a deaf ear to our pleas. This is why I thank you for finally coming forward and saying what we have been saying for months.

Not only have we agreed this far, but I notice by reading in your article you and I share other similarities. We are both lifelong residents of Quincy, we are both taxpayers, we are both presidents of our respective organizations, we both have roots in Houghs Neck and we both share the same concerns for the general well-being and public safety for all the citizens of Quincy.

However, I respectfully disagree with some statements made by you. In your article to the Editors you state "the factions of our government are squabbling over issues which [in your opinion] most voters consider minor." It is quite obvious you and I are not talking to the same people. The people that stop to talk to me throughout the city are totally fed up with what is going on at city hall and they do not consider the issues which we are addressing ourselves to as minor by any stretch of the imagination. Consider the issues, Joe:

1. Do you consider the $34.90 tax increase which never should have happened, minor squabbling?

2. Do you consider three mayoralty appointments to government position [with questionable backgrounds] in the first seven months of this administration, minor squabbling?

3. Do you consider squandering $50,000 of taxpayers money for a Clerk of the Works that everyone knows is not needed at the North Quincy High School, minor squabbling?

4. Do you consider city council action of saving thousands of dollars by eliminating duplicate billing by the Kent Corporation at North Quincy High School, minor squabbling?

I could go on, and on, and on. Maybe in your opinion these issues are minor, but when the people of Houghs Neck receive their increased tax bill, based upon $34.90 per thousand on their assessments [what a Christmas present for the citizens of our city] the record will show that the President of the city council stood up against this erratic behavior and stated publicly that it did not have to be. I hope the people of this city will forgive and forget that the President of the Houghs Neck Community Council stated, in his opinion, that these problems are minor.

Joe, I have always known you to be a fair-minded and decent fellow. Maybe you, as an appointee of the LaRaia administration to the Park and Recreation Board, can get the Mayor of the City to finally come forward to sit down with the city council and reason together and solve the problems of our city as you suggest in your article. To date the Mayor has refused to listen or accept any advice from the city council.

Maybe if he did we wouldn't be in the mess we find ourselves in today.

Once again, many thanks for speaking out. As we continue in our daily duties, if I see any further wrongdoing I shall continue to speak out because I know, as a responsible member of the community, you would not want the city council to be a part of any cover-up. Both of us should be diligent to assure the citizens of this city that when the rhetoric and confusion is put aside, the truth shall prevail in the end.

Arthur H. Tobin
Council President

'Why Blame Mayor For Outrageous Tax Increase?'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Why does everyone blame Mayor LaRaia for the outrageous tax increase recently levied upon the taxpayers of the City of Quincy? He's just doing his job. After all, we the taxpayers elected him.

The question now is, what are we doing to prevent another increase?

We more or less hired Mr. LaRaia to do a job. We're the bosses, let's tell him and the rest of the elected officials just exactly what we want and expect from them. If they don't listen we fire them via the polls during the next election.

Takes Issue With Harold On 19-year-old Drinking Age

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would like to take exception to remarks made by Councillor Paul D. Harold in the Quincy Sun (Oct. 21) concerning the 19-year-old drinking age bill.

This bill, and I'm glad Gov. Dukakis vetoed it, the most upstart bill the Massachusetts Legislature has ever wasted its time enacting.

First of all, 18 year old adults have the right to sign contracts, vote, and die in the defense of this country; it is an injustice to all 18 year old adults and an insult to most (including myself) to alienate any right common to all other adults. If drinking is to be illegal, let it be illegal for all adults--but we know that won't work--or let children be taught to be responsible.

Secondly, to actually say that this bill will solve any of our problems, is a totally ridiculous statement, obviously made by a politician playing for the votes of the older majority, while not even considering the rights of the younger minority.

I just hope Mr. Harold remembers that 18 year olds vote too, and I and many like me will be voting for councillor for the first time in 1977, and if he doesn't smarten up he won't get my vote!!!!

The Best Vocal Show In Town

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

A while ago, just prior to the tax-rate furor, another Mother Goose parody was aired on WJDA's "Party-Line" Program - The High, Diddle-Didled - The Fat Cats Just Fiddled The Cow Jumped Over the Moon

The Little Dogs Laughed to See Such Sport They Still Hope to Hear A New Tune!

Of course, this applied more immediately then, to the scandalous memorandum raises, granted by our generous State Legislators. But, an effective jingle often has more than one application.

Today, the message suggests that more citizens should attend the continuing opera buffo now playing at the City Hall Comique. They must see and hear our "prima donnas" public performances. Even then, they're unbelievable.

Truly, it's the best vocal show in town. And with the new PA system, scarcely a note is missed, so there is no lost chord. Also, the strident harmony suggests that the show could easily become a sporting event, sometimes known as a "showing match."

But in addition to listening, we taxpayers owe it to ourselves to examine the books, mark the scores and watch. Then perhaps we can whistle up a storm of our own. Surely, those who pay the piper can and must call the tune, for some of us do hear a different drummer.

'You Should Be Hung'

David J. Esterbrook
17A Naval Terrace
North Quincy

Editors Note:

Mr. Esterbrook may be relieved to know we did vote. By 'passing it up this year' we meant maybe not voting for President -- we were that undecided. We finally did vote for one of them but we just weren't -- still are not -- sure of either one of them. We're keeping our fingers crossed.

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Vote For Anyone You Want Tuesday [even yourself] - BUT Vote!

Don't "just pass it up this year."

As a journalist you should be hung for such a suggestion!

Frank Orcutt Upset By MacDonald In City Election

Newcomer Frank E. MacDonald ousted Frank N. Orcutt, a veteran of 16 years service, from his seat on the City Council in the municipal elections.

Elected were Amelio Della Chiesa, Edna B. Austin, David S. McIntosh, Alfred H. Helfrich, David J. Crowley, Carl A. Anderson and MacDonald.

Defeated were Charles L. Shea, Donald K. Mackay, Russell T. Bates, J. Frederick Cutler, L. Paul Marini, Frederick L. Farrell and Orcutt.

It was predicted that McIntosh and Della Chiesa would be the leading candidates for mayor, a largely ceremonial post under the Plan E charter.

Winners in the School Committee race were Dr. Charles Djerf, A. Wendell Clark, Dr. Joseph E. McDermott, Paul K. Duffey, Ethel B. Wiley and Alice Mitchell.

Della Chiesa's Council victory was saddened by the death of his mother, Virginia, 76, who died at City Hospital on Election Day.

FLOOD LEGISLATION

The City Council passed a policy-making order directing that sections of Sea St. and East Squantum St. be raised above flood tide level sometime during 1954. Both streets experienced periodic flooding.

Public Works Commissioner Charles R. Herbert estimated it would cost $45,000 to raise East Squantum St. and $44,000 to raise Sea St. as much as three feet in the area between Palmer St. and the Willows.

The Council order mandated City Manager William J. Deegan to place funds for that purpose in the next city budget.

LEONE READED FOR BROCKTON

Quincy Coach Bill Sullivan was grooming sophomore quarterback Ron Leone, cousin of former star Carl Leone, to fill in for the injured Marvin Weinstein at quarterback against Brockton.

The Quincy-Newton and North Quincy-Chelsea games were cancelled because of bad weather.

Quincy CAP Region Champs To Compete In Alabama National

The 21 boys and girls on the cadet drill team of the Quincy Composite Squadron, Civil Air Patrol, are polishing up their gear for a trip to Alabama on Christmas week.

The youngsters, ages 13-17, will represent the Northeast Region in the National Cadet Competition at Maxwell Air Force Base, leaving Maguire Air Force Base, N.J., on U.S. Air Force planes for the five-day meet.

The Quincy team captured the Northeast Region Cadet Competition at Westover Air Force Base, easily defeating a heavily favored New York champion which had won the competition 14 times. Nine states were in the meet.

The boys and girls took seven out of the 10 trophies, including the three-foot tall Regional Overall Cadet Champion award, to become the first winners from Massachusetts in more than 20 years.

Cadet 1st Lt. Paul D. Eldridge Jr. of Quincy, drill team commander and a senior at Quincy High School, also received the highest regional individual award as outstanding cadet drill team commander.

First place trophy in the round robin quiz portion of the competition was won by a Quincy panel made up of Lt. Eldridge, Cadet T. Sgt. Peter J. Fontana Jr. of Weymouth and Cadet T. Sgt. James B. Morrissey Jr. of Brockton.

Other first place awards included standard drill, innovative [trick] drill, aerospace knowledge, drill team commander and overall.

Team members who will be competing in Alabama include: Cadet 1st Class Michael P. Bradbury, Cadet 1st Class Barbara A. Cataldo, Cadet Sgt. John A. Cunningham, Cadet Thomas H. Deren, Cadet T. Sgt. Brian P. Donovan, Cadet M. Sgt. Jeanine Hynds, Cadet S. Sgt. Mary E. Leonard, Cadet M. Sgt. Robert J. Parsloe, and Cadet Sgt. Steven M. Parsloe, all of Quincy.

Cadet Sgt. John A. Morrissey and Cadet T. Sgt. James B. Morrissey Jr. of Brockton, Cadet Sgt. Daniel R. Nolan and Cadet M. Sgt. William J. Nolan of Braintree, Cadet Sgt. Mary T.

Reagan and Cadet Lorraine Reagan of Norwood, Cadet T. Sgt. Peter J. Fontana Jr. and Cadet 1st Class Diane C. Wall of Weymouth, and Cadet 1st Class Robert E. Walsh III of Canton.

Alternates, who also will compete in every phase of the meet, are Cadet 1st Lt. Thomas W. Burke of Weymouth and Cadet Maj. Steven F. Levesque of Duxbury. Lt. Eldridge will be team commander.

After Big Party

It's Back To Work For Ruth Gordon

The stage-struck teen-ager who left to seek fame and fortune in the Big City in 1914 came home to Quincy for her 80th birthday last weekend.

And what a party it was!

Some 1,400 well-wishers attended the gala Ruth Gordon Birthday Ball in the State Street South Auditorium Saturday night.

And an estimated 750 more crowded the Chateau de Ville in Randolph for the Ruth Gordon Birthday Banquet Sunday night.

Among the guests were Israeli actress Tovah Feldshuh, German star Dolly Haas, producer Fritz Holt and Garson Kanin, Miss Gordon's playwright-author husband.

Some 700 telegrams from the great and near-great were read, including one in French from director Rene Clair, others from Sen. Hubert Humphrey, actress Olivia de Havilland and singer Frank Sinatra.

Quincy's brand-new official song, "Quincy Is Our Name," was sung for the first time at the Banquet by Lois Brandes and a copy of it, autographed by composer John Fancuchio, was presented to Miss Gordon.

Members of the Quincy High School band, 100 strong, presented Miss Gordon with 80 birthday cakes, baked by Ernie and George Montilio, each representing one of her theatrical triumphs ranging from Peter Pan in 1915 to an appearance on the TV series Kojak in 1975.

Only the night before the Ball she was seen on television in the movie "What Happened to Rosemary's Baby?" a sequel to the picture in which she won an Academy Award for best supporting actress in 1967.

Film clips of "Rosemary's Baby" and "Harold and Maude", a picture she made in 1971 which has become a cult object in recent years, were shown at the Banquet.

Chief speeches of welcome at the Banquet were delivered by Quincy Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti, and Congressman James A. Burke. Mayor LaRaia made the birthday presentation. Radio's Jess Cain was toastmaster.

Remarks were given by Gerald Ridge, chairman of the Quincy-South Shore Cultural Commission, which will benefit from the proceeds of ticket sales from both the Ball and the Banquet.

A theater in the proposed Quincy-South Shore Cultural Center will be designated the Banquet was provided by Miss Massachusetts, Cynthia Carpenter, and the Proposition Theater, Boston's famed improvisational theater group. The Quincy Symphony Orchestra Symphonette played for dinner. After the Banquet, it was back to work for the 80-year-old Miss Gordon.

She plans to leave on a cross-country tour to promote her new autobiography, "My Side". The tour includes California, Florida and an appearance on NBC's Johnny Carson Show.

"After that," she said, "I'll have what's called a well-deserved rest."

SOMETIMES THE EXPERTS CAN BE WRONG

Braintree Branch

Quincy Cooperative Bank

280 Grove Street

When we projected our new Braintree branch a couple of years ago, the experts told us it would probably take a year to achieve our first million dollars of assets. We opened Braintree late in February this year for a dry run but actually started business March 1st. This would mean, if we were to believe the experts, that March 1st in 1977 we should be at the million dollar mark at our Braintree branch.

We take great pleasure in announcing that our Braintree branch reached the million dollar mark on October 16, 1976.

We also want to say thanks to a lot of people. First and foremost, to Jim Sheard, our Braintree Manager, and his great staff. And to the hundreds of customers of our Braintree branch, we offer our deepest thanks for your support and patronage. Situated as we are on Grove Street near Liberty Street in South Braintree, we are handy to South Weymouth and Randolph as well as all parts of Braintree. We think we have one of the most attractive and handy branches of any bank on the South Shore in our Braintree operation. But more important, we have a staff you would enjoy banking with; we know this because hundreds of new friends made it possible to reach our first million for the branch in less than eight months-not 12 months as the experts projected.

To everyone, customers and staff, who helped make this achievement possible, we give our sincere appreciation. To folks living in the area who have not visited us yet, we would like to suggest that you stop by and see our Braintree branch and talk to Jim Sheard and his crew. They are about as nice people as you can find in any bank.

Our extension of bank services into the Braintree area as part of the broadening of community development is in keeping with the tradition of service and personal consideration of Josiah Quincy, Jr., founder of cooperative banking in Massachusetts and the man for whom our bank is named.

Service and consideration, we know for certain

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

'Quincy Is Our Name' City's New Official Song

Quincy now has an official song.

It's called "Quincy Is Our Name" and both words and music are the creation of John Fantuchio, 21, of 58 Common St., West Quincy, a senior majoring in music education at the Berkley College of Music in Boston.

It was sung for the first time in public by Mrs. Lambert Brandes, wife of Prof. Lambert Brandes of the Eastern Nazarene College music department, at the Ruth Gordon 80th Birthday Ball. Prof. Brandes accompanied her on the piano.

The original score, embossed and framed and signed by composer Fantuchio, and illustrated by artist Frank Ilaqua, was presented to Miss Gordon by Simon Fireman, co-chairman of the Ball.

Fantuchio's song was chosen from a field of eight in a contest sponsored by the city of Quincy.

It was picked because "it is not too difficult to sing and it is within the range of the average person's voice," said Anthony C. Ferrante, coordinator of musical education in Quincy schools and chairman of the panel of judges.

Fantuchio, a graduate of Quincy High School in 1973, entered the contest at the last minute.

"I was down to see Mr. Ferrante about a student teaching job when he told me about the contest," he says. "There wasn't much time left."

He went home and sat down at the piano and began working out some of the melodies that were running through his head.

"I envisioned an anthem-type of song," he says. "A march tempo but not too quick. I got the music together and then I altered the melody as I thought of the lyrics. I thought of things relative to Quincy, like Adams to Atoms."

It took him a little over two days to write "Quincy Is Our Name" and it is the first song that he had published.

Young Fantuchio got involved with music in elementary school when he started playing the clarinet. Now, in addition to the clarinet, he plays alto and tenor saxophone and dabbles in the piano.

His musical career received its first big boost when he was a sophomore at Quincy High and was chosen to participate in the Southeast District Music Festival. He was a participant for three years.

Fantuchio works his way through Berkley (he graduates in May) toiling at Stop and Shop Stores and playing in his own four-piece band, the Ace of Clubs, which works weddings, parties and an occasional club.

Other members of the group are Mark Davis of Wollaston Ave., Quincy, organ; Jef Askin of Edgeworth Rd., Quincy, drums; and Paul Tedesco of Everett, guitar.

Fantuchio, of course, is pleased to win the contest, but one thing puzzles him. He never bothered to find out what the prize is. And Tony Ferrante, the chief judge of the contest, doesn't know either.

Quincy Vicariate CYO Meets Sunday

The fall meeting of the Quincy Vicariate CYO will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. at St. John's School Hall, Phipps St., Quincy Center.

Each parish CYO in Braintree, Canton, Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Milton, Quincy, Randolph and Weymouth is asked to send five voting delegates and as many non-voting delegates as they wish to this meeting. Each CYO will present an oral and written report of activities this fall, and planned activities.

Mrs. Lois Wilgoren of Randolph, a representative of the Abigail Martin Co., will speak on the Vicariate's "Pass the Pack" program.

The agenda will include presentations on TIGA (Training in Group Action): search for christian maturity, overnights, Vicariate field day, and our upcoming Vicariate dance. An amendment to the by-laws will also be voted on.

The following presentations of trophies to the 1976 Vicariate CYO championship and softball league championship teams will be made:

Star Of The Sea, Squantum, Intermediate Boys Division; St. Francis, Weymouth, Cadet Girls Division; and St. Ann's, Wollaston, Junior Girls Division.

Plaques will also go to the winners of the "Almost Anything Goes" competition at the recent Vicariate Field Day held at Faxon Park, Quincy. St. Agatha's, Milton, No. 2 was first; St. Agatha's No. 1 was second and St. Mary's, Randolph No. 1 team took third place.

St. Clare's, Braintree won the tug-o-war. A hard-earned first place, St. Mary's, Randolph won the pyramid competition. Michael Giordano of St. Agatha's, Milton, took first place in the sack races. Danny Hartigan of St. John's, Quincy, was second and Siobhan Breen of St. Agatha's, Milton was third.

Deadline for submitting entry forms for boys and girls basketball is Nov. 11. Rosters are due Dec. 5.

A prayer service will conclude the Vicariate Meeting. Refreshments and a social will follow.

Services Thursday For Mrs. Joseph R. Harold, Jr. Mother Of City Councillor

A funeral Mass will be celebrated today [Thursday] at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Merrymount, for Mrs. Marguerite Marie Harold, mother of City Councillor Paul D. Harold.

Mrs. Harold, who lived at 31 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore, died Monday at the age of 57 in the New England Medical Center in Boston.

A native of Boston, she was the wife of Joseph R. Harold Jr., state adjutant of the Disabled American Veterans.

Visiting hours at the Lydon-Russell Funeral Home, 644 Hancock St., Wollaston, were scheduled for 2-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. yesterday [Wednesday].

In addition to her husband and son, she leaves two other sons, Joseph of Weymouth, and William of San Diego, Calif., and a daughter, Mary Beth of Quincy; three brothers, Frank, James and William Burke, all of Boston; three sisters, Mrs. Helen Norcott of Quincy, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith and Mrs. Marie Cordani, both of Weymouth, and six grandchildren.

Burial will be in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Weymouth.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Our Lady of Good Counsel Church.

Sister Mary Verona Celebrates Golden Jubilee

Sister Mary Verona Dunn celebrated her golden jubilee as a Sister of St. Joseph recently at St. Mary's Church, Dedham.

More than 150 relatives and friends attended the Mass and a reception following in the school hall.

Rt. Rev. Charles F. Dewey, pastor of St. Mary's and former curate at St. John's Church, Quincy, celebrated the Mass. He was assisted by associate pastors Rev. John P. Carroll, Rev. Francis A. O'Hara, Rev. George F. Barry, S.J., Rev. Edward Banks, S.J., and guest Rev. Kevin Horrigan, formerly of Quincy, now serving at St. Michael's Church, Hudson.

Msgr. Dewey preached the homily and praised Sister Verona for her devotion during her 50 years as a teacher.

Sister Verona was escorted by Mr. and Mrs. John Medvetz, her niece and her niece's husband, in the opening processional with altar boys and priests.

Sister Dorothea Masuret,

C.S.J., directed the singing, and was accompanied by organist Mrs. Beth Gillis.

Francis McAuliffe was lector. Gift bearers were Mr. and Mrs. Medvetz, Janice and Michael McAuliffe, and Timothy and Kevin Flaherty.

Sister Verona, a former member of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, attended Quincy Public Schools, and as a Sister taught the eighth grade at St. John's School, Quincy.

Women United To Observe World Community Day

World Community Day of Church Women United in Quincy will be observed Friday at St. Chrysostom's Church, Wollaston, starting with a 1 p.m. coffee hour.

Mrs. Charles Gailey, a resident of Swaziland, South Africa, for 10 years, will speak at the 2 p.m. worship service. Mrs. Gailey taught for five years in a Swaziland high school, and also taught courses at the Bible College headed by her husband, Dr. Gailey. They were associated with the Church of the Nazarene and worked in the local church there.

Mrs. Gailey will bring articles and gifts made by women of the area, and also show slides of the country and people, speaking on similarities as well as differences.

Mrs. Edward C. Sprague is chairman for the day, assisted by Mrs. Charles Shannon and Mrs. Gertrude Daffinee, all of St. Chrysostom's Church, and Miss Edith Cameron of First Presbyterian Church.

Gift certificates for Church World Service will be collected.

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

Tips For The Elderly

The old, like the young, have their special problems with criminals. For them, the American Association of Retired Persons has compiled some self-protection tips.

Beware of aid offers from strangers either in crossing a street or carrying packages or getting in buses. They may be stealing from your purse or picking your pockets. Also be wary of strangers who start odd conversations.

Watch out for "con artists" who try to swindle you through "bunco" schemes or offers of quick, easy profits or medical "cures". Check out every such proposal carefully, and report to law-enforcement authorities anything that proves "phony".

Travel well-lit and busy streets, even if that means taking a little longer to get where you're going.

Encourage neighbors to keep a lookout for you and your home. Let them know your whereabouts and your plans. Alert them to any unusual circumstances. Your neighbors are often your single best security system.

This information has been brought to you as a public service by NABORHOOD PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy.

Girl Scout Troop 198 Visits Quincy Sun

Girl Scouts from Junior Troop 198 visited the offices of The Quincy Sun recently to view the workings of a newspaper firsthand.

The scouts sponsored by Memorial Congregational Church, North Quincy, are currently working on "My Community" badge and the sign of the star. Their visit to The Sun will fulfill requirements toward earning the badge.

The girls are: Deirdre Connell, Debra Doherty, Andrea Fasano, Kara Firnrohr, Lori Giarro, Tracy Gorman, Dawn Graham, Sian Graham, Sheila Hanf, Theresa Hogan, Lenore Lindberg, Kathy McHugh, Christine Nagle, Barbara Parsley, Pamela Roderick and Elaine Brown.

Absent from the tour were Lyn Doyle, Virginia Murphy and JoAnn Schilling.

Leaders Mrs. Dorothy

Graham, Mrs. Claire Firnrohr and assistant leader Mrs. Eve Connell accompanied the scouts on their tour.

The girls first visited the editorial and advertising department of the office.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They also saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine.

The girls watched a paste-up artist fix the story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed, the scouts asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

North Ousted From Tourney On Kick

Bruce Cochrane's first year as a soccer coach this season proved highly successful, as he led North Quincy to a 12-4-2 record and a berth in the state tournament.

However, the Raiders, in the tournament for the third year in a row, were ousted in the opening round Monday, when they dropped a 2-1 overtime decision to Greater Lawrence Regional.

The winning goal came on a penalty kick, ruining a fine performance by North. Tom White had the Raiders' goal with Jim McGinley, the team's high scorer, assisting.

"This was an excellent season for us and all the players deserve a lot of credit," said the former Hingham High and Eisenhower College star. "We played fine defense all year, and our goalies, Rick Smith and Dan Cuddy, were outstanding with seven shutouts. Smith was our regular starter, but late in the year I used Cuddy a good deal to be prepared in the event we made the tournament. In case of injury or illness to Smith, I wanted a goalie with some experience in the tournament."

Jim McGinley was North's high scorer with 17 points on 13 goals and four assists. Bob Stack had nine points with eight goals and an assist.

North just managed to qualify for the tournament last Friday when it came from behind to tie Cambridge Latin, 2-2. It needed a win or tie to make it.

North took a 1-0 lead with Tom White scoring with an assist for Dave Harrow. Latin tied it up later in the first period and went up, 2-1, in the third period.

Stack scored the big tying goal in the final period with Walt McGinley assisting.

Earlier in the week North defeated Weymouth South, 4-0, with Stack scoring twice and Jim McGinley and Harrow once each. White had two assists and Gary Stanley one. It was North's seventh shutout of the year.

The Raiders had earlier topped Quincy, 4-0, with Jim McGinley, Neil Quinn, Bruce Brennan and Walter McGinley having the goals and John Dolbec having two assists.

Quincy, also with a first-year coach, Jim McGuire, himself a former standout for the Presidents, finished a disappointing 5-10-3 season last Friday when it was nipped by Rindge Tech, 2-1.

Steve Ayer put Quincy ahead in the first period but Rindge came back with goals in the second and fourth periods. The winning goal was on a disputed penalty shot.

Earlier in the week Quincy was wallowed by Waltham, 5-0.

"Our defense was strong this year and goalie Mike Kennedy was just outstanding all year long," McGuire said. "But we just couldn't score and most of our losses were low scoring games. But we had only four seniors and our sophomores and juniors had good years, so I think we should do better next year."

Broad Meadows Paces Girls Basketball League

At the halfway mark in the season, Corinne Mitchell's Broad Meadows Junior High ninth grade girls' basketball team is leading the league with a 4-0 record.

In their latest game the BM girls defeated Point, 24-5, featuring the outstanding all-around play of Susan Callahan, Laura Miller and Carol Carpenter. Donna Reardon and Cheryl Higgins excelled on defense.

In their previous game the BM girls bombed Sterling, 50-4, as every player proved herself skilled both on offense and defense.

The BM eighth graders topped Sterling, 20-12, with two key foul shots by Karin Deady and excellent offensive play by Katie Donovan sparking the win.

The seventh graders, coached by Kathy Glennon, topped Sterling, 10-0, with Nancy Bullis high scorer, and they topped Point, 14-2, with Kathy Flynn sparking the attack and Cathy Riley and Laura Rogers leading the defense.

7 Named Babe Ruth 'Athletes Of Year'

Dave Austin, Ray Coscia, Arthur Roberts, Greg Madden, Paul O'Toole, Bob Lindenfelzer and Bob Howlett of the Quincy Babe Ruth League have been selected to Babe Ruth Baseball's "Athletes of the Year" program for 1976.

Criteria by which the players were nominated include the player's athletic ability, including statistics and overall performance, sportsmanship and personal leadership displayed during the season.

The achievements of the Quincy players will be presented in the 1976 edition of Babe Ruth Baseball "Athletes of the Year" annual to be published in December.

Mite A's Blast Braintree, 8-0

Quincy's J. L. Club Mite A team wallowed Braintree, 8-0, with Dick Fair in goal.

George Hartford had the hat trick, Chris Marshall two goals and Billy Capplis, Mike Haynes and Keith Freeman one each. Chris Doyle and Haynes had two assists each and Ed O'Brien, P. J. Hussey, Dave Tapper, Mark McCabe, Freeman, Derek Holt and Hartford one apiece.

Rebounding Raiders Host Tough Waltham

The North Quincy football team, which proved last week it could come back from a frustrating loss, takes on another tough customer Saturday at 1:30 p.m. when it hosts Waltham in an important Suburban League game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Two weeks ago, the Raiders suffered their first loss, an extremely disappointing 13-9 decision to undefeated Newton North. North had a first down on Newton's one-foot line late in the game only to have a personal foul called on a North player, putting the team back to the 16 and it failed to score.

Coach Dave Burke was afraid the players might suffer a letdown last Saturday at Brookline, but the Raiders showed no such signs and came up with a big 23-8 win to make their record 5-1.

Waltham will be one of North's toughest opponents. It has lost to Norwood and Arlington in non-league games but has wins over Somerville, Brookline, Quincy and Weymouth North.

"I was pleased to see the boys bounce back after their heart-breaking loss to Newton," Burke said. "I feel this was one of our most important wins as we could have had a letdown today, but we didn't and I'm very happy."

Brookline made things easy for the Raiders as it fumbled the first five times it had the ball and the alert Raiders recovered four times.

Defensively, North was strong again. Having one breakdown when Brookline drove 80 yards for a second period score, but making adjustments and completely bottling up the Brookline attack after that.

"These kids are just tremendous on defense," said assistant coach Ken McPhee. "They come out and tell me what adjustments we should make. The entire defensive unit was just outstanding again, and although I hate to single out any one player, I must mention Steve Bonelli. He has been great all year, and today was one of his best games."

The coaches also hailed linebackers, Steve Bell and Jim Hanrahan, and front four, Mark Wentzell, John Ryan, Mark Nagle and Paul Corliss.

On offense, quarterback Brian Donaghey had a good day, scoring twice on runs of 18 and 37 yards. "They managed to shut off our reverse, so we sent Donaghey to the other side and it paid off." Asst. coach Tom Fitzgerald said. "George Wallace did some fine running and excellent blocking and John Wilkinson and Bill McIntyre also ran well."

In the offensive line, Tom Nee, Harry Knudson, Jim Marinelli, Keith Lindberg, Jim Frye, Russ Chisholm and Dan Butts were praised.

Wilkinson put North on the board first in the opening period when he ran 16 yards and Ed McElaney kicked the point.

The second touchdown came on Donaghey's 18-yard run and so on after that Brookline staged its 80-yard scoring drive.

With seconds left in the half, McElaney kicked his third field goal of the year, a 33-yarder.

The only touchdown of the second half came on Donaghey's 37-yard scamper, but McElaney missed the point, a rarity for him.

Following the game, the players presented the game ball to Ted Sadowski, a North assistant coach for 19 years, who not only handles the junior varsity and sophomore teams, but is the chief scout.

Raiders 4th In Division Meet, Quincy Girls Qualify For State

The North Quincy cross country team, with injuries to two of its five top runners, couldn't repeat last Saturday for the Eastern Mass. Division 2 championship, but Coach Lou Tozzi was pleased with the Raiders' fourth place finish over the Franklin Park course.

"With Marty Levenson, our top runner, and Andy Laskowski injured, I was just hoping to finish in the top five," Tozzi said. "We had three medal winners, Bob Levenson, who finished fourth; Mike Morin, 10th, and Mike Barrett, 13th.

Our other scorers were Jerry Keys and Mike Ketzner."

Marty Levenson and Laskowski did run despite their injuries, but finished well in arrears.

Bob Levenson and Morin qualified for the all-state meet over the same course Nov. 13.

Quincy's John Saville, who has been hampered by a leg injury, placed fifth in Division One and will run in the all-state meet.

Coach Joe Catalano was extremely pleased by the fact his girls' team qualified for the all-state meet by placing sixth last Saturday.

"These girls tried hard all year and I was happy to see them qualify for the all-state meet," Catalano said.

First Quincy finisher was Paula Conostas and the other scorers, in order, were Ellen Caramanica, Mary Iacocca, Dottie Irvine and Hildi Dolan. Also finishing were Kelly Tobin and Ann Marie Lydon.

Quincy and North will have runners competing Saturday in the annual state coaches' meet, also over the Franklin Park course.

Raiderettes City Swim Champs

The North Quincy High girls' swim team is the city champion for the second year in a row.

Bill Walker's Raiderettes, who won the first meet in history a year ago, repeated last week, 103-61, at the Lincoln Hancock School pool. The win gave North a 1-4-1 record while Elaine Murphy's Quincy girls dropped to 0-6.

There were several outstanding individual performances for both teams and competition was close in most events.

North's Jeanine Rich and Donna Walsh placed 1-2 in the 100 butterfly, Linda Walker and Jill Sweeney were 1-2 in the 200 freestyle, Walker and Sweeney also were 1-2 in the 500 freestyle, Eileen Feeney won the 100 backstroke with her sister Bernadette finishing second, Rich won the 100 breaststroke and Pam Henry, Lisa Colletta, Lorraine Conroy and Paula Stohlberg won the 400 freestyle relay.

Sheila Burke again was a standout for the First Ladies, winning the 100 freestyle over North's Maureen Santry, also beating out Santry in the 100 breast stroke and she was a member of the winning 200-yard medley relay team which also included Sue Murphy, Laurie Burke and Valerie Collins.

Murphy won the 200 individual medley event ahead of the Raiderettes' Walsh. Laurie Burke was a close second in the 100 breaststroke.

Roche Team Low Gross Winners

The Furnace Brook Golf Club women held their first final, a nine-hole Hollywood style tournament with the team of Capt. Rena Roche, Dolly Nogler, Mary Donoghue and Linda Reed shooting low gross of 37.

Capt. Mary Morrissey, Priscilla O'Neill, Alice Pagnaro and Joy Robbins had second gross of 39, Capt. Joyce Serafini, Dot Smith, Mimi Purpura and Rose LaHive third gross of 40, a two-way tie between Capt. Mel Corbin, Pat Tehan and Carole Murphy and Capt. Ellie Mulroy, Gail Hackett and Pat Cugini for fourth gross of 41, and a tie between Capt. Sheila Daly, Ginnie McCann, Isabel Morrison and Marie Corayer, and Capt. Jo Hinkley, Helene McPeck and Marilyn Harris for fifth gross of 43.

Presidents Thinking Upset At Brockton

by TOM SULLIVAN

Buoyed by two straight wins, the Quincy High football team travels to Marciano Stadium in Brockton Saturday with high hopes of upsetting Brockton's huge team in a 1:30 p.m. Suburban League game.

Hank Conroy's Presidents, who staged a gallant comeback two weeks ago to nip Malden in the final four seconds, took advantage of numerous mistakes by Weymouth North last week to score three touchdowns in the second half and rolled to a 26-0 win.

Brockton, with its biggest squad in years, both in size and numbers, has been rather disappointing, but has the potential to romp over any team. The Boxers have wins over Chicopee, New Bedford, Brookline and Leominster, while losing to undefeated Newton North and being shocked by Weymouth North, 8-7.

"I know Brockton is very big, but I feel we are now capable of giving anyone a game," Conroy said. "I was encouraged by the team's great comeback at Malden and against Weymouth North, the boys were really hitting. The secondary was outstanding with four pass interceptions, they sacked the quarterback several times (four) and the defense was just great overall."

Weymouth had a statistical edge, but in addition to intercepting four passes, the Presidents blocked a punt, smothered the punter before he could get his kick away another time and recovered two fumbles.

Conroy stuck mainly to the ground and Dennis Walter threw only six passes, completing one for 24 yards to Paul Vallatini and having one intercepted. Quincy also lost the ball twice on fumbles.

Weymouth completed eight of 14 passes for 92 yards, but Conroy explained, "we were letting them complete the short passes, but the secondary was tremendous on the long ones." Weymouth's longest completion of 26 yards actually was not a completion, but pass interference was called on a Quincy player.

Weymouth had a slight edge in rushing, 114 net yards to 103, and had 12 first downs to seven for Quincy.

One of the Quincy interceptions was run back 90 yards for a touchdown by Pat Gibbons, others by Scott Awed and Gibbons set up scores and the fourth in the end zone by Billy Shea halted Weymouth's best threat.

"It looked in the first half as though neither team wanted to win, as we kept handing the ball over to each other," Conroy said. "But in the second half, we jelled and took advantage of every mistake and the defense was just superb as it did the job for us. We had a few boys back full time on defense for the first time, including Gibbons, Pettinelli and Sal Coscia, and that certainly helped."

Mark Buchanan was a one-man gang early, as he carried the ball on Quincy's first 11 rushing plays. After that, Len Picot shared the ball-carrying chores.

They were singled out for their work on offense, as were Walter at quarterback and Vallatini at end. Lauded for their defensive performances were: Coscia, Rich Coose, Picot, Bob Pettinelli, Tom Conine and the secondary, including Gibbons, Bob Derbes, Don Heath and Jim Maze.

"I was pleased with the few penalties called on us," Conroy added. "They have hurt us in the past."

The Presidents had early chances but had trouble scoring in the first half. Their first drive after the opening kickoff was halted by a pass interception.

Pettinelli's punt block gave Quincy the ball on Weymouth's 16, but two plays later Buchanan fumbled going into the end zone and the ball was recovered by a Weymouth player in the end zone for a touchback.

Quincy's first pass interception by Gibbons gave the Presidents the ball on Weymouth's 15, and six plays later Picot scored from the one.

The second half was all Quincy, thanks to its aggressive play and Weymouth mistakes. On fourth down, the Weymouth punter was smeared before he could get the kick away, and Quincy had the ball on the Weymouth six. Buchanan scored his eighth touchdown from the one and Walter passed to Billy Brennan for the two points.

Weymouth appeared on its way to a score, thanks to two pass completions; but with a first down on the 10, Gibbons intercepted on the 10 and out-raced all Weymouth defenders for a 90-yard scoring run.

Another interception by Awed put Quincy on the Weymouth 27, a penalty moved the ball to the 12, John Houten carried to the four and Tom Dedion scored his first varsity touchdown. Weymouth's last gasp, following the pass interference call, was halted when Shea intercepted in the end zone and ran it out to the six.

Doherty, Morton Shine For Crusaders

Brian Doherty, who sparked the North Quincy football team the past two years and who is one of several freshmen on the Holy Cross squad, had a great day Saturday in sparking the Crusaders to their 400th win and second of the year, 33-14, over Rhode Island.

The former Raider star scored two touchdowns in the second half on runs of 42 and 59 yards as HC rebounded from a 14-0 halftime deficit.

Another former Raider, quarterback Bob Morton, played a fine game. Three weeks ago in Holy Cross' only other win, Morton had an outstanding day.

Needs Love And Sympathetic Understanding

Q. I love and read your column and enjoy it very much. The date of my oldest child is August 15, 1955 in Boston, Mass. at 1:16 P.M. I have five children so you will hear from me again!

R.M.

A. Your daughter's horoscope shows the Sun, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Pluto all in the Sign of Leo; Mercury in Virgo; Neptune in Libra; the Moon and Uranus in the Sign of Cancer and Saturn in Scorpio which is on the Ascendant.

This chart is of particular interest since it indicates the splendid possibilities that can be developed in time. Early in life she may feel somewhat restricted and or find it difficult to express her emotions and feelings. There may be times when she may not really understand why she feels or acts the way she does.

There is apt to be some inner conflict between her basically happy, lovable nature and certain inhibitions and anxieties which are rather deep and perhaps of which she is not fully aware. This may result in her ambivalent between being warmly affectionate and then withdrawing into herself and appearing to be cold and hard or detached. This especially so when she feels hurt or is afraid of being hurt since she is very sensitive.

This makes for a very complex emotional nature. She needed much love, affection and sympathetic understanding as a child and all through life. Marriage to an understanding and considerate mate would be ideal but unless she is very carefully mated, problems may develop.

In time she should be able to develop a better control of her emotions and gain from early experiences. She should settle into a more stabilized life. Haste and the forcing of issues should be avoided.

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this paper.

Silversmith Film At Quincy Historical Society

The Quincy Historical Society will show the film, "Silversmith of Williamsburg" Sunday, Nov. 7, at 3 p.m. in the Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., Quincy.

The fashioning of silver may have been the earliest important American art form. The American silversmith, one of the most creative of the colonial craftsmen, often enjoyed a considerable social status in his community. His work formed a brilliant legacy for both his own and succeeding generations.

The film, believed to be the most complete existing visual treatise on silversmithing, will be of equal interest to the modern craftsman, to students, and to groups who are fascinated by the details of 18th century life.

In his shop, Williamsburg's present-day master silversmith, William deMatteo, and his journeyman, Philip Thorp, fashion two pieces using ancient tools and methods centuries old. A coffee pot of the 1765 period and a CANN (small mug) commence with the poring of the silver ingot. This is beaten to sheet and then the many steps of forging and raising begin. The film re-enacts every major step in the hand crafting of silver including the casting and soldering of the spout, sockets, and final. The public is invited. General museum admission will be received at the door.

Sacred Heart Youth To Present Musical Nov. 12-13-14

The Sacred Heart Youth Organization will hold its eighth annual Musical Nov. 12, 13 and 14 at 8:15 p.m. in the Sacred Heart School Hall, 370 Hancock St., North Quincy.

More than 100 boys and girls will participate in the musical, entitled "A Revue and Mini-Musical". Jack Morris is director, Patricia Finnegan assistant director and choreographer and Joseph Upping musical director.

The production encompasses a wide variety of show tunes followed by a mini-musical version of "Cinderella".

The show starts with the entire cast in a number called "Circus on Parade" followed by Jack Kelly's opening song, "No Business Like Show Business".

A clown bit with Jack Kelly and Dick Ryan is followed by "Be A Clown", sung by Tim McCormack.

Sarah Poole sings "Too Long At The Fair".

"Where Would You Be" is done by Judy McKenna and Tim McCormack.

The singing throughout the musical portion is laced with several dance routines including one by Carol Flynn and Lynne Doran.

Other musical numbers include: "Put On A Happy Face" with Kevin McDonald, "Look At That Face" with Jeanne Grasselli, "Ooh, Ooh, What Ya Do To Me" with Alan Dyer, "Make Someone Happy" is sung by Beth Grant.

Clowns run in and out of the first act as in the clown bit with Paul Collins and Kevin McDonald.

"Let Me Entertain You" from "Gypsy" is done by Paul Collins. Brian Scott, Mary Anne McKeon and Patty White. Carol White sings "Send In The Clowns".

Officer Krupke from "West Side Story" is done by Mike Gill, Bill White, Mike Edwards and Bob Peters.

Maureen McKay sings "Little Girl Blue", followed by a step dance routine.

Amy Doll, Beth Grant and Debbie Farren combine talents for "How Lucky Can You Get". The entire chorus joins Dick Ryan in "Once In Love With Amy".

Colleen and Maureen Flynn are in "Together Wherever We Go".

The chorus, clowns and dancers with Billy Kelly make up the routine of "Razzle Dazzle".

Debbie Farren does "Come Saturday Morning", with Jacques McCloskey and Tracey Twomey doing a dance duet.

"Tis Time" combines the efforts of Joanne Vaughn, Mary Ellen McKenna, Mike Edwards and Mark Rooney.

Jack Kelly again appears in "Write the Songs".

Mike Gill and Bill White combine efforts in "That's Entertainment".

The Prologue is "The Party's Over" with chorus, Jeanne Grasselli, Maureen McKay and Brian Scott.

Costumes are being done by Fran Flynn and Make-up created by Michele Morris.

Tickets may be obtained from Rev. Thomas C. Garrett, spiritual director of the Parish Youth Organization, or from members of the cast and chorus.

New Craft Course For Boys, Girls At YMCA

The Quincy YMCA will offer a new crafts course for boys and girls, beginning Saturday, Nov. 13, from 10:30 a.m. to noon.

Activities will include wood carving, leather and metal tooling, model-making and other related craft activities.

Boys and girls must be 10 years of age and up to register for this new course. There is a minimal fee involved to cover the cost of all materials.

The course is being taught by George Nolder, a graduate of the University of Maine, who teaches Industrial Arts in the Weymouth School system, and is volunteering his second year at the Quincy YMCA.

Edward Keohane Chairman At National Selected Morticians Meeting

Edward J. Keohane, of the Keohane Funeral Home, Quincy was among funeral directors attending the 59th annual meeting of National Selected Morticians last week at the Palmer House in Chicago.

Keohane was the chairman for firms serving 200 to 350 families annually.

As a member of NSM, Keohane met with other leading funeral directors from North America to further foster responsible funeral service in the consumer and public interest, and to meet the needs of modern day society.

Membership in National Selected Morticians is by invitation only. Membership is limited to outstanding privately owned establishments, and is extended only after a thorough evaluation of standards of service, facilities, and a history of exemplary performance in developing an excellent reputation for responsible funeral service.

Each member funeral home in NSM has pledged its adherence to rigid Code of Good Funeral Practice. This Code sets forth a clear statement as to the obligation to the public, social responsibilities and high standards of professional conduct to be strictly observed by each member firm. Copies of the NSM Code are available upon request, either by contacting Keohane or the International Office in Evanston, Illinois. Failure to comply with provisions of this Code of Good Funeral Practice results in termination and forfeiture of membership.

Membership in NSM, to which the Keohane Funeral

Home was invited in 1968, consists of independent funeral service establishments which are privately owned and operated by persons of integrity, excellent moral character, professional ability of the highest type, good financial standing, and dedicated to the principle that their essential human calling involves special responsibilities to society. NSM firms may be found in key cities across the United States and Canada, with international members in England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, Sweden, France, Bermuda, Mexico, Philippines, Guam, Australia, New Zealand and Sri Lanka.

Eric Swider State Delegate To American Chamber

J. Walker Owens, Vice-Chairman Designate for Membership Services of the American Chamber of Commerce Executives, announces the appointment of Eric Swider, Executive Vice President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, as state delegate to the national organization.

As a 1976-77 representative of the ACCE, Swider will serve as a liaison between the headquarters offices, its officers and Board, and the individual members. At the same time, he will be active in building and maintaining membership.

Earlier this year, Swider was named Massachusetts representative to an advisory committee of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the purpose of which is to provide input needed in the development of tools, programs and publications used in accomplishment of U.S. Chamber goals.

School Dept. Gearing Up To Take Over Nursing School

The Quincy School Department is gearing up to take over the functions of the City Hospital School of Nursing.

The School of Nursing was ordered phased out last June in an effort to trim the Hospital budget but it got a one-year reprieve a month later when the City Council came up with $60,000 to permit admission of one more freshman class.

The School Committee last week directed Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon to work with the Hospital Board of Managers and City Councillor James A. Sheets to seek a solution that would keep the School of Nursing open.

"The Quincy Junior College handles all the academic work for the School of Nursing now so the Public Schools are deeply involved already," said Dr. Creedon.

Sea Cadets Drive

The Quincy division of the U.S. Naval Sea Cadet Corps will hold its annual membership drive Friday from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Naval Reserve Center, 85 Sea St., Quincy.

The program, open to young people between the ages of 14 and 17, carries no military obligations, but is beneficial if you decide to join the Navy or Cost Guard.

"We also do their lab work at the Vo-Tech School. The only things we don't do are the medical skills which are handled at the Hospital.

"If we take over the whole operation, I would assume that the Junior College would continue to handle the academic work and the Vo-Tech would assume responsibility for the medical education like it does now for licensed practical nurses and technicians.

"We have experience running LPN level programs and dental internships for 30 or 40 local dentists so we are not neophytes in those areas but we are in the professional preparation of Nurses."

Right now, a proposal is being prepared for submission to the State Board of Registration in Nursing that would enable the city to get a state grant of $4,500 to plan for the transition. The Board will meet on it Nov. 19.

"The $4,500 would be an outright grant," said Dr. Creedon, "but there is a real possibility that we can get reimbursed 50 per cent by the state for the actual training.

"We have yet to cost it out on our end but the chances are it would be cheaper for us to do it. Education is our business and we are organized to do it more reasonably."

Quincy is one of the few communities in New England equipped to handle a School of Nursing within its school system.

The Vo Tech School includes 13th and 14th grades, two more than the usual school system, and the Junior College is a division of the public schools, a relationship unique in New England.

Nurses now get a diploma after their three years at the School of Nursing and can qualify for an associate's degree after two years of study at the Junior College.

"We won't be able to offer a full four-year baccalaureate degree program," said Dr. Creedon. "But it is possible we can work something out with a four-year college for study beyond the Junior College level."

If things go right, said Dr. Creedon, "we won't miss a year of the Nursing School. The new freshman class can start next fall and then we'll work out the phasing."

Like A Leaky Faucet

Penny-Pinching Council Squeezes Mayor's Financial Requests

By TOM HENSHAW

A penny-pinching City Council Monday night handled Mayor LaRaia's financial requests like a leaky faucet — some seeped through but the mainstream was blocked at the source.

Most of the financial orders, ranging in size from $250,000 for temporary loan interest down to $133 for a sidewalk roller, had been tucked away in the Council's Finance Committee, one of them since last May.

During the dispute between the Mayor and the Council over the tax rate last month, some Councilors indicated that they might drag their feet over the Mayor's financial orders unless they were consulted in the rate-setting.

The orders that got through Monday night included:

- An appropriation of $1,000, trimmed from the original $1,250 request, was transferred from Quincy Heritage's income to its expenses. It passed, 7-1, with Councilor Daniel G. Raymond dissenting.

- An appropriation of $133, charged to the equipment bond issue, for a 4-6 ton sidewalk roller was passed 8-0 after Councilor Dennis E. Harrington entered a brief plea in its behalf.

- An appropriation of [Cont'd on Page 22]

Tax Bills Due Dec. 1

Hardship Cases May Get Special Tax Abatements

Mayor LaRaia and the Board of Assessors have called the attention of hard-pressed taxpayers to a law that permits the assessors to grant special abatements in certain hardship cases.

Tax bills based on the new rate of $194.80, an increase of $34.90 over the previous year, were sent out Nov. 1. They have to be paid by Dec. 1.

The memorandum, from Chairman Elmer K. Fagerlund of the Board of Assessors to Mayor LaRaia, and released by the Mayor said:

"To relieve the concern of those taxpayers who are finding it impossible to pay part or all of their increased real estate taxes due on Dec. 1, 1976, the laws permit Assessors to abate any portion of, real estate taxes under certain conditions of age, infirmity or hardship, provided application is made to the Assessors giving all the necessary facts and evidence in support of such an application."

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, a critic of Mayor LaRaia and the $194.80 tax rate, told the City Council Monday night that the memorandum was sent at his instigation.

"It came about through a phone conversation between myself and the chairman of the Board of Assessors," he said.

"I noticed that a notice was sent out with the tax bills. I was dismayed that it did not mention that taxpayers didn't have to rush to City Hall Nov. 1, that there was a 30-day grace period to Dec. 1. It was just a

Swine Flu Clinic Saturday

For 18-To-64 Year Old Residents

Dr. Samuel Solomon, Quincy Health Commissioner, announces a Swine Flu immunization clinic will be held Saturday, at the Woodward School, 1102 Hancock St., from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

It will be for Quincy residents, between the ages of 18 yrs. and 64.

At this clinic, Dr. Solomon noted the Swine Flu vaccine to be given is a different type than the vaccine given to "high risk" group the past two weeks. This flu shot is for those residents between the ages of 18 and 64. The largest group of people in Quincy and across the country fall into this age group and should receive the vaccine to protect them from the Swine flu, Dr. Solomon said. Dr. Solomon estimated there are 50,000 Quincy residents who should receive the vaccine.

Industry and businesses in Quincy with large groups of employees will be provided the vaccine to be given their employees, if they contact the Health Commissioner, Dr. Solomon added.

Dr. Solomon has asked that residents call the Quincy Health Department, 773-1380 Ext. 219 for more information.

Jimmy Carter Wasn't Too Busy To Remember A Friend

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Only time will tell what kind of a President Jimmy Carter will be.

But, in the human being department you'd have to rate him pretty high.

Russ Johnson of Chickatabot Rd., Merrymount, can attest to that. He and his wife, Mary, knew it the first time they met him in 1973. And Russ knows it even more so now.

You can imagine how busy Jimmy Carter was during the final crucial couple weeks of the tug-of-war Presidential campaign with President Ford.

The White House and the most prestigious political job in the world were at stake. You've got to keep your mind on what you're doing. You can't let the little things get in your way. It's those big vote-counting things that are important.

But apparently with Carter, the little things-like remembering a friend-count, too. Regardless of how busy and involved you might become doing something big.

For quite a few years, Mary, has been a familiar radio personality to many South Shore residents. She always brought "good news" on her WJDA "Stork Club" program: announcing the arrival of thousands of babies.

And she also had another program "Tonight On The South Shore" listing activities for that particular evening.

Mary's cheerful voice has been missing from WJDA for sometime now. In fact in recent weeks it has been difficult for her to even speak.

She's been a patient at two hospitals. Five weeks were spent at Brooks Hospital, Brookline, where she had been doing pretty well.

A heavy cigarette smoker, she had lung cancer. She quit, but too late.

And, typically Mary, instead of feeling sorry for herself, she launched her own little crusade against smoking—even lecturing nurses she caught lighting up a cigarette.

"Look at me," she told them. "I'm a good example why not to smoke."

Jimmy Carter's Boston campaign office heard that Mary was ill and sent word to him. He took time from his campaigning to send her the following note dated Oct. 21:

"I was sorry to learn of your illness. You have my best wishes for a speedy recovery and return home from the hospital. Take care of yourself. My prayers are with you."

"YOU'RE GOING TO be in the White House," Mary Johnson of Merrymount predicted as she kissed Jimmy Carter during early stages of Presidential election campaign.

National Science Foundation Curricula For Elementary Schools

Vincent P. Sullivan, Coordinator of Science for the Quincy Public Schools, is working with Boston College to facilitate implementation of National Science Foundation Curricula within many Quincy elementary school classrooms.

This is the second year of a three year program funded under a $101,000 grant from the National Science Foundation.

The goal is to provide local systems with trained staff who will help implement and maintain good elementary science programs.

Under the direction of Dr. George Ladd, Boston College, the local "implementation team" of Mark Dempsey, Gerry Butler and Rick DeCristofaro receives inservice training both on-site and at the State National Education Centers.

Young Ideas Page 15-18

What Does School Mean To A 4-Year Old?

By CATHY CONLEY

What does school mean to a four-year-old?

This is the question "Young Ideas" asks in a visit to Miss Cheryl Smith's Early Childhood classroom in Snug Harbor School.

Early Childhood is a program in the Quincy schools funded by Title I in which 120 four-year-old children have the opportunity to get a headstart on kindergarten. They come to an Early Childhood classroom four times a week and learn what school is all about.

In a bright, warmly decorated classroom, the children learn to make friends, share toys and follow directions. They cut out, color, do puzzles, string beads, make castles out of blocks, sing, dance, march and play hopscotch in bicycle tires.

All the activities are designed to help the children get their minds, bodies and emotions ready for kindergarten next year.

In this week's Young Ideas issue sponsored by Title I, the four-year-olds tell us what they do in school, how they like it and they share some of their pre-school fears. "I was afraid of monsters at school", said one. "I was afraid of the big kids," said another.

"Young Ideas" also features a "Be-Kind-to Little-Kids" Code, a list of things older children should be aware of so they can make life easier for the smaller child in school.

This issue of "Young Ideas" has two assistant editors, Pam Kalus and Michele Murphy, both 17-year-old seniors in the journalism class at Quincy High School. Pam and Michele visited the Early Childhood classroom with the editor. They helped gather material, interview the children and write copy. Michele also helped with the paste-up of the issue.

$33,420 In New Wiring

Wire Inspector William H. Pitts reports issuing 95 permits for wiring estimated to cost $33,420 during the month of October.

The major project for the month was a new building for Quincy Cycles at 247 Quincy Ave. Pitts said his department collected $819.65 in fees, made 166 inspections, noted 13 defects, issued 40 certificates of approval, made nine reinspections and answered one fire call.

City Plans To Sue Minutemen For $10,000

The city of Quincy is preparing to bring suit against the now-defunct Boston Minutemen of the North American Soccer League for $10,000 owed for use of Veterans Memorial Stadium last summer.

The Minutemen contracted to give the city $13,000 for the upkeep of the Stadium and pay $500 a game over a nine game schedule. The team moved its home games away after six were played. It's out of business now.

"We got $6,000 of the $16,000 due us," said Stephen H. Moynihan, administrative assistant for business affairs in the Quincy School Department. "We spent about $2,000 on the field so the city is ahead."

City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams said the $10,000 figure was derived from $4,000 due the beginning of July, $3,000 due the beginning of August and $500 for each game played on June 12, 19 and 27 and July 5, 10 and 25.

He said the suit probably will be filed later this week in Quincy District Court.

Film 'At 99' To Be Presented By Women's Commission

The Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women will present "At 99" a 25-minute color film, Wednesday, Nov. 17, at 7:30 p.m., at the main branch of the Thomas Crane Library.

The potential for life and continued fulfillment is viewed through the experiences of 99-year old Louise Tandy Murch.

The film shows her helping to entertain senior citizens with her musical talents as well as spreading her love of life to other human beings. At 91, she took up yoga.

"Aging is a difficult process for many people," notes Ann Aronson, coordinator of the film festival. "This film is planned to affirm the positive possibilities in life as well as to encourage the continued involvement and caring of our older citizens."

The public is invited to attend. A discussion will follow the film.

Strict But Fair

She's 'Mom' At Home But 'Dean' At North Quincy High School

By BRUCE McLAIN

At home she's "Mom". Yet when she and her three children enter the door of North Quincy High School each day, she becomes Dean of Students, and don't you forget it.

However, for Mrs. Eileen Feeney, recently appointed by the Quincy School Committee to the student trouble-shooting post at NQHS, there is no conflict in the roles.

For, in many ways, her tasks as a homemaker and as Dean of Students coincide. Guidance needs to be given. Discipline is administered. A love and concern for the well-being of young adults is necessary.

In fact, she notes, many of the several dozen students she encounters each week, who have come afoot of school rules, come from troubled home environments.

To many people, her official task at the school is the traditional one of meting out discipline to youngsters that break school rules.

Yet, she feels, her approach to discipline problems has to be much more than a verbal slap on the wrist and a letter home to parents.

For instance, recent court decisions have firmly established the student's right to due process in school discipline matters. Students have full rights of citizenship as defined in the Constitution of the United States and its amendments.

Consequently, Mrs. Feeney and Dean of Students Thomas Fitzgerald continually have to work hand in glove with guidance personnel, psychologists, and school core evaluation teams established to suggest the best ways to correct a student's discipline problems.

In a break with past tradition, Mrs. Feeney and Mr. Fitzgerald both now deal with male and female students. They split up the alphabet between them with Mrs. Feeney working with students whose last names are between "A" and "M" and Mr. Fitzgerald cares for those whose names are between "N" and "Z".

The only exception they make to that rule is, understandably enough, if by some happenstance Eileen, Bernadette or Joseph (Mrs. Feeney's children) find they must pay a call to the Dean's office.

The Dean of Students is not going to handle that one. But "Mom" may want to talk with them when they get home.

Until solar energy comes of age, we need the nuclear energy that's available now.

So far Science has found two ways to harness the sun's power: with solar cells and with solar panels.

Solar cells can produce electricity. But at a cost about 50 times the present electricity cost.

Solar panels can be used to heat hot water and even houses. But this too is very expensive with present equipment costs.

Both solar cells and panels are still in their infancy. Which means a lot more research and development is needed before they can be utilized on a wide scale.

Right now we're experimenting with ways to make solar energy more practical, affordable and available.

But it's going to take time. Our children will no doubt reap the benefits of these experiments.

Meanwhile, our current energy needs must be met. Solar power can supply some of the energy for hot water and for heating, but it can't even come close to meeting all our needs. And that's where nuclear power fits in.

Nuclear power is readily available today. And our nuclear plants already produce electricity at about half the cost of our oil-fired plants.

Solar is the energy source of the future. Low-cost nuclear power is the energy source for today.

We think the choice is clear. We're all in this together. Let's solve it together.

Car Vs. Kids

It's a chilling fact that more children are killed by accidents than by all the major childhood diseases combined. The combination of cars and kids is a dangerous one causing many of these accidents - usually serious ones. That makes it vital to observe the following safety precautions. After all, it could mean your child's life.

Rigidly enforce rules prohibiting young children from playing in streets, running out from between parked cars and crossing at unguarded intersections.

Don't allow children to play in, around or under parked cars. Before getting in your car to back out of your driveway or parking spot, check carefully that all is clear behind you.

In the car, always buckle children into seat belts and remember that they'll be safest riding in the back seat. Never leave a child alone in a car-it's easier than you think to disengage the brake or start the engine.

Wasn't Too Busy

To Remember A Friend

The letter arrived at the hospital just after Mary was released. It was forwarded to her home. She was thrilled and read it and re-read it. Things seemed to be going along nicely.

But suddenly a severe reaction to the medication set in. And on Friday, Oct. 29, she was rushed to New England Deaconess Hospital. Minutes later, on that very day, a beautiful bouquet of American beauty roses arrived at the Johnson home. Because there was no one home, Mrs. Richard Blake, a neighbor, accepted the flowers and brought them to Russ when he got home from the hospital that night.

"Who are they from?" Russ asked.

"I don't know," she replied. "But there's a card with them."

Russ opened the envelope and read the handwritten message:

"Wishing I could be with you. You have been a sincere friend to me. Because of you and Russell we will enjoy a great Democratic victory in November."

It was signed: "Love, Jimmy and Rosalynn Carter."

Russ brought the flowers to Mary at the hospital.

"Unbelievable," she whispered. She couldn't say anything more. But her eyes said it for her.

Unbelievable was a good word if you could only choose one. Just four days before the election, a man all wrapped up in a Presidential election that might go either way could find the time to again remember a friend in Quincy.

Mary had planned to vote in Merrymount Election Day. But now she was in the hospital. Was there time to get an absentee ballot?

You couldn't get one Saturday or Sunday. City Hall was closed. But on Monday, City Clerk John Gillis rushed her one by special delivery. And it was back to City Hall by noon on Tuesday. Election Day.

There's no doubt about who Mary voted for.

That afternoon at the hospital, she asked the nurses not to let anyone bother her. She wanted to rest.

She slept that afternoon, not because she was tired then. But so that she would have the strength to stay awake that night to watch the election returns on television. She stayed up through the night to about 4:30 a.m. until she was sure Jimmy Carter had been elected.

She then fell happily asleep.

Russ and Mary really didn't know what to expect that night in May, 1973, when they arrived at Logan Airport to meet then Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter.

They had sort of expected him to arrive with a large fancy entourage.

What they got was a smiling, boyish looking fellow with tousled hair casually carrying a suit bag flung over his shoulder. He had only one aide with him.

The Johnsons introduced themselves. Carter flashed back what was to become a famous smile.

"I gave him a big smooch," Mary later fondly recalled. "I just couldn't help it. He was so friendly and natural."

Russ was arrangements chairman for the annual South Shore Council of Churches Men's Prayer Breakfast at Valles, Braintree and had invited Carter to be the keynote speaker. He had made contact with Carter after hearing that he was "a good speaker and a good churchman."

Russ then discovered that Carter had another attribute: honesty. Carter did not ask for a speaker's fee but it is customary for a group to at least pay the travel expenses of an out-of-state speaker.

But Carter told Russ he had to go to Washington, D.C. around the same time anyway "so just pay the plane expenses from Washington, to Boston instead of from Georgia."

So it cost the South Shore Council of Churches only $80.

Russ and Mary became good friends with Carter during his brief stay and he invited them to the Governor's mansion. They never were able to get there, though.

Ever since 1973, Carter has referred to Russ as "my first friend in Massachusetts."

The Johnsons received a Christmas card from him that year. And early the following December [1974] they received a letter from him confiding he was going to run for President and wondering if they would help him in Massachusetts.

They sure would—even though they were then life-long Republicans. Russ became his Quincy coordinator. And Mary helped out as much as she could.

"I think he will make a wonderful President," Mary said during the early campaign. "Whatever he does, I'm sure he'll do the right thing. He's just a fantastic guy."

Little did Russ and Mary dream that May night in 1973 that the boyish looking man they met at the plane was a future President of the United States.

It's quite a story. And the happy ending would be for Russ and Mary to be there in Washington Jan. 20 to watch their friend Jimmy Carter raise his right hand and become the 39th President.

"It would be wonderful," Russ said Saturday. "But I don't..."

There were tears in his eyes as he slowly shook his head.

"Maybe a miracle..."

But there was to be no miracle. Not this time, anyway. Mary died early Monday morning.

But a thoughtful President-elect had made her final days and hours some of her happiest.

Criticizes Mayor Regarding Tax Rate Reaction Statement

[Editor's Note: Following are a letter written to Mayor LaRaia by J. Christopher Barrett and a response to him by Mayor LaRaia. Both have given The Quinoy Sun authorization to print them.]

Mayor Joseph LaRaia
Quincy City Hall
Quincy, Massachusetts, 02169

Dear Mayor LaRaia:

I am writing you relative to an article published in The Quinoy Sun on October 21st, 1976, stating that you have received little reaction to the recent setting of Quincy's record tax-rate.

At first I found such a statement difficult to believe, remembering the intense displeasure expressed by so many of Quincy's citizens immediately after the rate was announced. It was not until I engaged in several discussions with fellow citizens that I began to appreciate the reasons why so few people may have taken the time to write you.

At the outset of your term of office, you insisted that your administration would be a people oriented administration. One in which the citizenry would be most welcome to observe and participate in the policy and decision making process of our local government. During the determination of the tax rate, however, you allowed only your administrative personnel the opportunity of knowing exactly what figures you were using and how they were to be applied. Thus, preventing any real and meaningful input on behalf of the City Council, the Auditor, other financial experts or even the average citizen who might have wished to make a suggestion in an effort to remedy Quincy's financial problems. This is clearly in contradiction with the openness and participation you encouraged in your inaugural address.

My quarrel is not with the large increase in the tax rate, provided it is justified, but rather the method by which you attained such a rate. If the figures and calculations used by your administration were correct, and if your decisions based on those figures were in the best interest of the city and its people, I see no reason warranting your efforts to exclude interested parties from inspecting your projections throughout the rate setting process. Had this been the case, much of the present days confrontation might never have occurred.

Your insistence that nothing can nor will be done to effect a change in the tax rate after you have set it, gives people little reason or motivation to express to you their displeasure. In closing, I might say that I realize only too well the enormous burden placed upon yourself as well as other elected officials of our city.

It should provide some consolation, however, to know that when all the accusations have subsided, and the actions of our leaders can be viewed in a more objective light, the people of Quincy will always support those elected officials whose utmost aim was the betterment of the city and its people.

Sincerely,

J. Christopher Barrett

Mayor Responds To Tax Rate Letter

Mr. Joseph C. Barrett
17 Clifton Street
Quincy, MA 02169

Dear Mr. Barrett:

Thank you for your letter of October 26th, concerning the tax rate. I am glad that you chose to write me so that I could answer your questions which seem to be founded on misleading information by the City Council.

It is untrue that input was restricted to my administrative people. Aside from my Budget Coordinator and staff, the following people participated, each according to his own expertise:

City Treasurer, Mr. Foy, who worked for the former administration; the Chairman of the Board of Assessors, who worked for 2 former administrations; the 2 other members of the Board of Assessors, one of whom worked for 2 other administrations; the Chairman of the Hospital Board of Managers, who has been a member of that board the past 2 administrations, and has served for many years with the State Department of Taxation; and the Hospital Director, who was the Secretary of Finance for the Governor of Massachusetts. In addition, my Budget Coordinator has worked for the City Auditing Department for some 9 years, and holds an Accounting Degree from Stonehill College.

Contrary to the impression which some City Councillors attempted to falsely convey, I did meet with the Council on 2 occasions where the tax rate was discussed. The Auditor was also present. However, with an eleven man discussion going on, it is difficult to accomplish much, especially if some of the group are not cooperative. I'm sure you can appreciate that. I am always, and have always been available, to meet any individual Councillor. Even beyond that, never in my ten years experience as a Councillor, has the entire City Council, or I myself as a Councillor, demanded and sat in on such a prolonged discussion on the tax rate.

Any claim that this has been the case in the past, is false. The present demands of the City Council are purely for purposes of political show, especially since the City Council has no legal input in setting the rate.

As to the correctness of the figures used, that is attested to by the State approval of them. Further, any figures that had been finalized, were and are, open to the City Council.

In closing, I must say that I have always, and still reject the policy, of fooling the people with politically motivated zero or unrealistic tax rates. This has been the case in the past and has caused our problems. I am not interested in being known as the Mayor who brought the City of Quincy into bankruptcy which would cost the citizens far more in the long run.

This increase is a bare minimum to stabilize the tax rate and still keep the city running but without the Councillors cooperating, it will have difficulty succeeding. You will recall how they prevented realistic budget cuts and lay-offs when they didn't believe me on the seriousness of the situation. Also, you will recall, there were attempts to scuttle the Central Maintenance Facility.

With this in mind, let me say I appreciate your concern and hope that the City Council will be sincere in their response to my call for cooperation.

Very truly yours,

Joseph J. LaRaia
Mayor of Quincy

Carter Not There, LaRaia
Passes Up Mayors Conference

Mayor LaRaia did not attend the U.S. Conference of Mayors in Chicago this week because President-elect Jimmy Carter wasn't there.

"I couldn't see the sense of talking to anyone but him in order to get a feeling of his attitude toward the cities," the Mayor told The Sun.

"I attended a previous conference with Mayor White of Boston and 21 other mayors two weeks ago and we discussed the same problems and suggested the same remedies that were discussed in Chicago.

"There is going to be another conference of Mayors soon. I plan to attend that."

Mayor LaRaia said he favors more federal spending on the cities and incentives to local business for expansion.

"I'd like the federal government to take away some of the costly programs, such as health care, and hopefully take the burden off the real estate tax as a primary source of revenue."

The Chicago conference of mayors was attended by Howard Samuels, an urban policy advisor to President-elect Carter, who warned:

"The mayors may be asking for some things too soon. Carter still isn't just going to throw money away."

breakdown of how the Assessors saw the tax rate being established.

"I complained to Mr. Fagerlund that we have the money to print how the tax rate was assessed but not what procedures the taxpayers may follow to alleviate the hardship.

"I suggested to Mr. Fagerlund that they have Clause 18 which allows the Assessors discretionary power to grant hardship abatements due to age, infirmity or hardship. I notice that Mr. Fagerlund has now sent this to the Mayor."

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS

By TOM HENSHAW

Nov. 11 - 17, 1946 -- 30 Years Ago This Week

School Teachers Seek $500 Pay Hike

The 400 members of the Quincy Teachers Association asked the School Committee for a permanent raise of $500 a year, retroactive to Sept. 1. The current median salary of the teachers was about $2,400.

The formal request was made to the School Board by a committee composed of Miss Elizabeth Lawrence, David Meany, Miss Bernice Stiles and Felix Cutler.

They pointed out that the cost of living had risen 47 per cent since 1941 when the median teachers' salary was about $1,900.

TAX HIKE COMING

Mayor Charles A. Ross said the Quincy tax rate probably will go up in 1947 for the first time in five years.

The rate had been pegged at $30 dollars since 1943.

The Mayor said the big reason for the predicted increase was a general pay raise given to 1,800 city employees.

But City Councillor Carl W. Anderson charged that the rate hike was not really necessary.

He recommended several ways to save money by streamlining the city government, including combining the offices of tax collector and treasurer.

RUTH GORDON DAY

The city was planning a "day" Nov. 19 for Ruth Gordon, who left her home in Wollaston 32 years ago to seek and find success on the stage.

Among the visitors expected to arrive with her by train at Wollaston station were members of the cast of her latest play, "Years Ago", including Frederic March, Florence Eldridge and Garson Kanin.

They were to be driven to Quincy Square in a cavalcade of 1914 automobiles, commemorating the year in which Ruth Gordon Jones was graduated from Quincy High School.

NORTH TOPS RINDGE

Leo Luchini threw a pass for one touchdown and ran 55 yards with a punt return for another as North Quincy defeated Rindge Tech of Cambridge, 13-2, at the Stadium.

Tax Rate Hike Under Fire By QCA

Quincy's $34.90 real estate tax increase came under fire at the monthly meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association at the Montclair Men's Club.

President Arthur Chandler told members:

"The city budget has increased over a period of time and didn't come overnight, and the only way the tax rate can be held or reduced is to reduce city expenditures.

"The Quincy budget is $90 million for a city of 90,000 — $1,000 per person."

School Committeemen Frank Anselmo and John Sullivan were asked if the present $1,600 cost per pupil would be reduced with decreased school enrollment and if the School Department is doing anything to reduce its budget.

Anselmo and Sullivan contend that the School Department is only responsible for a $6.91 increase in this year's tax rate, rather than the $11 charged by the LaRaia administration.

"The School Department has told the School Superintendent to hold the line on the budget; one administrator and eight full-time teachers have been terminated to date," they said.

The proposed new City Hall, public works building, school administration building and cultural center were discussed.

Members suggested that the design of the city hall should be weighed very carefully to assure that it will be in keeping with the city's historical background and the historical district in which it is planned to be situated.

They also suggested that sufficient parking be available, that an auditorium be incorporated in the City Hall building rather than constructing a separate edifice for the performing arts and that the City Hall might be situated on city-owned land on Quarry St., or the complex of buildings located to the rear of Sea St.

Pres. Chandler appointed new Committee on Projects including Joseph E. Brett, chairman, Frank Anselmo, Elinda Lipsitz, Dorothy Kelly, Joseph N. Gildea, Ann Gaffey, Vito and Pearl Barresi.

Presidential Cooperative Bank Makes $150,000 Advance Tax Payment

Francis X. McCauley, president of the Presidential Cooperative Bank, Quincy, announces the bank has made an advance payment of $150,000 of tax escrow funds to the City of Quincy.

Although tax payments are not due until Dec. 1, the payment was made to help the city avoid additional costly borrowing of money in anticipation of taxes to be collected on the December 1st due date.

McCauley noted that the Presidential Cooperative Bank would pay, in full, tax bills of all mortgage customers whose accounts are up to date. Deficiencies in the tax escrow accounts after Dec. 1, will be billed to the individual customers with no interest or service charges assessed.

McCauley said the bank is in the process of phasing out the monthly collection of taxes and, in the near future, will make collections only on accounts where such collections are required by law.

Citizens Association Petitions For Zoning Changes

The Quincy Citizens Association presented a petition to the City Council Monday night advocating zoning ordinance changes involving building basements, multi-story buildings and irregular-size lots.

The changes include:

"The Zoning Board of Appeals shall have no authority to grant a variance which would permit the use of a basement for a dwelling unit."

A new four-family category would be added under the definition of a dwelling so that it reads: "A building designed for occupancy as the residence of three or four families each occupying a single dwelling unit."

The Association also wants above-ground garages to be counted as stories in an apartment building and a ban on "exceptions" that would permit "irregular-size lots to have only three-fourths the front, side and back yards specified by the ordinance."

Holidays Cancel 2 Thursday Evening Hours At City Hall

Mayor Joseph LaRaia announces cancellation of the evening hours [6-9 p.m.] at City Hall for two Thursday evenings this month, both being holidays - today (Veterans Day) and Nov. 25 (Thanksgiving Day).

"Working Peoples night" will be in effect on Thursday, Nov. 18 and will resume on Thursday, Dec. 2 and will continue through the month of December.

City May Borrow More Money For Merrymount School

Mayor Joseph LaRaia says the city may have to borrow more money to build the $1 million addition to the Merrymount School.

The low bid on construction was $946,000, the Mayor said, and money for the architect, the

"It does not mean we would spend all of the money," said Mayor LaRaia, "but we've shaved the cost down as much as possible now."

Additional borrowing for the school addition would require City Council approval.

project management firm and contingencies may raise the price to $1.2 million.

If the city does not come up with the additional money, he said, it might jeopardize the 65 per cent reimbursement due from the state.

New Pumper, Aerial Platform For Fire Dept.

Mayor LaRaia this week signed contracts with the Sutphen Fire Equipment Co. of Amlin, Ohio, for two large pieces of new equipment for the Quincy Fire Department.

They are a 1,000-gallon fire pumper costing $85,000 and a 400-foot telescopic aerial platform costing $210,000, to be paid for out of the equipment bond issue.

Delivery is expected in a year or a year and a half.

Adams School Education Week Program

In observance of American Education Week, November 15-19, the Adams School staff and pupils will present a special program for parents and friends.

On Wednesday morning, Nov. 17, parents will have an opportunity to visit classrooms and observe various classroom activities. A special film and slide presentation will be presented in the Media Center to the parents following the classroom visitation. There will also be a display of audio-visual materials and equipment in the Media Center. Pupils will demonstrate various items of equipment to the parents.

Refreshments will be served by the Parent-Teacher Association.

During the month of October, pupils and teachers of the Adams School observed National Hobby Month.

QHS Band In State Competition, Will Miss Veterans Day Parade

The Quincy High School band will be absent from today's [Thursday's] Veterans' Day Parade, but for a good reason.

The 132-member unit will be at the Cawley Stadium in Lowell seeking the state championship title in competition with two dozen high school bands from across the state.

In authorizing the Quincy High School participation, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon noted that the North Quincy High School Band will represent the school system in the Veterans' Day Parade.

The Quincy High School Band has been in constant rehearsal for the event over the last week, wrapping up their preparations with a marathon 11-hour session Sunday.

The band placed second in both 1974 and 1975 competitions which are sponsored by the Massachusetts Instrumental Conductors' Association [MICA].

Services Held For Mary E. Johnson WJDA Personality

Funeral services were held Wednesday in the Parkway United Methodist Church, Milton, for Mrs. Mary E. Johnson, 57, of 9 Chickatabot Rd., Merrymount, hostess for the shows "The Stork Club" and "Tonight on the South Shore" on radio station WJDA.

Services were conducted by Rev. Riley C. Shirley.

Mrs. Johnson, who joined the station as a secretary in January, 1958, died Monday in New England Deaconess Hospital in Boston.

A native of Newcastle, England, she made her home in Quincy for 45 years.

MARY E. JOHNSON

She was a graduate of North Quincy High School and Katherine Gibbs, and was a member of the Viking Club of Braintree, and a former member of American Women in Radio and Television.

She leaves her husband, Russell F. Johnson, a daughter, Mrs. Sandra Winquist of Virginia, a stepson, Peter R. Johnson of Pennsylvania, and two grandchildren.

Contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, 47 West Elm St., Brockton, or to the Memorial Fund of the Parkway Methodist Church, 158 Blue Hills Parkway, Milton.

Sister Zita Fleming Regis Dean Of Students

Sister Therese Higgins C.S.J., Ph.D., President of Regis College, Weston, announces the appointment of Sister Zita Fleming C.S.J., of Quincy, to the position of Dean of Students.

A member of the classics department at Regis for the past six years, Sister Zita was also Academic Advisor to Freshmen from 1971-76, as well as Coordinator of Student Volunteer Services in 1975-76.

Before going to Regis, Sister Zita was an instructor at Sacred Heart High School, Weymouth and St. Agnes School, Arlington. A teacher for more than 20 years, she has taught a variety of subjects including Latin Literature, Introductory Archaeology, Women in Antiquity, and Roman History. Sister Zita, an A.B. graduate of Regis College, received her master's degree from Boston College. She pursued further graduate studies at Tufts University where she was awarded a scholarship in 1967 to study classical languages and archaeology for the academic year at "Tufts-in-Italy", Naples.

Sister Zita is a member of the Massachusetts Association of Women Deans and Councilors, the Classical Association of New England, and the American Association of University Professors.

In her new position, Sister Zita will be responsible for providing continuing leadership for planning, implementation, and evaluation of programs that further student development. She will supervise all student personnel activities including counselling services, foreign student advisement and activities relating to the Student Association.

Sister Zita is the daughter of Mrs. Zita E. Fleming of 22 Squanto Rd., Merrymount.

John Elliot Topic For Quincy Minister Nov. 13

Rev. Gene Langevin of Quincy will speak on "John Elliot's Mission To The Indians: 1646-1690", Saturday, Nov. 13, at 8:30 p.m. at the Parkway United Methodist Church, 158 Blue Hill Parkway, Milton.

The talk will be preceded by a business meeting at 8 p.m. Refreshments will be served. The public is invited. There is no charge.

Rev. Langevin is the pastor of The Way, a church-sponsored program for South Shore teenagers in trouble. He is also the Protestant chaplain at the Juvenile Session of the Quincy District Court. Rev. Langevin is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Divinity School. He has studied at Union Theological Seminary in New York and Oxford University in England. He is the author of a book about working with delinquent youth (Way To Go, Baby!) He has been in the South Shore area for 10 years, the first five of which he worked in the Quincy Court as a juvenile probation officer. He is an avid amateur archaeologist.

Rev. Langevin will discuss historical and archaeological aspects of the life of John Elliot. Elliot was a 17th-century Congregational minister who, from his home base in Roxbury, was largely responsible for the Christianizing of the Indians in this part of Massachusetts. His work in Newton, Dorchester, Stoughton, and Natick will be touched on in the talk.

What Does School Mean to a Four-Year-Old?

Title I Early Childhood Program

"The best thing about school is making friends," says Eileen Hilton, 4, as she and her friend Jimmy Cosgrove, 4, play in the cubes of the Early Childhood classroom. "My best friend is Annie. I take care of her because she's so small," says Eileen. [You'll meet her friend Annie Goy on the next page. By the way, Annie is ½ inch shorter than Eileen.]

Do you remember way back to when you were four? Life was filled with trucks, dolls, Sesame Street and naps. Everything and everybody was SO big. There was a place called SCHOOL that all the older kids went to. You knew you were going soon and you weren't quite sure what it was all about. It was kind of scary.

Where does the bus go? What's a teacher? What will the other kids be like? These were probably questions that made you uneasy.

In the Quincy schools, there is a program called Early Childhood. Many four-year-old children (120 to be exact) have the chance to get a head start on kindergarten.

They come to an Early Childhood classroom four mornings or afternoons a week and they learn what school is all about.

In this issue of Young Ideas, we visit Miss Cheryl Smith's Early Childhood classroom at Snug Harbor School with two assistant editors, Pam Kalus and Michele Murphy from Quincy High School journalism class.

In a bright classroom where Big Bird and Raggedy Anne peer down from the walls and the floors are covered with blocks, puzzles and huge colorful cubes, the children learn to make friends, share toys and follow directions.

They color, cut out, do puzzles, put pegs in pegboards, make castles out of blocks, climb through big cubes and play hopscotch in bicycle tires. They sing, dance, put on plays, listen to stories and even have their own marching band.

All the activities are designed to help the children get their minds, bodies and emotions ready for kindergarten next year.

"I like school more than anything in the world," said Christine Carroll, 4. "I like it this year and I can't wait to come to kindergarten next year." This was the general opinion of the twenty children in Miss Smith's Early Childhood classroom as they tell us their feelings about their first experience with school.

What Do You Like

I like everything about school. Especially I like to draw pictures. Do you like my drawing of Big Bird?

Kerry Ann Wood, 4

Every day in the Early Childhood classroom, the children have a certain time to draw and color. This helps them to express themselves on paper and to learn their colors.

I like to play with the plastic plyers and unscrew the big bolts off the big screws. Someday I want to be a carpenter.

Scott Manion, 4

One section of the classroom has big plastic tools. Playing with these helps the children develop manual dexterity. This means making the muscles in their hands work together.

My favorite thing is putting the pegs in the pegboard. I put all the same colors together. Then I pull them out as fast as I can. It's fun.

Owen Hirtle, 4

Another part of the classroom helps the children with fine motor coordination. This means using the small muscles in their hands to do detailed work. Here, there are pegboards, puzzles and beads to string.

Kenny's Word Scramble

Our assistant editor from Quincy High journalism class Pam Kalus, 17, interviewed Kenny Staskyiwicz, 4. She asked him his favorite things in the Early Childhood classroom. He told her five things. We have scrambled the letters of these five words. Can you unscramble them?

Do you Like the Teacher, Tina?

I didn't know what the teacher was going to be like. Our teacher is Miss Smith. She's nice. She shows us what to do. She reads us stories, plays music and dances with us. She gives us snacks. We have three teachers' aides, too. They help us. I like playing with the dolls in the kitchen corner. We have a table, chairs, dishes, a toy refrigerator, and a sink where we can feed and bath our dolls. I like our teacher Miss Smith so much I named the doll after her. Tina Lawson, 4

What Makes Tina Smile?

Tina Lawson, 4, drew this picture to show how she feels about school. Hidden in this block of letters are the things that make her smile. See if you can find: dolls, dancing, storytime, books, Raggedy Anne, friends, music, pegs, puzzles, games, Big Bird, snack, coloring, paints, teacher and bell.

Best About School?

I like jumping through the bicycle tires. Also I think going on the school bus is fun. I was never scared ... Well, maybe a little on the first day.

Christine Carroll, 4

Throughout the classroom are toys which help the children with gross motor coordination. This means using the muscles in their whole body together.

I like to color because I love colored things. Everything in the world has such pretty colors. With my crayons, I can color all the pretty things.

Laurie Delaney, 4

Coloring time seems to be the favorite of the children. At first they draw very simply. A person would just be a circle. But each week they add a little more detail.

I like to build things with blocks. This is a castle. I put big blocks on the bottom. At first, I put the little blocks there. But my castle fell down.

Anne Coy, 4

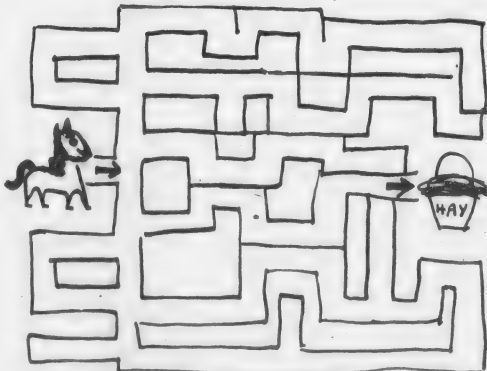

Playing with blocks is another way for the children to use their muscles and their imagination.

Carlo Loves Horses

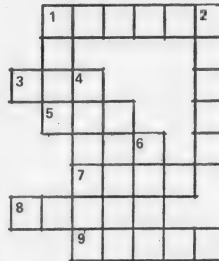

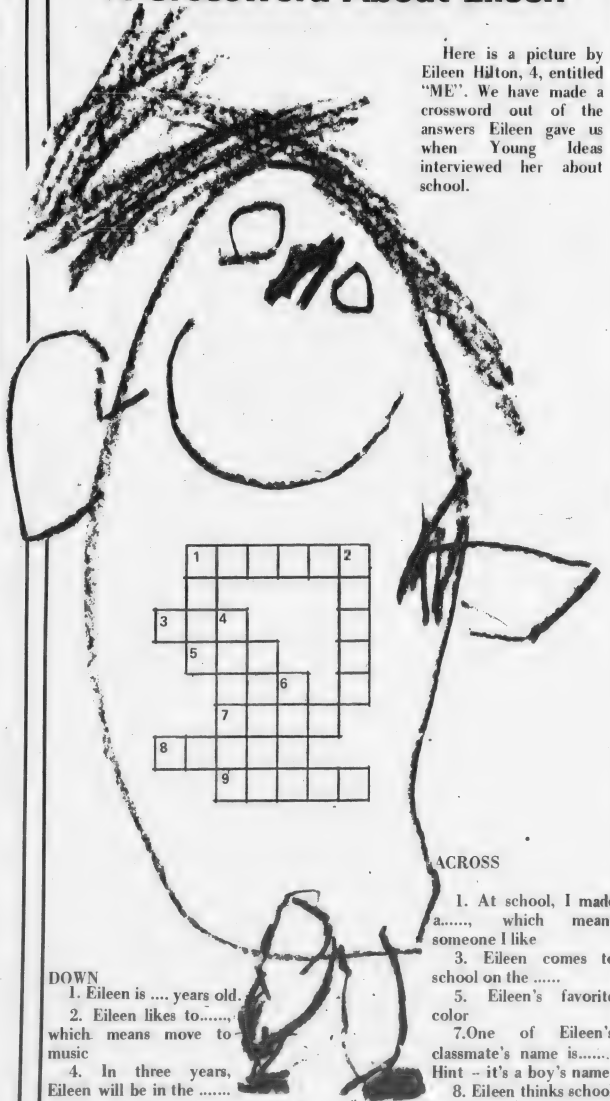

Carlo Marchione, 4, says that his favorite thing in the whole world is horses. He likes to gallop the plastic horse around the Early Childhood classroom. His second favorite thing is listening to stories, especially if they are about horses. "But there's one story Miss Smith is reading us that's driving me nuts," says Carlo. "It's about this rabbit and this fox. And I don't know what's going to happen to that rabbit."

Here is a maze for Carlo's horse. See if you can help him get to the hay. Quickly. He's been galloping around the classroom and he's hungry.

Meet Pam and Michele -- Our Assistant Editors

This issue of Young Ideas has two assistant editors from Quincy High School journalism class. They are Pam Kalus and Michele Murphy, both seniors. Pam and Michele visited the Early Childhood classroom and helped gather material and interview the children. They also helped write and paste up the issue. [Pasting up means getting the paper ready for publication.] Thank you, Michele and Pam!

"Hi, I'm Lady Bear", says Michele McDaniel, 4, to her namesake our assistant editor Michele Murphy. Story boards are one of the many activities the children enjoy in the Early Childhood classroom.

Christine Carroll, 4, shows our other assistant editor Pam Kalus her favorite decoration in the classroom. Who else but Raggedy Ann?

A Be-Kind-To Little-Kids Code

Kerry Ann Woods, 4, has drawn this picture above. It shows that being a four-year-old is not as easy as it looks. Life is filled with a great deal of joy. But also early childhood has its share of sadness, frustration and fear.

For instance, the children in the Early Childhood program love school now. But, on the first day, it was a frightening experience even for the bravest. Many were separated from their mothers for the first time. Most had never ridden on a bus alone before. All were saying to themselves -- "What is it like behind those doors?"

"Before you started, were you afraid of anything about school?" we asked the four-year-olds. "Monsters" was the answer of one little girl. "I was afraid they'd be dark hallways," said another. "I was afraid of the big kids," said another.

As an older child, you have a special responsibility to the younger children in your school whether they be in an Early Childhood program, in kindergarten, or in the first grade.

Here is a pact you could make with yourself which would make life easier and safer for the small children around you. Check off each item. This means you will try to do each one. Then sign the pact.

Little children do things spontaneously and don't sense danger because they are so young. I will always watch out for their safety particularly coming and going to school. I will watch that they cross where they are supposed to. ☐

On the playground, I will be careful not to knock any small child down when I'm playing. ☐

I understand that small children might believe what I am saying even though I am teasing them. I will not say anything that will frighten a small child. ☐

I understand that small children look up to me. They will imitate my actions and my language. When around them, I will be especially careful to show respect for other children, adults, the environment and other people's property. ☐

If a small child shows me his papers, I know they will look simple to me because I do much harder and more detailed work. I will not make fun of their work, but will encourage them. ☐

LaRaia, Representatives Meet On MBTA Problems

Officials of the LaRaia administration met with representatives of the MBTA Monday to discuss problems growing out of the Red Line stations in North Quincy, Wollaston and Quincy Center.

One of the most urgent problems, said Mayor LaRaia, is auto theft and vandalism at the North Quincy and Wollaston stations.

"We also discussed land swaps and the parking garage in Quincy Center and the question of air rights over the tracks," said the Mayor. Tentative plans call for a new City Hall to be built over the tracks in Quincy Center.

"We'll meet again within a week," he said, "on the question of depressing the tracks of the extension south of Quincy Center."

"Councilor Tobin suggested it and my MBTA task force supports it. We will discuss with the MBTA the merits of the suggestion and the feasibility of incorporating it in existing plans."

Blood Drive At North Quincy K. Of C.

Grand Knight John J. Lydon announces the North Quincy Knights of Columbus annual blood drive will be held at K. of C. home, Hollis Ave., Monday Nov. 15 from 2 to 7:45 p.m.

Chairman, Tom Cashman, notes the event will be a joint effort with the Wollaston and Rural Lodge of Masons.

A good-natured element of competition exists in the effort of collecting blood, said Cashman. "It is significant that once again two great fraternal organizations, here in Quincy, are cooperating and jointly participating in this very worthwhile effort for the community."

"With the tremendous shortage of blood, it is all the more important that our cooperative effort is successful."

Appointments may be made by calling the Greater Quincy Chapter of the American Red Cross [472-2700].

Assisting Cashman will be Jerome McAdams, Philip Shea, Robert Noonan and Glen McLaughlin.

Education Week Open House Nov. 16 At NQHS

In observance of Education Week, North Quincy High School will conduct an Open House, Nov. 16.

Parents will have the opportunity to visit teachers in classrooms from 7:30 - 8:30 p.m. to discuss student progress. During this time, there will also be presentations on testing and writing for interested parents.

At 8:30 p.m., parents will be invited to the cafeteria to hear a presentation by Peter Chrisom, Principal of North Quincy High School, on the topic of this year's program and the plans for construction and renovations.

Refreshments will be available in the cafeteria at the conclusion of the program.

A Precinct Look At Major Races, Issues

Quincy voted about as expected on Nov. 2 on a ballot that featured a couple of exciting races and nine referenda, most of them controversial. But there were a few maverick precincts along the way.

Here is a precinct level look at the voting in Quincy in the races for President, senator, congressmen and representative from the Third Norfolk District and three of the referenda that attracted the most attention:

Improvement Can Be Costly

You can make a million mistakes trying to sell your own home. And one of them is making the wrong improvements. Many times, an expensive addition or repair can be the kind of thing that'll cost you far more than you get back.

True, the house should present a favorable appearance - mowed lawn, trimmed shrubs, and no obvious indications of neglect, but it's rare when a large financial undertaking will bring more than its cost in the final selling price.

There is always the financial risk of miscalculation too. Home repair costs frequently end up a lot higher than originally anticipated. You may end up with a faster sale and less inconvenience if you lower the selling price an equivalent amount.

Instead of guessing as to how much, if any, repair work to undertake, see a Realtor. He can tell you what to do to make your home more saleable. And what NOT TO DO so you won't lose money.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

$12,000 also from the equipment bond issue, for a front loader for the Cemetery Department was at first rejected, 5-3, then passed 6-2 when Council President Arthur H. Tobin rescued it from limbo. Two-thirds vote was needed for passage.

Councillors Tobin, Raymond and Leo J. Kelly voted against it on the first go 'round but Tobin changed his vote after, he said, he was informed by Harrington that it was really needed by the Cemetery Department.

Most of the action centered around a new request for $42,215 for the Council on Aging, the Plumbing Inspectors and Veterans Services to be transferred from a Police Department account and an old request for $15,998 from the bond issue for new Police cars.

"I'm thoroughly confused," said Councillor Tobin.

"The reason they put this request for $15,000 in the bond issue was that they didn't want to deplete the police expense account. Now we have an appropriation order for $42,215 being transferred out of the Police Department personal services account."

"And I understand from the City Auditor that the Police Department is going to be back before the Council before the end of the fiscal year to request more money both for personnel and expense account."

"I just don't understand how they can put $15,000 of expenditures in a bond issue and then come in with a request to transfer out $42,000 knowing the Department is going to be back before the Council for additional money."

"I don't know who the financial advisor is who is advising the Mayor but if they could explain that one to the auditor and the City Council it would be like an Houdini act. That's why I'm opposing it."

The request for $42,215 was sent to the Finance Committee while the Police Department's bid for $15,998 was voted down, 4-4, with two-thirds necessary for passage. Voting against it were Councillors Tobin, Raymond, Kelly and Paul A. Harold.

The $15,000 was to have purchased four new detective cars for the Police Department but the support it received from Chief Francis X. Finn was lukewarm at best after it was pointed out that they would have to last more than five years, the life of the bond issue.

"The purpose for which we are here is genuine," said Finn. "It's something we really need. The objection on the bond issue is something new to me. I can't say with honesty that I know the police cars will last five years."

It is state law that anything purchased with a municipal bond issue must outlive the bond issue itself.

City Auditor Charles L. Shea said he figured the appropriation would be legal since the automobiles to be replaced were 1971 models in use for five years.

Finn said his mechanic, Dan Mahoney, had advised him that "we are sinking good money after bad since the cars are in constant need of repair now. They had had a lot of abuse. They are getting expensive to operate."

The Chief said the detective cars are used for such things as serving summonses, sometimes as far away as Worcester and Springfield.

"Twice in the Roxbury area," he said, "Officer Bob Miller broke down in plain clothes and in a plain car and had to call for assistance from the Boston Police."

"Some officers use their own cars and we do not compensate them for even gas because we have no money for it."

At that, Councillor Tobin couldn't resist another jibe at the Mayor's office.

"These police officers should not be using their own vehicles," he said. "They should be supplied vehicles and the request should go to the Chief Executive of this city."

"He campaigned on this issue for more law enforcement and he should properly fund the Police Department and that's the issue. That's the sole issue."

Eight other financial orders that have been pending since the summer, were withdrawn from the Finance Committee, put together in a package and referred back to the Mayor.

"The orders cannot be funded from the revenues of 1976-77," said Councillor John J. Quinn, chairman of the Finance Committee.

He moved that the orders be referred back to the Mayor with the request that "the Mayor and his financial advisors meet in joint session with the Council and its advisors as soon as possible to resolve the funding of the orders."

The Mayor was inclined to shrug it off.

"There is no money," he said. "Once the tax rate was set the orders were dead. They will have to be reinstituted."

"I'll meet with the City Council to put on their next agenda seven or eight transfers for appropriations that are the most pressing."

North Record 8-1 Quincy In Reverse

North Quincy's cross country team, despite injuries to two of its five top runners (number one Marty Levenson and Andy Laskowski), defeated Waltham, 21-37, last Friday to finish second to undefeated Brockton in the Suburban League for the second year in a row.

The win gave Lou Tozzi's Raiders an 8-1 league record, same as last year, and a 10-1 overall mark, the second best in the school's history. Last year they were 12-1.

Waltham would have been tied with North and Weymouth South for second place if it had won, but once again the Raiders won to take second by itself.

North's Mike Morin, Bob Levenson and Mike Barrett finished 1-2-3. Jerry Keys finished seventh. Bill Murphy eighth and Mike Ketzner ninth.

Earlier in the week North had romped over Quincy, 17-46, as the Presidents finished with only a 1-8 record.

Bob Levenson, Morin and Barrett finished hand in hand for first place. Keys was fifth, Ketzner sixth, Murphy seventh, Dave Abbott eighth and Matt Breslin ninth.

Quincy, running without ace

John Saville, was paced by Don Jones in fourth place. Rich Walkama was 10th.

The Quincy girls finished up with a 4-4 record by shutting out North, 15-42. The Raiderettes finished 1-7.

Quincy's Pam Constan was the meet, followed by teammates Ellen Caramanica, Heidi Dolan, Mary Ilaquea and Dottie Irvine, all tied for second. Ann Marie Lydon placed 10th.

For the Raiderettes Suzanne Yee was sixth, Debbie Coutts seventh, Michelle Seltzer eighth and Mary Leonard ninth.

The Presidents and Raiders competed Tuesday in the all-league meet and Saturday Bob Levenson and Morin of North, Saville of Quincy and Quincy girls' team will be in the state championship meet over the Franklin Park Course.

shot at the final buzzer won it for the Nets.

Rick Sprague sparked the Nets with 26 points, Wolfe had 15, Rick Jackson 10 points and 10 rebounds, player-coach Brian Cox 10 points and Jim Rogers 8 points and 15 rebounds. Fred Kelliher paced Ken's with 28 points.

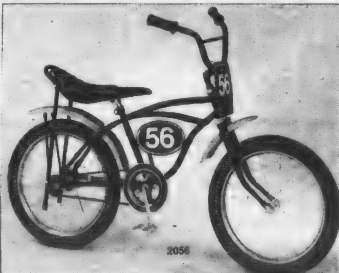

The Nets and Ken's will meet in their second playoff game Saturday night at 7:30 at East Junior High School in Weymouth.

Nets In 2nd Playoff Game

The Quincy Nets finished first in regular season play in the TARO Basketball League with a 10-3 record.

Behind them were: Roxbury Boys' Club, 9-4; Justin's Heartside, 8-5; Ken's TV, 7-6; Shamrocks, 7-6, and Legionnaires, 7-6.

In the semifinals of the championship playoffs the Nets took the first game, a 75-74 squeaker over Ken's TV. Al Wolfe's 15-foot turnaround jump

Miller Expected To Get North Basketball Post

The Quincy School Committee was expected to appoint new varsity and junior varsity basketball coaches at North Quincy High at its meeting Wednesday night.

Eddie Miller, junior varsity coach for the past several years, was believed to have had the inside track on succeeding Bob Nolan, who resigned last year after 11 successful seasons as the Raiders' varsity coach.

It was also reported that freshman coach Paul Bregoli was the leading choice to move up to the junior varsity post.

Brockton 21, Quincy 0Presidents Host Brookline,, Haunted By Screens

The Quincy football players, who probably are seeing screen passes in their sleep this week, will try to rebound from their first shutout loss in two years when they host Brookline in a 1:30 Suburban League game Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Despite an excellent performance by the defense last week, Quincy dropped a 21-0 decision to Brookline, with screen passes accounting for the first two Brookline touchdowns. The loss dropped the Presidents to 3-5 on the season.

Brookline has had a rough season with a 1-6 record but has been tough for a lot of teams and Quincy Coach Hank Conroy expects a lot of trouble. Winner only over Weymouth North. Brookline has lost to Wellesley, Waltham, Weymouth South, Brockton, North Quincy and Arlington.

"The team did a fine job defensively at Brockton but those two screen passes and another fourth down pass on which we had a lapse killed us," Conroy said. "Their first screen pass was as beautifully executed as I've ever seen. It was fourth down and our players rushed in to block the expected punt but they executed the screen perfectly for a score."

"The second one also was done with finesse but their last touchdown on fourth down, which we were expecting, never should have worked. There was a breakdown on our part on this play."

After Brockton had taken an early 6-0 lead, Quincy staged a fine drive but, just when it appeared it would tie the game or go ahead, it fumbled the ball away on the Brockton five-yard line.

The Presidents had another good drive going deep into Brockton territory but again fumbled it away.

Conroy had words of praise for several defensive players, especially Dave Eastwick and Don Heath, who played outstanding games. Also singled out were Tom Conine, Larry Calley, Len Picot, Bob Pettinelli, Rich Coose, Sal Coscia and Pete Cassidy.

On offense Asst. Coach John Bogan had good words for Kevin Boudreau, Wayne Gardner, Cassidy, Jim Conatas, Mike Duggan, Eastwick, Coose, Paul Vallatini and Mike Farrell.

Mark Buchanan again was the Presidents' outstanding runner and Tom Dedion, who had scored his first varsity touchdown the previous week, also ran well.

With the Quincy defenders roaring in to block the anticipated punt, Mike Damiano threw his perfect screen pass to rod Heger, who ran unmolessted 32 yards for the score.

Quincy soon put together its drive which ended with the fumble on the five.

In the third period Paul Duford threw a screen pass to Tom Tzikas for a 30-yard touchdown play.

In the last quarter Damiano on fourth down passed to Mark Baker for the final score, a 22-yarder.

Brockton out-rushed Quincy, 106 yards to 84, and had a big edge through the air with 152 yards on eight for 17, to Quincy's 56, seven for 20. Quincy had 10 first downs and Brockton nine. —TOM SULLIVAN

Saturday Deadline For Church Basketball Entries

South Shore churches wishing to enter teams in the YMCA Church School Basketball League [Boys and Girls Divisions] for the coming season must submit entry blanks to the Quincy YMCA on or before Saturday.

Entry blanks may be obtained from the main desk of the 'Y'. The team and the player registration fees must accompany the entry blanks. Birth certificates must also be turned in for players whose birth dates are not on record with the League Advisory Boards. The league playing season is scheduled to start Saturday, Dec. 4.

Babe Ruth 'Athletes Of Year'

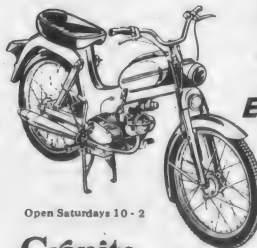

Four more Quincy Babe Ruth League players have been selected to Babe Ruth Baseball's "Athletes of the Year" program for 1976.

They are Fran Donovan, Tom Brennan, Larry Baker and Bob Mezzetti of the Police Boys' Club team, which won the city championship. All were league all-star choices.

The achievements of the players will be presented in the 1976 edition of Babe Ruth Baseball's "Athletes of the Year" annual to be published in December and which will be on display at the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y.

Raiders Seek 7th Against Tough Brockton

By TOM SULLIVAN

Although its chances of another berth in the Super Bowl are slim, the North Quincy football team hopes to keep the chance flickering Saturday when it goes to Marciano Stadium in Brockton for a 1:30 Suburban League game.

The Raiders, with only a heartbreaking loss to undefeated Newton North, were rated sixth in the Division One standings last week and take a 6-1 record into Saturday's game. If they win their last two games and some of the teams above them stub their toes, they still could squeeze into the bowl. However, the coaches agree the bowl is secondary with them. They are just pointing for an 8-1 record to follow up last year's 9-1 mark. Brockton was the only team to defeat North last fall.

Brockton, with its biggest team in years, has a 5-2 record and is fresh off a 21-1 win over Quincy. The Boxers also have wins over Chicopee, New Bedford, Brookline and Leominster, while losing to Newton North and being surprised by Weymouth North, 8-7.

North survived another tough test a week ago, when it topped Waltham, 14-8. Kevin Doyle saving the bacon with a leaping pass interception at the goal line with only 33 seconds remaining.

Waltham, with a fine running team, moved the ball well on the ground, but the Raiders stopped the Hawks when they had to and the secondary was brilliant again. Waltham failed to complete any of its six passes.

North also stuck mainly to the ground. Brian Donaghey throwing only five passes. Actually none was complete but he was credited with a 20-yard completion to Jim Frey when pass interference was called.

Waltham was sparked by an outstanding sophomore, John Giusti, who ran for 117 yards and scored the touchdown on a 21 yard run and also rushed for the points.

North again was paced by George Wallace, who picked up 91 of the Raiders' 157 yards on the ground.

"This was another really tough game," Coach Dave Burke said. "They are big and strong and run well, but I thought we played well both ways. That was a great interception by Doyle, which saved the day. Everyone did just a super job and it was a good win."

Asst. Coach Ken McPhee was loud in his praise of the entire secondary. Mike Nolan, Doyle, Frank McGinnis, Rich Kennedy, Ed McElaney, Art Bertoni and Steve Sheehan, who filled in well when McGinnis and McElaney were injured.

"And give Kurt O'Sullivan a lot of credit," McPhee added. When McElaney was hurt, he had to punt twice under pressure and did a great job. He also played on the kicking team.

"You know, one of the keys to our success this year is the work of our special teams. They have been terrific all season."

Asst. Coach Tom Fitzgerald hailed Wallace for his running and blocking; John Wilkinson, Bill McIntyre and quarterback Donaghey. He also had good words for Tom Nee, Harry Knudsen and Steve Bell in the offensive line.

North hurt itself with numerous offside in the first half, handing Waltham three first downs and twice nullifying fine defensive plays in which the Waltham backs were thrown for big losses.

North's Paul Corliss set up the first touchdown by recovering a fumble on Waltham's 41. The pass interference call moved the ball to the 21 and five plays later Wilkinson scored from the two. McElaney kicked the point.

The Raiders quickly added their second touchdown when the second half opened as Waltham fumbled the kickoff and North's Harry Donaghey recovered on Waltham's 27.

McIntyre scored from the seven on a new play inserted during the week. McElaney again kicked the point.

Waltham marched relentlessly downfield early in the final period, clicking off four first downs in driving 61 yards on seven plays. Young Mr. Giusti, who gained 41 yards on the drive, raced 21 yards for the score and also rushed for the two points.

With 4:13 left, Waltham staged another good drive from its own 19 to North's 44, but Doyle came through with his big interception with 33 seconds left and North ran out the clock.

Doyle had run back an interception for a touchdown on opening day against Milton.

Waltham had a 198-yard to 157 edge on the ground, and ground out 13 first downs to North's eight.

Point Girls Falter After Fast Start

The Quincy Point Junior High girls' varsity basketball team, coached by Kathy Bertrand, got off to a fast start this fall but faltered to end with a 3-5 record.

"We started on a high note with two quick wins over Atlantic North and Sterling, but the strong Central and Broad Meadows offenses proved too much for us later in the season," Miss Bertrand said.

The Point squad included Co-captains Cheryl Dauphine and Debbie Petzolt. Joyce Christiansen, Donna Clarke, Linda Carroll, Lisa Mahon, Pam Lowden, Susan Dyson, Debbie Slicis, Nancy DiChristofaro, Donna DiChristofaro and Marlene Reviliotis.

A lack of manpower prevented Point from having a separate eighth grade team, but the seventh graders showed promise for the future, and improved in skill, team play and effort throughout the season.

Sundowners In Top Spot After Defeating Hofbrau

Sundowner's Lounge, formerly the Green team, took over first place in the Executive Hockey League by defeating Hofbrau, 5-2, Sunday at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Al Bonani scored twice and assisted on two other goals. Ken Halloran, Ken Gardner and Dave Hickey had the other Sundowner goals, while Hank Oberlander and Fran Bonani had two assists each and Tom Roberts, John Crossman and Ken Norton one apiece. Hofbrau goals were scored by Fran Whalen and Dave Edgren, with an assist for Buster Robinson.

Washington Tap defeated Darcy's Pub, 7-3, as John Emmott exploded for four goals. Peter LaBerge, Wayne Gauthier and Marty Tolson also scored, with John Malchow having two assists and Tolson, Charlie Duffy, Bernie Toland and Kevin White one each. Bob Donovan had two goals and Bucky Zanardelli one for Darcy's. Jim Daley had two assists.

Al's Cafe squeezed by the White team, 4-3, Frank Kelly had two goals and Mike Haynes and Ed Holt one each. Holt's was the winner with two minutes remaining. Haynes had two assists and Barry Gibbs, Holt and Dave Hussey one each. For the Whites Bill Lewis had two goals and Ron Fletcher one. Ralph Youngie had two assists and Ralph Freeman one.

In the previous set of games the Bonani Brothers had a fantastic night to spark Sundowner to a 7-4 win over the Whites.

Each of the brothers had a hat trick and added three assists.

Quincy, North Field Hockey Programs Jeopardized

The absence of a girls' field hockey program in the Quincy junior high schools makes it difficult for the high school coaches.

North Quincy Coach Brian Tilley, one of the few men in the state coaching the sport, is afraid this could be the last year for the sport at North, as 13 of his 16 players graduate and he doesn't know where he will find players for next fall.

This was the third year of field hockey at North and at Quincy. Construction work at North Quincy made it extremely difficult for the Raiderettes.

"Things looked bright at the start of the season but injuries really hurt and the problems involved in the renovation at North also took their toll," Tilley said.

"Practice time was curtailed because of busing and the lack of locker rooms. My girls changed in a girls' room at the high school at 2:30, caught the 3 o'clock bus to Quincy High where the Quincy team was picked up and from there we went to O'Rourke Field for practice. We made it to the field around 3:20 and after about an hour and a half of practice, we reversed the route going back and ended up back at North. My Volkswagen was the storehouse for all equipment."

Despite these hazards the team looked good at the start with 16 players but Michelle Callahan was lost for the season after the first two weeks because of mononucleosis. Tri-Capt. Terry Kelly missed the first two weeks with a leg infection.

The squad included three 3-year veterans, goalie Linda Henry, a standout all season; fullback Kelly and center forward Sharon Cobban. Other senior veterans were fullback Antoinette Alibrandi, center half Callahan, right wing Mary Carney, forwards Paula and Pamela Burns and left wing Diane Holbrook. Seniors playing for the first time were right wing Mary Kelley, and forwards Martha Foley, Mary Bulger and Elaine Dorgan. The only juniors were three veterans Mary and Elizabeth Gori and Lisa Sullivan, playing for the first time.

The Raiderettes ended with a 2-7-3 record, but lost five 1-0 games in the strong Suburban League. Two games also ended in scoreless ties.

They twice defeated Quincy, 4-0 and 1-0.

Meanwhile, at Quincy High, Coach Gretha Ruark was also feeling the effects of no field hockey in the junior high schools.

"We didn't win any games but the girls did a fine job considering a shortage of players," Gretha said. "We had only 12 girls and 11 make up a team. The junior highs have a busy sports program and there is no room for field hockey. If it could be fitted in, I know it would help the high school program a lot."

The First Ladies performed especially well against the Suburban League powers Newton North, Brockton and Waltham.

Captains were seniors Diane Nicholson, goalie, and Dee D'Olimpio, center forward. Other seniors were right half Marie Nichols and center half Diane O'Kane. Juniors were left wing Debra Jensen, right inner Diane Nichols, left half Sue Jacobs, left full Debra Zagami, left inner Julie Deery and right wing Roz Berman. Two sophomores, right full Barbara McCallum and left full Diane Zagami, performed well considering they never played before. The top scorer was Diane D'Olimpio.

Foley Team Holds Slight Lead In Koch Club Women's Loop

Adele Foley's team holds a slight lead in the Koch Club Women's Bowling League with a 40 won and 16 loss record.

Closely behind are Mary Ellen Lorizio's team and Adelina Naclerio's team tied with 38-18. Lorizio's team also holds high three string total honors with 1675, and high team single string of 592.

Linda Bowes leads the average department with 101, while Mary Ellen Lorizio is closing the gap with 100.17. Others in the Top Ten include Peggy DeFazio, 98.6; Rosemary Earley, 97.10; Jeannine Hulak, 95.17; Claire Fitch, 93.22; Adelina Naclerio, 93.1; Peg Belanger, 92.11; Adele Foley, 91.11; and Betty Ann Koch, 90.19.

Rosemary Earley has high individual three string total of 333, while Linda Bowes and Kay Batts are tied with a 128 single string. Linda Bowes has most strikes 9, and Mary Ellen Lorizio most spares, 46.

The Koch Club Women's Bowling League is enjoying its 22nd season of competition, and meets every Thursday at 8:30 p.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys. The league has 48 regular bowlers and nine spares.

Track Club Members Run In N.Y. Races

Several members of the Quincy Track Club took part in the Road Runners of America National Age Group championships Sunday at Van Cortland Park in New York City.

More than 300 runners competed in each age group. Running over a 1.6-mile course, Paul Connolly was 41st in boys 6 and 7 group, Mark Fishman 26th in boys 8 and 9, Geraldine Murphy 47th in girls 8 and 9, Jim Flaherty 49th in boys 10 and 11, Sheila Barrett 40th and Bernadette Murphy 43rd in girls 10 and 11 and Bill Murphy 28th in boys 14 and 15.

In 3-mile races, Michelle Millane was 28th in girls 12 and 13, Linda Cellini 15th in girls 16 and 17 and Jeff Hennessy, Quincy coach, 28th in men 18 and over.

Michelle Millane, 12, finished a disappointing 68th in the 1.6-mile race but was outstanding in the three-mile run.

Complex Nature

Q. I was born on July 27, 1926 in Boothbay Harbor, Maine at approximately 9 P.M. Astrology has for some years fascinated me and I wonder if you could tell me something about my horoscope which might help me to better understand myself.

B.H.I.

A. Your very complex nature is apt to be far more perplexing to others than it is to you. At the time of your birth the unpredictable planet Uranus was in your First House, close to the Ascendant, in the Sign of Pisces there and in Favorable Aspect to your Sun. Mars was in the Sign of the Zodiac Aries also in the First House in quite Favorable Aspect to both Mercury and Neptune in Leo and in Square Aspect to your Sun in Leo.

Those who only know you when you are quiet and retiring would never believe how aggressive, impatient and indiscreet you can be. Likewise, those who only see you when you are asserting your ego, displaying a temper or when you are blunt and sharp in your remarks, would never understand your sympathetic character and humble spirit.

In a sense you are ambitious to help others, can be deeply in love and yet, for one reason or another, find it difficult to completely yield yourself.

You may sometime during your lifetime have experienced a sad disappointment with a loved one and been deeply hurt. This may have caused you to withdraw into yourself and make you appear to be cold or hard when actually you need and want affection. Also, past experiences have resulted in your being suspicious and distrustful of others which has an adverse effect on relationships.

Try to be practical and realistic with your idealism. Avoid false accents and exaggerating impressions and you should be able to take advantage of opportunities which seem at times to open up to you readily.

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth and time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

'Best Of Film Greats' At Adams Shore Library

The second in a four-part young adult film series will be presented Monday, Nov. 15, at 3:30 p.m. at the Adams Shore Branch Library, 519 Sea St.

The film program, entitled "The Best of the Film Greats" will feature two films: "The History of the Cinema" - a satirical account of the development of the motion picture industry, and "Hollywood: the Dream Factory" - a documentary of the Hollywood scene including actual film clips, and behind-the-scenes stories of the stars and films.

The program is free and the public is invited.

The Wednesday night film series at the Adams Shore Branch, scheduled for Wednesdays at 7 p.m. has been cancelled.

'Hard Knox' Puppet Drama At Adams School

The Adams School observance of the Bicentennial Year was climaxed Wednesday with an historical puppet drama entitled "Hard Knox" performed at the school.

The drama sponsored by the Massachusetts Bicentennial Commission, tells the story of Henry Knox, a Boston bookseller, who became George Washington's Chief of Artillery during the Revolutionary War. It also describes carefully the now famous Knox Trail located in New York and Massachusetts.

The show has been thoroughly researched and hair styles, fabrics, colors, clothes and accessories are authentic for the time. Besides telling the important role Massachusetts played during the Revolution, a demonstration by the players after the performance provided an effective introduction to the art of puppetry.

Nissie Grossman Honored By Colby Professorship

The Colby College, Waterville, Me., board of trustees announces the establishment of The Grossman Professorship of Economics "in recognition of the years of dedicated service by Nissie Grossman," class of 1932 and Quincy businessman.

A college trustee, Grossman has been active in many areas of Colby's development and has contributed and raised substantial resources for the college.

Noting the long interest in Colby of the Grossman family, who have also contributed generously, President Robert E. L. Strider said, "The establishment of a professorial chair is a major landmark in the history of a college. The academic program is the central activity of an institution of higher education. The Grossman Chair of Economics will bring distinction to Colby for years to come."

Jan S. Hogendorn has been named first recipient of The Grossman Professorship of Economics. He has been chairman of the department since 1972.

As The Grossman Professor of Economics, Prof. Hogendorn will deliver an annual public lecture on a current economic issue of significance with particular reference to its possible impact on public policy.

Affiliated with Grossman's, a division of Evans Products Co., Grossman has been an active participant in numerous fund raising campaigns, including service as chairman of the Colby Corporate Support Program. He has served as chairman of the trustee student affairs committee and is currently chairman of the buildings and grounds committee.

A resident of Wellesley, he is a former president of the Boston Colby Club and the Boston Colby Alumni Association. A former member of the Colby Alumni Council, he was named a Fellow of Colby in 1963.

He was elected alumni trustee in 1964 and became a board-elected member in 1967.

Grossman's numerous civic and business activities include his recent election as director of the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Association. He is past president of the Newton Taxpayer's Association; past chairman of the Quincy Chapter of the American Red Cross; past president of Temple Emanuel of Newton; past president and currently chairman of the international service committee of the Rotary Club in Quincy, where he also served as director of the YMCA.

He is chairman of the board of the Granite Cooperative Bank of Quincy, a cooperator of the New England Baptist Hospital, and is a supporter of the New England Hebrew Academy.

Grossman has a B.A. and M.A. from Colby and a master's degree from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

His son, Thomas S., was graduated from Colby in 1973.

Chapter 766: A Good Law But It Causes Problems

DR. CAROL LEE GRIFFIN
'It's the money that has everybody nervous....'

By TOM HENSHAW

"It's a good law," said Dr. Carol Lee Griffin. "The intent is good. It's the implementation that causes problems."

The law is Chapter 766, the Massachusetts Comprehensive Special Education Act of 1972, under which responsibility for the care and education of handicapped children is placed squarely on the community in which they live.

Dr. Griffin is director of Pupil Personnel Services in the Quincy Schools, and as such is responsible for implementing Chapter 766 in Quincy, a task often more easily assigned than accomplished.

The Special Education Act of 1972 is one of those laws that was passed by the State Legislature in an outburst of compassion and generosity, and then left up to the city to finance.

Quincy received $966,000 from the State in 1976-77 for reimbursement under Chapter 766 but, to School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, it was just a matter of bookkeeping, taking funds from one place and putting them in another.

"There are no new sources of revenues," he says. "What you don't get in the left pocket you get in the right pocket."

So far, Quincy has been doing right well by its children with special needs.

"The Quincy School Committee has always been interested in special education, even before it was mandated by law," says Dr. Griffin. "But we are concerned with the financial aspects."

Quincy's financial responsibility under Chapter 766 is growing as the state phases out its schools for the retarded and the disturbed and leaves their care and education up to the cities.

As of Oct. 1, there were 1,348 youngsters in the Quincy School System receiving some kind of help with their special needs. Most of them, 1,218, are taken care of within the system.

"There are 1,111 taking the regular school program with some modification," says Dr. Griffin.

"Perhaps the kid has serious reading disabilities. He can go to regular classes, leaving for a couple of hours a day to go to a special resources center with a small group of three or four kids and a special needs teacher.

"The remaining 107 are in a substantially separate program with teachers who are specialists in the field."

It is the 130 kids whose special needs cannot be handled within the system that are making Quincy's responsibilities under Chapter 766 increasingly more costly.

"If they are breathing and they are between 3 and 21 they are our responsibility," says Dr. Griffin.

"The requirements of Chapter 766 have added perhaps 28 teachers to our staff. But the most costly parts are the requirements for placement in day care or residential schools.

"We have two blind and 13 totally deaf kids in placement right now.

"We have four retarded kids who are at such a low level that they have no language skills. They are in pediatric nursing home. It costs us between $8,000 and $12,000 a year for their placement.

"The regular school program costs about $1,500 a year per pupil. Technically, the state makes up the difference, but only

After Closed Door Meeting

Mayor, Council In First Solid Teamwork Effort

The City Council and Mayor Joseph LaRaia met behind closed doors for three-quarters of an hour Monday night and came out with the first show of solid cooperation since the LaRaia Administration took over last January.

As a result, the Council went out of its way to appropriate $107,500 for the Mayor with only minor objections, some foot-dragging and little more than token outrage at the Mayor's handling of city finances.

"I hope it is an omen of the future," said Mayor LaRaia, who has been at loggerheads with Council President Arthur H. Tobin ever since first intimations of the $34.90 tax rate increase came to the surface.

"It's important that we try to reach a common ground. We still have a lot of transfers of money to go until the end of the fiscal year. I hope we can follow a set routine of meetings so that the Council can be better prepared.

"Of course, that is not to say that everything is going to be accepted without some debate."

LaRaia said all the Councilors except Dennis E. Harrington attended the meeting at 5 p.m. Monday and "I had talked to him earlier about it."

The meeting apparently cleared the way for a complicated move by the Council to take $107,500 from an old bond issue, transfer it to bondable accounts and then transfer a like sum to accounts that are not bondable.

Council President Tobin explained:

"The City Council has met with the Mayor and we are trying to help the chief executive to find money in various accounts in a spirit of cooperation even though a majority of the Councilors don't like to use a bond issue this way.

2 More Flu Clinics Planned By Health Department

Two more clinics are planned by the Health Department to administer flu vaccine to Quincy residents.

One will be held Monday [Nov. 22] from 1-3 p.m. at the JFK Health Center and the second will be Dec. 2 from 5-8 p.m., also at the Center.

"These may be the last clinics," said Health

Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon. "We have had an excellent response to the earlier ones."

Last Saturday, 960 received flu shots during a five-hour clinic while 110 more, mostly city employees, received inoculations at City Hall and the Public Works Garage on Monday.

A clinic was also held Wednesday at the JFK Center.

Tobin Would Ban 'Outsiders' From Snow Removal Work

Neither workers who live outside of Quincy nor their equipment would be hired by the city during snow removal or other emergencies under an ordinance amendment introduced Monday night by City Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

"I have been concerned recently with the setting of the tax rate and the economic condition of the city," said Tobin.

"I feel that if there are any jobs open in the city that residents ought to get first choice with the pending emergency snow removal and the purchasing orders, etc.

"I think we have an ordinance on the books right now that dictates to the purchasing agent that, all things being equal, on any bid preference could be given to people from Quincy.

"I understand from weather bureau reports that it is going to be a long cold winter. I think people in the city of Quincy who are unemployed, who might own a piece of equipment, ought to have the opportunity for first refusal rather than bring in people from outside.

"There are about five or seven department heads in Quincy who don't pay property taxes in Quincy. They reside outside Quincy. I hope this isn't going to be a practice.

"We have a city of 90,000. I don't believe we don't have sufficient brain power and mechanical aptitude to fill these jobs."

Tobin's proposal was referred to the Ordinance Committee.

$ 1,308,310 Contract For Raytheon Plant

The Raytheon Co. of Quincy has won a $1,308,310 contract to make 205,297 electron tubes for the Defense Electronics Supply Center, which obtains and manages supplies for the Armed Services and other governmental agencies.

Shelter For Point Bus Passengers

The MBTA this week installed a plexiglass shelter for waiting bus passengers on Washington St. at the rear of Pagnano Towers in Quincy Point and the speed of its action has left Rep. Robert Cerasoli flabbergasted.

"I asked the MBTA to install this shelter two weeks ago at the request of one of my constituents in the lower Quincy Point area," he said, "and the MBTA installed the shelter this week.

"The MBTA should be commended, in this case, for their concern and the speed with which they complied with my request.

Heritage Not Being Phased Out Says LaRaia

Quincy Heritage is not being phased out of business just because it has moved into the low rent district, according to Mayor LaRaia.

Heritage, which has been charged with attracting tourists to the historical spots and other points of interest in Quincy, recently moved from rented quarters at 1372 Hancock St. to the city-owned DPW garage on Sea St.

"The move was strictly to cut costs," Mayor LaRaia, told The Sun. "The City Council has restricted its operations by limiting its funds."

"Heritage is now being conducted on a basis of selling the huge stock of merchandise the previous administrator piled up. The Council apparently is willing to let it survive on the sale of the merchandise."

LaRaia said he sees Heritage "existing on a smaller scale with a salaried director and a small staff, branching out into things of contemporary cultural interest as well as Quincy history."

Harold Proposes Guidelines For Hiring Contract Consultants

City Councillor Paul D. Harold proposes a set of guidelines for the city to use when hiring professional consultants on all contracts over $5,000 in which there is no competitive bidding.

Specifically included among the consultants are construction management firms. The Council has been sparring with Mayor LaRaia over a $310,000 contract with Kent Corp. to manage construction at North Quincy High School.

Harold's proposed guidelines include:

The Department head shall first determine that the project cannot be handled by existing personnel and if there are funds budgeted or available for hiring a consultant.

The Department head shall draw up specifications or "requests for proposals" upon which consultants can base their proposals.

The requests for proposals shall include a description of the project, its desired objectives, the scope of the consultancy tasks, the level of competency required and special skills necessary, policy restraints and price limitations, the schedule for awarding the contract and commencement of work, performance criteria, content and frequency of progress reports and project completion deadlines.

In selecting the consultant, the city should ascertain the availability of potential interested consultants.

The request for proposals should be submitted to at least three potentially interested consultants, supplemented by advertising in the Patriot Ledger or The Quincy Sun, except in cases where only one is qualified because of unique specialization or the services are necessary because of an emergency threatening health, safety or property.

Written proposals shall be analyzed by the Mayor and the appropriate committee chairman of the City Council, followed by oral presentations by the consultants who have filed.

The references and financial conditions of the consultants shall be examined including: qualifications, listing of successfully completed contracts, description of key personnel, a list of persons owning more than 10 per cent of capital stock.

Selection of the consultant shall be by the Mayor and shall not necessarily be awarded to the lowest bidder but to the one judged best qualified to deliver the most economically effective performance.

The contract shall be negotiated for the city to receive the most favorable terms and all pertinent points of the agreement shall be included in the written contract.

Every contract shall clearly show a maximum limit of the city's obligation expressed as a dollar figure and the maximum obligation shall not be expressed in the form of a formula or indefinite quantity such as a dollar figure "plus expenses".

The city must have the right to withdraw and cancel, paying only costs incurred up to that date.

Raymond Commends Koch For Webster School Action

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel G. Raymond has thanked Richard Koch, executive secretary of the Park-Recreation Board, for his "immediate attention" to a problem that existed at the Daniel Webster School yard.

Raymond noted that several years ago some makeshift recreational equipment was installed in the school yard adjacent to Lancaster St. for the benefit of youngsters. The area, however, was never maintained and over the years it became an eyesore to the community and a danger to children who were still playing there.

At a recent meeting of the Daniel Webster PTA, parents indicated to Raymond that they felt the area had outlived its use and should be cleaned up. A telephone call to Koch resulted in all the objects being removed and the entire grassy area cut, raked, and loam spread to fill in the depression.

"The Park Department should be commended for making this area more safe and attractive to the community", Raymond said.

Adams Shore Conservation Hearing

The Quincy Conservation Commission scheduled a public hearing for Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the JFK Health Center.

A proposal by Robert J. Spillane to alter wetlands on Utica St., and Eaton Rd., Adams Shore was to be heard.

Councillors Scramble For Money To Repair Water Mains

It began when City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi spotted an uncommitted $38,000 lying around in petty cash and pounced on it to fix a water main on South St. in his Ward 2.

Councillors from other wards were not about to let that one go by.

It ended when Councillor James A. Sheets had the request tabled after Councillor Dennis E. Harrington moved to amend it by adding just about every decrepit water main in the city at a cost of $1,440,350.

Raymondi found the money left over in an old bond issue under which the water mains on Quarry St., West Quincy, were constructed several years ago.

"Most councillors," he began, "are familar with the emergency situation down on South St. I ask that the resolve be rolled so that the message can be given to the Mayor's office of the critical need."

Harrington blocked that by asking referral to the Public Works Committee for a hearing.

"This money should be used for a water main project," said Harrington, mindful of water mains in his Ward 6. "I'm quite sure there are other areas in the city that need water main projects. I'd like to hear from the Water Department before I approve the resolve."

Raymondi reminded Harrington that there had been three or four breaks in recent years in the South St. main and that Water Supt. Owen Eaton had called it "probably the most volatile and most emergency type situation with respect to water mains."

Councillor John J. Quinn, whose constituency at-large enables him to act as mediator in such things, pointed out that the Council has in its Finance Committee a $500,000 bond issue for water mains.

"The Water Division: has submitted to the Commissioner of Public Works a long list of areas that need water mains," he said. "In fact, they come to a grand total of $2,896,000."

Quinn listed the top four priorities as South St.; Hancock St. at the North Quincy High School addition; Glendale Rd., a private way in Quincy Center; and Island Ave., off Sea St., Houghs Neck.

"I would rather see this Council in a position to pass that water main bond issue," said

Harrington, "than to be quibbling about a resolve that has no effect unless the Mayor chooses to go along with it."

Nevertheless, Harrington's bid to send it to committee was voted down with only Councillor Leo J. Kelly joining the sponsor in voting for it.

Before Raymondi could get a vote on his resolution, however, Harrington [with Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. urging him on with shouts of, "Get 'em all, Dennis!"] amended it to add seven more broken water mains from the priority list.

"Do you have a bottom line on what the amendment would cost?" Raymondi asked City Clerk John Gillis.

"The total without South St.

Teachers Are People , Too 'Young Ideas' Education Week Theme

By CATHY CONLEY

Teachers are people, too!

This is the conclusion that Mrs. Anna Robison's fourth grade at Beechwood Knoll School comes to in this week's issue of "Young Ideas" on pages 13, 14, 15, and 16.

The four-page pullout section salutes National Education Week and is sponsored by The Quincy Education Association. The fourth graders start off the issue by interviewing their own teacher. They ask Mrs. Robison how she feels about discipline, what is her favorite subject, what brings her the most joy in teaching, what is the hardest thing about teaching? To this last question, Mrs. Robison replied:

"The only hard thing is to know that the day is coming that I will teach no longer."

Teachers are always giving their students treats. The children tell us where they would bring their teacher, or what gift they would give her, if they could.

Then the fourth graders list the qualities they think a teacher should have. They match these with the qualities they feel a student should have.

By means of a series of cartoons, the children explore the many roles a teacher plays in the course of a day -- everything from a psychiatrist helping them understand their feelings to a referee settling their arguments.

This issue of "Young Ideas" has two assistant editors. They are Mike McColgan and Mary Bredin, both seniors from the Quincy High School journalism class. They helped gather, edit material, and assist in the production of the issue.

DEADLINE SATURDAY FOR SOCIAL, CHURCH NEWS

Because of Thanksgiving Day, next week's issue of The Quincy Sun will be published Wednesday, Nov. 24 instead of on Thursday.

Deadline for church, social and other organization news items for that issue will be this Saturday, Nov. 20. Deadline for sports news is Monday, Nov. 22 at noon.

News items must be in The Quincy Sun office, 1372 Hancock St. by those deadlines to assure publication in the Nov. 24 issue.

Women's Commission Told

Female Students In Vocational Technical Schools On Increase

Enrollment of female students in non-traditional vocational studies was the subject of a talk given by Eugene Kirby, superintendent-director of the Joseph P. O'Keefe Vocational Technical School Framingham at a recent meeting of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

Citing some of the difficulties facing women in vocational-technical studies, including acceptance by peers, parents, counselors and teachers, Kirby emphasized the need for increasing community and industry awareness and the importance of recruitment and diversified programs.

He explained a pre-vocational program offered to ninth graders which acquainted them with a variety of fields.

The experiences of four women students enrolled in such diverse programs as plastics, electronics, graphic arts and sheet metal were described through a video taped presentation. The girls discussed their feelings about their shops, parents' and friends' attitudes, and job prospects.

Kirby noted that female enrollment in regional vocational high schools increased from an average 22.9 percent in 1973-74 to 25 percent in 1974-75. Percentages ranged from a low of 14.3 percent to a high of 34.9 percent.

The need for continual evaluations of industry's changes and needs and the adaptability of course offerings was stressed. Follow-up surveys of graduates from the Joseph P. O'Keefe school are done one and five years after graduation.

In three appointments of new commission members were announced at the meeting. Mary Vallier, an RN and Director of Programs for Alcoholics, was appointed to represent the Commission on the Building Committee for Quincy City Hospital. Representing the Commission on the task force for the Norfolk County Rape Crisis Center will be Carol Mahoney. The Commission expressed appreciation to Anthony DeFalco, Director of Quincy City Hospital and Sheriff Clifford Marshall for requesting representation of the Commission on these two committees.

It was also announced that Mary Collins had been appointed by Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia to serve as liaison between the Mayor's Office and the Commission.

Skateboard Menace

Business is booming for orthopedists all over the country this year. Broken wrists, splintered elbows and smashed ankles are just three common hazards of the skateboard craze.

Two years ago, a California enthusiast tried something new: he screwed a set of new polyurethane wheels to an old board, achieving a faster, smoother, quieter ride. Almost instantly, a whole new generation of skateboarders emerged, this time close to 150 manufacturers undertook to meet their needs.

Today, skateboarding is a multi-million dollar business—and a risky one for users. According to The Physician and Sports Medicine Magazine, at least two fatalities have been recorded in California, and on a national level, skateboards caused a spectacular 27,522 injuries requiring hospital treatment in 1975—a record that promoted them from eighth to third place in accident frequency for all children's toys [except for bicycles, which are in an accident class by themselves].

Family Day Care Provides Home Day Care For Children

Family Day Care, a new program offered by South Shore Day Care Services, provides home day care for children from infancy to five years between the hours of 7:30 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. on a regular basis.

Trained, monitored, home visited day care providers care for up to six children in their own homes Monday through Friday. There will be no more than two children under the age of two in any home.

Those working, looking for work, studying or experiencing health problems and need a capable person to spend several hours each day carefully attending to their child or children can be helped by the Family Day Care Program. Low income families are encouraged to check eligibility for free care.

Providers are trained for two weeks. They are visited at home weekly by professionals in Early Childhood Education to insure that the children receive the attention and understanding that they deserve. Parents and child are encouraged to meet the providers to insure that their child will adjust to the Family Day Care family unit.

Single parents, income eligible and AFDC families are invited to find out about the program by contacting Carol Anger, South Shore Day Care Director, South Shore Day Care Services, 36 Miller Stile Road, Quincy.

Rose Toye On Panel For Freedoms Foundation Awards

Mrs. Rose L. Toye of Quincy, National President of the National Ladies Auxiliary, Jewish War Veterans, Inc., is serving at Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, Pa., on the Foundation's 1976 Distinguished National Awards Jury.

She will serve on a panel consisting of 25 officers of national civic, veterans, patriotic and service club organizations, and state supreme court justices.

Mrs. Toye has held executive and administrative positions in several mutual fund and investment corporations in Massachusetts and California. She is a former registered principal and representative with the National Association of Security Dealers, Pacific exchange and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The Jury will spend the week reviewing materials nominated and submitted to Freedoms Foundation in the organization's 28th annual National Awards Program.

Entries cover a wide range of activities in 25 categories, including sermons, journalistic works, school programs, advertising promotions, economic education programs, governmental unit activities, public addresses and television and radio productions. In addition, a number of special top national awards will be presented to individuals, along with awards to school teachers and other education personnel.

LPNs To Hear Coronary Nursing Care Lecture

District 17 Licensed Practical Nurses of Massachusetts, scheduled the second lecture in its Coronary Care Nursing series for Wednesday, at the South Shore National Bank board room in Quincy Square.

MAYBE YOU NEED A NEST EGG FEDERAL TAXES WON'T CRACK.

If Social Security is all you have to look forward to when you retire, look into a Quincy Cooperative retirement plan. With either our I.R.A. or Keogh Plan you pay no Federal Income Tax on your savings until you retire. And probably by that time you'll be in a lower tax bracket.

$180,000 at age 65.

Our Individual Retirement Account (I.R.A.) is specifically for those not covered by a pension or profit-sharing plan where they work.

If you qualify, you can save 15% of your income up to a maximum of $1,500 each year.

Save the maximum amount each year for thirty years and you'll retire with over $180,000 at age 65.

$900,000 at age 65.

Many self-employed businessmen and professional people have no retirement plan.

That's why we offer the Keogh Retirement Plan. This category can save $7,500 or 15% (whichever is less) of their annual taxable income.

Thirty years of saving the maximum in our Keogh Plan would mean an account balance of over $900,000 upon reaching age 65.

*Income is compounded at a current rate of 4 1/2%. This rate is subject to change. Contributions and interest income are not exempt from Massachusetts taxation.

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

LWV To Discuss S. Quincy MBTA Impact

The League of Women Voters of Quincy will hold an open unit meeting today [Thursday] at 9:30 a.m. at Lincoln-Hancock Community School.

Transportation will be the main subject.

The League feels the impact of the station should be carefully considered in order to lessen, as much as possible, any unfavorable effect on the local neighborhood.

The League will discuss questions in the Environmental Impact Statement:

How can an increase in local traffic be lessened?

What plans are being made to solve the flooding problem?

How to prevent the danger of neighborhood deterioration?

How to lessen the disturbances that will accompany station construction?

What effect will a South Quincy Station have on Quincy Center traffic? On Quincy's tax rate?

Two League members who attend the Mayor's Task Force meetings will discuss the concern of that committee.

Tobin 'Topped' LaRaia?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Some politician watchers think Arthur Tobin topped Joseph LaRaia in the Nov. 2 election.

That may surprise a few voters because—well—LaRaia's name wasn't even on the ballot.

So, how could Tobin top him? Good question.

Those politician watchers who really watch politicians say the answer is in Tobin's re-election as state senator and Joseph Brett's defeat for re-election as state representatives.

Okay, play it again, Sam.

Tobin ran unopposed and racked up 34,348 votes against 36 write-ins for various other people and 9,620 blanks.

Those blanks may sound like a lot but Tobin got better than 80 per cent of the vote cast in Quincy. His vote is believed to be the highest ever for a state senate election in Quincy.

And with the bitter feuding between Tobin and Mayor LaRaia prior to the election, those 9,620 blanks really don't add up to much.

Certainly a good chunk of the total blanks were from LaRaia supporters, friends, appointees, etc.

If Tobin was slipping with Mr. and Mrs. Average Voter after his verbal run-ins with LaRaia he should have collected considerable more blanks according to those politician watchers. The way they see it, this was the opportunity to deliver Tobin the message. Leave LaRaia alone. But they didn't.

"There certainly were no signs of Tobin deteriorating in voter strength," says one astute observer.

Joe Brett's crushing defeat at the hands of 22-year-old Michael Morrissey is seen by some as an indication that LaRaia is the one who is doing the slipping.

It showed up first in the primary election when Morrissey—making his first run for office—defeated Brett for the Democratic nomination 2,373 to 1,525 votes.

Brett had openly supported LaRaia against Walter Hannon in the bitter mayoral battle a year ago.

Some observers thought that Brett's backing of LaRaia backfired on him a year later in the primary.

Brett tried to come back as a sticker candidate and got walloped even worse—6,945 to 2,223 on Nov. 2.

LaRaia people actively campaigned for Brett in this election. And on election day, there were a number of LaRaia appointees standing outside the polls with Brett signs and stickers.

The fact that the LaRaia people couldn't rescue Brett from the onslaught of a political novice—or even improve his position—is seen by some observers as a sign that LaRaia's political muscle of a year ago could be turning flabby.

And that is why some politician watchers think Tobin topped LaRaia. Nov. 2. Maybe you agree. Maybe you don't.

SINCE THE ELECTION, the rumor mill has been working overtime as to what Brett will now do. Take your choice: [1] He will run for the Ward 5 City Council seat. [2] He will run for the council at-large. [3] He will get a state appointment. [4] He will get a city appointment.

LOOKING AHEAD To next year's city election, there may be a bonnet in the City Council ring. Friends report that Mary Collins of Squantum is thinking of running for the Ward 6 seat now occupied by Dennis Harrington. There's been a lot of speculation that Harrington will make a bid (or a council at-large seat next year—or even run for mayor).

Mary, incidentally, is the sister of Mike Peatridge, Mayor LaRaia's information officer. She was recently appointed by LaRaia to serve as liaison between his office and the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

GOLFER'S BIG DREAM came true the other day for Dick Corbin of Beach St. Wollaston. Yup, a hole-in-one. Scored it on the 180-yard 12th hole at Blue Rock Golf Course in South Yarmouth swinging a 7-iron. Dick was with a group of six couples from the Furnace Brook Golf Club spending a weekend at the Cape.

Abigail Adams Park To Be Dedicated-Sunday

The intersection of Pleasant and Water Sts. in South Quincy will be dedicated as Abigail Adams Park Sunday at 2:30 p.m. with School Committee member Patricia M. Toland the guest speaker, and an all-woman cast.

The stone commemorating the occasion will be unveiled by Mrs. Louise LaRaia, wife of the Mayor, and Joan Sheets and Mrs. Shirley Tobin, wives of the City Councilors.

Crafts Workshop For Blind

The Council on Aging will open an arts and crafts workshop for the blind at the Drop-In Center, 25 High School

Jenny Beatrice, secretary of the South Quincy Civic Association, will introduce the guests; and Maria Coffin, recording secretary of the SQCA, will lead the salute to the flag.

Greetings from the city will be delivered by Mrs. LaRaia; a biographical sketch of the park will be given by Margaret O'Connell; and closing ceremonies will be conducted by Margaret Aristide of the SQCA.

Ave. at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow [Friday].

Mayor LaRaia will cut the ribbon opening the workshop.

Teachers' Work Doesn't End At Close Of School Day

For many Quincy teachers, the process of educating and developing the city's youngsters does not end with the closing of the school day at 2:30 p.m.

Volunteer community service, from basketball to church work, from the Red Cross to the roller skating rink, is the active goal of many of them who are helping young and old alike in their off hours.

Paul Gregoli, a teacher at Massachusetts Fields School, has started a Fall basketball league involving 50 boys and 40 girls who play their games before and after school each day. Tuesdays Gregoli skips lunch to get in an extra game.

Each team has its own name, its own colors, its own jerseys. It was a joint effort of players and coach. Gregoli bought the dye. The kids dyed the shirts. Gregoli applied the lettering.

League championship games are being played this week at Central Junior High's gym.

It means extra hours of effort for Gregoli but he feels it's worth it.

"Some of these youngsters may never get the opportunity to play on another team," he says. "They love it. They come, rain or shine and regardless of temperature. When the kids are that excited, it all seems worthwhile."

Sandra Weatherhead involves her Mass Fields students in her volunteer work, rounding up usable "Toys for Tots" and visiting nursing homes and senior citizens in the Wollaston area at Christmas and Valentine's Day.

"We make holiday favors for the patients and we sing Christmas Carols," she says. "The youngsters have a ball and the patients just love it."

Stella Krupka, an English teacher at Broad Meadows Junior High School and a candidate for National Teacher of the Year, participated in making the Bicentennial quilt that hangs in the Quincy Historical Society's digs at Adams Academy.

Miss Krupka has worked tirelessly with children preparing their diaries to be buried in a time capsule sponsored by the QHS's Education Committee. She has designed hundreds of scrolls and plaques to be given as awards.

When she retires, says Miss Krupka, "I want to go to school and work with people who need me."

Lynne Nightingale and Frances McKillop, teachers at Great Hill School, frequently take their students bike riding or bowling after school and on Saturdays. Friday night roller skating is their latest project.

"It's a great opportunity to really get to know the kids," says Miss Nightingale.

"It gives the children a chance to see us outside of the classroom," says Mrs. McKillop.

John W. Mahoney, the social health coordinator in Quincy Public Schools, also serves the community as volunteer chairman of the Youth Commission. He is one of the founders of the program that has brought federal and state money to Quincy's youth problems.

He is also a director of Survival Inc., Faxon House Detoxification Center and the South Shore Council on Alcoholism.

"I work with troubled people all day long," he says. "To expect their problems to begin at 8 a.m. and end at 4 p.m. is unrealistic. When they need you, you've got to be there."

Linda Irwin, a teacher at Mass Fields School, has been playing the clown on her off hours for years, performing at fairs, bazaars and fund raising events.

"I love to make people laugh," she says.

Richard Riley, a social studies teacher at Sterling Junior High School, is chairman of the South Shore Chapter of the Massachusetts Archaeological Society and has directed digging at Adams Academy, Castle Island and Germantown.

He involves elementary and junior high school kids in his work investigating Quincy's heritage.

"The students may not become professional archeologists but they learn how to learn which is more important than learning archeology itself," he says.

Martha Robinson, an instructor in the Culinary Arts program at Quincy Vo-Tech School, participates through the Lutheran Church in volunteer projects at Medfield State Hospital, the Protestant Social Service Thrift Shop and local nursing homes.

Recently she was recognized at the Jewish War Veterans' Citizen of the Year Breakfast for her work helping foreign exchange students with their annual dinner at which they prepare their native foods and wear their national costumes.

Mary Lou Glaman, a kindergarten teacher at Snug Harbor School, devotes countless hours to the Bethany Congregational Church Fair. She is president of the Bethany Players and directs the children in their musical and variety shows.

"I just love doing things for people," she explains.

Nancy Renn, a teacher at Mass Fields School, plans programs for patients in Long Island Hospital during her off hours.

Louise Forsyth, coordinator of testing for Quincy Schools, has been chairman of the American Red Cross Youth Quincy Chapter for 14 years. Her volunteer work has been such that she is listed in "Who's Who in Community Service."

"I feel I have gained as much as I have given," she says.

William Walker, pool director at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School, has assisted the Quincy Fire Department in training its men for water rescues and has taught more than 100 adults and children to swim.

"If my efforts save one life then all the time given will be worthwhile," he says.

"We feel that in workman's compensation cases and other areas these departments need the money and we're helping to find ways to keep the city moving."

The money came from $145,000 left over from a bond issue used to construct a water main on Quarry St., West Quincy. A special act of the State Legislature [Chapter 374, Acts of 1976] enabled the city to use it for other bondable expenses.

The $107,500 was appropriated from the bond issue like this: $50,000 to the Hospital's capital outlay fund, $42,500 to the Youth Commission's capital outlay fund, and $15,000 to the Highway Curbing fund.

Thus laundered, the money was again transferred, $100,000 to Workmen's Compensation, $5,100 to the Christmas holiday display, $1,120 to the Bureau of Relocation and $1,280 to Personnel's personal services account.

It was the need for $100,000 for workmen's compensation that turned the trick.

"People should know," said Councilor James A. Sheets, "that in many cases this money is owed to people who have become disabled or have been injured on the job and in many cases the individual has been waiting for some time to get the payment that is owed to him.

"Normally I would not support the concept of paying expenses indirectly out of a bond issue but I think we are in a position at this time where we have to do it."

Councilors Harrington and Paul D. Harold voted against transferring the money out of the bond issue but, after that show of principal, they voted to make the second transfer unanimous.

"I voted against the prior order," said Harrington, "because I objected to where the money comes from. My vote was to point out that the true 12-month budget that was submitted to us in May appears not now to have been a true 12-month budget when we're coming back looking to bonded capital outlay funds to pay the expenses of the city."

"I'm standing here biting my tongue," said Tobin, obviously using a figure of speech since his expression was smug rather than pained. "The City Auditor and I have made suggestions like this in the past and it's been labelled just 'budget gimmickry.' So I'm just biting my tongue."

The Mayor said he thought that was a cheap shot after all since, he said, he had asked for the money in his original budget request and the City Council had chopped it out.

Councilor Harold said he wasn't sure the passing of bond money through two transfers was ethical.

"I'm sure it's legal," he said, "but it seems like it's violating the spirit of the law which is to keep the bonded money for capital improvements. In this case, we're using bonded money for current expenses. It's a dangerous practice if it continues."

Explained City Auditor Charles L. Shea:

"What these two orders do is use the surplus in the water bond money in three areas where the city could have borrowed money rather than have appropriated in the budget and fund those three areas."

"What the second order does is transfer the money appropriated in the budget into four other accounts."

Harold still didn't think it was right but, once the money was out of the bond issue, he, like Harrington, went along.

"I am going to support this particular recommendation by the Mayor," said Councilor Daniel G. Raymond, a frequent critic of LaRaia, "in the spirit of cooperation in the light of the serious financial situation we are faced with in the city."

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS

Nov. 18 - 24, 1964 - 12 Years Ago This Week

Committees Named For 'War On Poverty'

By TOM HENSHAW

Two committees of Quincy residents were appointed to define the city's role in President Lyndon B. Johnson's newly declared "war on poverty".

One committee, made up of five members, was to work out plans for a "work training program" for young people ages 16-21 under which they would work for the city or for a non-profit organization.

Chester V. Swett, assistant superintendent of schools, was named chairman.

The second committee, called the "Local Community Action Organization" with 24 members, was delegated to define broader economic problems and come up with possible solutions.

It was chaired by William J. Trifone, work study coordinator for the Quincy public schools.

GERMANTOWN APARTMENTS

Plans were disclosed for a 240-unit apartment complex off Bicknell St. in Germantown to be operated under a long-term agreement with the city under which the owners would pay an annual sum of money in lieu of taxes.

The complex, estimated to cost $3,770,000, would include 22 buildings on a 14.3-acre plot of land.

PROMOTING QUINCY

The Quincy Development Commission named a three-member subcommittee to study the possibility of promoting the city's historical and tourist attractions.

Leo F. Meady was named chairman with Paul C. Lifeset and Anthony Losordo as members.

Members of the Commission were startled when Charles Flagg of Braintree informed them that less than 13,000 people had visited the Adams Mansion in 1963 while 238,837 had toured Plimoth Plantation.

CITY CRIME RISES

Rep. James R. McIntyre [D-Quincy] told the Houghs Neck Community Council that burglaries were up 35 per cent and other crimes had risen 15 per cent in Quincy during the first six months of 1964.

He blamed it on the courts.

"The Supreme Court of the United States is leaning too much in favor of defendants and too little on the side of victims and society at large," he said.

McIntyre suggested an increase in the 163-man Quincy Police Department.

NORTH STARS OUT

North Quincy standouts Pete Varney and Dick Giachetti were out with injuries as the Raiders prepared to face arch-rival Quincy in the annual Thanksgiving Day game.

Quincy won, 12-8.

QUINCY-ISMS

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa predicted a $7-10 rise in the tax rate in 1965, due largely to $550,000 in pay raises for city employees... The 1964 rate was $83.50... Paul C. York of 107 Rice Rd. Wollaston, was elected president of the freshman class at Burdett College School of Business Administration... City Council President Joseph J. LaRaia said he will introduce an order removing junk yards from residential neighborhoods... Roxie's at 497 Southern Artery had hamburger for 39 cents a pound and turkeys for 35 cents a pound... Henry J. Williams was installed as commander of the Quincy Veterans Council... Patrolman Clarence Tarr retired after 41 years with the Quincy Police Department, the last 21 of them at the corner of Hancock St. and Cottage Ave.... Rep. Joseph E. Brett urged construction of a new City Hall so the old one could be turned into a museum... Airman Third Class David T. Brown of 53 Flynt St., Norfolk Downs, graduated from the Air Force jet aircraft mechanic school at Amarillo AFB in Texas... "The Night of the Ignara", starring Richard Burton, Ava Gardner and Deborah Kerr, was playing at the Wollaston Theater on Beale St.... William Wright was elected president of the Germantown Improvement Association... Mike Ennis had 22 points, Bobby Ayer 21, and Ed Kusser 20 as Quincy Junior College defeated Burdett College, 98-92, for its second basketball win... Swift and Bachman, 330 Hancock St., North Quincy, was selling a 1962 Plymouth for $1,595 and a 1960 Valiant for $795... Mrs. Catherine Stoddard of Wollaston was elected the first president of the special education PTA unit in Quincy... Mayor Della Chiesa refused to suspend parking meter fees during the coming Christmas shopping season... Sherry's, 579 Southern Artery, was advertising Thanksgiving dinner with turkey and all the fixings for $3.75... William Williamson of the Wollaston Lutheran School won individual honors in the third annual spelling bee held among Lutheran schools in Massachusetts and Rhode Island at Providence... Lloyd Shannon's 21 points paced Eastern Nazarene to a 74-65 victory over Barrington College of Rhode Island.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By ERIC SWIDER

No Time For Smugness

A wonderful thing happened to Massachusetts on Nov. 2. The voters of the Commonwealth dragged this state, yelling and screaming back into the mainstream of America by rejecting a slew of anti-business referendum questions, some by very convincing majorities.

The message to our elected officials is crystal clear - voters here want them to get down to the business of keeping and expanding our job base and reinstituting some of those conservative Yankee values for which we used to be so famous.

The message to businesspeople is equally clear. Bay State voters are a discerning lot... and when we take the time to tell our side of the story, they'll listen and make good choices.

The Councils, Committees and Task Forces that were formed to tell the business story on referendum issues were temporary coalitions, and by now their offices have probably reestablished themselves as vacant store fronts.

What is of concern to me is that while we've won a significant battle, too many businesspeople might think that was The War we've won and go back to communicating as usual.

Massachusetts business lacks a central focal point through which to carry out a continuing program of economic education. It appears that the Governor's recent proposal of convening a meeting of business leaders from throughout the state and directing them to form a State Chamber of Commerce will never happen. The "boys" are advising against it.

Unfortunately, this "ignorance is bliss" segment of the business community probably will prevail again, while the momentum and understanding developed during this campaign season will be wasted and lost. The "boys" prefer having crises to react to, so will probably have to mobilize again to defeat other anti-business referenda in the future, never quite appreciating the value of on-going statewide effort or the potential for seizing the initiative themselves to sponsor some pro-business petitions.

Meantime, bottlers, canners and distributors here need to voluntarily respond to close to half of the voters who want flip-topless cans and more accessibility to returnable beverage containers. The issue of freedom of choice is legitimate, and if we should believe the vote, the market for the two-way bottle is almost as big as the one-way business.

Utilities have offered convincing evidence that their investor-owned operations should continue. I hope that the next time a rate increase request goes to the DPU, it is consumerized and explained to you and I with the same degree of efficiency.

We didn't gamble on flat rates and all of us are now more knowledgeable of the factors that go into building a utility bill. I hope that the media and the businesses that would have been zapped will make sure that efforts at conservation are given as much play as they deserve, for it is important that we start addressing the real issues. Business must effectively publicize the techniques they're currently utilizing and others they develop to reduce their juice consumption, so the public will understand that we're all on the same team.

While the graduated income tax issue has been defeated five times, it appears that voters will have still additional chances to consider it. There should be a statute of limitations on lousy ideas. Maybe the basis for a "positive" initiative petition would be that once an idea has been rejected three times by the voters, it should be trashcanned for at least a decade.

There is cause for jubilation among those of us that have a job of promoting Massachusetts as a place to do business, for now we can point to solid evidence that the people of Massachusetts want business and industry here and are willing to look beyond their own interests to help keep it and bring it here.

But there is no room for smugness. There are too many citizens here who feel they are permanently separated from the affluence enjoyed by and symbolized in their minds by "the profits of business." Unless we address their problems, educate them and ourselves on the necessity of retaining the American Enterprise System, and unless business can convincingly display that its code of ethical conduct is high and that businesspeople who break it are the exception rather than the rule, we could wake up some November 3rd wishing we didn't.

[Eric M. Swider is executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.]

Brownell Urges Hearing On Home Insurance Rates

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) has asked the State Insurance Commissioner to hold a public hearing as soon as possible on a request by Massachusetts insurance companies for a 9-25 per cent boost in home insurance rates.

"It is my understanding," said Brownell in a letter to Commissioner James Stone, "that if your agency does not hold a public hearing within 15 days the new rates will automatically go into effect."

"I have it on good authority that in September, 1975, the very same group of companies which is now requesting these rate increases were granted increases ranging from 15 per cent to 25 per cent."

"Now we find that in a little over one year they are once again seeking increases ranging from 9 per cent to 25 per cent which would go into effect Dec. 15, 1976.

"If you allow these proposed rates to go into effect this means that some property owners will be experiencing a 50 per cent rate increase in less than two years.

Mass Held For Mrs. Robert J. Kelley

A funeral mass was celebrated last Friday in St. John's Church, Quincy, for Mrs. Mary J. [O'Brien] Kelley, 56, of 104 Oxenbridge Rd., Wollastone, wife of Lt. Robert J. Kelley of the Quincy Fire Department. Mrs. Kelley died unexpectedly Nov. 9 at Quincy City Hospital of an apparent heart attack.

Main celebrant of the Mass was Mrs. Kelley's first cousin, Rev. Paul Clougherty, associate pastor of Sacred Heart Church, Roslindale. Burial was in Mount Wollastone Cemetery.

Mrs. Kelley was born in Boston, and had lived in Quincy most of her life. She attended Quincy Schools, and was graduated from North Quincy High School.

Employed as a medical secretary for more than 30 years, she had worked in the admitting office at Quincy City Hospital and worked in the office of Dr. Edmund L. Carey of Clay St. for 25 years.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two sons, Robert J. Kelley Jr. of Marlboro and James J. Kelley of Quincy, and three daughters, Mrs. Nancy J. Davis of Burlington, Vt., Mrs. Maureen G. Spavento of Milton, and Miss Mary E. Kelley of Quincy.

She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. Bridget [Clougherty] Thayer of Quincy; five brothers, Joseph P. O'Brien of Randolph, Edward J. O'Brien of Braintree, Francis X. O'Brien of North Dartmouth, Paul M. O'Brien of Brawley, Calif., and John J. O'Brien Jr., of Bakersfield, Calif., and four sisters, Mrs. Margaret McMillen, Mrs. Patricia McEachern, and Miss Anne M. O'Brien, all of Quincy, and Mrs. Rosemary Mahoney of Randolph.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Festival Of Choirs At Bethany Church Sunday

A festival of Choirs will be held Sunday, Nov. 21, at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary of Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center. The event will be sponsored by the Bethany Music Committee under the direction of Miss Mary Lou Glaman and Mrs. Arthur Curtis, co-chairmen. The festival will feature choirs and their directors from seven South Shore churches including:

Holbrook Methodist Church, George Rollins.

St. Mark's Congregational Church, Roxbury, Carrie Lewis.

Salvation Army Church, Quincy, David Galbraith.

Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy, Lambert Brandes.

Fort Square United Presbyterian Church, Quincy, Robert Howard.

Houghs Neck Congregational Church, Arden T. Schofield.

First Church of Squantum, Mary Ruth Scott.

All participating choirs have been invited to sing an anthem of their own selection and will join in the mass singing of the following selections:

"Alleluia", Randall Thompson;

"There Is A Balm In Gilead", William L. Dawson;

"The King Of Love My Shepherd Is", Harry Rowe Shelley;

"The Old Hundred Psalm", R. Vaughan Williams.

The massed choirs will be under the direction of Robert Howard, chairman of the Music Department at Eastern Nazarene College, Wollastone and organist Lambert Brandes, Associate Professor of Music, Eastern Nazarene College, Wollastone.

An offering will be taken for the benefit of the Protestant Social Service Bureau, a counseling and child placement agency servicing South Shore communities.

The public is invited.

Quincy Education Association Presents

Feature Class --
Mrs. Robison's Fourth Grade from Beechwood Knoll School

Editor, Cathy Conley

A NEWSPAPER BY AND FOR THE CHILDREN OF QUINCY

Teachers Are People, Too!

Shawna McCarthy, 9, and John Murphy, 9, interview their teacher Mrs. Anna Robison.

It's National Education Week. So guess who we're going to feature this issue of Young Ideas. We feature the teacher, of course. That person with whom you'll spend 180 days this year. That person who will teach you, guide you, entertain you, correct you, nurse you, soothe you, care for you and, most of all, help you grow.

Our feature class is Mrs. Robison's fourth grade at Beechwood Knoll School. These children tell us what qualities they think it is most important for a teacher to have. Then they match these with the qualities they think a student should have. Teachers are always giving their students treats. The children tell us what kind of treat they would like to give their teacher, if they could. Two students, Shawna McCarthy, 9, and John Murphy, 9, had the opportunity to interview their own teacher Mrs. Robison. They came up with a very interesting conclusion: "Teachers are people, too." Here is the interview.

Mrs. Robison, how do you feel about discipline in the classroom?

Well, Shawna, I do not feel that children can learn in bedlam. We all need a moderately quiet classroom. Children come from all different kinds of homes. Some are very quiet. It would be impossible for these children to learn if there were not some order.

What is your favorite subject to teach?

John, my favorite subject is language arts, particularly creative language and also some phases of the reading program.

Do you think we should have homework?

I believe the children who really need homework should have it to help them. I believe from time to time, all children should have a project of an interesting nature to do at home. This encourages them to broaden their life.

Do you do homework?

Yes, Shawna, I do homework every night of the year. I plan my program. I correct papers. And I like to review the day to see if there was anything I could have done differently.

What's the hardest thing about teaching?

I don't find anything hard, John. I truly love teaching. The hardest thing is to know that the day is coming when I will teach no longer.

What's your favorite animal?

You know what, Shawna. My cat Mischief.

What's your favorite sport and your favorite kind of music?

Walking is my favorite physical activity. And musicals are my favorite type of music. My favorite musical is Sound of Music.

What part of Quincy do you like best?

Right here at the Beechwood Knoll School though I left a little of my heart at Squantum School.

What would you do if you thought a child was purposely staying out of school?

I would immediately try to find out the reason. It might be partly my fault. I would want to know that, so I could help the child.

If there is one thing we bring from your fourth grade class to the next grade, what would you like that to be?

Good work habits John. I'm not so concerned with scores as with the habits you are developing.

What has brought you the most joy in teaching?

I can't pick one thing. I love anything in the creative line. And also I get a great deal of joy seeing a child with problems succeed.

Do you have any teacher's pets?

I try not to, Shawna. All of the students appeal to me in some way. Once in a while a particular personality appeals to you but I don't believe I have any pets.

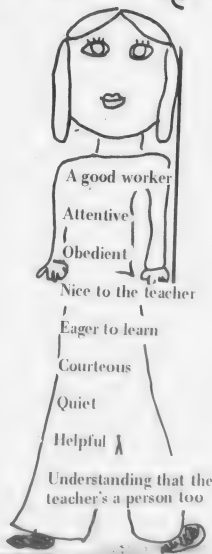

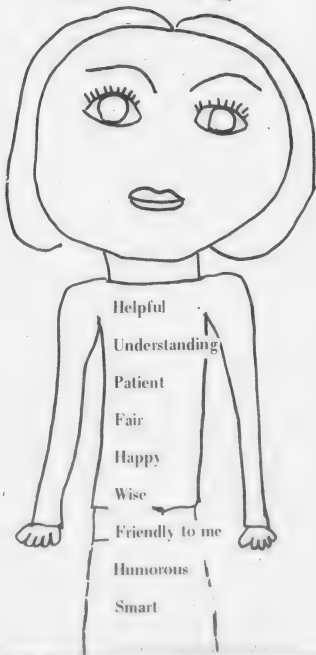

You have another job. What is it?

Last year I was President of the Quincy Education Association. This year I still have things to do. I attend meetings of the Association so that teachers will be served by the officers of the Association.

If You Could Give Your Teach

When Young Ideas visited our feature class, Mrs. Robison's fourth grade at Beechwood Knoll School, we asked the children several questions about teachers. In your own words, what is a teacher? Does the teacher ever make you sad? How about happy? If you could bring your teacher anywhere in the world where would you bring her? What present would you like to bring your teacher if you could bring her anything you wanted? What are the most important qualities you would like your teacher to have? Here are some of the children's answers.

A teacher is a person who helps kids grow. The only time I'm ever sad in the classroom is if the teacher gets mad at me. Most of the time, she does nice things for me. If I could bring my teacher Mrs. Robison anywhere in the world with me, I'd take her to see Irish step dancers. I know she likes that.

Tracy Carroll, 9

I'd like to bring my teacher to my next track meet in Washington, D.C. I think she would be proud watching me run because she was so proud of this trophy I won last week in New York at the Road Runner Club of America track meet. I came in 50th out of 200 contestants. Our teacher is interested in what we do outside of school, too.

Laura Kelleher, 10

If I could give my teacher a present, I'd give her a quiet class all the time. I think it's very hard to teach and to learn when it's noisy. If I could bring her anywhere in the world, I'd bring her to Florida for a rest and so she could get a tan.

John's A-Mazin'

her A Treat, What Would It Be?

If I could give my teacher a treat, I'd give her a robot to do all dull things like collecting papers, correcting, so she could spend all time teaching us, talking with us reading us stories.

Valerie Papapetros, 9 [right]

If I could bring her anywhere, I'd bring her to my house for a roast dinner so she could be with my family.

Brooke Smith, 9 [left]

If I could get my teacher anything in the world, I'd get her an office with her own desk and files and typewriter so she wouldn't be interrupted when she's doing work.

Chris Roberts, 9

If I could bring my teacher a gift I'd like to bring her -- me being good all the time. Sometimes teachers get cross. But I figure they've got a right to. They're just doing their job. Sometimes it's a hard job but our teacher Mrs. Robison doesn't make it look like a hard job. I know about teachers because my father is one.

Billy Cahill, 10

I think the most important thing for a teacher to be is kind, patient and understanding. If I could bring my teacher anything I'd bring her a live cricket. She's reading us the best book called "Cricket in Times Square". My favorite time is when our teacher reads to us.

Jean O'Hara, 9

Teacher

Several children in Mrs. Robison's fourth grade wrote cinquains about what a teacher is. A cinquain is a 5 line poem. The first line has 2 syllables. The second line has 4 syllables. The third line has 6. The fourth has 8 and the fifth line repeats the first. Here is an excellent cinquain by April Jusseaume, 9, Monique Belanger, 9, and Jean O'Mara, 9.

Let's Hear From Giselle

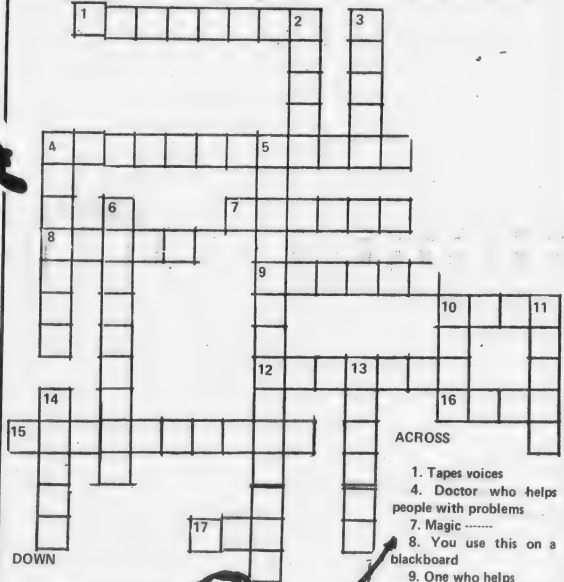

I hope that all the teachers I ever get have three things: sense, a smart mind and be my friend. If I could bring my teacher anywhere in the world, I'd bring her to a Star.

Note: We figured Giselle wanted to bring her teacher to a strange place in our galaxy. But on further questioning, Giselle wanted to bring her to the Star Market to buy cookies for the class!

Our Assistant Editors Mike And Mary

This Week's assistant editors of Young Ideas are Mike McColgan and Mary Bredin, both seniors in the journalism class at Quincy High School. Mike and Mary visited our feature class, the fourth grade at Beechwood Knoll School. They helped interview the children, gather and edit the material, and paste up this issue.

In the picture above, Mike McColgan interviews Bobby Gralton [left] and Tom Grimshaw. In the picture below Mary Bredin is asking Monique Belanger [left] and April Jusseume -- "What qualities do you think are most important for a teacher to have?"

Richard Barker Vice-President

Charles Ryder New QCBPA President

Charles L. Ryder, owner of Ryder's Curtain and Drapery Shop, Hancock St., Quincy Center, was elected president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association Tuesday.

He succeeds Bernard Reisberg of Bernie's Modern Formal Shop, Quincy.

Other officers elected were: Richard Barker of Barker's Stationary and Office Supply, vice president; Roger Perfetti of Bay Bank/Norfolk County Trust, treasurer; and Donald Johnson of Quincy Savings Bank, secretary.

Elected Members of the board of directors were:

Joseph Angelo of Remick's, Henry Bosworth of The Quincy Sun, Burt Cook of Tag's Sleep & Lounge Shop, Kenneth Fallon Jr., of WJDA, John Farmer of Hancock Bank, Robert Faxon of Faxon Trust, Jason Feldman of Jason's Luggage and Music, Theodore Johnson of Granite City Hardware, John Kelley of Sawyer's, Richard Rogalin, attorney, and George White of the Patriot Ledger.

Other members of the board of directors are association past presidents: Robert Colman of Colman's Sporting Goods, Mark Bertman of Rogers Jewelry, Jack Kerrigan of Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream, David Leitch of Burgin Platner & Co., and Reisberg.

Ryder was previously manager of Quincy's W. T. Grants, and opened his own store when Grant's closed.

His shop stocks curtains and draperies, linens, towels, yarn, and necessary accessories.

A member of QCBPA since it was founded, Ryder has been a member as owner of Ryder's since June.

A graduate of Boston College, he grew up in Lynn. Ryder, 40, his wife Cynthia, and two children Katherine, 9, and Kam, 5, live in Hanover.

is $1,440,350," replied Gillis. "And there is only $38,000 left in the bond issue?" asked Raymond.

"Since we have known there is $38,000 left and we've known that since 8 o'clock tonight," said Harrington, "how much is the South St. project?"

"$71,500," said Gillis.

"That's for the entire length," retorted Raymond. "I believe $38,000 would do most of the work that is critical."

"This is precisely why the item belongs in committee," said Kelly. "Owen Eaton could be there to explain if portions could be done. Perhaps you can't do portions of this job."

"We should be talking about a water main program for the city rather than correcting one problem even though it might be the No. 1 priority," said Harrington. "I hope each councillor will consider the streets in his district..."

It was at this point that Sheets asked to have the whole thing tabled and, mercifully, it was done.

Report Shows 'The Good Life' Shared By More Americans

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
and Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

The so-called "good life" is being enjoyed in greater abundance by an increasing percentage of the U.S. population, according to a report from The Conference Board.

Economically speaking, "the good life" is what is made possible by disposable or after-tax supernumerary income. The Conference Board, noting that families with incomes equivalent to $20,000 or more accounted for 22 percent of the population during 1974, estimates that the amount of money available for the good life increased from $30 billion during the early 1960's to over $80 billion in 1974, or from less than 7 percent of total disposable family income to 12 percent.

The Board notes that significant changes have occurred since the mid-1950's among the affluent population:

- Almost 20 percent of the upper-income families are headed by persons under 35 years of age, as compared to 10 percent twenty years ago.
- Persons in professional or technical careers expanded their representation from 22 to 26 percent.
- Factory foremen and operatives increased in this sector from 20 to 26 percent.

- Employed wives in this group increased from 30 percent in the mid-1950's to 55 percent in 1974.

Fifty-seven percent of all families in the upper-income bracket were between 35 and 54 years of age, although that age group accounted for only 40 percent of total families. Moreover, 53 percent of all incomes of this level embraced homes with four or more persons; homes with two or more employed workers represented almost 76 percent of the bracket.

Approximately half of these supernumerary-income families are headed by persons having some college training; over 45 percent of all families where the head is engaged in professional, technical, managerial, or administrative work are in the upper-income bracket.

Another study from the Census Bureau Survey reveals that income of U.S. households averaged $12,893 in 1974. Non-farm households, comprising 96.2 percent of the total, averaged $12,928, farm households $12,041. Households headed by males comprised 76.4 percent of the total and averaged $14,810; households headed by females $6,683.

No Post-Election Vacation

Morrissey Plans Meetings

With 3rd Norfolk Constituents

By TOM HENSHAW

"I'd like to take a vacation," said Michael W. Morrissey, "but I'm broke."

The 22-year-old Morrissey, fresh out of UMass-Amherst, spent something like $6,000 in twice winning the Third Norfolk District State Representative seat from Rep. Joseph E. Brett.

He defeated Brett, 2,373 to 1,525, in the Democratic primary in September and then, for good measure, he solidly trounced the 69-year-old incumbent, 6,945 to 2,223 in the November final when Brett chose to run on stickers.

Instead of relaxing on vacation, Morrissey plunged right into the hectic political pace of a Legislature, visiting a meeting of the Squantum Community Association as his first official act as State Representative-elect on the night after his election.

"I'm going to start meeting with people and organizations from different areas in the district to find out their concerns," he said. "Then I'm going to get to work on them immediately."

He said he received a letter from Brett, who had held the legislative post for 18 years, in which the loser extended his congratulations and offered any help he could to the man who is taking over his job Jan. 5.

"I'm sure I'll eventually be in touch with him for his help and ideas," said Morrissey. "I know he'll miss the State House but it's not the end of the world. With his experience he will be a valuable man to the state."

Morrissey said he hopes to land a spot on one of three committees—education, urban affairs or transportation.

"Jim Sheets being on the Education Committee I'm sure will weigh heavily against me," he said.

"Joe Brett was chairman of the Urban Affairs Committee so there is an opening on it. Since it deals with the MDC it is a valuable committee to be on with Nut Island and Wollaston Beach in Quincy."

"The Transportation Committee will be important because the expansion of the MBTA's Red Line will have a big effect on the people of North Quincy."

"I have some experience in mass transportation since I worked my way up from driver to supervisor in the UMass Transit System, which has 30 buses and serves 18,000 people a day. It is a no fare experiment."

He summed up his feelings on the controversial South Quincy

MBTA station thusly: "Quincy does not need the station but it is going to go in over the objections of the local people."

Morrissey said he is researching some legislation that he would like to introduce before the Legislature convenes in January.

One of the bills will involve traffic problems in the Wollaston Beach area. Another would repeal the tax on insulin purchased by diabetics. A third concerns snow fences on Morrissey Blvd.

Morrissey is also conscious of another problem, one not usually faced by a freshman legislator. In two years, he'll face a radical change in his district when the House of Representatives is cut from 240 to 160 members.

It is possible that Quincy will wind up with two and a half districts, possibly throwing him in against Rep. James A. Sheets of the current Fourth Norfolk District for re-election.

But that is in the future and there is still time to savor the taste of victory.

"We did the ground work during the summer and we just kept plugging away," said Morrissey, explaining his victory. "The primary win gave us confidence. Then when Brett came back in it psyched up my workers again. It gave us momentum."

He credited a large share of his victory to Charles Kane, the fellow from down the street who ran his campaign.

"Charlie's nerves were shot for the last few days," said Morrissey, "but he kept us pushing."

'Nando Of Rome' Returns from Hollywood

"Nando of Rome" is back in Quincy after a visit to Hollywood where he was consulted on hair styling by actress Karen Black.

Nando is Fernando Cristofoli, operator of the popular Billings Road Beauty Salon in North Quincy.

He disclosed that he has been invited by Miss Black to style her hair on location in Africa, where she will be making a film in the near future.

Nando has also been called upon to style the hair of Miss Massachusetts and television personality, Jay Scott.

Lighting To Allow Flag Flown Nights At Mount Wollaston

The city is planning to install a lighting system in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery that will permit the American flag to be flown at night and also cut down on vandalism in the cemetery.

Quincy, North Football Dinner

Quincy Public Schools will honor their high school football teams and cheerleaders with a roast beef dinner Monday (Nov. 22) at 7 p.m. in Montello's Restaurant, 33 Massachusetts Ave., Quincy Point.

Tickets may be purchased from Bruce McLain at the Superintendent's office, 70 Coddington St.

The meal will be prepared by students in the culinary arts division of the Quincy Vo-Tech School, under the direction of Culinary Arts Coordinator Edward Repucci.

Morrissey Invites Constituents To Contact Him

Rep.-elect Michael W. Morrissey of the Third Norfolk District announces constituents may reach him at 88 Colby Rd, North Quincy, or by calling 328-0900.

Any one interested in filing or sponsoring legislation in the 1977 session, must do so by Dec. 1, he noted. Morrissey said he will be open to suggestions for legislation during his two-year term.

Morrissey will soon set up area office hours.

A native of Italy, where he served a five-year apprenticeship before he was allowed to style his own first client, he opened the Billings Road Beauty Salon nearly four years ago.

He sums up the salon's success in three words--experience, imagination and professionalism.

A man of myriad talents, Nando is also a gifted singer who recently entertained at Expo '76 in Hynes Auditorium in Boston.

He's an avid do-it-yourselfer, too. He gardens, remodels rooms in his home, and works in the kitchen and the photographic darkroom he built himself.

patriotic effect is desired, the flag may be displayed 24 hours a day if properly illuminated during the hours of darkness."

Mayor LaRaia said his office had received a number of letters from Quincy residents requesting illumination of the Veterans' Podium in the cemetery so that the flag can be flown after dark.

The system is being installed by the Department of Veterans' Services and the Mass Electric Co.

$9,385 To Winterize Low

Income Homes

The State Department of Community Affairs has awarded $9,385 to the Quincy Community Action Organization Inc., enough to provide winterization for the homes of 26 low income families.

The QCAC serves Braintree, Milton and Weymouth, as well as Quincy.

Eligible residents must have incomes less than 125 per cent of the federal poverty standard currently set at $5,500 for a family of four. Preference is given to homes of the handicapped, the elderly and the unemployed.

Applications will be screened by a Project Advisory Committee, consisting of citizens from each town. More than half of the members of each committee must be low income people themselves.

The maximum spending limit is $350 per dwelling.

It is figured that winterization will reduce fuel consumption by as much as 30 per cent with an average savings in oil heated homes of $116 a year and about $90 a year in homes heated with natural gas.

At Quincy Co-operative Bank

Francis Mitchell Administrative V.P., Leo Sheehan Named Internal Auditor

Appointment of an administrative vice president and an internal auditor for The Quincy Co-operative Bank is announced by John R. Herbert, Chairman of the Board and President of the Bank. Both men will join the bank staff Dec. 1.

Francis J. Mitchell of Hanover, assistant treasurer-controller of the Old Colony Crushed Stone Company of Quincy, was elected administrative vice president of the bank by the Board of Directors.

Leo G. Sheehan of Weymouth of the Internal Audit Department of Commercial Union Assurance Companies of Boston has been named as internal auditor.

Mitchell has been associated with The Quincy Co-operative Bank since his election to the board in May of 1969. He presently serves as clerk of the board of directors and is a member of both the executive committee and the finance committee of the bank.

Mitchell is chairman of the Hanover board of selectmen, and is a member of the advisory board of the South Shore National Bank. He is a member of the Quincy Rotary Club and a former director of that organization. He served for nine years as a member of the Town of Hanover Finance Committee and for six of those years, has been chairman. Mitchell is an associate member of the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants. A licensed public accountant, he received a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration with a major in accounting from Northeastern University in 1947. Following this, he was with Price Waterhouse in Philadelphia for two years and then went to the Wasserman Accounting Company, where, among other things, he did bank auditing. He left Wasserman to go with Old Colony where he has served for 25 years.

In addition to his role as assistant treasurer-controller of Old Colony Crushed Stone Company, he serves in a similar capacity for the Old Colony Construction Company of Quincy. He is also vice president of Pine Hill Corporation.

Mitchell is married and has two sons.

Sheehan is a former member of the professional audit staff of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. of Boston and in that role he was involved in the external examinations for The Quincy

LEO G. SHEEHAN

Co-operative Bank. Sheehan graduated from Stonehill College with a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration with a major in accounting.

Sheehan was married recently to the former Karen Davis of Weymouth who is employed in the Mortgage Department of The Quincy Co-operative Bank.

In announcing the appointment, President Herbert said that with the rapid growth of the Bank in recent months, it became desirable to strengthen the internal financial operation of the institution.

The Bank now has assets of more than $107 million, which would reflect a growth of $17,394,000 since December of 1974.

In addition to its main office in Quincy Square, the Bank has branches in Braintree, Cohasset, Hanover, and a special limited service branch at the 1000 Southern Artery for senior citizens at that facility.

Recalls 'Bank Holiday'

Maurice Hughes Retiring From Quincy Savings After 47 Years

By ROBERT O'BRIEN

In these days when it's not unusual for a person to change jobs four or five times during a career, it's hard to imagine someone working for one organization for almost half a century.

Well, that's the case with H. Maurice Hughes, senior vice president and trustee of Quincy Savings Bank. On Nov. 30, Maurice will leave his desk for the last time as a bank employee — capping off a career that spans over 47 years.

Born, raised, and still a resident in Quincy, Maurice joined the bank as a teller right after graduating from Quincy High School in 1929 — a fatal year for financial fortunes. Quincy Savings Bank then had just 12 employees, $18.5 million in assets, and offered five banking services (compared to 118 employees, $216 million in assets, and 24 customer services available today).

The Great Depression raged on for the next seven years. But both Maurice and the bank weathered the storm. Other banks were not so lucky. Maurice vividly recalls the "Bank Holiday" of March, 1933, called by President Franklin Roosevelt to curb the mad dash by depositors to withdraw their cash. Quincy Savings Bank closed for two days. Many banks never reopened their doors. Those tragic closings set the stage for the establishment of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the government agency that insures deposits in full.

In 1935 Maurice became head teller, and in 1940 he was promoted to the mortgage department. World War II temporarily came between Maurice and any further promotions until he rejoined the bank in 1946, after serving as a captain in the infantry, 36th Division.

The great wave of post-war prosperity and spending made necessary the establishment of consumer loan departments, and Maurice was promoted to head that service at Quincy Savings Bank in 1948. He was promoted to Senior Vice President and trustee in 1973, and has since been responsible for a wide range of customer relations and administrative duties.

A natty dresser, Maurice is a familiar figure in the Quincy community. His full head of steel grey hair belies both his age and his active life. He uses his hands to accentuate his speech, and his quick smile punctuates every sentence.

Away from the office, Maurice is an active member of Morrisette Legion Post, the Quincy Naval Club, and the Quincy Order of the Elks. He also serves as secretary and trustee for the City Hospital of Quincy Corporation, and as treasurer of the McLean Scholarship Fund and the John Hancock School Scholarship Fund.

Following the most recent corporators and trustees meeting Nov. 9, both past and present bank employees held a surprise party to honor the man who has been both a friend and respected colleague for almost five decades. Bank President Charles Pearce hosted the party, where Maurice was presented with a scroll highlighting his bank career, a CB radio, and a cash gift.

What plans does Maurice have for retirement? "I'll probably go visit some friends in Florida," he says, "but I'll return to Quincy. I've always liked this city. I think it has a great future."

Maurice will still be at the bank until Nov. 30. If you'd like to stop by and say hello or wish him well, he'd love to see you.

Future Shock!!

If you had bought a defense bond for $18.75 during World War II and redeemed it for its face value of $25 ten years later, you would have lost money on your investment. Why? Because the $25 would have been worth less than the $18.75 was 10 years earlier. That's inflation and its pace has quickened since 1945.

What would happen if the cost of living increased six percent a year compounded? (Low by today's standards). A home that cost $35,000 now would cost $112,250 in 20 years and almost unbelievable $201,022 in 30 years.

What does all this mean? Whatever your age, you must find a way to create an income in addition to your pay check. Although there is no such thing as the perfect investment, real estate may be the nearest thing to it. It can be an income producer, a shelter from high taxes, and an ideal protection from the ravages of inflation. Real estate values historically increase faster than general inflation prices and maintain a higher value than most assets in depression. The ideal hedge.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Miller Sees North Basketball Job 'Great Challenge'

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy High's basketball fortunes were in good hands during the past 11 years and they will continue in good hands beginning this season.

At last week's meeting, the Quincy School Committee, as expected, appointed Eddie Miller, junior varsity coach the last four years, as the Raiders' new varsity coach to succeed the retired Bob Nolan.

In another expected action, ninth grade coach Paul Bregoli was named to succeed Miller as junior varsity skipper.

The 27-year-old Miller, who was born in Malden but came to Quincy as an infant, went through the Quincy school system and was a standout at North, was delighted with the appointment and is eagerly awaiting the start of practice on Nov. 29.

"This is a great challenge and I'm looking forward to it," Miller said. "I have a few different ideas, but don't think there will be any drastic changes. The boys all know me and I know them and I know we'll have no trouble working together."

Eddie, who virtually grew up on the Fenno Street courts in Wollaston, admits his style may be a little different than that of Nolan, who retired last year after 11 successful years as Raider coach. He ended a 21-year coaching career.

"I'm more of a gambler than Knobby," he said. "I have played a lot of basketball in recent years and I take chances on defense, changing defenses and playing a fast-breaking exciting type of basketball."

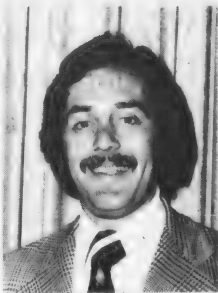

Not that Knobby's teams weren't exciting, they certainly were, but my style will be a little different.

Nolan has always been able to get his teams fired up and reach and was great for motivation. Miller expects to keep that going.

Eddie was Nolan's first captain at North and played three years of varsity ball at North, captaining the team in his senior year. He was part of the Raider teams which won Greater Boston League championships and he will be pointing now for the Suburban League and hopes to keep North's Eastern Mass. Tournament tradition alive.

He was one of Boston State College's best players, despite his lack of size, and co-captained the team in his senior year and was named to the team's most valuable player. He excelled for three years under Coach Jim Locutoff, a former Celtics great. He played on the team which won the New England title and is still playing semi-pro ball.

Miller graduated from North in 1967 and from Boston State in 1971.

EDDIE MILLER

Eddie is a physical education teacher at Sterling Junior High, where he formerly coached soccer.

Miller had his finest season a year ago when his jayvees won the Suburban League title with a 16-2 record (17-2 overall) and in a preliminary game to the league all-star team his club defeated runnerup Waltham.

For the past several years, Eddie has been one of the spark-plugs for the Quincy O'Brien Club, the New England semi-pro champion. Although he has hinted he is through as an active player, those who know his great enthusiasm for the game won't be convinced until they see it. Many feel he will be back with the O'Brien Club this season.

Nolan took 7 of his 11 North teams into the Eastern Mass. tournament and missed out by just one win last year. In his final game as coach, his team upset Suburban League champion Rindge Tech.

Frazier Named North Faculty Manager

Ralph Frazier, former North Quincy High football coach, has been named faculty manager to succeed Bob Laing, who has held the position for many years.

Frazier, a gym instructor at North, coached Northeastern University's sub varsity team this fall.

Laing actually submitted his resignation at the start of the season, but when no one became available, he continued on the job and will continue through the rest of the football season.

"I am very pleased Eddie was appointed and I know he will do a great job," Nolan said. "He has a great temperament and all the boys like him. I know that North's great tradition will continue under him."

"He was my first captain at North and he was a great player to coach. He didn't have much size but he handled the ball expertly and, in addition to being a good scorer, he set up numerous baskets with his passes."

Nolan will have the satisfaction of seeing two of his former junior varsity coaches as Quincy and North head coaches this year. Joe Amoroso, Quincy's head coach, preceded Miller as Nolan's jayvee coach at North.

Miller is taking over at a tough time. Due to the construction at North, the Raiders will have to practice at the Lincoln-Hancock School and play their games at Quincy Vo-Tech, playing there when Quincy is away.

The appointment of Bregoli, who also played for Nolan at North, also pleases Nolan and Miller. Last year Paul led the ninth grade team to the co-championship of the city league, the fourth straight year North had been at least co-champion.

Rick DeChristofaro was named last week as the new ninth grade coach and other appointments included those of Brian Tilley as head coach of North Quincy's girls' basketball team, Rich Murray as his assistant, Vaughn Lovejoy, new head wrestling coach at North, and John Lavery, new head winter track coach at Quincy.

Frazier was appointed to the faculty manager's post at last week's school committee meeting.

St. Ann's Youth Hockey League Underway

St. Ann's Youth Hockey League opened its season last week with six games at the Shea rink in West Quincy.

In Pee Wee competition Dairy Queen and Razor's Edge played to a 4-4 tie. Ed Ricman had two goals and Steve Hogan and Steve Kelly one each for DQ and Mike Walsh had an assist. For Razor's Edge, Jack MacDonald scored twice and Neil Fisher and Kevin Jay once each. Neil Beagle, Bob Climo and Chuck Zurray had assists.

Dunkin Donuts nipped Art Tailors, 2-1, on unassisted goals by Tom Barron and Tom Foley. John Joseph scored for Art Tailors with assists for John Klingenstein and Bob Damigella.

JDA edged Keohane's 4-3, with Jamie Fennell having the hat trick. Ed Page had the other JDA goal and Mike Phelan, Dom Peters and Mike Leonard had assists. Paul Desmond had two goals and Dave Casey one for Keohane's. John Kearns had an assist.

In the Bantam division Bike 'n' Blade bombed Plaza Olds, 7-0, sparked by Greg Kelly's hat trick. Dan Lyons, Ron Puzalite, Billy Boudreau and Rich LaPierre had the other goals and Steve Burke, Puzalite, Peter Quinn, Kurt Olson and Chris Price had assists.

No. Quincy K, of C. squeezed by Blackwood, 1-0, on Chris Clark's unassisted goal.

Lydon-Russell topped Crestview, 3-1, on goals by Tom Burke, Jim Keller and Paul O'Sullivan. Greg Therrien scored for Crestview with Brian O'Leary assisting.

Simone Koch In Hot Shot Finals

Simone Koch of Quincy is among the boys and girls who will participate in final regional competition in the NBA/Pepsi Cola "Hot Shot" basketball competition on Friday.

Simone is in the girls' 9 to 12 division together with Patricia Thissell of Needham.

The winners of the competition will compete in the finals, the first round of which will take place Nov. 24, at Boston Garden.

Raiders' Super Bowl Hopes Gone With Wind

The Super Bowl hopes have ended and the North Quincy football team will now concentrate on the Thanksgiving Day classic and the quest for another city championship.

Dave Burke's Raiders, losers of only a heartbreaker to undefeated Newton North, still had visions of a second straight Super Bowl berth as they went to Brockton last week but the Boxers, a vastly improved over early season performances, threw North's hopes out the window with a 14-6 win at Marciano Stadium. Last year Brockton handed North its only loss in a 9-1 season.

"They caught us at the start but our boys didn't quit and came back nicely in the second half," Burke said. "They have an awfully big team but we fought them pretty even. They have a good team and it was a good game. Now we'll just set our sights on Quincy and practice hard for them."

Asst. Coach Tom Fitzgerald praised the Raiders' spirit. "They had an unbelievable weight advantage on us, they have the biggest high school team I've seen," he said. "At the half, with Brockton leading by 14, I gave the boys a pep talk."

"They came out flying in the third period and went 75 yards for a touchdown. They just wouldn't quit. They are a great group of boys."

Fitzgerald lauded George Wallace and John Wilkinson for their running. Bill McIntyre for his blocking. Jim Frye and Keith Lindberg for their work at offensive ends and Tom Nee and Harry Knudsen for their performances in the offensive line. Mike Adams, the Raiders' top runner until injured several weeks ago, returned but only for a few plays.

North was forced to play without its great kicker, Ed McElaney who in addition to kicking the points after touchdown and field goals and punting, also excels as a defensive back.

Burke praised Steve Bell, Frank McGinnes, Mark Wentzell and Steve Sheehan, who filled in for McElaney, for their defensive prowess.

Brockton scored in the first period when Mike Parham went 20 yards on a quick opener. It added another touchdown in the second period on Paul Duford's four-yard run after two passes had set up the score.

North drove to its lone score with a 75-yard drive following the second half kickoff. McIntyre scoring from the three.

Passes from Brian Donaghey to Frye and Lindberg set up the touchdown.

North's last chance ended when Randy Horton intercepted a pass with under four minutes to play and the Boxers ran out the clock.

Quincy, North Sophs Clash Saturday In Turkey Day Preview

The Quincy and North Quincy sophomore football teams will meet in their annual game Saturday at 10 a.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quincy Coach Pete Chella, who made his debut a year ago with a 12-6 win, is back to match wits with "the dean" of all North Quincy coaches, Ted Sadowski, who has coached the Raider sophs for most of his 19 years at North. Two years ago Ted's team romped to a 30-0 win over Mark Conroy's final Quincy team.

The North Quincy sophs have a 5-2 record with wins over Randolph, Weymouth North, Braintree, Brockton and Waltham and losses to Newton North and Scituate.

The offense has moved the ball well in all games. The line has John O'Leary and Dan McIntyre ends, Ted Koberski and Tim McCluskey tackles, Joe Venezia and Paul White guards and Pat McKenna center.

In the backfield are quarterback Kevin Cobban, halfbacks Brian Hewitt and Tom Quinn and fullback John Conley. Jim Holleran and Rich Schaefer have done an excellent job as jacks of all trades in the backfield.

The strong defensive unit has a front line of John Hernan, Paul McNamara, Tom Malloy, Mike Spinale, Glenn Healy and John White, with linebackers Larry Chretien and Frank Strauss. The perimeter includes Matt Hemphill and John Kineavy at the corners. Pete Doherty, John Lotthrop and Pat Ennis deep. Filling in capably are Pat Malloy and Paul McCormick.

Ennis handles the punting and Spinale the kickoffs.

Junior manager Sparky Anderson has done an outstanding job for Sadowski tending to his numerous chores.

The Quincy sophs, who have improved with age, bring a 5-3-1 record into the game. They have wins over Arlington, Waltham, Newton, Weymouth North and Brockton, tied B.C. High and lost to Hingham twice and Dedham.

Offensively Chella has ends Glenn Lydon and John Cahill, tackles George McCarron, Russ Neithlich and Gerard Grassi, guards Jim Peters, Ron Cross and Joe Cacciatore and center Bob Card.

The backfield consists of Peter Griffin, Ralph Pickering, Bunky Harte, Mike Bullman, Tony Marinelli and quarterback Dean Prescott.

Defensively the ends are Lydon, Grassi, Harte and John Connolly, down linemen Tony Grasselli, Gerry Pettiti, Steve Cacciatore and John Nichols, linebackers Steve Venturelli, Marinelli, Pickering and Cross and backs Charlie D'Arcy, John Rizzi, John Ricciardi, Cahill and Griffin.

Chella expressed his thanks to two injured players, Dan DeCoste and Robert Harnais, who have been unable to play but have helped the team in various capacities.

Q-N Thanksgiving Game Tickets On Sale

General admission tickets for the Quincy-North Quincy football game are now on sale at all schools in the city.

Reserved seat tickets, however, are on sale only at the two high schools.

Reserved seat tickets are $3, adult general admission tickets $1.50 and student tickets $1. Tickets will also be on sale at Veterans Memorial Stadium on the morning of the annual classic at the same prices.

Quincy X-Country Girls Take 2nd Place

The Quincy girls' cross country team made an excellent showing in last week's Suburban League all-league meet, finishing second to Weymouth South.

Paula Constas of the First Ladies placed 10th. The North Quincy girls finished seventh.

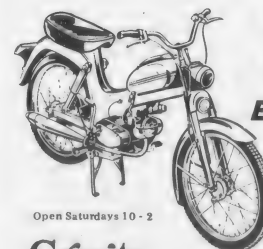

In the boys' race, North Quincy placed fourth and Quincy eighth as Brockton, as expected, breezed to the title. The Raiders' Mike Barrett was the team's first finisher in eighth place.

Quincy ran without its ace, John Saville, who was rested by Coach Jose Catalano for last Saturday's state meet in which he failed to place.

Presidents Put It All Together Solidly

Mark Buchanan and a fine supporting cast issued a warning last week to the North Quincy football team: Quincy is ready for you.

Hank Conroy's Presidents had been struggling through another disappointing season until they won two in a row. Then, following a loss to huge Brockton two weeks ago, they rebounded last Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium to roll over Brookline, 26-6.

In raising its record to 4-5, Quincy turned in by far its best all-around game and the Presidents are convinced this could be their year in the Thanksgiving Day game.

"This was easily our most solid two-way effort of the year," a happy Conroy said. "The backs, especially Mark Buchanan (three touchdowns to give him 11 for the year), ran well, the defense again was outstanding and the offensive line turned in its finest performance of the season. The line actually won the game for us, as it continually opened big holes. The blocking was tremendous."

Actually, the offense controlled the ball so well, the defense had little to do. The Brookline defense was on the field all afternoon.

Len Picot had to punt only once during the game and Conroy was delighted by the fact Quincy didn't lose the ball once on a fumble.

Quincy took advantage of four Brookline turnovers. Tom Conine, Larry Cally and Rich Coose recovered fumbles and Pat Gibbons intercepted a pass late in the game, one of many interceptions for him this fall.

Conroy praised Kevin Boudreau, Mike Duggan, Pete Cassidy, Wayne Gardiner and Dave Eastwick in the offensive line. All but Eastwick are juniors.

Buchanan had a brilliant afternoon. Not only did he score three times, but he gained 146 yards rushing and added 33 yards on pass receptions.

Conroy had good words for Picot, who assisted Buchanan with the running chores and singled out Sal Coscia, Coose, Cally, Picot, Gibbons and Rich Gibbody, who started for the first time, for their work on defense.

"We shifted our attack and went against the grain, from right to left, and it paid off," Hank added. "I also was pleased that I was able to use so many players today."

Conine's fumble recovery on Brookline's 19 set up the first touchdown late in the first period. Buchanan scoring from the four after Picot had broken loose for 15 yards. Steve Anderson kicked his second point of the year.

Midway in the second period, the Presidents drove 87 yards following a punt. The highlights of the march were a pass from Dennis Walter to Buchanan for 20 yards, and runs of 24 and 14 yards by Buchanan, who scored from the one.

Just 13 seconds later he scored again. Brookline fumbled on its first play following the kickoff and Cally recovered on the Brookline 21, from where Buchanan scored. Another fumble recovery, this by Coose, on the Brookline 23 paved the way for the final Quincy score. Billy Brennan ran 13 yards for the TD and Anderson kicked the point.

Brookline averted a shutout late in the game when Joe Canney grabbed a fumble and went 17 yards for a touchdown.

Quincy netted 184 yards rushing to Brookline's 101. The Presidents added 77 yards through the air with five for 12 while Brookline failed to complete one of five, but did receive credit for a nine-yard completion on a pass interference call. Quincy clicked off 16 first downs to nine for the losers.

Hallberg Rolls 393, Hutchinson Leads League

Dick Hallberg, 14-year-old captain of the Joseph E. Brett Club and the MBA state junior singles champion, last week rolled a 393, second highest three-string total in the 23-year history of the Quincy Bowling Little Loop.

Joe Piazza's 401 of last year is the record.

Hallberg has now bowled over 100 for his first 12 strings, 114, 104, 127, 122, 127, 117, 102, 112, 106, 130, 131 and 132. His three-string totals have been 345, 366, 320 and 393.

Hutchinson Oil leads the league one point ahead of four teams tied for second in the tight race. The standings:

Hutchinson, 11-5 [total pinfall of 5204]; Atty. Harold Davis, 10-6 [5288]; Quincy Lodge of Elks, 10-6 [5258]; Hennessy Plumbing Supply, 10-6 [5231]; Wollaston Bowladrome, 10-6 [5205]; James R. McIntyre Club, 9-7 [5318]; Atlantic Fuel Oil, 8-8 [5136]; Montclair Men's Club, 8-8 [4888]; Brett Club, 7-9 [5418]; Granite Lodge 1451, AFL-CIO, 7-9 [5225]; Councillor Paul Harold, 7-9 [5204]; Richard Morrissey Club, 6-10 [5164]; Atty. George Burke, 5-11 [5068]; George F. Bryan VFW Post, 4-12 [5202].

Hallberg felled the weekly high three of 393 and Tom Doherty had high single of 136. Bowladrome rolled high team three of 1411 and Davis Club the high single of 493.

The Top Ten: Hallberg, 118.6; Mike Regan, 113.7; Pete Martin, 104.3; Joe Godas, 102.3; Mike Hatfield, 101.5; Andy Orrock, 98.1; Joe Piazza, 96.7; Paul Anastas, 96.6; Bob Kelliher, 96.2; Joe Crifo and Brian O'Toole, 96.1.

Precocious Youth

Q. I was born on Thursday November 19, 1953 at 9:50 A.M. in Concord, Mass. I was wondering if you could tell me a little about myself? I enjoy reading your column in the paper.

J.P.

A. A horoscope calculated for the time of your birth shows the Sun, Mercury, Venus and Saturn, all in the Sign of the Zodiac Scorpio; the Moon in Taurus; Jupiter in Gemini; Uranus in Cancer; Pluto in Leo; Mars and Neptune in Libra and Capricorn on the Ascendant. These usually indicate a rather precocious youth. One likely to mature earlier than usual in life with a serious attitude and an intense curiosity and desire to learn, know and experience much.

The senses are apt to be keen and fully aware of what is going on in the environment. The powers of observation are sharp and combined with a form of extra-sensory perception makes it possible to accurately evaluate that which is true or false.

The emotions are likely to be very strong so are the desires and both appear to be in need of self-control. There is an ability to think big and plan along progressive and original lines while keeping the whole picture in mind.

Habits and appetites both physical and emotionally, once indulged in, may not be easy to change since the tendency may be to get "into the groove". The best way to avoid an undesirable habit which is likely to prove hard to break is to "nip it in the bud" that is, not to start it in the first place.

On the whole the emotions appear to be very complex. While capable of being intense, there is a possibility at times of also being very cold. You seem to be able to be very much in love and yet, quickly turn love off. A very important lesson that may be needed is to learn how to RELAX. Once having developed this ability you should be able to accomplish a great deal.

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

QHS Band Second In State Championships

The Marching Presidents Band of Quincy High School finished second to Norwood's Mustang Marching Band in competition for the State High School Band halftime championships last week in Lowell.

At first, it was announced that Quincy and South Hadley were tied for second, but correction of a tabulator's error gave Quincy 90.9 points to 87.3 for South Hadley. Norwood had 104.7.

Dr. Jon Nicholson of Belmont, chairman of the event, said the tabulators misplaced a decimal point and deducted 16 points, instead of 1.6 points, from the Quincy score in the inspection marks.

The next event in the state championship series will be the parade competition which will be held in Quincy Nov. 28, in conjunction with the Christmas Parade Festival.

PROPOSAL

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the Norfolk County Commissioners, Superior Court House, Dedham, Massachusetts 02026 for:

Wallpaper and Installation of Wallpaper for the Clerk's Office District Court of East Norfolk.

To be considered, bids must be received by 12:00 noon on Wednesday, Nov. 24, 1976 at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read. Envelopes containing bids must be clearly marked on the outside "Bid for Wallpaper and Installation of Wallpaper for the Clerk's Office District Court of East Norfolk" with the date and hour of the opening. Bids received after the hour named will not be considered.

Details of contract requirements and specifications shall be obtained at the office of the Purchasing Department, Registry of Deeds Building, Room 4, Dedham, Massachusetts. A deposit of twenty-five dollars [$25.00] in the form of a check payable to the Norfolk County Commissioners is required for each set of documents so obtained. The amount of the deposit will be refunded to the bidder.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of at least five per cent [5%] of the bid, payable to the Norfolk County Commissioners. If the bidder whose bid is accepted refuses or neglects to comply with the terms of the proposal, the certified check will be forfeited and become the property of Norfolk County.

The Norfolk County Commissioners reserve the right to accept or reject any or all bids; or to accept any bid of portion thereof deemed by them to be in the best interest of the County.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The City of Quincy, the Awarding Authority, acting through its authorized agent, Vincent R. LoCicero, Commissioner of Public Works, will receive sealed bids for the construction of the additions and alterations to the North Quinch High School [Phases 2 and 3], Quincy, Massachusetts, in accordance with the plans and specifications prepared by Coletti Brothers, Inc., 10 Industrial Park Road, Hingham, Massachusetts 02043.

Bidding procedures shall be in accordance with Chapter 149 of the Massachusetts General Laws, as amended.

Sealed bids for the General Contract will be received by the Awarding Authority at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169, until 12:00 P.M. local time on December 14, 1976, at which time all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Sealed bids for the sub-trades designated in Item 2 of the Form for General Bid, will be received by the Awarding Authority at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169, until 12:00 noon local time on December 7, 1976, at which time all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The General Bidders may obtain two [2] complete sets of plans and specifications and the Filled Sub-Bidders may obtain one [1] complete set of plans and specifications, at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, upon deposit of $100.00 in the form of cash or by check made payable to the City of Quincy for each complete set after 12 o'clock noon on November 15, 1976. Additional sets may be obtained at the cost of reproduction. Copies of the FORM FOR GENERAL BID and FORM FOR SUB-BID are available at no cost at the Department of Public Works. The full amount of deposit will be refunded to all persons returning plans and specifications in good condition within ten [10] days after date of general bid opening.

The Contract Documents may be examined at the office of the Architect, Coletti Brothers, Inc., 10 Industrial Park Road, Hingham, Massachusetts 02043, at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169 and at the office of Dodge Reports.

Every general bid and every sub-bid designated in Item 2 of the FORM FOR GENERAL BID shall be accompanied by cash or a certified check on, or a treasurer's or cashier's check issued by a responsible bank or trust company, payable to the City of Quincy, or a bid bond.

The amounts shall be as follows: For General Bidders.....$50,000. For Filled Sub-Bidders - Refer to Part I, Bidding Requirements, Instructions to Bidders, for specific amounts.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a performance bond and also a labor and materials or payment bond as set forth in the specifications.

Attention is called to the fact that no less than the minimum wage rates as set forth in the schedules contained in the specifications must be paid on this project.

The bidder must agree to commence work within ten [10] days of the execution of a general contract or written notice to proceed, and to substantially complete the project no later than June 2, 1978, for Phase I and July 6, 1979, for Phase III.

The Awarding Authority reserves the right to reject any or all the bids and to waive any informalities in the bidding if it be in the public interest to do so, provided such rejection or waiver be in conformance with Sections 44A, to 44L inclusive of Chapter 149, of the General Laws, as amended.

Chapter 766: A Good Law But . . .

"The biggest problem in this area is the emotionally disturbed youngster. Some of them are so disruptive that they can't be kept in schools. We have to turn more and more to expensive private facilities.

"As they phase out the state schools the responsibility will be ours and the budget will shoot out in proportion. The state says, 'reimbursement', but . . .

"Our dilemma is that there are no existing programs to handle the severely handicapped.

"For instance, we have 17 kids in the program at the South Shore Mental Health Center. Next year, South Shore will not take responsibility for them. And next year we will also have to have programs for 3, 4, and 5-year-olds with special needs.

"It's the money that has everybody nervous.

"Day care school costs run between $4,000 and $6,000. A residential school program costs $8,000 to $15,000 a year.

"And it's difficult to budget responsibly. Five kids with severe special needs moved in this year. We are financially responsible. One of them has an $8,000 tuition. Another has a $12,000 tuition."

Each April and May, every youngster entering kindergarten in Quincy is screened for special needs.

"Last June we screened 800 kids," says Dr. Griffin. "We found 87 that we were concerned about. We were so concerned about seven of them that we did something right away. We'll take another look at the other 80 to see if they really do need something."

Now efforts are being made to seek out the child with special needs even before he or she is enrolled in school.

"In January we advertise for parents who have pre-school children who they think have special needs," says Dr. Griffin. "Then we arrange an evaluation.

"Last year we had 60 parents who brought their kids, ages 3 and 4, in to us. We determined that 12 of the kids had special needs. They are all in classes now at the Squantum School.

The Center for Pre-School Special needs is located at Squantum School. Others are scattered around the city at the Quincy, Hunting, Atherton Hough, Parker, Myles Standish, Snug Harbor, Lincoln-Hancock, Atlantic Junior and Quincy High Schools.

Quincy is also a member of the South Shore Collaborative [with Braintree, Weymouth, Hingham, Hull, Cohasset and Scituate], which attempts to deal with severe special needs on a regional basis. The Collaborative operates a high school in Braintree, to which one Quincy youngster has been assigned.

Terms of Chapter 766 are strict. It requires a 109-page book of regulations to spell out every subtle nuance of the law.

"If teachers or parents feel a child has a special need he or she is sent to a core evaluation team," says Dr. Griffin. "There is one in each of our 29 schools. They are made up of guidance counsellors, principals, nurses, speech therapists, psychologists, classroom teachers and special needs teachers.

"They give a complete evaluation of the child, physically, psychologically and educationally. Then they meet with the parents and work out a program that is typed up as an educational plan. They all sign it. It has the effect of a legal document.

"If we violate anything in it we are open to a law suit."

Colorful Floats, Marching Bands

300,000 Expected To See Christmas Parade Sunday

More than 300,000 people are expected to view the colorful floats, the galaxy of bands and the marching military units Sunday in the annual Quincy Christmas Festival Parade.

A highlight of this year's event will be more than a score of high school marching bands who will be competing for the State High School Parade Marching Band championship.

The parade, sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, will be the climax of a weekend of festivities that includes the Christmas lighting ceremonies on Friday and the arrival of Santa Claus on Saturday.

George C. Fay is chairman of the Festival Committee.

The theme of this year's festival is "Especially for Children" and a colorful array of floats have been organized by Richard Venna, chairman of the Floats Division, to delight both the young and the old.

The Quincy Sons of Italy entry is entitled "Children's Fables"; Braitree Legion Post, "Easter, Halloween and Christmas, Our Big Days"; Head Start group, "Disney on Parade", and Supporters of Survival will move along the route with "The March of the Toy Soldiers".

Other entries in the adult group include; Curtain Call Theatre, North Quincy Knights of Columbus, the Quincy Police Department and the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

The South Shore Campfire Girls, who will be marching in their 10th consecutive Christmas Parade, will feature the "Candy Land Express"; the Milton Rainbow Girls will tell the story of "The Animal Fair".

In addition, the youth class will have floats from the Koch Club, St. John's CYO, the Caravan Club of the Wollaston Nazarene Church and Sir Thomas More Drum and Bugle Corps and the Quincy High School Band.

Commercial firms participating include Montillio's Bakery with a classic "Ginger Bread House"; C.Y. Woodbury's "Poco the Happy Oil Drop"; Child World's "Happy the Rabbit"; C. Walsh movers, will enter a group of antique and Bicentennial trucks. Other floats have been entered by the Boston Gas Co. and Peter's Landing.

The marchers are scheduled to step off promptly at 1 p.m. from the staging area on Beale at Hancock St., Wollaston. The parade will proceed along Hancock St. through downtown Quincy to School St. to disband in the vicinity of St. John's Church.

Hugh Sloan, coordinator of art for the Weymouth Public Schools, has been named to head a three-man panel to judge the floats. Serving with him are Thomas Folan, president of the Milton Art Association, and Harold Hawkes, president of the Braitree Art Association.

The judging will be held at 11 a.m. in the First National Store parking lot at Hancock and Beale Sts. The panel will also take up positions along the line of march to view the participants.

All floats in the Youth and Adult categories will be awarded a $100 prize. The top winners in each of these categories will win $500 plus a trophy. A trophy will also be awarded to the best entry in the Commercial class.

The parade will climax a weekend of festivities heralding the opening of the Yuletide Season.

The Christmas Lighting Ceremony will be held at McIntyre Mall at 6:30 p.m.

Friday, preceded by a dancing march of Disney characters and other children's favorites.

The Hull High School Band will present one of its toe-tapping shows before the ceremonies at which Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia will officially turn on the Yuletide decorations throughout the city. And, of course, Santa Claus will be there to hand out candy to the children.

Santa will officially arrive via helicopter on Saturday. He will land on the roof of the garage at 11:30 a.m. in the Parkingway.

The Quincy High School Alumni Band will serenade his arrival and all the laugh-making characters from fantasyland will be on hand to greet him. Again, he will distribute candy canes to the youngsters.

Christmas Lights To Be Turned On Friday

Downtown Quincy will be all lit up for the Christmas season, starting at 7:30 p.m., Friday.

That's the time designated for the start of the official "Turning on the Lights" ceremony in McIntyre Mall.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia will do the honors, flipping the switch that will light up Yule decorations throughout the city.

The Hull High School Band will entertain the many visitors who are expected for the ceremonies at 6:30 p.m.

Candy will be distributed to the youngsters by Santa Claus ...

unofficially, of course, since the old gentleman is not scheduled to arrive officially until Saturday. Disneyland characters will also be on hand for the young folks.

Quincy YMCA's New Women's Salon A Big Hit

The new Quincy YMCA Women's Salon has enrolled more than 400 new members since opening Sept. 7.

Use of the salon is available six days a week from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. There are two plush, carpeted and air-conditioned floors housing everything needed to make the body beautiful: a swimming pool, a sauna, a whirlpool, plus complete exercise equipment. There's also a sparkling new locker room with shower.

Women members are given special attention. One of the professionally trained consultants gives a figure analysis and teaches a personal repertoire of exercises, then measures results periodically, marking progress over the year-long program.

Also available under a salon membership are swimming lessons, coed and women's swims, slimnastics, volleyball, tennis and others.

CONDITIONING ROOM of the Quincy YMCA Women's Salon has all the latest equipment to help make the body beautiful.

MUSCLE TONING is demonstrated by, from the left, Kristina Davis and Carol Chaffee, fitness salon specialists and Vi McDonald.

REDKEN

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

Bathroom Electrocution

An estimated 120,000 injuries and more than 200 deaths occur every year in the bathroom area. Many of these deaths are caused by electric shock. Water and electricity can be a fatal combination and if there is any room where that combination will be found, it is in the family bathroom. Here's some tips:

Never plug a radio in where it could fall into a tub or sink [battery models are safe]. The same goes for a record player, hair dryer or any other appliance.

Even if you're not taking a bath or shower, be cautious with electricity. Don't touch any electrical fixture or appliance with wet hands or while you're standing on a damp floor. Get into the habit of being one-handed. Avoid touching an appliance with one hand while you turn on a faucet with the other.

Another safety tip: When you disconnect an electric shaver or other appliance, remove the cord from the wall outlet, not from the appliance. If it is left dangling, it can become lethal if dropped or knocked into a sink filled with water.

SUNBEAMS

A Street Named Chestnut

By HENRY BOSWORTH

This is Thanksgiving time -- a time to be thankful for all the good things in life.

Peace, good health, strong friendships, a dry martini on a cold day, a few other luxuries, etc.

But I just can't help it. I know I'm going to spoil this holiday mood, but I've just got to say it: It's so ridiculous, it's stupid.

I mean Chestnut St. off Quincy Sq.

I suppose it was named for chestnut trees that once gracefully lined it when horses and carriages traveled it back in the good old days.

But I think, considering the present situation there, the time has come to change the name to a modern, more meaningful one. While, of course, keeping a link to the nostalgic past.

This could be done easily -- and economically, so it won't affect the tax rate -- by keeping the same street sign and merely painting out the "Chest" so that it becomes "Nut St."

What more appropriate name than that? If there was ever a nuttier street this side of Boston, this is it.

You'd have to go a long way to find a street with signs boldly proclaiming "No Parking Anytime" that really mean: "Go Ahead and Park All You Want. Nobody Really Gives A Damn."

Sandwiched between those signs a good half a football field length stretching from the Strand Theater to Quincy District Court are cars, cars and more cars. Usually the same cars owned by the privileged characters, who do what the hell they please and get away with it.

You'd have a better chance of finding a $100 bill on the sidewalk than a parking violation tag on any of these windshields.

Oh, I've mentioned this before. And, I thought someone might do something about it. But I might just as well have been chatting with the folks in Hancock Cemetery.

With two lines of traffic, those illegally parked cars cause all kinds of congestion and steamed tempers in all-day fender-fencing matches.

The only guy I know of who could get through there without a problem is Evil Kenevil. Providing he could get a running start down in Quincy Point so that by the time he hit Nut St. he could clear 30 or 40 cars stretched between signs that proclaim "No Parking Anytime."

Nut St. -- it has a nice ring to it.

FAMILY AFFAIR: At age 47, Gerry Coletta, of Gardiner Rd., West Quincy, chief executive assistant to Dist. Atty. William Delahunt, is finishing up college after a few interruptions.

He is working toward a B.S. degree in administration of criminal justice at U-Mass, Boston. And in one of his classes [science for humane survival] is his 20-year-old son, Gerry, Jr. better known as Chip. The latter is majoring in business administration.

Chip has been taking a little ribbing lately. He and his father have had two course examinations so far and Gerry has topped him in both.

Gerry plans to seek his master's degree in criminal justice at Franconia College, N.H., in January.

But U-Mass is dear to the hearts of the Coletta family. Gerry's daughter, Kathleen, 22, is a U-Mass. Amherst grad and daughter Maureen, 21, is now a senior there.

RIVALRIES SUCH AS the Hatfields and McCoys and even the North and South during the Civil War never stopped Dan Cupid in the romance department.

And the Quincy-North Thanksgiving Day game Thursday isn't about to stop him either.

Rhonda Zoia, daughter of former Raider great, Pete Zoia, is the head cheerleader for North Quincy.

And, her boy friend is: Mark Buchanan, Quincy's outstanding runner and leading scorer.

SPEAKING OF THE Thanksgiving Day classic, opposing coaches Hank Conroy and Dave Burke probably have a few gimmicks up their respective sleeves. But here's a tip: the Quincy cheerleaders have an aerial surprise of their own to spring.

IF YOU WANT to feel out of place, just wear a tuxedo to an informal christening.

That's what Mayor LaRaia did last week when he played godfather to his nephew, Robert Lord, at St. John's Church. Robert is the son of Mrs. Denise Lord, who used to be the Mayor's secretary.

He was wearing the tuxedo because he was on his way to a celebration of the fifth anniversary of the opening of the Sons of Italy Social Center in West Quincy.

SIGN ON DOOR of Celtic Liquor Store, Quincy Ave: "Be 18 Or Be Gone".

BUMPER STICKER: "Remember when air was clean and sex was dirty?"

The famous painting of George Washington crossing the Delaware was done in Dusseldorf, Germany, with the Rhine as a model and shows the wrong flag and the wrong boats.

Tobin Proposes Blue Ribbon Committee To Determine Community College Future

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, who is also a state senator, has asked that a Blue Ribbon committee be established to determine the future of the proposed South Shore Community College.

Tobin, who made the request to Quincy Junior College President Dr. Edward Pierce, said he was moved to ask for the committee in the wake of a statement attributed to School Committeeman Charles Sweeney that state takeover of QJC is not needed.

"Although I consider Charlie a good friend and one who speaks my mind, which I sincerely respect," said Tobin, "I have to wonder whether I am batting my head against the wall both on the state and local level of government."

"Since Charlie is a distinguished member of the School Committee and since Quincy Junior College comes under the jurisdiction of the School Committee, I am hereby requesting, through you, that a meeting of the trustees of the Junior College be called forthwith and a Blue Ribbon Committee be established to determine the future course of action concerning the proposed South Shore Community College.

"It is my intention to request a meeting with the Governor to discuss the status of the Junior College and I would like to have the following people polled as to where they stand relative to the state takeover of the Junior College:

"The Board of Trustees, the faculty and the President of Quincy Junior College, the School Committee and the Superintendent of Schools of Quincy and any others you may determine should have input so that I may have a sense of direction when I meet with the Governor."

THE READER SPEAKS OUT

Cites Sun Tribute To Mary Johnson

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Once again, you have demonstrated your tender feelings for people when you shook off the multifarious problems of the day and wrote such a stirring eulogy of the passing of Quincy's Mary Johnson of WIDA in your popular Sunbeams column.

In the opinion of this writer, it was a masterpiece and one of the best of your contributions, including the saga of the Dalton family, your tribute to sports figures, and the night of Jack Kennedy's election when you were at the Kennedy compound in Hyannis.

I was privileged to know Mary, a very special person, cheery, efficient, with an appealing voice. She was an example of courage and the yankee spirit of stoicism which she greatly possessed. It was a devastating blow to realize that her voice is stilled forever. She leaves an indelible mark and will be greatly missed.

Your article reaffirms your enormous solicitation and warm feelings for Quincy citizenry. This one had star quality. It evoked many favorable comments for its poignancy and facility in which you chronicled the intimate details and will help her many friends preserve her memory.

By all standards of journalistic criteria, your articulate story was a gem. The consensus of opinion via curbstome chatter is the hope that the Sun will become a daily. Our great city could use a daily paper like The Sun which covers so much about the City of Presidents and has become such a household word.

Plaudits to you.

Numbers Game Receipts Being Returned

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

A myth that the numbers game receipts are not being returned to cities and towns continues to persist in Massachusetts.

This blatant disregard of the facts has been fueled by House Minority Leader Frank Hatch, who is using the issue for political purposes.

The fact is that all of the numbers receipts are being returned to the cities and towns.

Confusion has arisen because the money is going to local communities through the Chapter 70 formula [aid to education], rather than directly from the Lottery.

We do favor a return to the lottery formula next year, but

Thanksgiving Dinner For Family Of Five: $7.66

By TOM HENSHAW

It was demonstrated how a Quincy family of five could enjoy a sumptuous Thanksgiving dinner at a cost of only $7.66.

Turkey, 8 pounds at 58 cents a pound	$ 4.64
Potatoes, half a peck	.10
Squash, 5 pounds	.30
Mixed nuts, 2 pounds	.58
Cranberries, 1 pound	.20
Turnips, 3 pounds	.15
Oranges, 1 dozen	.39
Apples, 1 dozen	.30
Figs and dates	.35
Grapes, 1 pound	.10
Stuffing	.10
Cider, 1 gallon	.45

And if you wanted bread with your meal it was 9 cents a loaf at the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. stores, where popular brands of cigarettes were selling at two packs for 25 cents or $1.19 a carton.

NEIGHBORHOODS UNITED

A dozen civic and community organizations announced plans to unite in a Federation of Improvement Associations in an attempt to eliminate sectional jealousies throughout the city.

The organizations were the Improvement Associations from Atlantic, Montclair, Squantum, Wollaston, Adams Community, Germantown, Post Island, Ward 2, Ward 4, Adams Shore, Merry Mount and Rock Island.

A committee composed of William K. Embleton, Charles H. Dey, William A. Clarke, Richard Praetsch, A. Russell Gomez and Arthur W. Skinner was considering quarterly "town meetings" to discuss matters of interest.

TROJANS WIN TITLE

The Trojans won the city semi-pro football title on Thanksgiving Day by whipping the Wanderers, 7-6, when substitute tackle Ebby Collagan intercepted a pass and ran 45 yards for a third period touchdown before a crowd of 5,000.

Capt. Herb Listman scored the Wanderers' touchdown on a one-yard plunge and won a free ride in an airplane from Dennison Airport sponsored by Paul Mayo, the noted Quincy Square barber. The starting lineups included:

Trojans: Gub Anderson, Bill Kemmitt, ends; Sid Anderson, Russ Bradley, tackles; Jim Nee, Zip Duane, guards; Barry Sullivan, center; Capt. John Walsh, Joe Connolly, Tom [Bub] Walsh, Dick Woodworth, backs.

Pullout Section Starts Page 15

'Happy Thanksgiving' Young Ideas Theme

"Happy Thanksgiving" says Young Ideas from our feature class, Mrs. Karen Greenberg's first and second graders from Adams School. The four-page pullout section starts on Page 15.

Seventeen of the children each took a different letter of a "Happy Thanksgiving" greeting and drew a self-portrait holding the letter.

Several of the children tell us what they are thankful for this Thanksgiving. Their answers include the Thanksgiving

Turkey, the Pilgrims for starting Thanksgiving, church, their families and their friends.

Robbie Romeri, 6, sums it all up. "I'm just thankful for myself. I like myself," he says.

The Thanksgiving issue sponsored by the Quincy Public Schools also includes a simple picture essay of the first Thanksgiving by the first and second graders, and Mike Demion's, 6, grandmother's recipe for pumpkin pie which the children were cooking.

Assistant editors for this issue are Thomas Dunn, a sophomore, and Linda Trubiano, a junior from North Quincy High. These two students helped gather material in the classroom.

Linda's reaction to her classroom work was: "You sure can learn a lot from little kids if you really listen to them."

$720,000 Improvements At Nut Island Treatment Plant

About $720,000 worth of work is either in progress or has just been completed at the Nut Island Sewerage Treatment Plant and an additional $285,000 worth is about to begin, the MDC reported.

The information was contained in the first of a series of monthly reports to be made by MDC Commissioner John F. Snedeker to the people of Houghs Neck at the suggestion of Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy].

Snedeker said the work includes repairs to the engine generators, pumps, heat exchangers, cleaning of the digestors and a replacement of necessary chains, sprockets and scraper flights in the sedimentation tanks.

"All of this work will improve the operation of the plant and thus help alleviate pollution problems in our harbor," said Snedeker.

"In future reports I will keep you informed of specific work that is being done and how it relates to the overall plant operation."

Beechwood Knoll Pupils In Special Thanksgiving Projects

Youngsters from Mrs. Andrea Goodman's second and third grades and Miss Christine LaCoste's fifth grade at Beechwood Knoll School recently joined forces in a Thanksgiving project involving the Pilgrims.

The second and third graders built Pilgrim houses, made a paper-mache Plymouth Rock, constructed Indian homes and generally spent their time getting the feeling of being Pilgrims.

The fifth graders did such projects as Indian reports, outlining the Pilgrims' journeys, and designing and painting a filmstrip of 31 scenes of the Pilgrims en route to the first Thanksgiving dinner.

They also created their own book of Pilgrim information which was passed out to the rest of the school.

The youngsters cooked a complete Thanksgiving dinner, including such delicacies as homemade bread, applesauce, baked beans, pickles, cornbread, turkey, stuffing, carrots and squash.

The whole project was climaxed by a day trip to Pimoth Plantation and the Mayflower on Monday [Nov. 22].

Mrs. Greenberg's First and Second Graders at Adams School

Editor, Cathy Conley

A NEWSPAPER BY AND FOR THE CHILDREN OF QUINCY

HAPPY THANKSGIVING
from Mrs. Greenberg's first and second graders at Adams School. Each child in the class took a different letter in our Thanksgiving greeting and drew a self-portrait holding the letter. These are our artists.

What Are You Thankful

I'm thankful for the turkey. And for my Grammy and Grandfather who are coming to visit this Thanksgiving. I love them.

Angela Scalisi, 6

I'm thankful for myself. I like myself. I like how I feel and what I do. Best of all, I like playing with my baby brother. I'll cut up his turkey for him on Thanksgiving.

Robbie Romeri, 6

I'm thankful for our new president. I hope he'll help the people in our country who are having trouble. I'd like him to come to Adams School too sometimes.

Peter Strolis, 7

I'm thankful that they started our country Thanksgiving.

Mike's Grandmother's Recipe

For

Pumpkin Pie

Maria Aqualina, 6, [left] Mike Hemion, 6, and Beth Manning, 6, are baking a pumpkin pie for Thanksgiving. It's Mike's grandmother's recipe. Different children in the class brought different ingredients. When the pie is done, Mrs. Greenberg's class will share it with some other classes in Adams School. Here is the recipe.

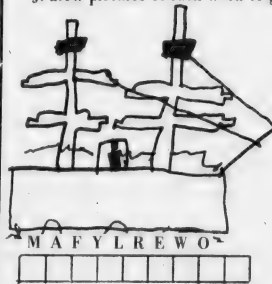

You'll need:

- 1 uncooked 9" pie crust
- 2 cups cooked pumpkin
- 3/4 cups sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 1 1/2 cups evaporated milk

Mix the filling ingredients in the order given. Pour this into the uncooked pie crust. Bake in a 425 degree oven for 15 minutes, then lower the temperature to 350 degrees and cook for 45 minutes.

P.J.'s Word Smcraeble. (Oops!)

Assistant editor Tommy Dunn helped P. J. Curley, 7, scramble the letters of several Thanksgiving words. Can you unscramble them? P. J. drew pictures of each word to give you a hint.

Our Assistant Editors -- Tommy and Linda

Tommy Dunn, a sophomore, and Linda Trubiano, a junior from North Quincy High School are the assistant editors of this issue of Young Ideas. They helped interview the children and gather and edit material. Above Tommy helps P. J. Curley do a word scramble. Below Linda Trubiano helps Kevin McDonnell, 7, hide Thanksgiving words in a block of letters. "It's surprising what you can learn from little kids," was Linda's reaction to helping with this issue. "These kids are fantastic," Tommy Dunn said about the first and second graders. "You could see how proud they were of their work by the expressions on their faces," Tommy added.

The First Thanksgiving

In 1620, the Pilgrims left England because they could not worship the way they wanted.

Michele Stracco, 6

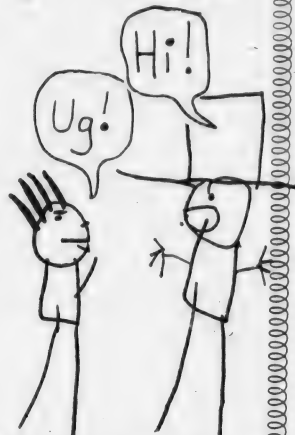

They sailed across the Atlantic Ocean to Cape Cod.

Michael Derbes, 7

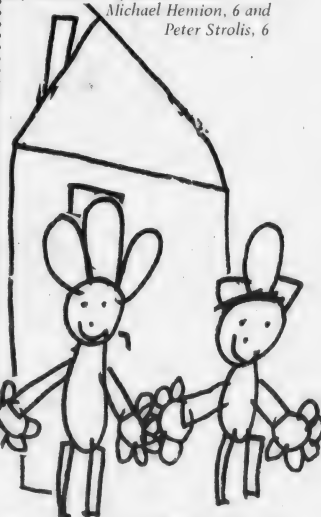

They landed at Plymouth Rock.

Michael Hemion, 6 and
Peter Strolis, 6

They made friends with the Indians especially Squanto, the chief.

P. J. Curley,

The Indians helped the Pilgrims build houses and plant corn.

Robbie Romero, 6

The Indians and the Pilgrims had a big feast.

Mike Sopp, 7

The feast was so they could give thanks for the food for meeting each other. It was the first Thanksgiving.

City Getting Flood Control Bargain

Quincy is getting a financial break in the federally funded flood control work that is about to begin on the Hayward Creek watershed that is shared with Braintree.

The city was originally supposed to pay 35 per cent on all the work that cost more than $2 million.

Recently the cutoff figure was raised to $3 million.

And when the contract was finally bid, the total turned out to be $2.4 million.

"So the city is free of any financial obligation," said Mayor LaRaia.

HN Residents Receive Over $500,000 In Development Program

Loans and grants to Houghs Neck residents under the federally funded Community Development Program have topped the $500,000 mark for this year, Mayor LaRaia announced.

More than $84,000 awarded last month brought the total to $532,000 that has been parcelled out in grants to needy cases and in low interest loans to others who wish to rehabilitate their homes.

Thanksgiving Harvest Liturgy, Ecumenical, Inter-Church Services

By POLLY DREDGE

St. John's Church, Quincy Center, will hold a special Thanksgiving Harvest Liturgy, Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the upper church.

Main celebrant of the con-celebrated mass will be Rev. David F. Delaney. Rev. Joseph Byrne will deliver the homily.

Musical selections in accordance with the Thanksgiving season and patriotic hymns will be performed by the 30-member adult choir, the young adult folk group, and guest instrumentalists on the trumpet and timpani drums.

Representatives of the parish will carry fruits of the harvest to the altar during the offertory procession.

The liturgy was planned by the spiritual development committee.

St. Joseph's Church and Quincy Point Congregational Church will hold a joint ecumenical Thanksgiving service tonight (Tuesday) at 8 p.m. in St. Joseph's Church. Rev. Dr. Frederick M. Meek, interim pastor of Quincy Point Congregational Church will preach.

The seven churches of the inter-church council will meet at the First Church of Squantum Wednesday, Nov. 24, at 7:30 p.m. Clergy and lay people from each church will participate in the service. Speaker will be Rev. W. E. McCumber of the Church of the Nazarene.

Dr. Theodore Romberg will deliver his sermon, "A Thoughtful Thanksgiving," at the tri-church Thanksgiving eve service to be held at Wollaston Congregational Church, Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Scriptural Readings, Testimonials At Christian Science Service

Thanksgiving Day services at Churches of Christ, Scientist, Thursday, will include Scriptural readings and testimonials.

As is traditional at these services, Bible examples of lives uplifted and healed through obedience to God, will be emphasized.

The morning's readings will include:

From II Corinthians: "God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work."

From the textbook of Christian Science, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "What we most need is the prayer of fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love, and good deeds."

The service at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 20 Greenleaf

St., Quincy begins at 10 a.m. and will include the Thanksgiving proclamation of President Gerald R. Ford.

First Reader, William B. Ellington and Second Reader, Miss Barbara Beck will conduct the worship service, which also includes testimonies by Christian Scientists appropriate for the occasion. All members of the community are welcome to attend. Child Care is provided.

Ecumenical Thanksgiving Eve Service At St. Boniface

An ecumenical Thanksgiving Eve service will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at St. Boniface Roman Catholic Church, Germantown.

Other churches of the area participating will be:

Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church, Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church, Houghs Neck Congregational Church, and Adams Shore Community United Methodist Church.

Clergy and lay persons of the churches will take part. Anthems will be sung by a united youth chorus. The service will be followed by an informal time of fellowship with refreshments provided by the St. Boniface church women. The public is invited to attend.

Guam Missionary To Speak At Glad Tidings Church

James Smith, a missionary to Guam, will speak at Glad Tidings Church Sunday at 7 p.m. as the third guest of the World Mission Convention being held each week at the church.

native of Guam.

The fourth and final speaker of the convention will be Juan Romero, a missionary to the West Indies. Romero, who conducted a Sunday School Congress in Mexico last May will speak Wednesday, Dec. 1, at 7:30 p.m.

He will be accompanied by Allen Hipiliot, a 19-year-old

THE POWER OF GRATITUDE

There's always a lot to be thankful for. And as you accept the good that comes to you each day from God, you become ready to receive more of His goodness.

Being grateful is so important, it's part of our church activity. People share their gratitude in testimonies of healing, and tell what they're learning about God's care for them. We'd love to have you join us this week.

Service Committee Associate Director

To Speak At First Parish

Warren Salinger, Associate Director, development, of the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee, a private, non-profit organization for social service and change, will speak at, United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq., Sunday, at 10:45 A.M.

This program is sponsored by the Social Concerns Committee of the church.

Boston-based, the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee is particularly involved in reform of the administration of justice nationally and maintains offices in Washington, D.C. and San Francisco to coordinate justice projects in local communities.

Internationally, the Service Committee works in education in Tanzania, irrigation in Peru, and group dynamics for social change in El Salvador and Guatemala. Bridging both domestic and international efforts, the Service Committee currently emphasizes the impact of U.S. energy and food consumption and policies on the world famine conditions and has a tradition of protection of civil liberties.

A German Jewish refugee at the age of seven, Salinger learned early that social justice requires each individual's participation, and has said so in his talks and travels around the country since 1968 when he joined the U.U.S.C.

Previously he was in retail management in the Washington, D.C. area for 14 years, where he was chairman of the Greater Washington, D.C. Association of Unitarian Universalist Churches and board chairman and treasurer of the Paint Branch Unitarian Church.

He holds a bachelor of arts degree in political science from Goddard College and served four years in U.S. Air Force Intelligence in Germany. He lives in Marlboro, Massachusetts, where he is a member of the city's School Committee. He and his wife, Martha, have four children.

St. John's Parish Plans

Meeting Regarding New Pastor

A parish consultation meeting will be held in St. John's upper church on Wednesday, Dec. 1, at 7:30 p.m.

It is the present policy of the archdiocese of Boston for the Regional Bishop, representing the Cardinal, the episcopal vicar of the vicariate and the personnel board of the archdiocese to meet with members of a parish whenever an appointment of a new Pastor is imminent.

Purpose of the meeting is to review the profile of the parish and afford parishioners an opportunity to express themselves on any matters concerning the parish and its future.

Most Rev. Daniel A. Hart, D.D., recently named Bishop of the Southern Region of the Archdiocese, will be present, as well as Rev. Cornelius Heery, Episcopal Vicar of the Quincy Vicariate.

The Priests of the parish encourage and urge all parishioners to take an active interest and concern in our parish and its future by being present at this very important meeting.

Rev. John J. Tierney, pastor of St. John's since 1972, resigned earlier this month. He will continue serving as a priest at Our Lady of Good Voyage in Gloucester.

Beth Israel Brotherhood

'Breakfast With JDA' Sunday

Beth Israel Brotherhood will have "Breakfast with WJDA"

Sunday morning at Beth Israel Synagogue, Grafton St., Quincy Point.

Rabbi Jacob Mann will conduct the worship service at 8:30 a.m. Breakfast will be at 9:30 a.m.

WJDA personnel will include Herb Fontaine, news editor and emcee; James D. Asher, president, Kenneth P. Fallon, Jr., vice president and sports announcer; Win Bettenson, program director and host of "Party Line," Jerry Howard, staff announcer and voice of Slim Pickens; Gene Dubrow, newsmen.

What's A Funeral All About?

It's about someone who lived among friends and relatives. Someone who has made impressions on other people. Someone who will be remembered by them.

In short, a funeral is about a human being.

Quincy Included In Cushing Hall $100,000 Appeal

Michael Welch, administrative assistant for program development at Cushing Hall in Scituate, has been named to head the 1976 Cushing Hall Christmas Appeal for Children.

Traditionally, the Christmas campaign has been conducted in the Scituate area, says the Rev. John T. Atwater, executive director, but this year the need for funding is so acute that it has been extended to the whole South Shore, including Quincy.

This year's goal is $100,000.

The funds collected are used to improve services and develop additional programs to assist in the care and treatment of children with learning disabilities. Repairs to the physical plant also are on the list.

The appeal, started in 1945 when Cushing Hall was founded as the Catholic Boys' Guidance Center in Boston, will get underway on Thanksgiving Day.

Pvt. Robert Kenney On Duty In Okinawa

Marine Private Robert J. Kenney, son of Mrs. Joan M. Berlandi of 7 Shore Ave., Merrymount, has reported for duty with the 3rd Marine Division on Okinawa.

A former student of Quincy High School, he joined the Marine Corps in March 1976.

Chopping Block Opens With 'Cuts For Charity Day'

It was a busy Monday at the John Dellaria Chopping Block at 1459 Hancock St.

For one thing, it was the grand opening of the newest haircutting emporium in downtown Quincy.

For another, it was "Cuts for Charity Day" with a staff of 25 haircutters clipping away for nine hours straight to raise money for the Cerebral Palsy Foundation of the South Shore.

Anyone having a haircut that day donated the fee to CP, the minimum donation $10.50 and the maximum $17.50 with the choice up to the cut-tee between the hours of 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

The Chopping Block also featured a display of woodcraft created by people who are afflicted with CP.

The regular staff of the Chopping Block was augmented for the day by a team called the Artistic Group that travels all over the country with John Dellaria, who is a nationally acclaimed haircutter.

Real Estate Vs. Dow Jones

When we compare the results over the past decade between stock market profits and real estate increases, we'll see quite a dramatic difference in dollars.

In the decade from January 1960, to January 1970, the Dow Jones Industrial average jumped from 688 to 800 - an increase of 16 percent in ten years. During the same ten-year period, the average home price increased from $18,307 to $27,022 - an appreciation of 48 percent or triple the Dow.

By March, 1976, the Dow Jones average jumped to the 1,000 level for a 15-year appreciation of 45% while home prices continued to increase faster than the cost of living to $36,800 - up 100% since 1960.

No matter how you slice the cake, an investment in real estate over the past decade had proven to at least double the stock market increase. And the trend is widening in favor of real estate.

Quincy Cycle To Hold Grand Opening For New Building

Quincy Cycle Inc. will hold a grand opening of its new building in President's Plaza, 227 Quincy Ave., this weekend [Nov. 26 and 27], climaxing the saga of one of the fastest growing enterprises in New England.

Quincy Cycle opened its doors in 1972 in a relatively small shop in President's Plaza. Within a year, business had expanded so rapidly that the 1,800 square foot shop was no longer adequate to handle it.

The shop expanded two-fold in February, 1973, becoming one of the largest and most respected bicycle dealers in New England, representing 38 different manufacturers of bicycles by 1975.

When new state laws governing motorized bicycles took effect last July, Quincy Cycle became a dealer in mopeds, earning in two short months a place as the highest volume dealer in Massachusetts for Batavus, a leading European vehicle.

The new building in Presidents Plaza, designed and built by Christie Construction Co. of Quincy, boasts more than 6,000 square feet.

Nearly 300 bicycles of all makes and models in every price range are displayed in a panorama of color in the spacious and well-lit showroom.

Coffee and cake will be served during the official grand opening Friday and Saturday and there will be a free raffle with a bicycle as a prize.

12,000 Expected For 10 A.M. Kickoff

Raiders Favored To Win Turkey Day Classic

NORTH

By TOM SULLIVAN

There is no Super Bowl or Suburban League championship at stake this year but North Quincy's football team, enjoying another fine season (6-2), hopes to repeat last year's win when it meets Quincy in the annual classic on Thursday.

Kickoff time is 10 a.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Dave Burke's Raiders suffered one of their most frustrating defeats a few weeks ago at the hands of undefeated Newton North's Suburban League champs but still had hopes of another Super Bowl berth when they went to Brockton for their last game.

However, Brockton, which handed North its lone setback a year ago, ended the Raiders' bowl hopes with a 14-6 win.

"The boys rebounded strongly after their loss to Newton and I hope they will do the same after losing to Brockton," Burke said. "A win over Quincy will make them forget the two losses."

North must rate as a slight favorite but, as Burke said, "The unusual can and usually does happen in this series. Many times, as you know, the team given little or no chance, has come up with a shocking upset. Anything can happen."

Burke said North will not make many changes but admitted that Tom Fitzgerald, offensive coach, will throw in a few new plays.

"Tom put in a few new plays during the year which paid off and we hope to use a few new ones against Quincy," Dave said.

Burke will start an offensive line of Keith Lindberg and Jim Frye, ends; Jim Marinelli and Harry Knudsen, tackles; Russ Chisholm and Dan Butts, guards, and Tom Nee, center.

In the backfield will be quarterback Brian Donaghey, halfbacks Mike Adams and George Wallace and fullback Bill McIntyre.

Adams was sidelined with an injury for a few games and, although he is expected back at full strength, he will alternate with junior John Wilkinson, who filled in capably while Adams was sidelined.

Quarterback Dennis Doherty and lineman Dave Camrond also are expected to see action on offense.

The starting defense, which has been outstanding all season, will include Steve Bonoli, Mark Nagle, Paul Corliss, John Ryan, Mark Wentzell, Chris Kennedy, Steve Bell, Jim Hanrahan, Mike Nolan, Kevin Doyle and Ed McLaney.

Several players have alternated in the secondary and Steve Sheehan and Art Bertoni, if not starting, will see a good deal of action.

McLaney missed the Brockton game because of an injury and his time on defense will probably be cut on the holiday. The injury also could hamper his punting and place kicking.

MAPPING STRATEGY—North Quincy Coach Dave Burke goes over a play for the big game with Tri-Capt. Mike Adams, left, and Steve Bell. Tri-Capt. John Ryan is missing from photo.

3 North Coaches Former Raiders

Three of North Quincy's coaches are former Raider heads themselves.

Head Coach Dave Burke was an outstanding North back in 1943, '44 and '45 and in the '44 and '45 games sparked the Raiders to wins over Quincy.

Tom Fitzgerald was an all-scholastic center for North in 1941 and 1942, captaining the squad in his last year.

Ken McPhee played at North as a guard in 1965 and '66.

Ted Sadowski, who is in his 19th year as a North assistant, graduated from Boston English. He has coached the junior varsity and sophomores during most of his 19 years and is also the head scout.

Jack Raymer, who is in his first year as a North aide, having succeeded Dick Meyer, a former Raider who resigned last year, is a former Quincy player, playing for the Presidents in 1968 as a lineman.

Encore For Game Officials

All of the officials for the holiday game are the same as a year ago.

Referee Joe Berman of Hull, Umpire John Krikorian of Brockton, Field Judge Al Benson of North Reading and Head Linesman Edgar Stowell of Bedford have handled the game for seven years.

Edgar Pidgeon will be the clock operator for the second straight year, having replaced LeRoy [Curley] Rogers, who retired last year after many years on the job.

A .500 season and the return of the city championship it won two years ago are the aims of the Quincy football team in Thursday's 44th clash with North Quincy at 10 a.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Hank Conroy's Presidents, who forced the favored Raiders into overtime last year in the pouring rain, enter the game with a 4-5 record and in their last game with Brookline turned in by far their best two-way performance of the season.

"I hope we put everything together as we did in that game," said Conroy. "The defense has been strong all year but the offensive line had by far its best day against Brookline."

Quincy will be without two players who loomed as key men this year. Senior, Wayne French, who was sharing the running load with Mark Buchanan, underwent knee surgery several weeks ago, while junior Mark Giordani, a defensive regular and an excellent quarterback on offense, was also sidelined for the season a number of weeks ago. Giordani's loss weakened the Presidents' secondary.

Conroy plans no changes in his attack. "I can't see putting any new plays in, it would only be confusing," he said.

Buchanan could win the Suburban League scoring title. He leads the league with 66 points following a three-

Picot, McElaney Among League's Top Punters

Thursday's game will match two of the finest punters in the Suburban League.

Quincy junior Len Picot and North senior Ed McElaney did some outstanding punting throughout the season. A year ago both did well in the pouring rain on Thanksgiving.

McElaney, however, will not be at full strength and his kicking, both punting and place kicking, could be impaired because of an injury.

Picot also plays fullback on offense and is a fine defensive player.

touchdown performance against Brookline.

Quincy's starting offensive line, including four juniors, will have Rich Coose and Mike Farrell, ends; Dave Eastwick and Mike Duggan, tackles; Wayne Gardiner and Pete Cassidy, guards, and Jim Constat, center. Coose, Eastwick, Cassidy and Duggan are the juniors.

In the backfield will be Rick Walter at quarterback, Buchanan and Billy Brennan, halfbacks, and Len Picot at fullback.

Among others seeing service on offense will be end Paul Vallatini, center Kevin Boudreau, end Ron Donovan, returning after missing several games with an injury, and back Tom Dedian.

Slated to start on defense are Sal Coscia, Eastwick, Tom Conine, Dave Shields, Coose, Larry Calley, Picot, Pat Gibbons, Don Heath, Bob Pettinelli and Rich Gilbody.

Also playing on defense will be Mickey Thorley, Jim Maze, Mark Merlis and Ron Moore.

North Sophs Hold Off Quincy

Last Saturday's annual Quincy-North Quincy sophomore football game was one of the most exciting in years with North holding off a furious Quincy charge to win, 24-18, before a good crowd at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

When Ted Sadowski's young Raiders took a 24-6 lead early in the final period it appeared to be all over.

However, Pete Chella's young Presidents came roaring back with two touchdowns and had to more golden opportunities late in the game, but North's defense rose up and held when it had to.

North took to the air for its first touchdown in the opening period. Kevin Cobban hit John O'Leary for 25 yards and Tom Quinn for 20 and hit Quinn again from the seven for the TD.

In the second quarter North's Frank Strauss recovered a Quincy fumble on the North 36 and the Raiders went on to make it 12-0 on John Conley's touchdown from the three.

A recovered North fumble on the North 35 set up Quincy's first score in third period with Peter Griffin taking a pincushion and racing around right end from the 10.

Most of the action took place in the final period with each team scoring two touchdowns.

North made it 18-6 early in the period with Conley scoring from the one-foot line after John Hernon had recovered a fumble on Quincy's 13.

The Raiders soon made it 24-6 when Quinn galloped 54 yards for his second touchdown.

Then came the fun. Dean Prescott passed to Bunky Hart, who was apparently stopped on the 50 but broke away and went all the way completing a 60-yard touchdown play and it was quickly 24-12.

Quincy's Steve Cacciatore recovered another of the numerous fumbles on North's 37 and another pass from Prescott to Harte ate up 24 yards and the final touchdown.

But there was plenty more excitement as Quincy's Griffin recovered as onside kick but the Raiders held.

Soon after, Quincy's Ralph Pickering recovered another fumble on North's 36 but again the Raiders held and ran out the clock.

4 Of Quincy's Coaches Played For Presidents

Four of Quincy's five coaches formerly played for the Presidents.

Head Coach Hank Conroy was an all-scholastic back and captain in his senior year. In 1941 and '42 he paced Quincy to wins over North.

John Bogan was an outstanding guard in 1958, '59 and '60 and was captain in his senior year.

Pete Chella, who succeeded Dave Burke last year, excelled as a lineman in 1961 and '62. He coaches the sophomores and does the scouting.

Bill Mayer, who took over this fall for John Skladany, was an exceptional Quincy end in 1969 and '70.

Although the other coach, Mark Conroy, is an 'outsider' as far as his alma mater is concerned, he is Hank's son and helps make up one of the few father-son coaching combinations in school circles. He was a standout back at Scituate High.

Buchanan Quincy's Top Scorer, McIntyre Leads Raiders

Quincy's Mark Buchana is by far the leading scorer in Thursday's game.

The hard-running halfback has .66 points with 11 touchdowns and has been a workhorse for the Presidents.

North's scoring has been well-balanced with Bill McIntyre leading the pack with 24 points.

12,000 Turnout Expected

With good weather, Thursday's crowd should again approach the 12,000-mark.

A year ago, despite a drenching rain throughout the game, an estimated 10,000 watched North's overtime win.

The record crowd of 18,003 in 1946 is a cinch to remain untouched. Many estimate that crowd was actually near 25,000, counting the many watching from the walls and trees and those who lined the MBTA bus garage yard.

No Special Gate For Reserved Ticket Holders

There will be no special gate this year for reserved seat ticket holders for the Thanksgiving Day game.

According to Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone, reserved ticket holders can enter at any gate.

Tickets will be on sale at the stadium with reserved seat tickets at $3, adult general admission at $1.50 and students at $1.

He will probably need to learn to take time to reflect before speaking since there may be a tendency to jump to conclusions and to speak too hastily when irritated or when his nerves are on edge. During the early part of life there may be an inner feeling of insecurity and a tendency to be influenced more by his feelings about things than by logic or reason which may lead to deceptive opinions. A realistic attitude and objective reasoning should be developed to avoid being gullible.

His emotions and desires are apt to be very strong and as he grows older he is likely to find it easy to become affectionately attached. In most cases it indicates popularity and an ability to attract others so that as a young man he should not lack friends, acquaintances and or a sweetheart.

City May Be Disappointed Over Public Works Federal Funds Share

Mayor LaRaia feels that Quincy may be disappointed with its share of the $2 billion in federal funds available under the Public Works Employment Act of 1976, even though the city reacted promptly with its application. The city, through Planning Director L. Norman Lundin, filed a long list of project proposals, headed by a new Public Works Facility and a new City Hall, well in advance of the Dec. 3 deadline.

"It is possible only one or two of the projects will be accepted," said the Mayor.

"We have to face the political realities of the program. The state will get about $52 million to be divided among its communities. That doesn't leave much. I hope our initiative in applying early might give us an inside track."

LaRaia listed the new Public Works Facility and the new City Hall as the projects most likely to be approved by the federal authorities. They, not the city, will assign priorities.

"I would like to see at least one of the two, hopefully both," he said.

"We were sold a bill of goods at the beginning," he went on. "Originally, they were talking about millions and millions of dollars. In reality, it doesn't look that good."

No Evidence Of Wrong-Doing

Recommend Better Pay, Training For Election Workers

By TOM HENSHAW

The Quincy city election of 1975 has been investigated by the State Police, inquested by District Court Judge Albert L. Kramer, and now reviewed by a select committee of citizens.

No evidence of wrong-doing has been uncovered.

But Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia still can't get over the feeling that someone tried to job him out of the election in which he defeated then-Mayor Walter J. Hannon after a recount that saw 600 votes change sides in blocks of 50.

"I don't believe anyone deliberately changed the vote," said Joan Picard, a member of the select committee which made its report and recommendations to the Mayor Monday. Picard was a LaRaia campaign worker.

"No evidence was presented to this committee that there was fraud or that anyone stole the election," said former Sheriff Charles W. Hedges, a committee member.

"I don't think anyone is ever 100 per cent satisfied with anything," Mayor LaRaia responded. "You can never erase that small area of doubt from your mind. There is always a feeling...."

But, after the State Police and Judge Kramer had an exhaustive go at it, the matter of wrong-doing was not really up to the select committee. Its conclusions and recommendations, said Chairman Leo F. Meady, involved "minor things."

Meady noted that major flaws in the Quincy election procedures, such as the "flash counting" method of stacking ballots, that were noted during the inquest already had been corrected by City Clerk John Gillis.

The committee recommended training sessions for election workers, more and better paid election workers, and improvements in the design of the tally and total vote sheets, a change that would have to be made on the state level.

The committee also recommended that Mayor LaRaia continue the committee in office so that its members can study the use of voting machines and possibly the use of the Quincy Public School System's computer to tally results.

Mayor LaRaia said he would think about it.

But if the Mayor still entertained doubt about wrong-doing, he told a Monday morning news conference, called to release the report, that he was quite satisfied with events since the disputed election.

"There was an inquest and an investigation," he said. "The committee reviewed it. What is important is that we have eliminated major problems. This situation will not occur again to the extent that it happened in the past. We have knocked out the high probability of error."

Chairman Meady was kind of proud of the work of his committee, which began work in mid-July.

"I want to point out," he said, "that this committee was made up of three Republicans, three Democrats and an Independent and never once was there a partisan discussion."

Members of the committee were: Mary Collins, Joan Picard

Wants State Financed MBTA

LaRaia Seeks Council Control On School Budget

Mayor LaRaia this week drew a bead on an old adversary - fiscal autonomy of the School Committee.

The Mayor filed a bill with the State Legislature that would abolish fiscal autonomy and permit the City Council to treat the school budget the same as that of any other city department.

"I don't expect that the bill will be adopted entirely in its present form," said LaRaia, "but I feel we should get some kind of control over the school budget even if it is only limited."

He said he would like to see the City Council given authority to halt passage of a school budget by a vote of more than two-thirds and sent it back to the School Committee for revision.

That means that seven votes in the nine-member Quincy City Council would be able to hold up the school budget.

A similar bill that would have required a four-fifths vote of the City Council to halt approval recently was defeated by a small margin.

The Mayor also filed a bill that would mandate the state to assume the entire cost of the MBTA, whose annual deficit is now made up by assessment on the cities and towns that form the district.

"The MBTA costs Quincy $1.8 million a year," said LaRaia. "That's $7 on the tax rate.

"Mass transit is so important to the economy of Massachusetts that it should not be handled only by the 78 communities in the district.

"Local communities now bear a great portion of the burden while areas outside Metropolitan Boston benefit equally in the use of the MBTA."

A companion measure, filed at the same time, would direct a study of alternative methods of financing the MBTA with forcing cities and towns to ante up for the deficit.

A fourth bill would require the state to assume the full expense of purifying clams, which is now shared by cities and towns with clam beds. It costs Quincy currently about $20,000 a year.

"It does not benefit Quincy because we do not have exclusive rights to dig in our own beds," said the Mayor. "The state, through its health department, has jurisdiction through contamination."

The four bills were filed for the Mayor by Rep. Thomas Brownell [D-Quincy].

Navy, City To Discuss Future Of Squantum Gardens

The U.S. Navy and the city of Quincy were scheduled to get together Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. to talk over the future of the controversial Navy housing complex at Squantum Gardens.

The Navy recently awarded a $470,000 contract to remodel 56 dwelling units in seven of the 17 apartment buildings but another 66 dwelling units in the remaining 10 buildings are slated for either demolition or sale.

Walter J. Hickey, chairman of the Citizens Committee for Squantum Gardens, says his group wants to make sure that the city will have an opportunity to bid on the complex when it is turned over to the General Services Administration for outside sale.

Hickey, who scheduled the meeting in City Hall, said Capt. R. D. Radcliffe, commanding officer of the South Weymouth Naval Air Station, and Lt. Cmdr. Hugh Hale, public works officer, had been invited to meet with Mayor LaRaia.

Joining them will be Hickey and Mrs. Mary Gougan of the Squantum Community Association and Mrs. Maryann Mahony of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association.

Crackdown On Illegally Parked Cars

Lydon Proposes City Tow Law

City Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. has proposed a tow law for the city of Quincy, particularly to enable police to remove cars parked illegally by non-residents around the Wollaston MBTA station.

The proposal, which would cover city-wide parking violations, was introduced by Lydon at a meeting of the Ordinance Committee Tuesday night.

The ordinance would permit police to direct the towing of autos parked in the following places or under the following conditions:

- Upon any way in such a manner as to impede the removal or plowing of snow or ice.
- Upon any sidewalk.
- Upon any crosswalk.
- Upon any way within 20 feet of an intersecting way except alleys.
- Upon any way within 10 feet of a fire hydrant.
- On a roadway side of any vehicle stopped or parked at the edge or curb of the way.

• In front of a public or private driveway.

• Upon any way where the parking of a vehicle will not leave a clear and unobstructed lane at least 10 feet wide for passing traffic.

The ordinance specifies that the vehicles shall be removed to a convenient place with the owner liable for the cost of removal and storage and that the vehicle shall be held until removal and storage charges are paid.

Mayor's MBTA Task Force

To Meet With Braintree Officials

The Mayor's Task Force on the South Quincy MBTA Station will meet with Braintree officials tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. at 55 Sea St. to discuss the Center St. Bridge and other matters relating to the station.

Paul McCue of the Mass DPW will also be on hand to discuss the latest information on the Southeast Expressway ramps and the Capen's Circle design.

First Half Real Estate Tax Bill Due

First half payments of real estate taxes were due yesterday [Wednesday] at 4:30 p.m. in the tax collectors office in City Hall. All payments received after that time will be charged 8 per cent interest computed from Nov. 1.

The second and last installment is due May 1, 1977.

W. Quincy Man In CG Seizure Of Illegal Drugs Freight

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice Michael J. Goodrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Goodrich of 50 Filbert St., West Quincy, participated in the seizure of a Panamanian freighter laden with illegal drugs.

He is a crewmember of the Coast Guard cutter Sherman, homeported in Boston.

While on patrol 500 miles southeast of Miami, the Sherman was asked by Panamanian officials to board the freighter Don Emelio.

The request was made in accordance with a narcotics smuggling enforcement agreement between the U.S. and Panama.

A search of the freighter's holds uncovered 35 tons of marijuana. The vessel was seized and her 20-man crew, all Columbian citizens, was arrested.

The Sherman, a 378-ft. high endurance cutter, escorted the Don Emelio to Miami, where the contraband, the ship and her crew were turned over to Federal Customs and Drug Enforcement Agency Officials.

Alleged Quincy Point Stabbing To Be Heard By Licensing Board

Management of the County Line Cafe, 569 Washington St., Quincy Point, will be summoned to appear before the Licensing Board next week to show cause why its liquor license should not be revoked following a knife fight earlier this month.

The move was made at the request of City Councillor Daniel G. Raymond, who complained that the knifing incident, which occurred Nov. 19, "is not conduct that is consistent with the orderly and peaceful operation of a business."

Raymond described the incident like this:

"Some Quincy Police officers responded to a call at the County Line and upon arrival they observed a young man outside with a large head wound. They transported him to City Hospital for treatment.

"Within the hour, another individual appeared at the Quincy Police Station requesting that a criminal complaint be issued because he had just been stabbed in a fight at the County Line.

"The victim told police that while he was playing pool inside the County Line an argument developed with another individual and he was stabbed in the back with a knife.

"As a result of this information given to the Quincy Police Department an arrest for assault and battery by means of a dangerous weapon was made."

"It is incidents like this," Raymond went on, "that disrupt the community and pose a continuing threat to the quiet and integrity of the surrounding area."

Final City Flu Clinic Thursday

The Quincy Health Department will hold its final flu immunization clinic tonight [Thursday] from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St.

Health Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon urged every Quincy resident who has not had a flu shot to attend the clinic.

"We are having the clinic in the evening so that residents working during the day may have a chance to get the flu vaccine," he said.

"We will be giving both types of vaccine at this clinic: the two-in-one vaccine for people 50 years and over or those with chronic illness and the monovalent swine flu vaccine for those 25 to 50 years old.

"Young adults 18 to 25 years old who received a shot earlier should come in for a second shot according to government guidelines."

Conservation Commission Meeting

The Quincy Conservation Commission was scheduled to hold its regular meeting

Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room on the second floor of the JFK Health Center, 1120 Hancock St.

Fire Department Receives Muscular Dystrophy Citation

The Quincy Fire Department has received a citation of merit from the Southern Mass. Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association in recognition of its services in the fight against the dread disease.

The Department not only has raised thousands of dollars by distributing collection canisters to local merchants, but has helped supply the chutes used in the MDA's chute bowling program for local residents afflicted with MD.

Cited for exception services were Chief Edward Barry and Firefighters William Lowry and Angelo Delgreco, who are serving as the Southern Mass. Chapter's first vice president and treasurer respectively.

They are also co-chairmen of the Chapter's Patient Service Committee.

1,500 Exercise Balls Presented To Hospital

Some 1,500 handmade exercise balls, "enough to last 25 years," were presented to Miss Emma Hassan, Director of Volunteer Services at Quincy City Hospital at the Quincy Senior Citizens Friday night "Turkey Trot" at Montello's.

The balls, used in the rehabilitation of patients to stimulate muscle action following illness or shock, were made by members of the Senior Citizen Activities Division of the Quincy Recreation Department in cooperation with the Quincy Federation of Senior Citizens Clubs.

This is the second gift of handmade articles to Quincy

City Hospital by these groups. Last year 38 alghian type lap robes were presented and distributed when needed.

"This is a continuation of a friendship which we hope will continue," said Miss Hassan.

"The internationally famous LAN Hairpiece has just come to America... and what a world of difference!"

DICK SIMON, Indianapolis 500 Racing Star

Dick Simon had tired hairpieces before, and gave up. Something was always wrong. They looked unnatural, slipped around, made him perspire. People noticed.

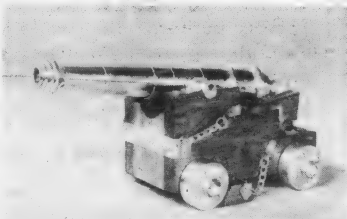

"You ought to see me now," he says. "I can drive 200 MPH, my hair blowing wild, but nothing slips! Not only that, wearing a Lan Hairpiece, Dick can shower, shampoo or drive off a 6-meter board. And his hair always looks natural. In fact, he can vary the part or even have his barber style it."

That's why the Lan Hairpiece has become a bestseller internationally: i.e. England, Japan, Spain. It's the most natural hairpiece yet produced, handcrafted in China, and just new in the USA. Best of all, the Chinese are proud of their work; they guarantee it for a year.

To Screen Other Appointments

Citizens Advisory Board For County Rape Unit Named

Sheriff Clifford H. Marshall has announced the formation of a Citizens Advisory Board for the Norfolk County Rape Unit, a cooperative effort between his office and that of Dist. Atty. William Delahunt.

The following persons were appointed:

Susan Stein, an attorney with the Mass DPH; Diane Hinzpeter, a special assistant to the Mass Attorney General; David Meadows, associate administrator at Norwood Hospital; Ann O'Meara, director of social services at Goddard Hospital.

Richard Bertocchi, assistant director at Quincy City Hospital; Dr. Dorothy Uhlig, executive director of the Norfolk County Health Association; Bernie Milton, of the Mass Criminal Justice Training Council.

Maureen McCausland, co-ordinator of the Victim Counseling Service at Boston City Hospital; the Rev. William Sharkey, Quincy Police chaplain; Louise Bozyczko, Medfield youth coordinator.

David Hayes, director of the Juvenile Division of the Norfolk District Attorney's Office; Carol Mahoney, of the Quincy Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women; Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert Russell, criminal justice director; and Special Asst. Atty. Gen. Alice Richmond.

One of the first tasks of the Advisory Board will be to screen candidates for posts on the Rape Unit, including a position as a sworn police officer-investigator, who should have experience in the area of sex crimes.

Interested candidates may submit resumes to David Hayes, juvenile director, Norfolk County District Attorney's office, 618 High St., Dedham, Mass. 02026 by Dec. 10.

Squantum Woman Wins Second Prize For Diet Workshop Recipe

Teresa Cushing of Squantum has won a $75 second prize and raves from the contest judges for her original low-calorie creation called "pumpkin mousse" in the recent Diet Workshop International Recipe contest.

Her recipe:

1/4 cup cold water
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 cup canned pumpkin, warm
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon or pumpkin pie spice
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 pint [2 cups] vanilla ice milk

In blender, put cold water and sprinkle in gelatin. Let stand a few minutes to soften. Add warm pumpkin, vanilla and spice. Cover and blend until mixed. Add ice milk a little at a time, blending, after each addition. Pour into four dessert dishes and refrigerate until firm.

Equals 2 limited vegetables, 4 milk allowances, 4 fruit allowances.

General Joseph Palmer' Topic For Historical Society

The Quincy Historical Society will meet Thursday, Dec. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at United First Parish Church, Quincy Square.

The meeting is open to the public.

Germantown residents are especially invited to this meeting as the subject of the program by Dr. James R. Cameron will be "General Joseph Palmer."

Palmer, who lived in Germantown was one of the leaders in the events of 200 years ago, not just locally but in Massachusetts where the Revolution began.

Some years ago as historian of the Society, Dr. Cameron began a continuing exhaustive study of Palmer, who was a prominent early industrialist and a leading Massachusetts patriot before and during the Revolution, for which he never received proper recognition. As a result of this project, Dr. Cameron is the authority on the life and activities of this most interesting and influential historical personage.

Dr. Cameron is Head of the Department of History at Eastern Nazarene College, the author of many historical publications, and is first vice president of the Quincy Historical Society.

City Club Maps Christmas Charitable Projects

The Quincy City Club will hold its second annual Christmas Breakfast meeting for members Sunday at 10 a.m. in the Quincy Room of Walsh's Restaurant, Billings Rd., North Quincy.

Christmas charitable projects to be provided this year will be discussed.

Last year the City Club expended $1,000 donated by the membership to provide items valued at $1,700 to charitable endeavors during the Christmas season. Major expenditure last year was the purchase of four wheelchairs that have been continually loaned out to those in need.

Richard J. Koch, City Club president, announced that the major goals of the drive this year include, two color television sets to Long Island Hospital, bedding for the Faxon House, gifts for a retarded children's Christmas party, and personal items for the Boston State Hospital in Mattapan.

Members are requested to contact one of the officers, if unable to attend the breakfast.

A brief annual report will be submitted to the membership on Sunday.

Council Race Shaping

Up In Ward 6

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Ward 6 is beginning to shape up as one of the political hot spots in next year's city election.

There are already at least three potential challengers—two of them women—for the City Council seat occupied by Dennis Harrington.

In addition to Mary Collins of Squantum, mentioned here earlier, Joanne Condon, president of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, reportedly is "seriously thinking" of running.

The fact that Joanne attends about every City Council meeting may underscore just how serious she is about moving from a spectator's seat to the Ward 6 seat.

Whether the two women or one of them gets into the race remains to be seen, of course.

But there seems to be one definite—and quite serious—challenger for the Ward 6 seat: Walter Hickey.

Two years ago, making his political debut, Hickey gave Harrington a close shave, coming within 133 votes or so of pulling off an upset.

Hickey reportedly has already made up his mind to make a second run.

Meanwhile, the big question is whether or not Harrington will seek re-election.

Speculation is that if Council President Arthur Tobin runs for mayor, Harrington will go for his at-large seat.

And, there are still some observers who wouldn't be too surprised if Harrington got into the mayoral race if Tobin doesn't.

THERE'LL BE AT least two Quincy Democrats at Jimmy Carter's inaugural Jan. 20: former Dist. Atty. George Burke and Atty. Paul Losordo.

Losordo, who is in Burke's law firm, ran Carter's local campaign and used one of the rooms at Burke's office suite as the campaign headquarters. So they're in, invitation-wise. Losordo, incidentally, is the nephew of well-known Quincy businessman Tony Losordo.

SPEAKING OF CAMPAIGN rooms, Norman Forde has one set aside at his tire agency on Franklin St. Set aside for himself.

He frankly admits he has one designated as the "campaign room". But he isn't saying what the campaign is for.

Observers believe he'll go for the City Council next year—probably at-large. But there's new speculation that he's thinking about a mayoral bid.

AND, WHILE WE'RE romping through the speculation department, some observers are beginning to wonder if John [Jake] Comer is warming up for a political bid next year. The former city assessor and past state commander of the American Legion seems to be getting around town quite a bit as a guest speaker. Leading to speculation that maybe he might be a candidate for City Council come '77.

A QUINCY GROUP of 50 or more will be off for a skiing weekend at beautiful Bolton Valley, Vt. Jan. 7-8. The Black Bear lodge owned by Steve Riley, former Quincy resident, will be taken over by the group. The trip is being put together by Steve's twin brother, George, the Adams Shore insurance agent, and Quincy Patrolman William Donnelly.

OBSERVATION: This year's Quincy Christmas Festival Parade was one of the finest in the long series. And one of the longest. Plenty of colorful floats, and smart stepping marching bands. The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and those participating deserve a "well done".

As I watched all those high school bands swing down Hancock St., I found myself realizing there are so many talented young musicians around today. Youngsters playing such instruments as trumpets, clarinets, saxophones, drums, tubas, etc.

It wasn't too long ago that it looked like kids were growing up banging on an electric guitar, as loud as possible.

But it's nice to know there are many young musicians around with real talent.

ANOTHER OBSERVATION: Quincy's downtown Christmas lighting is a delight to the eye. New lines of overhead lights were added this year giving the display more variety and brightness. Again, the QCBPA should be congratulated.

THUMBNAIL THOUGHTS

By Senator Snuffy

Boston's Combat Zone is aptly named, and suggests that the Hub's effort to make "adult entertainment" quasi-legal is a bloody failure.

JFK's memory is still cherished but in Dallas it seems the sense of guilt has diminished.

Things must be going well for Governor Dukakis. We haven't heard that he's had trouble with the car he bought in 1975 to replace his jalopy.

Three weeks after the election, the pundits are still unraveling what happened. A few are still predicting a landslide for the underdog.

Don't Let Trouble Defeat You

One can live so long in his trouble that he almost feels "this is the only way". Life can be so bogged down and defeated that one's energies are sapped. Physical symptoms show up ... pains from old injuries, or arthritis, digestive troubles, headaches, which often pass quickly when the life trouble has been removed. But while the trouble bears down on one, life hardly seems worth living.

You who read my column regularly have detected that I have been in trouble. Over and over as I have sat down to write my column, all I could think about was my trouble. Often, I couldn't even type. When I took a pen in my hand it shook. So far I have survived, and some day I will tell the whole ugly story. But, at present, there are certain benefits which I am anxious to share.

For one thing ... when you see the first signs that you're in trouble ... a marriage, financially, health, your job, whatever ... take steps to correct it IMMEDIATELY. THE LONGER IT GOES THE GREATER THE COSTS. Remember, you must learn to protect yourself and no adult ... not even a child, can expect constant protection. PROTECT YOURSELF, else you'll be in continued trouble. Do what you have to do to protect yourself ... or else be willing to pay the price of being vulnerable.

Secondly ... GOODNESS AND RIGHT WILL NOT PROTECT YOU from getting hurt. Your intentions may be pure, but your legal or financial posture come before your good intentions.

Everyone does not have the high regard that you and I may have for righteousness and justice. Don't depend on your goodness to keep you out of trouble. For example, you need a flu shot even tho you may be a very good person, and only go to nice places. PROTECT YOURSELF.

Thirdly, ally yourself with someone who has been in deep serious trouble and who struggled his way out. That's the kind of friend you need in your trouble. Someone who can honestly say, "I know how you feel." Most people who say that really don't ... they haven't suffered enough trouble to know what it feels like. The friend or professional who has been in trouble who now offers his help is more valuable than the one who has never gone down into the depths of hell, who has never known despair, who has never felt trapped in his or her situation.

Our New Life Therapy Group beginning September 20th will be sharing with understanding the trouble of each participant. I want to share at deep levels with the Group this year the best ways of dealing with the all too common troubles of our lives.

THE READER SPEAKS OUT

Thinks Chestnut St. Should Have One-Way Traffic

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Last Wednesday (Nov. 24) you had an editorial in the Sunbeam column that I wish to comment on!

For a number of years many people including myself have stressed the need to make Chestnut Street open to "One Way Traffic" only! Either direction, it doesn't really matter as I see it. The problem is: no one in town listens to us!

As a result, the street is just as you pointed out — a mess! Surely, someone else besides us must recognize this problem. Most of our City Councilors are Attorneys and I'm sure they frequent the Court House, as well as other establishments in the area. Why don't they do something about it? Is someone exerting pressure to prevent it?

It's about time we found a solution to this problem and I mean now!!!

By the way, don't anyone in town ever underestimate the power of the press. Last week, less than one hour after your paper hit the street, Chestnut St. was invaded with police officers and metermaids writing tickets as fast as a computer. However, I'm inclined to think it was very poor timing. The day before Thanksgiving just happens to be a well known Chestnut St. merchant's busiest day of the year. He also happens to be one of our most respected and dedicated citizens, having served on many unpaid boards contributing his time and talent for a better city for us all to enjoy. His charitable endeavors are too vast to mention in this letter.

Granted, cars were illegally parked all over the place last Wednesday (including mine), but was it really fair to punish a businessman so severely on such a busy day?

I think our men in blue over reacted to a long standing problem. Never let it be said that the press lacks power, but let's not forget that we need all the businessmen we can get, yes even The Quincy Sun!

Let's take some action to cure the problem before more businessmen and their customers are forced to go elsewhere!

Man should be able to solve the problems he creates.

Hatch Replies To Buckley On Lottery Games Receipts Charge

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In his recent letter to your newspaper, John Buckley, Secretary of Administration and Finance, tried to say that the raid of lottery numbers game receipts by the Governor and the legislature was merely an accounting change.

In effect he claimed that municipalities are getting the $25 million numbers game proceeds through the Chapter 70 formula [aid to education].

This is absurd. State law

Seeking Travel Experiences

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I am writing a book on travel. I would like to hear of definitive acts of exasperation or kindness encountered in travel, and the source! Please send written comments to: Perky Publications, Canton, Ma. 02021.

Mrs. Barbara Donchess

specified that cities and towns should receive all lottery revenues Plus Chapter 70 aid, not either/or. The fact is that municipalities are being cheated out of the numbers game proceeds.

Secretary Buckley's misleading letter was undoubtedly prompted by the overwhelming public response to our petition drive to force the state to distribute all lottery revenues to municipalities. More than 91,000 signatures have already been collected.

These signatures will not only force a change in the lottery law; they will also serve as a solemn warning to the Governor and the legislature; in the difficult financial years ahead, the state can no longer call on the cities and towns to balance their books for them by raising local property taxes.

NQHS Thanks You

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The NQHS band, choir, color guard, and majorettes would like to extend their thanks to all the people that purchased items at our Yard Sale we had Oct. 24. We made a total of $770.

Since we had so many items left over, and we had so much fun, we have decided to use the left over items for a Country Fair which we are planning for Dec. 11 and possibly another Yard Sale around Easter.

Camp Fire Girls Candy Sale

Local Camp Fire Girls will complete their annual door-to-door Candy Sale Dec. 6.

They are selling two candies: chocolate-covered mint sticks and pecana prides.

Proceeds will help Camp Fire Girls in many ways.

All girls participating will receive a sales certificate. Those who sell 30 boxes or more will receive a 1976 Candy Sale emblem designed by one of the Camp Fire groups. Girls who sell between 54 and 129 boxes will receive charms for their awards bracelets. Anyone selling over 200 boxes may choose between a campership or Series-E Savings Bond as the highest award.

Candy Chairman in Quincy is Sylvia Gelsomini.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS

By TOM HENSHAW

Dec. 2 - 8, 1952 - 24 Years Ago This Week

Body Of Danny Matson Found In Quarry

The body of 4-year-old Robert [Danny] Matson, missing for 23 months, was found in Field and Wilde Quarry, about 1,200 feet from his home at 70 Cranch St. where he vanished while playing on the afternoon of Jan. 19, 1951.

His death was ruled accidental drowning.

The body was found on a ledge about 70 feet from the top of the 100-foot deep quarry hole after much of the water had been drained out at the insistence of Acting Police Chief William Ferrazzi.

Location of the boy's body was said to have been revealed by Lady Wonder, a psychic horse in Richmond, Va., whose response to questions "Pittsfield Water Wheel" was interpreted to mean the water-filled Field and Wilde granite pit.

The role of Lady Wonder in the case was kept secret, said Ferrazzi, because "everyone would think we were crazy."

PARKING MEANS BUSINESS

City Manager William J. Deegan Jr. told a parking clinic in Salem that Quincy jumped from 15th to 4th city in Massachusetts in per capita retail sales in three years following completion of the west side municipal parking area.

Deegan's report that retail sales were dropping in cities where off-street parking had been neglected also was heard with interest at the clinic, sponsored jointly by the Salem and U.S. Chambers of Commerce.

In an unrelated move, the City Council passed a resolution, introduced by Councillor Alfred G. Helfrich, urging the city "to embark on an extended east side parking project to be financed by revenue bonds."

LAND SOLD TO VET

The City Council invoked a little known city ordinance and sold a homestead site on Appleton St., North Quincy, to Frank R. McDonald, a disabled veteran, for $1.

A 1947 order authorized such sales of land to veterans provided they build on their lots within six months.

The land was sold to McDonald, who drove a tank through battles in Africa, Sicily and Italy, for $1 despite the fact that other bidders went as high as $500 and the land was assessed for $1,300.

CARRIER SOUGHT FOR YARD

George A. Daley Jr., chairman of the Quincy Shipbuilding Committee, announced plans for a campaign to get a $200 million aircraft carrier, the third in the 60,000-ton Forrestal-Saratoga class, for the Fore River Shipyard.

It was estimated that such a contract would mean $80 million payroll for the Yard, which currently employed 9,500 workers and had contracts for 12 tankers, two freighters, one fleet oiler and three miscellaneous naval vessels.

Meanwhile, the 28,000-ton tanker, SS Chryssi, the largest tanker ever launched at Fore River, slid down the ways, destined for a South American firm.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By ERIC SWIDER

Home Sweet Home

Five years ago this week, the moving van brought us here from Columbus, Ohio.

This week, according to my initial agreement with my employer, the moving van should be backing up to our door again and whisking us to another part of the country and a new job and a new life.

That's not happening, and Claudie and the kids are not necessarily anxious to see the day come when the lure of something different grasps me and won't let go. We've developed "roots" in Hingham - friends and involvements and activities - and have no desire to leave a place which has become home.

Over the past five years, my ego has been satisfied by being invited to apply for, interview for or outright offered enough other jobs so that in each case I've had to evaluate the one I've got, the job I'm doing and which has more potential for accomplishment and personal satisfaction.

This job, this place and the people I work with, and the new friends I hope to cultivate for the Chamber in this area seem to offer me the greatest hope for a productive future.

Had anyone suggested to me five years ago, at age 29, that I would still be enthusiastic and motivated about this assignment today, I would have dismissed them and that idea entirely.

How was I to know that in this most unlikely place I would find sincere businesspeople who shared my ideas about how a Chamber of Commerce should work, what it should stand for, and how we should pursue its objectives?

How was I to know that almost everyone I would ask for help, would not only agree to give it - but then would follow through and actually produce.

How was I to know that there would be people whose financial help to the Chamber and time commitments to our programs would far exceed my expectations?

Singing out people is dangerous, for there are dozens of businesspeople who have performed extraordinarily on behalf of the Chamber in recent years, and they know it...and how much that means to me and individuals who make up our current leadership team.

The Chamber's budget is four times bigger, our membership is doubled, our staff is three times as large, and the program is on target and becoming increasingly more effective. By all tangible measurements, considering this whole thing is VOLUNTARY, the South Shore Chamber - as it currently stands - is vastly different.

My hope is that during the next five years, the Chamber will undergo equally as dramatic change. What we have now is a solid base of membership, leadership, committee members, staff and money upon which a more total community effort can be built.

There is at least a lifetime of solid pioneering left for the South Shore Chamber in marketing and gaining political, community and people acceptance of our regional interdependence and the value of collective effort. In the last five years, we have laid the groundwork for additional regional solutions by developing and making a team out of the region's business community.

Considering the fact that the South Shore has been inhabited and organized as independent, self-sufficient cities and towns since the mid-1600's, my dream of making significant headway in developing citizen acceptance of regional thinking in this lifetime might be overly ambitious. I know no lights are going to go on, horns blast or sirens blare as regional concepts gain public acceptance, so issue by issue, new member by new member, renewal by renewal, company by company, person by person we'll sell as effectively as we can, recognizing that we're here by choice and that over the long haul, relationships are renewable resources and our continued effectiveness depends on our ability to secure that renewal and also improve upon them.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

What Are Supreme Court Rulings On Abortion And Minors?

"Didn't the Supreme Court just make some rulings about abortion that affect minors?" a caller recently asked the Voter Information Phone.

"Yes," the VIFhone volunteer replied. Three important abortion cases were ruled on by the Supreme Court on July 1. One of these rulings stated that a state may not impose a "blanket provision" requiring parental consent of an unmarried minor seeking a first trimester abortion.

In other decisions the court held that a woman may have an abortion without her husband's consent; that it is unconstitutional for a state to prohibit saline abortions after the first trimester of pregnancy; and that a Missouri law requiring a physician to preserve the life and health of an aborted fetus regardless of the state of pregnancy is unconstitutional.

This question is one of many now being received by the Voter Information Phone, a statewide free public service sponsored by the league of Women Voters Lotte E. Scharfman Memorial Fund. Individuals with any questions about government - local, state, or national - may call the VIFhone Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5830; callers elsewhere in Massachusetts should dial the toll-free WATS number, 1-800-882-1649.

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

WHY CONGRATULATIONS?

According to the latest estimates, "only" about 45,000 of us will die in traffic accidents this year and "only" about two million will suffer disabling injuries. "Congratulations", say the safety experts. Why Congratulations?

One half of this year's 45,000 dead will be needless! To the puzzlement of safety experts, most American drivers simply will NOT use their lap and shoulder belts. Not that there ever has been any serious question that belts can save lives in moderate and slow-speed accidents, which means most accidents. Moreover, belted occupants have escaped with only slight injuries in many high-speed crashes that left vehicles totally demolished, although safety authorities admit there's a lot of luck in such incidents.

In spite of all this, more than 70% of vehicle occupants either refuse or neglect to wear belts. Mandatory belt use would cut the traffic toll by a half, which would mean saving upward of 20,000 lives a year.

Students Played Major Roles In Ruth Gordon Birthday Celebration

By BRUCE McLAIN

Students of the Quincy Public Schools played key roles in the preparation recently for the 80th birthday celebration for Quincy-born actress Ruth Gordon.

Students in the graphics arts department of Quincy Vocational-Technical School utilized the two events for a learning experience by designing and printing 400 posters announcing the festivities. In addition, with the aid of teachers Sol Levanson, Paul Tranford and Fred Gibbs, the students blanketed the city with 10,000 flyers about the activities.

Next, students of the drama clubs at North Quincy High School and Quincy High School offered their aid in creating decorations for the Ruth Gordon birthday ball held at State Street South auditorium.

Working under the direction of teachers Paul Barry [North] and Frank Moffett [Quincy High], some 90 drama students designed decorations centering around Ruth Gordon's life.

The classic Greek comedy and tragedy faces were made of pasteboard. Floral displays of chrysanthemums were prepared to surround scale replicas of Quincy historic sites, built by Broad Meadows Junior High School students.

Slides of photos taken of Miss Gordon's pictures were arranged to project continuously. Charcoal sketches, designed to pick out the theme of a particular Ruth Gordon movie, were prepared and displayed, along with "forged" signatures of all the great Hollywood stars who had lent their name to the celebration.

In addition, some 80 members of the Quincy High School band, accompanied by their director Michael Cahill, each carried a birthday cake to a table at the banquet to symbolize the actress's 80th birthday, movie, stage and TV roles in Miss Gordon's career.

The following students and school personnel participated in the events:

Graphic Arts, Quincy Vocational-Technical School: Patricia Connolly, John Ellis, Thomas Alcarez, Charles Henwood, Steven Wymands, Jeffrey Henshall and Edward Long.

Graphic Arts Production Department: George Cochrane, Marie Cunniff, Frank Davis, Barbara Lawson and Robert Spink.

Quincy High School Drama Students: Kathy Mann, Dana Neitlich, Linda Viegas, Patty Maddalena, Kim MacDonald, Janine Mudge, Karen Bishop, Ann Marie Nigro, Katy Carlisle, Robin Parsons, Mary Barr.

Kidney Foundation Receives $1,000

From Koch Club Bike-A-Thon

One thousand dollars has been received to date by the Kidney Foundation, from the recent Bike-A-Thon sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy.

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Koch Club said "some pledges are being collected by participants, and should be returned as quickly as possible."

The returns include approximately $800 received from cyclists, and $200 donated by organizations including the South

Quincy Bocce Club, and the Quincy firefighters.

Proceeds from the Bike-A-Thon are being applied to the organ donor program for those needing kidney transplants.

Organizations or individuals wishing to participate in the drive may mail donations to the Kidney Foundation, 183 State St., Boston, an affiliate of the National Kidney Foundation.

The Koch Club is seeking to top its 1975 amount of $1,100. Deadline for completion is Dec. 15.

A number of local residents have been aided by the Kidney Foundation including the honorary chairman of the drive, Edward Gentile.

Committee Finds No Wrong-Doing In Mayoral Election

and Ernest Aristide, Democrats; Meady, Hedges and Arthur Chandler, Republicans; and Beverly Operach, the Independent.

A partial text of their recommendations follows:

"Following the appointment of selected persons as voting officers, we suggest that the City Clerk should arrange for mandatory training sessions each year for the wardens and clerks, who perhaps might be paid $5 or more for their attendance, along with voluntary unpaid attendance by all other interested poll workers and police officers.

"Candidates should be invited to send representatives to the training sessions in order to prevent misunderstandings on election day.

"It has been the practice of the City Clerk to issue written instructions to the wardens and clerks, and for the Chief of Police to issue written procedures for the police officers.

"Our committee recommends that these instruction sheets, along with any and all other written rules and regulations, be distributed to ALL election workers and police officers on election detail.

"These instructions, incidentally, should emphasize the fact that the warden is in complete charge of his [her] precinct, with all other workers and the police officers obeying his or her orders.

"We recommend that a second shift of counters or tellers, replace the inspectors at the close of voting hours. [State laws apparently require that the wardens and clerks remain on duty from the moment the polls open until all the votes are counted].

"Such a new procedure, of course, would necessitate a further change in the method of compensation of election officers.

"Perhaps the day inspectors should continue to be paid a flat rate, while the night tellers would be paid on an hourly basis.

"At a primary election, these tellers might work only three or four hours, while at a state or presidential election, they might well work from 8 p.m. to 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning.

"Obviously, the wardens and clerks should then be paid the flat rate for day workers, plus the hourly rate for the night workers in their own precincts.

"The committee has previously recommended that funds be appropriated for the appointment of from six to 10 additional wardens and from six to 10 additional clerks who will be available to the city clerk for replacement of regular officers who are absent or for other assignments as required.

"These persons will be fully trained and those not used as fill-ins could be assigned as inspectors in the several larger than average precincts in the city. State law allows the Mayor to appoint additional workers as necessary for such larger precincts. At the present time, the number of voters in the 39 precincts range from a low of 800 to a high of 2,800.

"Our investigation relative to the printed tally sheets and total vote sheets clearly indicated that certain improvements should be made in their design, color and readability.

"However, such changes cannot be made at the local level because these forms are prepared by the Secretary of the Commonwealth. We are sending him a copy of this report so that he might consider appropriate changes in future elections.

"Many suggestions made by the committee have been, or soon will be, put into effect by the City Clerk. Included are:

- "Elimination of the so-called 'flash counting' method of counting votes, the primary cause for errors in the 1975 city election.

- "Placement of guardrails in all precincts, preventing the general public from coming within six feet of the ballot boxes and voting booths during the counting of ballots, as specified by General Laws.

- "Strict enforcement of General Laws ... which requires that campaign volunteers, with their signs and placards, must be stationed at least 150 feet from the entrance to the polling place.

- "Improved heating and lighting at certain polling places within the city. At a few locations, even the chairs and tables provided by school authorities, have been highly unsatisfactory for the election officers.

- "Identifying badges for all election workers.

- "Adequate signs, identifying the ward and precinct voting place, for the outside building walls of each voting area.

- "Alternate sites are being sought by the City Clerk for the polling places now located at the Cranch School where the cramped quarters provide unpleasant conditions for both workers and voters.

- "A study is being made to determine a fairer method for the payment of meal expense money for the election officers and for scheduling time off for lunch and dinner, both items being a morale factor for the workers.

"Due to the limited amount of time, coupled with the large number of various kinds of voting machines, punch cards and other mechanical and/or electronic devices presently available in this country, the committee is unable to make any recommendations today, either for or against replacing the present system of paper ballots and manual counting of the votes.

"However, we do recommend that this committee be continued in office to do a thorough study of all such devices."

MAYBE YOU NEED A NEST EGG FEDERAL TAXES WON'T CRACK.

If Social Security is all you have to look forward to when you retire, look into a Quincy Cooperative retirement plan. With either our I.R.A. or Keogh Plan you pay no Federal Income Tax on your savings until you retire. And probably by that time you'll be in a lower tax bracket.

$180,000 at age 65.

Our Individual Retirement Account (I.R.A.) is specifically for those not covered by a pension or profit-sharing plan where they work.

If you qualify, you can save 15% of your income up to a maximum of $1,500 each year.

Save the maximum amount each year for thirty years and you'll retire with over $180,000 at age 65.

$900,000 at age 65.

Many self-employed businessmen and professional people have no retirement plan.

That's why we offer the Keogh Retirement Plan. This category can save $7,500 or 15% (whichever is less) of their annual taxable income.

Thirty years of saving the maximum in our Keogh Plan would mean an account balance of over $900,000 upon reaching age 65.

*Income is compounded at a current rate of 7%. This rate is subject to change. Contributions and interest income are not exempt from Massachusetts taxation.

Quarter-Million View Quincy Christmas Festival Parade

An estimated quarter of a million people turned out under warm but overcast skies Sunday to view the 26th annual Christmas Festival Parade with its 28 floats echoing the theme, "Especially for Children."

And to add frosting to the Yuletide cake for thousands of watchers from Quincy, the Quincy High School Band captured first prize in Class A in the State High School Marching Band competition held in conjunction with the parade.

The parade, sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, stepped off down Hancock St. from Beale St. at 1 p.m., continuing for an hour and a half to the break-up area near St. John's Church.

Floats were judged prior to the parade in the parking area of the First National Stores in Wollaston, with $500 prizes awarded to the winners in the Youth and Adult Divisions. Also rans received $100 for their efforts.

The South Shore Camp Fire Girls won the top prize in the Youth Division with their float entitled "Candyland Express" that featured candy striped youngsters riding on a candy striped float.

Other Youth Division floats were the Quincy High School Band, "World's Biggest Sandwich;" St. John's CYO, "Animal Fair;" Koch Club, "Old Fashioned Christmas;" and the Milton Rainbow Girls.

Head Start captured first prize in the Adult Division with a float called "Disney on Parade", which turned out to be a truck decorated with the distinctive face of Mickey Mouse.

Other Adult Division floats were Baintree Legion, "Easter, Hallow'en and Christmas, Our Big Days;" Supporters of Survival, "March of the Toy Soldiers;" Quincy Police department, "Help Protect Our Most Precious Possessions;" Quincy Sons of Italy, "Children's Fables;" Quincy Public Library Bookmobile, "Story Book Characters Come to Life;" and the Baintree, Knights of Columbus.

The prize money is donated by South Shore National Bank, Quincy Savings Bank, Quincy Cooperative Bank, Hancock Bank, Happy Chef, Sabina's, and Aqua Leisure Industries.

A float sponsored by Montilio's Bakery depicting a "Gingerbread House" took first prize in the Commercial Division. The award was a trophy.

Other commercial floats were C. Y. Woodbury, "Paco, the Happy Old Dog;" Child World, "Happy the Rabbit;" Jasons-Warner-Electra-Atlantic, "C. Walsh Movers;" Antique and Bicentennial Trucks;" Boston Gas; Quincy Savings Bank; Hallamore Trucking, "Champion Clydesdale Horses."

Specialty floats included: The Patriot Ledger, "Leaping Lena;" Six Antique Cars; Cowboy Dick Clark and Indian Princess on Horseback; Park and Recreation Department, "Old Time Trolley Car;" North Weymouth K of C, "Old Fire Engine and Clowns;" Mike Morrissey, "Children's Winter Sports;" Houghs Neck Legion, "Old Fire Engine and Clowns;" and Arthur Tobin, "Paddy Wagon and Keystone Cops."

Other winners in the high school band competition were Gloucester in Class B, and Hull in Class C. North Quincy Band finished eighth in Class A.

The parade climaxed a weekend of activities opening the Christmas season in Quincy.

The Christmas lights were turned on Friday evening as Mayor LaRia flipped the switch at McIntyre Mall.

And Santa Claus arrived officially on Saturday by helicopter on the roof of the parking garage. He will make his headquarters for the season next door to the Rite Aid Store on Hancock St., Quincy Center.

General chairman of the parade was George C. Fay. Richard Venna was float chairman and William Morrill was band chairman.

Judges of the floats were Hugh Sloan, coordinator of art for the Weymouth Public Schools; Thomas Folan, president of the Milton Art Association; and Harold, Hawkes, president of the Baintree Art Association.

Eg' Stravaganza Specializes In Egg Supplies And Decorating

By POLLY DREDGE

When Marcia Hood of Alstead St., North Quincy, read a magazine article about decorating egg shells two years ago, she had no idea she'd soon be operating a craft shop of her own for other egg decorators.

But last summer, Marcia opened her own shop for egggers. Eg' Stravaganza at 1043 Hancock St., Quincy, features a complete line of egg supplies and offers classes in egg decorating.

"After receiving my first mail order of supplies and shells, I became an addict," says Marcia. "My mother is my partner and is one who coaxed me into this venture. It has been very exciting."

Marcia has completed a few dozen eggs since she began her hobby, and has displayed them at club meetings, in libraries, and at a Quincy Bank. She has also entered competitions and was awarded first and second place ribbons for her entries.

A variety of egg shells are used, including, chicken, goose, duck, pigeon, parakeet, and ostrich shells.

To decorate the shell, the white and yolk must be blown out through a hole in the bottom of the egg. The shell is then cut and drilled with a small power tool and hinges and jewels and trims are glued to the shell.

The inside of the shell is also decorated with velvet lining for a jewel box, or with miniature scenes. Tiny music boxes and lights are also used.

Marcia, a graduate of Boston University, also runs a private physical therapy practice.

Robert Donovan Named Immedia Account Executive

Robert J. Donovan of North Quincy, has been appointed an account executive with Immedia, Inc., a Boston-based public relations agency.

South Shore Army-Navy Store Offers Wide Variety Of Clothing

The Army-Navy store on East Howard St., across from the main gate of the General Dynamics shipyard, has an interesting past.

It was founded by Toufic Hajjar as an Army-Navy store 25 years ago. It grew to include Hajjar's Big and Tall shop. And now, with the Big and Tall shop in its own quarters, it is an Army-Navy store once again.

But it's an Army-Navy store with a difference.

With the acquisition of more space, South Shore Army Navy now offers a huge selection of jean apparel, including jump suits, prewashed jeans, navy jeans, Lee jeans, dungaree shirts and many others, all appealing to both young and old.

Along with its extensive collection of jeans, South Shore Army Navy offers Army and Navy goods. Army jackets, blankets, boots and a multitude of other durable goods.

The inventory of the store may boggle the mind, but there is even more. South Shore Army Navy also carries a huge selection of nationally known brands such as Herman boots and complete outfits of Carhartt work clothes.

While merchandise is the most important aspect of any store catering to the public, South Shore Army Navy has one advantage other, more impersonal stores lack.

The sales people really care about their customers. Ask any customer of South Shore Army Navy, and he or she is sure to tell you that both Farris Hanna and Michael Hajjar are the kind of people who make you feel like someone special; not just a customer but also a friend.

SOUTH SHORE Army-Navy Store on East Howard St., Quincy Point, offers a wide variety of clothing.

It's not unusual to find Farris, the buyer, manager and salesperson, along with Michael, putting aside their duties to talk to the customers, seeking out their views on the store so they can provide the all important customer with what he or she wants.

South Shore Army Navy is unique in that the sales people not only care about their customers but they aren't afraid to let them know it.

South Shore Army Navy, founded and built by the work and determination Toufic Hajjar 25 years ago, is carried on now by Michael Hajjar and Farris Hanna and, for those who would prefer a female salesperson, the newest member of the staff, Jean DeAngelo.

Asher, Allen Re-elected To S.S. Chamber Board

Two Quincy news media executives have been reelected to the South Shore Chamber of Commerce board of directors for three-year terms beginning Jan. 1.

They are James D. Asher Jr., president and treasurer of Television and Radio Broadcasting Corp., WJDA, Quincy, and Richard D. Allen, vice president and general manager of the Patriot Ledger.

A graduate of Harvard in 1968, Asher is a director of the Mass.

Broadcasters' Association; a trustee of the Quincy Savings Bank and a director of the Quincy YMCA.

He is a member of the 100 Club of Massachusetts, the Quincy Rotary Club, the Quincy Historical Society, the Orphan's Hope Masonic Lodge, A.F. & A.M., and the Demolay Advisory Board.

He and his wife, the former Therese M. Leahy, live in South Weymouth.

Allen, a longtime member of the Patriot Ledger staff, is a member of several newspaper organizations, the Neighborhood Club of Quincy and the Brockton Country Club.

He lives in Braintree with his wife, the former Josephine M. Thomas. They have three children.

SELL HOME YOURSELF?

I'm sure you've heard it said: "Why should I sell my home through a REALTOR? I can sell it myself and save a lot of money." Right? ...Wrong!

This kind of thinking usually turns out to be financially unwise. The prospects will usually start by mentally deducting the commission and THEN start negotiating from there. On the average, a homeowner saves NO money when he sells his own home. In fact, the opposite is true. Studies over a ten year period show that the net proceeds from owner-sold property are LESS than the REALTOR-sold piece of real estate, even after the payment of commission.

As a private seller you're at a great disadvantage in the intricate areas of financing, negotiating and protecting yourself from all sorts of do-it-yourself pitfalls. You've got a lot invested in your home. It makes sense to list it with a REALTOR. He'll sell it for you - without hitches - for the best price and in the shortest amount of time.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

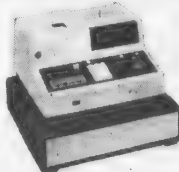

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

By-Pass Tunnel Major Feature

$15.1 Million Furnace Brook Flood Control Project Recommended

The Army Corps of Engineers has recommended a $15.1 million flood control project for the Furnace Brook Watershed in Quincy and Milton which will be paid for 98 percent in federal funds.

A major feature is a bypass tunnel 11½ feet in diameter and 6,200 feet long from the intersection of Quarry St. and Furnace Brook Parkway to the confluence of Furnace Brook and Black's Creek near the Armory on Hancock St.

The work will include enlarged culverts and conduits in conjunction with the tunnel and a widening of Furnace Brook and channel realignments downstream from the Furnace Brook School.

The estimated cost of the project is $15,149,000, with the federal government picking up $14,659,000 of the tab and Massachusetts, Milton and Quincy getting up the remaining $490,000 in equal shares.

The state, the city and the town must operate and maintain the completed project at a cost of about $3,000 a year and provide residual flood insurance premiums at about $8,000 annually.

The study of flood control on Furnace Brook has been underway since Dec. 2, 1970, when the House Committee on Public Works authorized it in a resolution. Public hearings were held in June, 1972, and in January, 1975.

The Corps' feasibility report is being sent to the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors in Washington for review and public comments on the report may be made to the Rivers and Harbors Board, Kingman Building, Fort Belvoir, Va. 22060. Deadline for comments is Dec. 8.

Cong. James A. Burke (D-Milton) said he will push for Congressional approval of the project when the new Congress convenes in January.

Another feature of the project will be a flood control pool along Furnace Brook Parkway between Reardon and Quarry Sts. in West Quincy.

QJC Adding 2 New Courses

Quincy Junior College is adding two new courses to its day program.

History of Modern China will trace the development of China from the 1840's through the Chinese Communist Revolution. Special emphasis will be given to the western influence in China and the Chinese response to it. The class will meet Mondays and Fridays from 2 to 3:30 p.m. beginning Jan. 24. This course is open to people in the community as well as regular QJC students.

In keeping with the goal of utilizing community resources, the College is also offering Classical Theatre: The Humanities in Drama in conjunction with WGBH, Chan. 2 TV. This is a study of drama and literature by European authors of the 17th, 18th, and 19th centuries. Each week for 13 weeks a different play will be broadcast on Chan. 2. Students will attend class every Wednesday from 10 to 11 beginning Jan. 24.

Quincy Junior College is currently admitting new part-time and full-time students for the winter semester.

Among programs available for mid-semester entrance include Law Enforcement, Early Childhood Education, Accounting, Management, Marketing, Secretarial, and Liberal Arts.

Part-time students can take two or three courses a semester in Psychology, Sociology, History, Government, English, Business, Science, Math, Fine Arts, among others.

A special part-time day schedule can be arranged for homemakers with school age children.

Any student interested in enrolling for the winter/spring semester should contact Dean Saluti in the Admissions Office, 471-2470.

Cerasoli Wants Senate Committee On Aging Retained

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli (D-Quincy) has written to Sen. Adlai Stevenson (D-Ill.) urging him to fight against elimination of the Special Senate Committee on Aging.

There is a move underway in the U.S. senate to reorganize the many special study committees which might possibly result in the elimination of the Special Committee on Aging.

"In the past," said Cerasoli, "this committee has shown continuing concern about nursing homes, homemaker services, legal services, nutrition programs, retirement programs and health care legislation.

"To eliminate this committee now would say to the senior citizens of this country and my district that there is not enough concern for their problems to warrant a special committee on aging.

"I think you would agree that this is specious reasoning.

"I believe we must show a growing concern for the elderly citizens who have given their hard work and most of their lives so that this country may prosper for posterity."

Cerasoli noted that there are more than 1,100 units of elderly housing in his district.

Old Flag Burning Ceremony At Atherton Hough School

Sixth grade students at the school worked from the American Legion Commander's Guide Book in preparation for the ceremony held as an American Education Week program.

A delegation from the Houghs Neck Post headed by Commander Mary Timcoe included Charles Boyd, Alexander Crombie and past commanders John Christensen, Paul Shaw and Ernest Fitzgibbon. They were assisted by auxiliary members headed by Judith Colligan, president.

The boys first visited the editorial and advertising department's of the office.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They also saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo-typesetting machine.

They watched a paste-up artist fix their story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed, the scouts asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

Celtics Winner

Christine Rusconi In Hot-Shot Finals

Thirteen-year-old Christine Rusconi of 84 Columbia St., South Quincy, has won the Boston Celtics Area competition of the Pepsi-Hot Shot National Basketball Association Play-Offs.

Representing the Quincy Recreation Department in the nation-wide program which has over one million participants in three age groups, Christine now is among the final 20 girls; ages 13 - 15 who represent National Basketball Association teams nation-wide.

She will play the representative of the Philadelphia 76'ers in a home-and-home series at Boston Garden Friday and at the Spectrum in Philadelphia.

Final winner in each age category will win a $4,000 scholarship. The final competition will be during the All-Star game in Milwaukee in February.

Pepsi-Hot Shots is a skills competition, open to boys and girls. Each participant shoots baskets from five hot spots marked on half of a basketball court in a one minute race against the clock. Members of Varsity Basketball teams are not allowed to compete.

Matches are played at half time of the National Basketball Association game of the week program. Christine entered the program this summer at the local playground competitions sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department and the local Pepsi Bottling Company, Milton Pepsi. She was a winner on her playground and went on to win the City Championship after capturing a city district play-off.

Over 1,800 took part in the

CHRISTINE RUSCONI bounces her way to the finals in Pepsi-Hot Shots competition.

Quincy program which was held on 33 playgrounds. As Quincy champion, she went to East Boston to play off against champions from 30 other communities in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

Finishing in the top four she advanced to competition at the Boston Garden between halves of the Nov. 12th Celtics Game.

She won the Boston Celtics championship, Nov. 24 at the Boston Celtics - Kansas Game.

Christine who is 13 years old is a student at Sterling Junior High School and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rusconi. By continuing to win, Christine could find herself in New Orleans, and Milwaukee; the sites of the next rounds of competition.

Track Club Wins Junior Olympic Team Title

The Quincy Track Club fared well in the recent Junior Olympic cross country meet at Fresh Pond in Cambridge.

Quincy won the team title in the 9 and under division with 35 points. Making the top 10 were Geraldine Murphy, fifth; Maryann Kelleher, sixth; Tracey Crossman, seventh; Dawn Crossman, eighth, and Crissy Garrigan, ninth.

In the 10-11 group Sheila Barrett was sixth and Bernadette Murphy and Laura Kelleher finished side by side for 10th and 11th. Linda Kennedy was 15th and Michelle Farley finished 17th as the QTC won the team title with 59 points.

In the 12-13 division Michelle Millane placed 11th, Denise McCall 27th and Denise Santo 30th. Miss Millane also ran unofficially in the 14-15 girls two-mile run and placed sixth. Linda Kelleher placed seventh in the same race.

The top ten finishers in each age group will compete in the Region 1 Junior Olympic meet in Scarborough, Maine, the site of last spring's New England high school track meet. Laura Kelleher, 11th in last week's meet, will also compete as the sixth and eight place finishers cancelled out of the race.

The Region 1 meet will also feature boys races and Quincy will have a team in all four age groups. Those expected to do well are Bill Murphy [14-15], Gerard McCormick and Steve Healy [12-13], John O'Connell [10-11], and Mark Fishman, Jimmy White and Mike Flaherty [9 and under].

Coach Jeff Hennessy expects to score well in the 12-13 race with Mike Hussey, Joe Irvine, Mark Millane, Shawn Burnes, McCormick and Healy.

Raiders' Balance Too Much For Presidents

By TOM SULLIVAN

After its best two-way performance in its previous game against Brookline, the Quincy football team had high hopes of upsetting favored North Quincy on the holiday, or at least giving the Raiders all they could handle.

However, Hank Conroy's Presidents, putting themselves in bad field position from the opening kickoff with mishandled kickoffs and costly penalties, were never in the game as Dave Burke's Raiders staged an awesome offensive performance and were equally strong on defense.

North won the game, 24-0, before the largest crowd in years estimated at nearly 13,000, but the game was even more one-sided than that.

The statistics indicate Quincy shouldn't have been on the same field but, to the Presidents' credit they never gave up and kept battling until the end.

It was the Raiders' 19th win in the 43-year series. Quincy still holds the upper hand with 22. There have been three scoreless ties.

North had an amazing 342 yards rushing to just 21 for Quincy. The Raiders had 21 first downs to only four and had 14 before the Presidents picked up their first with 3:17 left in the third period. North ran off 69 plans to only 31 for Quincy.

Shifting almost exclusively to the single wing, North's backs had such easy sailing that it threw only four passes, completing two for 45 yards. Quincy picked up 34 yards with three for eight and one interception.

George Wallace led the North backs with 103 yards and two touchdowns. Mike Adams, back at top strength for the first time in several weeks, picked up 89 and one touchdown, quarterback Brian Donahuey, running a lot from the single wing, had 61 yards and Bill McIntyre had 54.

Quincy, usually a strong defensive club, just couldn't cope with North's reverses, double reverses and fake reverses out of the single wing.

Quincy's only sizeable gain in the opening period, a 23-yarder when Mark Buchanan picked up 13, fumbled and Mike Farrell recovered on the North 40 for another 10 yards, was voided by an offside penalty.

Earlier Dennis Walter threw a pass to Len Picot which appeared to be caught only to have it deflected into the hands of North's Kevin Doyle on North's 28.

"Balance was the key word today," said a happy Burke, whose team finished at 7-2 to give him a two-year record of 16-3. "The offensive line was just tremendous as it opened holes for our backs, and the defense, as usual, was terrific."

Burke lauded the entire offensive line of Keith Lindberg, Russ Chisholm, Tom Nee, Jim Marinelli, Dan Butts, Harry Knudsen and Jim Frye.

"We had been working with the single wing since our opening game, using it a bit more every week but today we used it the most, and the way Quincy's line was set up, it really worked."

Offensive line coach Tom Fitzgerald had good words for all the starting backs, Wallace, Adams, McIntyre and both quarterbacks, Donahuey and Dennis Doherty.

"This was just a great way to end the season and all our hard work paid off," said Tom.

Defensive coaches Ken McPhee and Jack Raymer wouldn't single out any player but were loud in their praise of all the players. Steve Boroli, Mark Wentzell, John Ryan, Mark Nagle, Paul Corliss, Steve Bell, Jim Hanrahan, Rich Kennedy, Frank McGinnis, Ed McElaney, Steve Sheehan, Kevin Doyle and Art Bertoni.

"We finished with the best defense in the league and we showed why today," McPhee enthused.

It was another bitter disappointment for Conroy, whose team finished at 4-6.

"They were a far better team out there today," he admitted. "We couldn't stop their single wing and we put ourselves in trouble right at the start. But, our boys never gave up and gave me 100 percent the whole game."

We started a lot of juniors, especially in the offensive line. The loss of Wayne French hurt our offense considerably and the loss of Mark Giordani weakened our secondary. Neither has played for several weeks."

Defensively Hank singled out Sal Coscia, Larry Calley, Len Picot, Mickey Thorley and Dave Shields.

On offense he had good words for Wayne Gardiner, a standout at guard; Mark Buchanan, Billy Brennan and ends Paul Vallatini and Mike Faffell.

McElaney, North's "Mr. Toe," put the Raiders in front midway in the first period with a 26-yard field goal.

Doyle's interception, one of many for him this year, set up the first Raider touchdown a few minutes later. Going into the single wing, they had little trouble moving on the ground and Wallace went 16 yards for the touchdown. McElaney was going to kick but when Quincy was outside, Burke went for the two points and missed.

North drove 60 yards in 12 plays for its second TD, rolling relentlessly on the ground. Adams scored from the five but McElaney's kick for the point was blocked.

North moved again, entirely on the ground, to Quincy's four and, with fourth and four, many thought Burke would call upon McElaney for another field goal but decided to go for the touchdown and Quincy held on the one.

North's Hanrahan recovered a fumble on Quincy's 27 in the third period and Doherty passed long to Lindberg, who was forced out on the one. It took the Raiders three cracks at the line before Wallace scored. McElaney's kick failed.

Late in the game McElaney kicked a line drive 42-yard field goal, his longest ever, which looked like a shot out of a cannon.

The two field goals gave McElaney 10 in two years, five last year and five this season.

Bell, a North tri-captain and a bulwark on defense, suffered a concussion and sat out the entire second half.

The North Quincy players gave the game ball to offensive coach Tom Fitzgerald following the big

Quincy's French Most Disappointed Player

The most disappointed player on the holiday had to be Wayne French, senior Quincy back, who had to watch the game on crutches as the result of knee surgery several weeks ago.

French, who had developed into one of the Presidents' top running backs, won't have another chance to face North Quincy.

Another Quincy starter, Mark

Mele 'Treats' Sox Youngsters

As usual, Quincy's Sam Mele, special assignment scout for the Red Sox, took in the holiday classic.

Sam recently returned from Winter Haven, Fla., where he was a coach for the Sox rookie team in the Instructional backs for eight years but has been a schoolboy coach for the past 25 years.

Giordani, a fine quarterback and a defensive regular, also had to sit out the game but he is a junior and will get another crack at North next fall.

League.

The Sox team, youngest in the league, again won the championship.

"We had some great looking youngsters," Sam said. "The main thing with these kids is to instill a winning spirit. I told them if they won 10 straight I'd treat them to a buffet dinner. The won nine and even though they lost the 10th, I gave them the dinner, anyway."

Raider Balloons

Just before the kickoff on the holiday, hundreds of balloons were released from the North Quincy stands.

More balloons were released following each of the Raiders' scores.

Laing In Finale

Bob Laing, who has retired as North Quincy faculty manager after 23 years, worked his last Quincy-North game last week. Bob performed his chores at the game for all 23 years on the job.

Next year his successor, Ralph Frazier, will handle the many faculty manager's chores.

Jack Donahue Sees 44th Striaght

Jack Donahue, retired North Quincy coach, hasn't missed one of the 44 Quincy-North games. Jack coached the Raiders for 28 years, their only coach until 1960 when he retired. He has seen every game since his retirement.

Happy Birthday, Joe

Thanksgiving Day marked the 62nd birthday for Joe Berman of Hull, who was the referee for the Quincy-North game for the 14th successive year.

"For 14 years I have observed my birthday here, at Veterans Memorial Stadium," he said.

Leone, Rickson 'Pour'

Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone and Physical Education Coordinator Ken Rickson continued the practice they started several years ago, serving coffee and doughnuts to school and city officials at halftime during the Quincy-North game.

Ex-Star New Coach

ENC Opens Season Saturday With Bradley At Helm

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team will open its season Saturday night at 8 at St. Francis College in Biddeford, Me., with a new coach at the helm.

Named to succeed Jim Smith, who had an impressive record at ENC, is Ron Bradley who, following a fine career at North Quincy High, where he was an all-scholastic and captain his senior year, went on to become a small college All-American at Eastern Nazarene.

Ron starred for his father, Carroll, ENC's first coach until 1970, and was a brilliant two-way player. Bradley received numerous all-star awards and in 1971 he was drafted by the New York Nets.

For the past three years he has excelled for several top semi-pro teams including two Quincy teams, the O'Brien Club and Palmer Pub Hotshots. He is currently working towards his masters degree at Bridgewater State College.

Assisting Bradley is Dr. Jerold McCloy, professor of mathematics at ENC and also a former Crusader player. McCloy lettered for four years at ENC and led the team in scoring in 1965.

This year's Crusader squad includes three Quincy players, sophomore Walter Melton and two promising freshmen, Bob Dacy and Paul Kelleher.

Melton [6-0], coming off a gruelling soccer season, adds good depth to the bench.

Dacy [6-3], was one of Coach Joe Amoroso's standouts at Quincy High and made the Suburban League all-stars. He is a smart defensive player and a good scorer.

Kelleher [6-1] excelled at North Quincy under now retired coach Bob Nolan. Captain of last year's team, he has a good knowledge of the game and is a fine playmaker.

ENC is led by Captain Gordon Wetmore [6-4], last year's leading rebounder who averaged 14.9 points a game. He made the Naismith Conference all-star team and received the Carroll F. Bradley award as ENC's outstanding athlete.

Mike Barefoot [6-3] led last season's team with a 19.7 per cent game scoring average and was 78 percent from the foul line. He made the conference all-star team and NCCAA all-district team. He was honored as Nazarene Association All-Star.

Pete Ribeiro [6-0] was selected MVP of the conference despite being only a freshman and was named to the NCAA Division III team.

Rounding out the squad are Jerry Perera [6-3], Rick Ward [5-9], Barry Jones [6-5], Darryl Edmonds [6-5], Steve Ames [6-1], Rich Searce [6-7], Jim Bryan [6-5] and Tim Wetmore [6-1].

After Saturday's opener ENC will open its home season next Tuesday at 8 against University of Mass-Boston and will play at Western New England College next Thursday at 7:30.

The ENC cheerleaders this year are Colleen Belle, Cathy Belle, Holly Derbushire, Marcia Parry, Amber Roberts and Kristi Sorensen.

Crusaderettes Open With New Coach

Glenn Karker, Dave Wilfong and Don Reed of Eastern Nazarene College were selected to the Colonial Interscholastic Soccer All-Conference team.

Reed, a Quincy resident, playing his fourth and final season for the Crusaders, was the backbone of the ENC defense. Hampered by a lower back injury, he gave 100 percent in each game despite severe pain. Don was earlier named to the NCCAA all-star team.

Goalie Wilfong of Kennett Square, Pa., playing his first year in a varsity sport, led ENC to a 4-5-1 regular season record, winning all four games by shutouts. Dave established an ENC record by allowing only 1.58 goals a game.

Karker of Johannesburg, So. Africa, scored five goals and added an assist his freshman year at ENC. His exceptional skills displayed this year will be an asset to the Crusaders in the years to come.

Gifted Mother

Q. I really enjoy your column in our paper. You make a fascinating subject entertaining, informative and understandable.

My mother has been an invalid since a serious illness several years ago but she never complains and tries to have a normal life and is interested in everything and everybody, so is quite popular. Now she wants to try to work at home. She studies many subjects and is a great story teller with a fine sense of humor and we think she should try writing for publication but she is afraid she might not be published and all her efforts will be wasted.

She was born on November 29, 1919 in Boston, Mass. shortly after 2 p.m. She has an old horoscope chart that says "Taurus Ascendant, 7 degrees." I think this means the time of day doesn't it?

A.E.A.

A. Thank you for your kind comments. On your mother's birthdate, the Sign of the Zodiac Taurus was not on the Ascendant until 2:21 p.m. E.S.T. and seven degrees of Taurus was on the Ascendant at 2:40 p.m. E.S.T. at Boston, Mass. If shortly after 2:00 p.m., as stated, means BEFORE 2:21 p.m. E.S.T. then mother had the Sign of Aries on the Ascendant.

Mother's Sun and Mercury in the idealistic Sign of Sagittarius and her Moon and Uranus in the humane Sign of Aquarius, shows her ability to make a deep mental impression on others. Her Mercury and Sun both in Favorable Aspect to her Neptune and Jupiter indicates that she is capable of expressing her ideas in a forceful, colorful and imaginative manner. She is gifted with an ability to create and undoubtedly has talent as a story teller which could bring much happiness to others.

With Sun and Mercury in Quadrature Aspect to the planet Saturn in Virgo in her Sixth House, I would encourage her to write and not worry about wasting her efforts. Writing could be an excellent outlet for her creative mentality. However, it may be advisable for her not to force herself to a rigorous schedule but rather to write when she feels like it.

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

"Section 3"
Opportunity Procedure

Invitation to Register as "Section 3" Business

In conformity with Section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, 12 U.S.C. 1701u, and pursuant regulations, the City of Quincy herewith gives notice to businesses qualifying under Section 3, that contracts will be awarded for provision of services relative to the implementation of the City's Community Development Program under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. Section 3 requires that to the greatest extent feasible contracts for work to be performed relative to the above program including but not limited to individuals or firms doing business in the field of building, construction, rehabilitation and general contracting, should be awarded to business concerns which are located in or owned in substantial part by persons residing in the City of Quincy.

Section 3 Criteria:

1. Business concerns located within the Section 3 covered area means those individuals or firms located within the City of Quincy and which qualify as small under the small business size standards of the Small Business Administration.

2. Business concerns owned in substantial part by persons residing in the City of Quincy means those business concerns located outside the City of Quincy which are 51% or more owned by persons residing in the City.

3. Business concerns which qualify for a Section 3 designation must be prepared, upon the submission of any bid proposal, to include appropriate plans for the utilization; to the maximum extent feasible, of low income and minority individuals in the proposed projects employment requirements. In addition, an affirmative action plan shall be required in order to implement the proposed worker utilization goals.

Businesses wishing to receive requests for proposals relative to the above referenced activities are invited to place their names on the City of Quincy Register of Section 3 business and submit such documentation as needed to certify compliance with the above mentioned criteria to the

Calabro, Crespi Win 2 Citations

17 Police Officers Commended

Seventeen Quincy police officers have been commended for their work in foiling lawbreakers over the past year. Officers Frank Calabro and Richard Crespi earned two citations each.

Calabro and Crespi were first cited for their arrest of two men at the Tri-Coin Shop on Franklin St., South Quincy, July 27, on a charge of receiving stolen property, coins, jewelry and other items taken in a break in a Furnace Brook Parkway home.

Together with Detective Robert Perchard, they obtained a search warrant and from the trunk of the car in which the suspects had been riding they recovered hundreds of dollars worth of tools stolen in Rhode Island the week before.

On Sept. 14, Calabro and Crespi responded to a report of a suspicious person at the front door of a West Quincy home. They discovered that a woman had engaged the elderly occupant of the house in conversation while a man entered a back door.

They apprehended a female suspect and conveyed a description of the man to Officer Anthony Pollara, who arrested him while en route to the scene. A large sum of money was recovered for an elderly couple.

Officers Thomas Connors and Robert Ciriello were cited for their arrest of a suspect, armed with a knife, at Vine and Pond Sts., Quincy Point, following the holdup of the Dacey Brothers store on Washington St., July 13.

Officers Frank Spring, Gerald Queney and Charles O'Donnell were cited for their help in the rescue of two people from an overturned boat in Quincy Bay late on the night of June 9.

Queney and Spring were patrolling the Long Island Causeway when they spotted a man in a life jacket swimming ashore. From him, they learned that there were two others on his overturned boat. They spread the word to headquarters and the Coast Guard.

Meanwhile, O'Donnell, on duty at Wollaston Beach, roused a Perini Corp. crew that was dredging the channel near Wollaston Yacht Club and a tug picked up the people from the overturned boat and they went to the hospital in Police ambulance.

Officers John Garofalo, Robert Edgar, Dennis Mannix and John McTiernan received commendations for their arrest of a man charged with breaking into Smyth's Package Store, Newbury Ave., North Quincy, June 22.

Detectives Richard Curran and William Stenham were commended for their tireless work in following leads that resulted in the arrests of persons charged with a series of larcenies of handbags in the Wollaston Cemetery area July 10-12.

Detective Robert Bird's citation was for his work with the Investigative Bureau, particularly his efforts in developing his own expertise in the field of fingerprinting and identification.

"Detective Bird has saved the department much expense at trials where fingerprints are to be used in evidence," said the citation. "Soon the defendant is plea-bargaining as a result of the overwhelming evidence developed by this officer."

"Other departments of the surrounding communities have knowledge of his qualities and abilities and have sought his assistance in solving crimes."

Officer Harold Williams was cited simply for longtime devotion to duty on his best in the lower Hancock St. area. While the Police Department was conducting its Commercial Security Program in the area it discovered:

"The merchants state that he is always in view and without fail is present at business closing times. They feel he is very conscientious with regard to their security and safety without their requesting it."

Despite Council Action

LaRaia To Keep Central Maintenance Facility Without Full-Time Head

Mayor LaRaia plans to continue the Central Maintenance Facility despite the City Council's refusal to approve a fulltime director at $19,500 a year.

"It is definitely a tax saving operation, even without a director," said the Mayor, who has been sending his administrative aide, Arthur Casey, to direct the facility on a part-time basis.

He said Casey will continue in the role of acting director, which is exactly what the City Council wanted him to do as sort of a trial run to see if the Central Maintenance Facility really works.

In rejecting the position of director, Councillor Warren Powers, chairman of the Council's Ordinance Committee, asked that Casey report back to the Committee in four months on the progress the facility has made.

Then, said Powers, if a director is necessary, the Mayor can make another attempt to create the position.

"There should be strong enough evidence today to show that the facility is needed," the Mayor said. "We have nothing to prove to the Council that hasn't been proven in the past three months. The public is the only loser."

The Council voted to send the Mayor's request back to Powers' committee by a 9-0 vote but Councillors Arthur H. Tobin and Daniel G. Raymond were the most outspoken critics of the plan.

McCauley Urges 'Go Slow'

On Seniors Hot Lunch Program

School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley has urged Mayor Joseph LaRaia to "go slow" on any efforts to place the Senior Citizens hot lunch program under the control of the School Department.

"I am disturbed that the School Department is being designated to take over the program which is clearly outside the area of public education," he said in a letter to the Mayor.

He said the proposal had been made by certain City Councillors.

"I supported the installation of the present program in Sawyer Towers when I was a member of the Quincy Housing Authority several years ago," he said. "Daily attendance at these lunches is approximately 50 people."

"Since the program has been well advertised and bus service is provided for other senior locations in the city, it would appear that the present program at Sawyer Towers is more than adequate for the present demand."

Should It Be City Or State Supported?

Time To Reassess Junior College's Future, Says Creedon

By TOM HENSHAW

Is it time to reassess the future of Quincy Junior College as either a city or state supported school?

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon indicates the time has indeed arrived.

After the first of the year, he told The Quincy Sun, he plans to place the matter on the agenda of the School Committee to determine the feelings of the members on the long-proposed state takeover.

"The last time the School Committee considered the questions was eight years ago," said Dr. Creedon.

"It was then considered to be in the best interests of all concerned that the state take it over."

"But only two of the present even members [Francis F. Anselmo and Charles Sweeney] were on the board during the earlier action."

Times and the Quincy Junior College have changed in the meantime.

For one thing, the 20-year-old college that occupies the old Coddington School and old Quincy District Courthouse on Coddington St. is well on its way toward being accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges.

"During the time when it was thought that a state takeover was imminent," said Dr. Creedon, "there wasn't a whole lot of interest in accreditation."

"But four or five years ago we made it one of Dr. Edward F. Pierce's first responsibilities to seek accreditation."

"Right now we are in what you might call Phase 2 of accreditation. We are recognized by the NEASC. They have told us what we need to do to acquire full membership."

What QJC needs for accreditation are some additional staff members, an academic dean and an upgrading of its library, which is now housed in the old main courtroom after an even more humble beginning in the cellar of the Coddington School.

Also, if the state were to transform Quincy Junior College into South Shore Community College as long-planned, it would mean construction of a brand new campus on Broadmeadows.

Business Council Told:

Quincy Economy Healthy But. . .

The economy of Quincy is surprisingly healthy, the Quincy Business Council was told last week, but some vague fears were expressed for the future.

"Generally, we are happy with the way things are going," said Kevin Phelan, vice-president involved in real estate development for State Street South's complex in North Quincy. "We are seeing a healthy climate on the whole South Shore."

"Quincy and Norfolk County is one of the healthiest areas in the state," said William Austin, executive vice president of the South Shore National Bank. "This is a pleasant abnormality."

But, said developer Joseph Corcoran of Corcoran, Mullins and Jenkinson, Inc., "Quincy is getting close to the point when it is too costly to develop in because of rising real estate taxes."

Phelan, whose rentals have been booming in the three-year-old State Street South complex, attributed part of the success to "a negative attitude toward Boston. We are benefitting from the $54 tax increase in Boston."

"Taxes bother us, too," he said.

"We rent for about $9 to $9.50 a foot. In downtown Boston, they are shooting for $12 a foot. We are competitive with the good suburban sites. Our competition is Wellesley Office Park. We are slightly higher in rent but we can live with that."

"Boston tenants who are near the end of their leases are looking elsewhere. We are seeing a lot of walk throughs. Brokers are feeling us out for deals. It's a sad situation having to benefit by Boston's troubles."

In the long run, said Phelan, "we project the next five years will be static. Business people are a little timid about the state. But after they get over it they will step out heavily."

Corcoran noted that the big factors in the development field are the cost of financing and real estate taxes.

"We can't go into a town where it takes 25-30 per cent of gross income," he said. "Quincy is getting close to that point now. We have to have lower taxes to increase development."

Austin, noting that Quincy "seems to have more banks than

Gillis Questions Legality

7 P.M. Retail Closing

Ordinance 'Greatly Exaggerated'

Reports of a proposed city ordinance that would close retail stores at 7 p.m. are greatly exaggerated, says City Clerk John Gillis, who is also chairman of the Licensing Commission.

"I'd question its legality of such an ordinance," said Gillis.

But the rumors were strong enough and frightening enough to the Quincy retail community that the Quincy Business Council last week passed a resolution opposing such a law at a meeting at the Quincy Savings Bank Community Room.

"If it goes through," said Council Chairman Andrew Walsh, "all of us can forget about doing business in Quincy."

Reports of a closing ordinance grew out of a petition presented to the Licensing Commission a week ago asking that the closing time of the Dacey Brothers Store at 139 West Elm Ave.

Wollaston, be changed from 11 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The petitioners claimed that the store was the gathering place of teen aged gangs that had been terrorizing the neighborhood for the past two years.

The QBC indicated its support for Jeremiah Dacey, the owner of the store.

"We're not going to solve all the problems of the city by fiat from the Licensing Board," said Walsh.

right of the cities and towns in this Commonwealth to retrieve some $25 million in revenues," said LaRaia. "This serves as both a warning of our determination and as a preventative for future such abuses by the state."

LaRaia said an estimated $343,745 would be redirected to Quincy, accounting for about $1.63 on the tax rate. The petition is to be submitted to the upcoming sessions of the Legislature.

Hatch, the State House minority leader, has charged that about $25 million in Lottery revenue was diverted into the State's general fund.

6 Retired Firefighters With 172 Years Service Honored

Six Quincy firefighters, who retired during 1976 with a combined total of 172 years service, were the honored guests at the 19th annual retirement banquet of the Quincy Fire Department last week at the Morrisette Post in West Quincy.

They are Capt. Peter Cooke [32 years], Capt. George McGunagle [28 years], Lt. Bruno Carloni [32 years], Pvt. Paul Jago [28 years], Pvt. Evo Somontes [26 years] and Pvt. William Smollett [26 years]. All were present except Pvt. Somontes, who is living in San Jose, Calif.

Pins acknowledging 25 years of service on the Fire Department were awarded to Lt. Robert Bennett and Lt. George Hutt.

A moment of prayer was observed for four retired firefighters who died during the past year. They were Richard Shea, Philip Dreyer, Patrick McNally and Oriental Carrella.

The guest speaker was Rev. Jeremiah T. Cullinane, pastor St. Thomas More Church, Braintree, and chaplain of the Professional Firefighters of Massachusetts.

Plaques were presented by Chief Edward F. Barry and Banquet Chairman Robert Mood.

New Computer Expected To Save City $106,700

A new $99,975 computer system, which is expected to save the city $106,700 annually in the next three years, was installed this week in the Auditor's office and the Water Department.

The system, consisting of four mini-computers, a disc system and a high-speed printer, replaced the 15-year-old posting machines that had been doing the city payrolls and accounts payable.

Auditor Charles Shea said the new system, produced by the Phillips Business Machine Co., includes a memory bank, something that was lacking in the old machines.

"The system will be phased in gradually," said Shea. "We expect to do the payroll on it by Jan. 1 and the appropriation accounts by July 1, the start of the fiscal year."

The Mayor's office said the system is expected to accomplish the following annual savings:

CETA payroll, $16,000; street and voter lists, $6,000; real estate tax billing, $10,000; discount warrants, $30,000; police and fire payrolls, $4,800; retirement processing, $900; personnel savings, $9,000; and temporary loan interest, $30,000.

"There will also be a savings in personnel hours which can be utilized to assist in other functions such as internal audits, inventory and reduction of the Auditor's staff by one," said a spokesman for the Mayor.

"This will all but eliminate the need for overtime in the Auditor's Department."

MINI-COMPUTER designed to handle city payrolls, listings and other time-consuming chores involving numbers receives its baptism in the auditor's office. Mrs. Louise Smith, senior operator, is at the keyboard while City Auditor Charles Shea (left) and Mayor Joseph J. LaRia look on.

New Traffic Signal System For F.B. Pkwy, Miles Drive

A contract for a new traffic signal system at the intersection of Furnace Brook Parkway and Miles Drive, Quincy Center, has been awarded by the MDC.

Senator Arthur H. Tobin, a prime mover for the project, was notified by MDC Commissioner John F. Snedeker that work on the project will begin soon and should be completed by Dec. 31.

The contract will be carried out by Philip Rittenberg Inc. of Norwood, low bidder on the $10,345 project.

Work calls for the installation of a fully actuated traffic signal system, including an exclusive pedestrian actuated phase.

Tobin said, "I am very pleased with the cooperation and concern displayed by Commissioner Snedeker in moving to alleviate a serious safety hazard in this area."

"The internationally famous LAN Hairpiece has just come to America... and what a world of difference!"

DICK SIMON, Indianapolis 500 Racing Star

Dick Simon had tried hairpieces before and gave up. Something was always wrong. They looked unnatural, slipped around, made him perspire. People noticed.

"You ought to see me now," he says. "I can drive 200 MPH, my hair blowing wild, but nothing slips! Not only that, wearing a Lan Hairpiece, Dick can shower, shampoo, or dive off a 5-meter board. And his hair always looks natural. In fact, he can vary the part or even have his barber style it."

That's why the Lan Hairpiece has become a bestseller internationally, i.e., England, Japan, Spain. It's the most natural hairpiece yet produced, handcrafted in China, and just new in the USA. Best of all, the Chinese are proud of their work; they guarantee it for a year.

Women And Money Topic For Mayor's Commission Dec. 13

Elizabeth Van Twuyver, chairwoman of the Task Force on Women and Money, will discuss that very subject at the monthly meeting of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women Monday, Dec. 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the Public Works Building on Sea St.

The subject will be money management, including how to obtain credit and credit discrimination against women.

The Women and Work Task

Force will review plans for a series of mini-classes on job-finding techniques. A possible seminar on women starting their own businesses also will be explored.

Anne Keating, chairwoman of the Social Services Task Force, will present information on existing programs for battered wives and discuss plans for educational activities on the subject.

QJC Offering Spring Courses Especially For Women

Among the many courses that Quincy Junior College is offering this spring are some courses of particular interest to women.

The "Roles of Women in Society" is being offered as both a credit and non-credit course. The course is an examination of the roles of women as they have been defined in society, both past and present. The topics to be covered include: women's work and economic status, sex roles and how they are learned, women and children, women in other societies, and the modern women's movement.

Two non-credit courses designed for women are Body and Mind Awareness and Assertiveness Training. The first emphasizes personal growth through breaking patterns of mind/body tightness. Assertiveness Training aids women to become more sure of themselves and aware of their needs and how to achieve them.

According to Miss Toby Felton, Evening Division Counselor, "Women find it worthwhile to share their experiences as women in a traditionally male dominated society. The college tries to provide a forum for women to be able to learn more about themselves and their relationship to society."

For more information about these and other Quincy Junior College course offerings, call 471-9200 or 471-2470 for an evening brochure.

Diane Babcock Heads Dickinson Inside Sales Staff

Miss Diane Babcock has been appointed head of Dickinson's newly organized Inside Sales Staff. Miss Babcock has been employed with the printing and direct mail firm nearly five years as head of departments including art production, data processing, mailing, list, traffic and sales service functions.

According to Donald R. Dickinson, president of the Quincy-based company, "We have chosen Diane Babcock for this responsible position as a vital step in our growth plan. We simply had to have a person fully versed about our organization who could give highly personalized attention to present clients on any level while our new business activities were being stepped up."

Miss Babcock will be responsible for providing effective communication links for clients and account executives. The firm's creative direct mail services, printing facilities, computerized mailing operations, and inquiry fulfillment activities will all be drawing on the varied talents and experience of Miss Babcock as an information center.

Miss Babcock graduated from the University of Rhode Island, and lives in Brockton.

SMOKE DETECTORS

The most important step in cutting fire deaths has been the installation of automatic smoke detectors in homes. Experts are unanimous in praising the devices as an inexpensive, effective way of saving lives. If you're awake, your nose is as good as an automatic detector. But the problem is that so many people don't wake up until it's too late. We've had actual cases of people who finally woke up, detected the fire, sat up in bed and died right there. They just had no time left to react.

The owner of an older home can purchase a reliable, UL-labeled detector for $30 to $75 from a hardware store. The detector should be fastened about 6 to 12 inches below the ceiling on a corridor wall just outside the bedroom area. More detectors will be needed if bedrooms are located at opposite ends of the home.

Of course, an early warning does no good if the family doesn't know what to do when the alarm goes off. Fire drills are essential, especially for children. Make sure to find a safe exit.

Hot Lunch Program Young Ideas Subject

By CATHY CONLEY

This week's issue of Young Ideas visits the kitchens at the old Hancock School where 5,000 hot lunches for Quincy's elementary school children are cooked daily.

The special four-page pullout section begins on page 13.

Miss Lynn Nightengale's sixth grade at Great Hill School is studying good nutrition. Part of the study was a trip to the hot lunch kitchens, where George Cole, Director of Kitchens, took them on a tour. They saw a gigantic 40-gallon kettle where sauces are cooked, a giant electric braiser that fries 300 pounds of hamburger at once, a 5-foot wide electric pot washer, an automatic cookie dropper, a huge, flat table where pizza is prepared.

They came to the huge oven just as 5,000 freshly baked brownies were being taken out.

The children bombarded Mr. Cole with questions. How do you decide the menu? What's the most popular lunch? What do you do with leftovers? Is 40 cents enough to pay for our lunches? His answers are in Young Ideas.

In this issue, the children also interview Mrs. Maureen O'Brien, the Health Education Coordinator of the Quincy Schools. Another feature is the breakfast that the children cooked for the class.

Maureen O'Hara, 11, wrote an essay on how a good diet has helped her grow from an infant baby to a healthy young lady. And she has pictures of herself to prove it!

Several of the children tell us why they are always going to eat healthy foods. Al Carpenter, 11, answer is because he wants to be a running back for the Patriots and help them win the Super Bowl ten years from now. Assistant editors for this issue are Kathie Doody and Rick Davis, both sophomores at North Quincy High School who are interested in newspaper work as a career. They helped interview the children and gather material.

Elks To Entertain Over 500 At CP Christmas Party

The 21st annual Cerebral Palsy Christmas Party, sponsored by the Quincy Lodge of Elks, will be held at Masonic Temple, 1170 Hancock St., Sunday at 1 p.m.

More than 500 cerebral palsied children and adults, together with their parents, brothers and sisters, will attend.

George C. Fay, Past Exalted Ruler of the Quincy Lodge of Elks and member of the Board of Directors of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc., has been the Chairman of the Elks Christmas Party since its inception.

Refreshments, entertainment and group singing will be provided, ending in the presentation of gifts by Santa Claus for each CP child and adult and their younger brothers and sisters.

William J. Trifone, president of the CP organization, and Arthur Ciampa, executive director, will represent the CP agency. Mayor Joseph LaRaia will bring greetings from the City of Quincy.

Every cerebral palsied child or adult living in the South Shore Area is invited to attend the Christmas party. Further information can be obtained by calling CP Headquarters at 105 Adams St., Quincy [479-7443 or 479-7980].

Faith Lutheran Women

Planning Christmas Banquet

Members of the Faith Lutheran Church Women of Quincy are completing plans for their annual Christmas banquet and party, Tuesday, Dec. 15 at 7 p.m. at Walsh's Restaurant, North Quincy.

The Naomi Circle is in charge of arrangements. Deadline for reservations is Dec. 8, and should be made with Mrs. Harry Maki.

Instead of an exchange of gifts at the party, the women will provide Christmas gifts to patients at the Long Island and Medfield Hospitals. They have asked the entire congregation to join them in this worthy project.

The gifts should not be wrapped but gift wrapping paper will be gratefully accepted.

All donations should be brought to Faith Lutheran Church in South Quincy as soon as possible.

HERE'S A CHANCE TO WIN A KITCHEN CONSERVATION CLOCK.

TELL US HOW YOU CAN SAVE ELECTRICITY DURING "THE DEMANDING HOURS"...

And we'll give you a chance to win a clock that will remind you to save electricity. During the winter, electricity usage soars between 4 and 7 p.m. The Demanding Hours. This is when the most people use the most electricity. And it costs more to make it during these heavy use hours.

Anything you can do to use electricity before and after The Demanding Hours will help us hold back the cost of generating your power. And conserve energy as well.

Win one of 600 Kitchen Conservation Clocks!

Think up some good ideas and share them with us! Ideas for cooking earlier, using the clothes dryer in the morning or waiting 'til after 7 p.m. before doing dishes. To show our appreciation, we'll award kitchen conservation clocks to 600 of our customers who participate. Just send your suggestions or simply your name and address to:

Massachusetts Electric Co.
P.O. Box 1000, Boston, MA 02118

RULES FOR YOUR CHANCE TO WIN A KITCHEN CONSERVATION CLOCK:

1. Print name, address and zip code on the coupon, or a 3" x 5" plain piece of paper with your suggestion for conserving electricity between 4 and 7 p.m., if you'd like and mail to: Massachusetts Electric Co., P.O. Box 1000, Boston, MA 02118.
2. Qualified entries must reside in areas served by Massachusetts Electric Company. Immediate members of the families of employees of Massachusetts Electric and Cabot Advertising are not eligible.
3. With your entry you may send your suggestion for conserving electricity between 4 and 7 p.m. (This is not

- a requirement to compete in this sweepstakes.)
4. Six hundred clocks will be awarded by random selection from customers who participate.
5. Winners will be notified by mail no later than February 25, 1977. A list of prize winners will be available free of charge by sending a request to Massachusetts Electric.
6. All entries must be postmarked no later than January 31, 1977 and received no later than February 7, 1977.
7. Void where prohibited or restricted by law. Odds of winning will be determined by the number of entries received. All prizes will be awarded.
8. All entries and suggestions will become the property of Massachusetts Electric.

Tull To Toss Hat In Mayoral Ring

By HENRY BOSWORTH

The first hat will be tossed into Quincy's 1977 mayoral ring within a week or two.

Atty. George Tull is expected to make his official announcement next week or the week after.

Tull reportedly will run as a "concerned citizen" with such chief concerns as this year's $34.90 tax rate hike and turmoil in the city. Tull, who lives on Highland Ave., Wollaston and has his law office on Chestnut St. in downtown Quincy, will be making his second bid for public office.

In the mid 1950's, he entered the City Council race but later withdrew from campaigning actively to support a then youngster also seeking a council seat: James McIntyre.

Sources close to Tull say that this time, however, he is in the mayoral race "all the way".

Tull, who is 63, has served the city of Quincy on two unpaid municipal boards for 16 years. Eight as a member of the Quincy Hospital Board of Managers [two of them as chairman] and eight as an alternate on the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Tull is a Democrat which means that incumbent Joseph LaRaia apparently is assured of at least one challenger from the Democratic ranks.

Last year, LaRaia campaigned as a Democrat in a non-partisan election against Republican Walter Hannon.

Tull's candidacy may cause a little stir among some who hope to see LaRaia a one-term mayor.

There is strong feeling in the LaRaia opposition camp that one candidate should be tapped to run against him next year behind a united front.

By getting into the race, Tull could upset that strategy, however. But Tull's friends say he is going to run as "his own man". And, if anyone else wants to get in, well, they can be his guest.

OBSERVATION: Last year's bitter LaRaia-Hannon mayoral election has received another clean bill of health, as far as wrong-doing is concerned.

The select committee of citizens has made recommendations to improve vote counting but found no evidence of someone trying to steal the election.

The committee thus agreed with the earlier findings of: Atty. Gen. Francis Bellotti's and Dist. Atty. William Delahunty's offices' investigation and those of Judge Albert Kramer following an inquest at Quincy District Court.

Yet Mayor LaRaia who started the furor over the election count still seems reluctant to concede that everything was on the up and up as far as wrong-doing was concerned.

"You can never erase that small area of doubt from your mind," he says. "There is always a feeling..."

You can't help wonder how the Mayor would be sitting on a jury.

NORMAN FORDE, on the verge of announcing his candidacy for the City Council at-large for the past week or so, has changed his mind.

Forde says he has received "overwhelming" support from the public over a bill he has had filed to "freeze" the Quincy city budget at the 1976-77 level.

He has now decided he can effectively campaign for progress from the sidelines. Says he:

"For many years I have always believed I could be effective as an outspoken citizen watching and speaking out on issues. I came within a hair's breath of changing my mind recently."

"I was frustrated and felt I could contribute more by getting into the fight. My wife, family and friends, however, have convinced me that I can accomplish more by remaining on the sidelines."

REP.ELECT Michael Morrissey will say Merry Christmas and "thank you" to campaign workers, friends and voters at a Christmas victory party tonight [Thursday]. The event will be from 8 p.m. to midnight at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

DeFalco Makes Impression

Council O.K.'s Most of Hospital's Back Bills

The City Council sized up the new director of City Hospital Monday night and apparently liked what it saw because it paid most of his back bills and accepted an invitation to meet with him again to discuss the hospital's expansion plans.

Anthony DeFalco, who succeeded Harlan Paine as head of the Hospital last month, attended his first Council meeting in support of a rezoning request to permit the Hospital to construct an addition.

Expansion has been the least of the Hospital's problems in the past few months as unpaid back bills have piled up to such an extent that some suppliers have been shutting off the Hospital's credit.

The next to last of those back bills were approved for payment by the Council which appropriated $28,389.09 for that purpose, leaving $8,852.72 still unpaid and uncanceled by the Hospital comptroller, John Fantuccio.

"We have asked Mr. Fantuccio for backup data to certify the bills," said John Cheney, a member of the Hospital Board of Managers. "But to date we haven't received it."

Councillor Arthur H. Tobin, noting that the City Auditor had received inquiries from vendors about payment, suggested that "the director and the board go right to the comptroller in the morning and insist on that backup material."

"Threats to have supplies cut off at the Hospital is intolerable."

Councillor James Sheets told the Council how his 8-year-old son cut his head on Thanksgiving Day and was taken to the City Hospital for seven stitches.

"While the doctor was beginning to suture," he said, "he asked for a No. 4 suture and he was told that he did not have a No. 4 suture. He had to use a No. 5 instead."

"I inquired why no No. 4 suture was available and the answer came to me very clearly. The No. 4 sutures were part of a bundle of orders being held up by a pharmaceutical company that had not been paid."

"What would have happened if someone was brought to the hospital with a very serious wound? I was told there were materials necessary for that sort of problem that were also being withheld."

DeFalco said the Hospital "is currently up to date as reasonably as possible with all current suppliers" although there are some who still have credit holds on the Hospital.

DeFalco told the Council:

"It is of critical importance to us to resolve the zoning problem of the addition prior to Jan. 2, the first date we are allowed to submit our plans and certification of need statement to the state."

"If we miss that date we must wait four months."

"We are addressing some very serious physical problems in our plant. If you do not address them in this time we are faced with delays on the state level in getting our certificate reviewed."

"If you don't rezone this property then we must look at alternative plans which might be more costly."

Councillor Tobin promised DeFalco the Council's cooperation — provided the Council is given some input into the Hospital's plans.

"The thing that bothers me," he said, "is that we could be talking about a multi-million dollar facility and the decisions are being made on Whitwell St."

"Then someone is going to come before the City Council and ask Councillors to vote a multi-million dollar bond issue and we have had absolutely no input."

"We can't afford to sit here in the dark not knowing the type of facility and then be asked to vote a multi-million dollar bond issue."

Councillor Dennis E. Harrington interrupted Tobin to announce that DeFalco had already invited the Council to a meeting at the Hospital next Tuesday [Dec. 14] at 7 p.m. to review the Hospital plans with the director and his technical consultants.

"He not only provided for input by the Council but he has welcomed it and sought it himself," said Harrington. "It is best we make ourselves available that night to take advantage of the expert advice on the plans."

DeFalco assured the Council that "no decisions have been made on any building plans" since the Hospital is still collecting information on the subject.

Satisfied, the Council then set Dec. 27 at 7 p.m. for a public hearing on the rezoning ordinance, giving DeFalco a week to ready his presentation for the state.

THE READER SPEAKS OUT

The Biggest Problem Is Illegal Parking

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In response to the letter published in the Dec. 2, 1976 issue of your paper, from Mr. L. F. Forde of Wollaston: The main problem is "illegal" parking on Chestnut St. I feel the best way to combat the problem is to enforce the no parking this side signs on both sides of Chestnut St. in Quincy Square. Yes, changing Chestnut St. to a one way would do the job, but it would just cause more congestion on the already congested Washington and Hancock Sts in the square.

I live and work in Quincy Square area and walk down

Chestnut St. almost once a day, usually at noon. On Monday, Dec. 6, 1976 I walked down that street and there were two cars illegally parked up by the Strand Theatre. No cars were down the other end by Montilio's and traffic was moving smoothly both ways, which proves that no parking will do the best job. I know about the businessmen problems in the square, but there are only a few businesses on that small street and the large parking lot for the furniture store counts that business out. Just because you like to hop out of your car and step into your job doesn't make it right you know.

There is another street the police should look after more closely, Spear St., especially during evening class at J.C.C. If there were a fire on Spear St. during that time, the fire department would have great difficulty getting to the scene. I know I have watched cars barely make it through and once I watched a frustrated driver back down to Francis Ave. and turn around because he couldn't get through. The Biggest Problem in this city, throughout this city, is "Illegal Parking."

He Thinks The Kids That Go Into His Store 'Are The Greatest'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would appreciate it if you could publish this letter to the parents of my neighborhood and get across what I am trying to say. I have a small variety store at 173 Beale Street in Wollaston. I hear all the time how hard it is to get along with kids and the bad times kids give to people. Well, I find the kids that come into my store are the greatest. I am talking about youngsters through teenage. Don't worry if one starts to clown around. I growl at them, but they know why. I don't have to worry that some kid is going to rip me off because they just don't do it here. This is a school bus stop and I have 20 to 30 kids here at a time, so it would be nothing to it to do so. I am thankful to these kids for making my day more pleasant and easy to take. Believe me it's a great feeling. I want to wish them all happy holidays ahead.

Thank you,
Joe Stinson

Adams School PTA Plans Holiday Activities

Several activities have been planned by the Adams School PTA for the holiday season.

On Tuesday Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m., at the regular PTA meeting, several classes will present programs of drama and music for parents and friends of the school. Also, special instrumental and vocal music will be presented by selected pupils. General carol singing will end the program.

On Friday, Dec. 17, the annual Christmas Bazaar for the pupils of the school will be held in the Media Center between 9 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

On Thursday, Dec. 23, the PTA Christmas Treat will be given to all pupils of the school.

Contrary to popular belief, owls can see in the daytime.

Wollaston Liquor Licenses Renewed Despite Protests

The Quincy Licensing Board renewed all the liquor licenses held by restaurants on Wollaston Beach, despite the objections of area residents, led by local religious and political leaders.

Said City Councillor Avery W. Gikerson, one of the protest leaders:

"The basis of this objection is that Quincy, with 27 miles of natural waterfront, has the greatest recreation possibilities of any place on the South Shore. The sale of liquor is taking place right in that natural playground. It does not create a proper moral atmosphere for children."

The licenses were held by Bowen's Dine and Dance, 797A Wollaston Boulevard; Sam's, 725-735 Boulevard; Al-An Sandwich Shoppe, 895 Boulevard; Anchor Inn, East Elm Ave. and Boulevard; and Elsie's, 300-308 Beach St.

The liquor license of the Squantum Yacht Club was renewed without objection.

HOCKEY TEAM READY

Coach Ken Hudson was preparing his Quincy High School hockey team for its Bay State League opener with Walpole.

The starting lineup was to be chosen from:

NO MORE POLICE

The City Council refused a request by Mayor Thomas Durgin and Police Chief John J. Avery for six more officers to be added to the Quincy Police Department.

The request was referred to the next year's Council after Councillor Neil A. McDonald, one of three "lame ducks" on the body, pointed out that the three incoming new Councillors had been elected on a platform of economy.

Chief Avery protested that the new officers were needed since the City Council had recently shortened the work week by giving the policemen one day off in every seven.

Battle Looms

LoCicero Says Low Bid On Trash Contract Not Proper

Charles Lee Disposal, Inc., of South Boston was low bidder last week on a contract to collect garbage and rubbish in Quincy -- but one of the other bidders won't give up the fight.

F & R Service, Inc., of Newton claimed that it was the lowest responsible bidder but that Public Works Commissioner Vincent LoCicero refused to open its bid.

LoCicero said he did indeed refuse to open the F & R bid because it was not accompanied by a certified check as a deposit covering 10 per cent of the price of the first year of the contract.

F & R also did not enclose a required letter from an insurance company indicating a willingness to provide a performance bond on the contract.

"I could not accept the bid or I would have been taken to court by the five other companies," said LoCicero, noting that he was advised not to accept it by Assistant City Solicitor Robert Fleming.

Nevertheless, William C. Roberts, vice president of F & R, dispatched letters to Mayor LaRaia, LoCicero and members of the City Council asking a meeting with the "appropriate awarding authority" to discuss the bidding.

Roberts wrote: "F & R Service, Inc., is pleased to inform you that at today's [Dec. 2] opening of the bids for rubbish and garbage removal, our company was the lowest responsible bidder."

"We would like to inform you that our company was $266,000 lower than the present contractor, Browning Ferris Inc. for a three year period."

"With the ever increasing cost of taxation our company sincerely feels gratified at the savings we would like to afford the citizens of Quincy."

LoCicero said the bidding went like this, for contract periods of one, two and three years:

Charles Lee Disposal, Inc., of South Boston, $680,000, $1,360,000 and $2,040,000.

Browning and Ferris, Inc., of Dorchester, $688,000, $1,428,000 and $2,216,000.

SCA Services of New England of Boston, $886,260, $1,822,520 and $2,808,780.

Stanley Riketenetz of Woburn, $728,000 and $1,486,000 for one and two years.

J. F. Ryan Inc., of Dorchester, $2,265,594 for three years.

F & R's Roberts claimed before the bids were opened that the requirement of a letter from a bonding company guaranteeing the second and third year of the contract before the job started was too restrictive for a responsible bidder.

"To my knowledge," he said, "there is absolutely no municipality in the state of Massachusetts that goes out for competitive municipal bidding that has ever asked and received a commitment for a three year period from any bonding company."

He said the past two years of the current contract with Browning and Ferris the Commissioners permitted the company to place a bank book in the amount of 10 per cent of the annual bid price as a guarantee of faithful service.

F & R asked for and was refused the same prerogative, he said.

Council, Cerasoli Urge State Send QHS Band To Carter Inaugural

If the champion Quincy High School Marching Band doesn't make it to Washington for the inauguration of President Jimmy Carter next month it won't be the fault of the City Council and Rep. Robert Cerasoli [D-Quincy-Weymouth].

The City Council, at the behest of Councillor Paul D. Harold, passed a resolve Monday night urging Gov. Michael Dukakis to designate the Marching Presidents as one of the two bands to represent the state at the Jan. 20 ceremonies.

And Cerasoli, on the same day, penned a letter to the governor urging the same thing.

Both noted that the Quincy band already bears the seal of the President in recognition of John and John Quincy Adams and that it won the State Class A Marching Competition last month in the Christmas Festival Parade.

A NEWSPAPER BY AND FOR THE CHILDREN OF QUINCY

A Trip To The Hot Lunch Kitchens

Don't forget to drink plenty of milk!

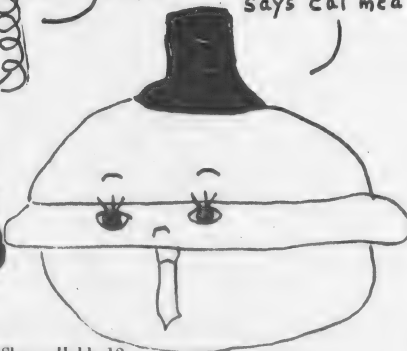

Cereal is also important for your health!

I'm Tammy, The Tomato. Eat lots of me.

Sam The Hamburger says eat meat!

If It's Not Fresh, We're Out of Business

Mr. Cole, Director of Kitchens, shows [left to right] Robert Moody, Robert Baldwin and Kelly Keeler the huge kettle and mixing arm where all the sauces and gravies are made for the hot lunch program.

Mr. Guy Mastrianni, head baker, shows Kelly Keeler, Robert Moody and assistant editor Rick Davis the table where pizza dough is rolled out.

There was the delicious smell of freshly baking brownies in the air when Robert Moody, 12, Robert Baldwin, 11, and Kelly Keeler, 11, entered the old Lincoln School where the hot lunches for the elementary school children of Quincy are cooked.

The children are students in Miss Nightengale's sixth grade at Great Hill School. This class is studying nutrition. Part of its study was a trip to the hot lunch kitchens.

Mr. George Cole, Director of Kitchens, took us on a tour of the huge facility where 5000 hot lunches are prepared daily.

We saw a gigantic, 40-gallon kettle with a mixing arm where all the sauces and gravies are cooked. We saw a giant electric braiser -- a huge fry pan which can cook 300 pounds of hamburger at a time. We saw a 5-foot wide electric pot washer, an automatic cookie dropper, a huge, flat table with rollers where pizza is prepared. "We could make you flat as a gingerbread man in one minute," Mr. Cole joked to Bobby Moody.

Finally we came to the source of the delicious smell -- a huge oven where 5000 freshly baked brownies were being taken out and stacked to be delivered to your schools. "We used 108 pounds of sugar in those," Mr. Guy Mastrianni, head baker, explained.

We saw the twenty-five people who work in the kitchens -- preparing, baking and packaging the food. "A wonderful, very efficient group of people," Mr. Cole explained. "Most are mothers of school children and they always do that little extra."

During the tour the children asked Mr. Cole questions. Here are his answers.

Mr. Cole, how do you decide what the menu will be?

The elementary school lunch is designed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. They make sure that you get the four basic foods in each hot lunch.

What do you do with leftovers?

Because of our planning, we have very few. If we do have some, we freeze them and use them when we have the same meal again. The elementary school lunch repeats itself every 16 days.

We pay 40 cents for our lunch. Does this pay for the whole hot lunch program?

Absolutely not. Your 40 cents only pays for half your meal. Your meal actually costs 83 cents to produce. The other 43 cents comes from four sources. For each child's meal, the government pays 11 cents, the state pays 16 cents, the city of Quincy pays 6 cents, and 11 cents is saved by using surplus foods which the government gives us.

When will we get the food we see being prepared here today? And how does it get to our school?

There are 21 schools in Quincy. The meals for 10 schools will go out this afternoon. They are delivered by sanitized truck which is only used to carry food and is sterilized every week. The meals for the other 11 schools will be delivered at 7 a.m. tomorrow.

What's the most popular hot lunch?

I bet you can guess that, kids. Pizza, of course.

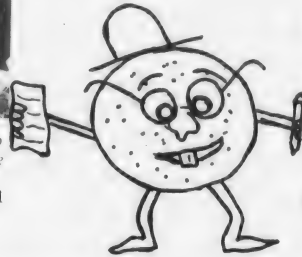

Whatever you do, eat a slice of bread or two!

I'm Always Goi

Hi, Bobby, I'm Harold Hamburger. Make sure you eat a lot of me and other good meats!

I want to live a long, long time. Maybe to the year 2050. I want to be healthy all the time. That's why I'm going to eat right.

Bobby Baldwin, 11

I'm going to eat right because I want to be strong. Really strong. I want to be a running back for the Patriots and help them win the Super Bowl. You can't be strong if you don't eat right.

Al Carpenter, 11

Breakfast Is Fuel For The Day

Breakfast is the most important meal of the day. Just like a car gases up before a long trip, you must "gas up" before your long trip through the day. A good, solid breakfast is your fuel. The children in Miss Nightengale's sixth grade prepared a delicious, healthy breakfast for their classmates and the teachers at Great Hill School. The children brought in the ingredients. There was a choice of four breakfasts. Each one contained the four food groups. See if you can have a breakfast like one of these every single day.

From Baby to Young Lady in Four Easy Lessons

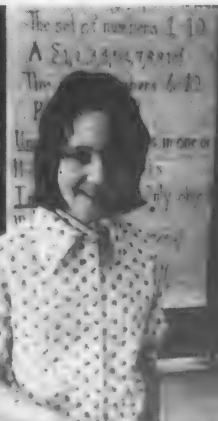

Here I am as a little baby. And here I am as an eleven-year-old girl. It took good care and a good diet to help me grow these past eleven years.

When I was a baby, I ate everything my mother gave me. I'm fussy now. But I know it's my responsibility to eat the foods that are good for me. I'm going to always eat the four basic food groups -- meat, vegetables and fruit, bread and cereal, and milk.

I want to look healthy with good color, shiny hair, strong fingernails and bright eyes. I want to get married someday. I want to be strong enough to pick up my own babies and keep them healthy.

Reilly First Vice President

Charles Pearce Elected South Shore Chamber President

Charles A. Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank, has been elected president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce for 1977.

Also elected were: Gerald T. Reilly, founder and treasurer of Gerald T. Reilly and Co., CPAs, Inc., first vice president.

Thomas E. Curtis, president of Curtis Enterprises, Inc., second vice president.

Chosen to serve as vice presidents in the Chamber's primary categories were:

David Loveless, president of Boston Whaler, Inc., for economic development.

Andrew Walsh, president of Walsh's Restaurant, for community affairs.

John Hill, operations manager of Exide Safety Systems Division of ESB, Inc., for public affairs.

Paul MacElhiney, vice president of Duncan MacKellar Insurance Agency, for membership development.

Pearce, a long-time active Chamber member has served the organization in several capacities. As president, he will be legislative head of the Chamber and chief spokesman on official statements of policy.

He will also interpret the Chamber's program to the membership and general public and seek ways and means of making it a more effective organization and better able to serve membership needs.

A graduate of Colby College, Pearce received his Master's degree in Education from Boston University. He is a past president of the Savings Banks Association of Massachusetts, now serving on the Executive Committee; a director of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, and the Education and Management Committee.

Pearce also is a member of the faculty of the Graduate School of Savings Banking at Brown University and a director of the American Institute of Banking.

He is a director of the Mass. Taxpayers' Foundation, the Quincy YMCA, and the William

Quincy City Club Donates 2 Color TV Sets Sets To Long Island Hospital

The Quincy City Club started its celebration of Christmas early this season Sunday when officers of the organization delivered two color television sets to the Long Island Hospital.

Richard J. Koch, president, said the early presentation provides an opportunity for the patients to see the Christmas shows, and also alerts other organizations of the need for additional television sets in many of the hospital's wards.

One of the color sets donated by the City Club was assigned to Ward B, a men's ward and the other to Ward G-1, a women's ward. Patients in both wards are confined and ambulatory.

A table radio was also donated to Long Island Hospital for the patients unable to enjoy television because of physical conditions or sight problems.

At its second annual Christmas Breakfast Sunday, Koch announced that the $2,000 goal for 1976 Christmas charitable projects had been reached.

Other programs to be undertaken for the season include gifts for a retarded children's Christmas party, bedding and pajamas for the Faxon House Detoxification Center, gifts and items for the Boston State Hospital for Mental Health and gifts for a girls home.

Last Christmas, the City Club raised and expended $1,000 for charitable projects and set its $2,000 quota for this season. All funds raised are accomplished by the individual donations of the membership.

Donald E. Conboy and Paul Lee have served as co-chairmen of the fund raising committee for the past two years.

James B. Moody was Christmas Breakfast chairman. Dr. Allen Yacubian is gifts presentation chairman.

The Quincy City Club incorporated Sept. 12, 1974 is a service organization providing assistance to those in need.

4 Santa Mailboxes In Downtown Quincy

Richard J. Koch, chairman of the Santa Mailbox program of the Quincy Festival Committee, reminds boys and girls that four special mailboxes for letters to Santa Claus are located in Quincy Center.

They are at:

McIntyre Mall, adjacent to the Quincy Cooperative Bank, in front of Sears and the Rite Aid Stores on Hancock St., and at the rear of the Child World Store in the Ross Parking Way.

Koch said the service offered by the Quincy Festival Committee will provide the boys and girls with a more personalized communication with Santa.

Judith Morris Tops Conway Real Estate

Judith W. Morris, a new member of the Jack Conway Company's Wollaston office and mother of five, topped the entire 170-member Conway Company sales force during the record-breaking month of October.

Announcement was made by John R. Reardon, vice president and general manager.

Mrs. Morris's husband, Philip, is employed at Wollaston Post Office. The Morris' live at 25 Elm Ave.

Mrs. Morris sold $216,000 of residential properties from her Wollaston headquarters during October. The sales were in Holbrook, Quincy, Pembroke and Hanover.

A broker with the Conway Company only seven months she credits her success thusly:

"I think it's in the way you treat your customers - all of my customers were either referred to me or had been working with me for a considerable period of time, and I guess I killed them with kindness because I know I worked very hard with each one of them and we sort of found the properties together."

Mrs. Morris also attributed a good economy in the Wollaston area and a ready supply of mortgage money in the market as other reasons why she was able to do so well during the October period.

Other members of the Conway organization who were leaders in their respective divisions were Howard Hupfer, Hyannis; Carl Hagopian, Hingham; JoAnn Haag, Scituate; Dotti Machinski, Whitman; Marie Krabich, Hanover; Mary O'Brien, Plymouth; Marguerite Macdonald, Duxbury; John Cronin, Hanson; Nick DeRosa, West Bridgewater; Maureen Tomco, Braintree; Tom McGuire, Sandwich; Bob Fesler, Cohasset; Carrie Blake, Falmouth; Herb Daniels, East Dennis and Paul McFawn, Marshfield.

Everyone Needs A Balanced Diet

Mrs. Maureen O'Brien, the Health Education Coordinator of the Quincy Schools, visited our feature class to answer some of their questions about nutrition. Before the individual questions from the class, Mrs. O'Brien talked about the importance of a good diet. "The basic function of eating food, the right food" is to maintain good health. Each person must have a balanced diet to grow and be healthy," Mrs. O'Brien explained. "A balanced diet contains the four basic food groups -- meat, dairy products like milk, butter and eggs; fruit and vegetables; and bread and cereal." The class asked Mrs. O'Brien some interesting questions.

Mrs. O'Brien, milk is called the perfect food. Could we stay healthy if we didn't eat anything and only drank milk?

Milk is the perfect food. But to stay healthy, you need food from the four basic food groups.

How much iron do you need a day?

Everyone is different. And everyone's nutritional needs are different. It depends on how big you are, how fast you're growing, how busy you are, whether you're a boy or a girl. If you eat the four basic food groups every day, you can be sure that you are getting enough iron.

Is there any way you can tell if you're not getting the proper diet?

How you feel and how you look tell you if you have the proper diet. Are you the right weight? Do you have enough energy? Do you have a good appetite? Do you sleep well? Do you have good color in your cheeks? Does your hair shine? Are your skin and fingernails in shape?

Why is fish called brain food?

Fish is an excellent food to help you grow. It helps every single cell in your body. And if your whole body is growing in a strong, healthy way so is your brain. [One comedian in the class commented: "I thought fish was called brain food because they always are in schools!"]

Do you think we get enough of the four basic food groups?

I hope so. But the older you get, the more it becomes your responsibility, not your parents'. When you were a young child, your diet was totally controlled. You ate what your mother gave you. Now, you are older. You have your own money. You can buy things at the store. It's your responsibility to eat a proper diet.

I don't like milk. I don't drink much. Will this affect my health? I'm sorry you don't drink milk. It's so good for you. Be sure you eat a lot of other dairy products like cheese and eggs.

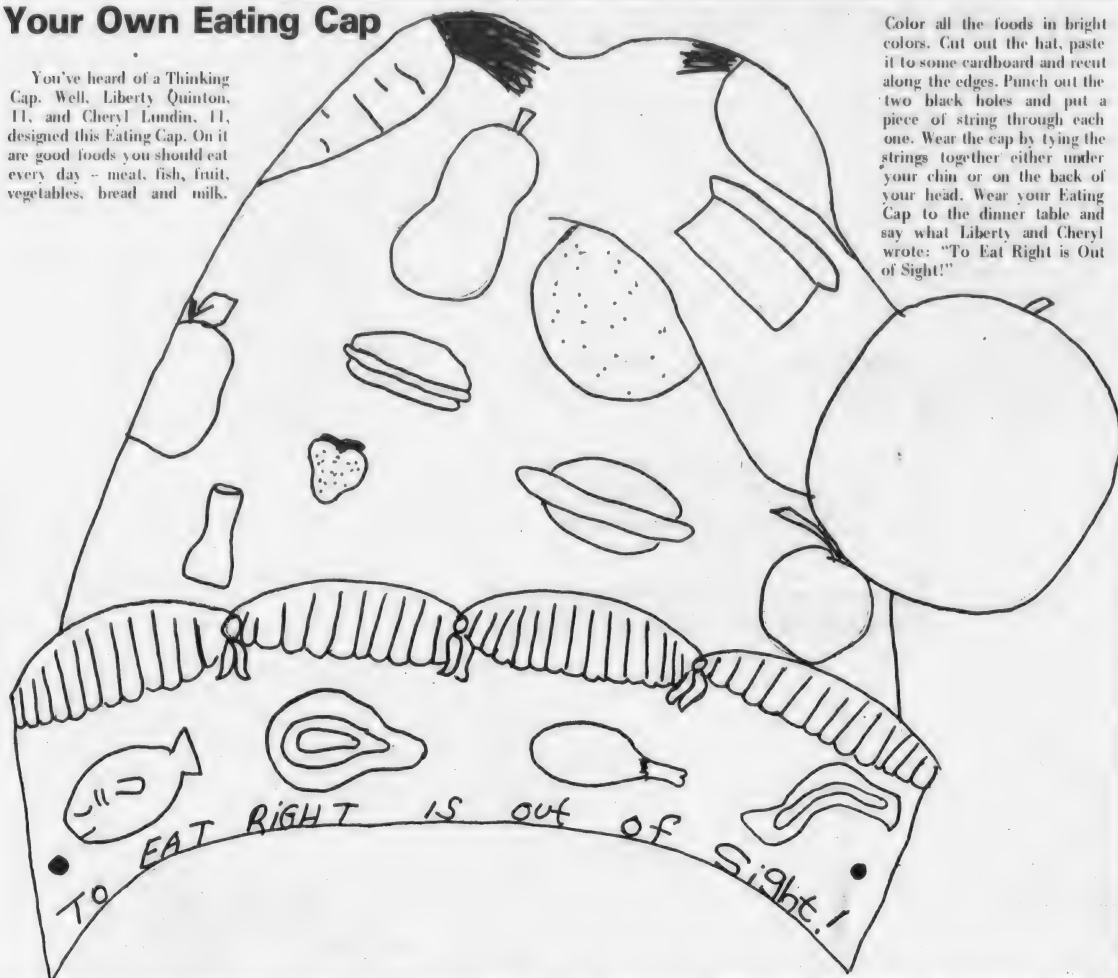

What's the most important meal of the day?

Breakfast. No doubt about it. Breakfast starts you off and gives you the energy you need for the day. If you absolutely had to skip one meal, I would say You don't need too much energy to sleep.

Your Own Eating Cap

You've heard of a Thinking Cap. Well, Liberty Quinton, 11, and Cheryl Lundin, 11, designed this Eating Cap. On it are good foods you should eat every day -- meat, fish, fruit, vegetables, bread and milk.

Color all the foods in bright colors. Cut out the hat, paste it to some cardboard and recut along the edges. Punch out the two black holes and put a piece of string through each one. Wear the cap by tying the strings together either under your chin or on the back of your head. Wear your Eating Cap to the dinner table and say what Liberty and Cheryl wrote: "To Eat Right is Out of Sight!"

Assistant editors for this issue are Kathie Doody and Rick Davis, both sophomores at North Quincy High School. They are both interested in newspaper work as a career. Kathie and Rick visited the classroom with Young Ideas editor and the kitchen for the hot lunch program. They helped interview the students and gather material for this issue. In the picture above, Kathie and Rick are helping Charley McIsaac (second from left) and Stephen McDonough with their posters about good nutrition. Kathie and Rick also helped the students below who made storyboards of the four basic food groups. QJC: Should It Be City Or State Supported?

enrollments," says Dr. Creedon, "the state is moving away from the construction of new facilities."

Quincy Junior College was established some 20 or 25 years ago by the Quincy School Committee as a part-time collection of evening courses. It came into being prior to the setting up of the state network of community colleges.

Right now, it serves more than 3,000 students - 1,000 in daytime programs and 2,000 plus in part-time or evening courses, some of them scattered around on off-campus sites in neighboring towns.

It is, for the most part, self-supporting, with tuitions accounting for about 90 per cent of its $1.3 million budget.

"It has never been a serious burden to the taxpayers of Quincy," said Dr. Creedon. "Three or four years ago it looked like it would be costly but we expanded the evening programs under Richard T. Mula, the dean of continuing education, and it worked out all right."

Dr. Creedon ticked off some of the pros and cons of state takeover.

"A major advantage to state control would be the cost of tuition to the kids," he said.

"Our kids pay $600 or $700 tuition depending on whether or not they are residents of Quincy. Tuitions in state community colleges are $300. The state would then underwrite the costs.

"Another advantage is that we would have a campus and could offer a wider variety of programs."

The advantages of remaining under city control are largely economic.

"There is always the question of whether we really need an extensive campus," said Dr. Creedon.

"We make extensive use of existing facilities.

"The Junior College uses the labs at Quincy High School and the Vo Tech School in the late afternoon when they are not being used by the high schools.

"The evening programs at the Junior College move into several schools in the city and nearby communities to use the facilities.

"We are able to run the Junior College with a small fulltime staff of 30 professionals, augmented by 170 part-timers who come in to teach specific courses.

"We are not tied up with a heavy, fulltime tenured faculty that locks in the course that we offer.

"When we want to change direction we can simply replace a course. It is not an add-on procedure.

"One of our current strengths is that we have no campus and no money tied up in buildings."

One of the requirements for obtaining a community college is that the city acquire a tract of land and turn it over to the state to show its interest.

Quincy did that about six years ago, with land in Broadmeadows behind Dutton's Restaurant going to the state as a campus site.

"An architect was appointed by the state a few years ago," said Dr. Creedon, "and preliminary plans have been drawn but I don't know where in the process of adoption they are right now."

WHERE TO SIGN FOR FREE CHECKING THAT PAYS 5% INTEREST.

A Quincy Cooperative NOW account works exactly like a regular checking account.

With a few added attractions.

For a start, it's free. (Minimum $10.00 balance required.) And you'll end up with 5% interest on your savings. (Daily interest compounded continuously.) With those benefits in its favor, we doubt it'll bother you that NOW account 'checks' are called withdrawal orders. They look similar. And they'll do the same job whether you're shopping or paying bills. So don't leave your money in a do nothing checking account. Move it to Quincy Cooperative and put it to work.

Josiah Quincy, Jr., who founded cooperative banking in this state, believed that the work ethic should pay dividends. That's why we named our bank for him. And now offer the NOW account.

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

Report Shows 'The Good Life' Shared By More Americans

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
and Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

Advice from those who are there: SAVE FOR RETIREMENT

"Begin 40 years before retirement to save, save, save!"

This is the counsel of a 73-year-old single man in a survey of retirees who are participants in a pension program for academic and non-academic personnel employed at 1,600 American educational institutions.

His advice is echoed by the vast majority of retirees, who point out that resources beyond Social Security and retirement programs are needed if living in post-working years is to be comfortable.

Of the total monthly income received by all the reporting retirees, nearly one-third was derived from annuities or pensions, slightly over a quarter from Social Security, and almost that much from income on savings and other investments. About ten percent came from current employment [for about one of every five], and about five percent from other sources.

"Do save all you can," is the advice of a 73-year-old widow. "Don't live on so high a scale that retirement makes you come down and you're unhappy."

A 67-year-old single woman mourns her lack of thrift. "I have no trouble in spending, but I don't understand saving!" She adds, "In 1932 I met a German girl in the U.S. whose father made her save ten cents out of each dollar earned. I had no such training or urge - sad at this point. Think what might have been."

This philosophy that a little saved adds up is reflected in the comment of the 70-year-old married man: "A pitifully small early savings and investment program can really do a great job."

A married man aged 68 urges not to spend too much on housing. "Don't blow your savings for the fanciest house you can get," he advises. Some of our neighbors are pinched from trying to keep too much house for their total means."

Another married man, 69, advises, "Do your planning early, save as soon as you can by buying excellent stocks and by putting money in good savings and loan associations. Save in both about equal amounts." He warns against speculating on the stock market.

The wisdom of this advice from the people who are there can be checked by measuring the kind of income we will have in retirement from Social Security, pension, and other sources and how much we will have to add from our own savings to maintain a financial standard we can live with.

President Real Estate

What Goes With House?

Real estate is usually defined as the land and everything attached to it, such as: buildings, trees, shrubs, etc. The buyer normally gets all of the real estate, but none of the owner's personal property. The problem arises when personal property has become a part of the real estate. This is called a fixture and does pass with the real estate.

spell out specifically in his sales agreement exactly what he intends to give to the buyer as part of real estate. This will save misunderstanding at the closing, and sometimes save a sale.

Thinking of selling your home?

It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

LaRaia To Keep Central Maintenance Facility

[Cont'd from Page 1]

"Basically it is my opinion that in these particular times of financial crisis we can't afford the luxury of creating a new position," said Raymondi, "even if it is justified by talk of savings five or 10 or 15 years down the road."

"In the weeks to come, the City Council is going to be asked to create a bureaucracy known as the Central Maintenance Facility, all under the guise of saving the city of Quincy money."

"It's beyond me how you can spend in excess of $60,000 for rent, pay additional positions to the tune of $50,000 and have an expense budget up some $71,000 over what we spent last year and still save money."

"I think it is going to be an albatross around the necks of every City Councilor who supports this facility."

"I am not prepared to increase any additional payrolls in this city unless I see some clear cut facts and proof that it is going to save the taxpayers of this city some money."

"I haven't seen the evidence yet."

Tobin called it a "fallacy to state that lack of a director is causing all the problems." He said the facility was underfunded to begin with.

"There was a stipulated sum in the lease agreement but there was also an escalator clause so when the tax rate went up approximately $35 the taxpayers of this city picked up the escalator clause."

"There is an attempt to put the blame on the City Council but it is not going to work because the truth is going to be told."

"They have an acting director there now. I informed the Mayor that I would work with the acting director to help solve the problems but creating a new position is not going to solve the problems."

"They have insufficient funds and it was the President of the City Council [Tobin] who informed the commissioner of public works that he had insufficient funds. He didn't know it himself."

"They talk about the City Council cutting $70,000 out of the budget but the Budget Director cut $40,000 before the budget hit the floor of the City Council."

Tobin agreed that the "best course of action is to work with the acting director and see if we can solve the problems but there's insufficient funds and creating a new job won't solve the problems."

The Central Maintenance Facility is located in a garage leased from Reardon Realty Trust. All the city's vehicles are maintained there by personnel transferred from the Highways, Sewer, Cemetery and Water Departments.

filling stations," said that South Shore National Bank is doing well despite the highly competitive environment.

"But we are in a cost squeeze," he said. "We need to be aggressive. The day of being open from 10 to 3 is past for all banks."

Anthony Losordo, a West Quincy businessman, reminded the Council that Quincy's tax rate went up $34.90 this year.

"If it goes up $20 next year," he warned, "we'll be in the same boat as Boston."

Frank Remick, a member of the Mayor's Task Force on the South Quincy MBTA Station, reported that the motley group of business and community people "has distinguished itself in being united on the major aspects of its work."

"The people on the task force once represented diametrically opposed forces," he said. "But once the issue was settled by Washington the South Quincy folks showed a great deal of magnanimity in accepting it."

"And the business people in turn took a deep concern in South Quincy's interest in flood control." All hands are unanimously concerned with the extension of Upland Rd."

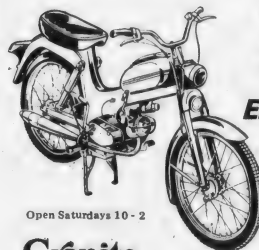

He said the Task Force is committed to depressing Upland Rd between the Ross Parking Area and the Grossman's store but the concept was brought up pretty late in the development.

"The MBTA thinks it is a lovely idea," said Remick, "but there will be delays while various approvals are obtained. In rebuttal we should come up with ways to bypass the bureaucratic short circuits."

PROFESSIONAL HYPNOTISTS OPEN OFFICE HERE

Dec. 8, 1976

QUINCY - Hypnosis, a phenomenon known since the 17th century and the days of Anton Mesmer and his school of "mesmerism", now has become a tool in the relief of modern day problems.

Approved as a beneficial technique by the American Medical Association, hypnosis has become widespread.

In order to meet increasing demands of professional hypnosis in eastern Massachusetts, C.A.L.M., Inc., has opened a South Shore office in Quincy - across the street from the John F. Kennedy Health Center. Many people, today are distraught over undesirable habits.

Our community has an organization with a QUALIFIED and SPECIALIZED staff. C.A.L.M., located at 24 Adams St., Quincy, uses hypnosis to assist many people in relief from TENSION, increase of SELF-CONFIDENCE, and control of WEIGHT and SMOKING.

C.A.L.M., Inc., has been in service for nearly two years and has worked with patients of over 200 physicians in the Greater Boston Area.

C.A.L.M., welcomes the opportunity to help you to discover how hypnosis may be of service to you. For more information on hypnosis or C.A.L.M.'s programs, Call: 471-8277, Mon.-Fri. 9 A.M. to 2 P.M., C.A.L.M.

Neighborhood Watch Training Session For Auxiliary Police

Quincy Auxiliary Police will hold a Neighborhood Watch training class Wednesday, Dec. 8 at 8 p.m. at the Civil Defense building for new members of the Auxiliary Police Department.

Objective of the Neighborhood Watch program is to inform people of possible ways to protect themselves against burglary in their homes. Burglaries have shown a significant decrease since the program began about three years ago.

During the past three years, the auxiliary police have played a major role with the help of the Quincy Police Department's Planning and Research team, and regular police officers.

Department members and special guests from other communities will also be briefed on a new commercial security program designed to distribute information to Quincy businesses on better methods of protection against burglaries.

A volunteer unit of the Quincy Civil Defense Department, the Auxiliary Police are under the direction of Francis X. Finn, Quincy Police Chief.

More information may be obtained from Frank Davis, auxiliary police public relations officer at the Quincy Police Station.

YOUTH HOCKEY DAYS -- Mayor Joseph LaRaia issues proclamation for "Quincy Youth Hockey Fund Raising Days". Left to right, William Lewis, Quincy Youth Hockey Association president; Lynn McGoff, LaRaia, Dave Edgren and John Crossman, chairman of the Booster decal drive. LaRaia proclaimed Saturday and Sunday as the fund raising days.

LaRaia Proclaims 'Youth Hockey Fund Days'

Mayor Joseph LaRaia has proclaimed Saturday and Sunday as "Quincy Youth Hockey Association Fund Raising Days" and has urged all citizens of Quincy to participate in support of "this worthy cause".

"Over the last several years the sport of hockey has greatly grown in the Quincy area", LaRaia said. "The supporters of Quincy Youth Hockey are dedicated to the advancement of hockey among younger people in the city of Quincy and members of the Quincy Youth Hockey Association have worked long and hard to maintain financial support of youth hockey.

"The participation by young people in sports such as hockey is a valuable present and future investment in the welfare of the city."

Bonani's 4 Goals Powers Sundowners, 6-1

Al Bonani scored four goals to pace the Sundowners Lounge to a 6-1 win over Sportlight Cafe in the Quincy Executive Hockey League Sunday at the Youth Arena.

The other scorers for Sundowners, who remained in first place, were Fran Bonani and John Crossman. Fran Bonani and Bob Norton had two goals each and Tom Noonan and Ken Gardner one apiece. Chet Brumstrum scored for Sportlight with Bill Sweeney assisting.

Hofbrau defeated Darcy's Pub, 5-3, scoring four goals in the second period. After Don Fawcett had given Darcy's a quick 1-0 lead, with Jim Daly assisting, Art Boyle tied it later in the opening period. In the big second period Dave Towle, Dave Edgren, Paul Millot and Millot again scored for Hofbrau. Jack Powers, Fran Whalen, Warren Mills and Boyle had assists. Bob O'Connell, with assists for Don Larkin and Daly, scored for Darcy's in the second period and Lee Staskiewicz had a consolation goal in the finale.

Al's Cafe overcame a 3-0 deficit to defeat Washington Tap, 7-4, as Harry Crisbo, Dick McCabe and Bob Gibbs had two goals apiece. Mike Haynes had the other. Haynes had four assists and McCabe and Gibbs two each. For Washington Pete Laberge scored twice and John Emmott and Kevin White once each. Marty Tolson had two assists and Wayne Gauthier, Bernie Toland, Bob Murray, Charlie Duffy and Emmott one apiece.

Bantam B's Rack Up 3 Victories

The Bantam B team added three wins during the past week.

The B's defeated Weymouth, 4-1, with Mark Boussey having two goals and John Martin and Joey Rathgeb one each. Robbie Zanardelli had two assists and Rathgeb, Tommy Roche and Jack Sayers one apiece.

The B's also shut out Braintree with John Herald and P. T. Kelly in goal, 10-0. Rathgeb and Boussey each had a hat trick and Zanardelli, Chuckie Marshall, Mike Rowell and Roche had a goal apiece. Roche and Martin had three assists each and Marshall, Steve Walsh, Mike Rowell, Kelly, Zanardelli and Mark Veasey one apiece.

Canton fell, 8-1, with Roche having the hat trick and Rathgeb, Martin, Zanardelli, Marshall and Dave Burke one goal each. Roche and Marshall had two assists each and Martin, Burke, Boussey, Sayers and Sean Dennis one apiece.

Council Favors Towing Ordinance

Indications are that Quincy will soon have a tow law.

The City Council's Public Safety Committee led a hearing on the subject Tuesday night and a survey of councillors indicated they are all for it in concept but are concerned with its implementation.

"It is necessary to keep a proper traffic flow in certain areas," said Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., the committee chairman, who introduced the towing ordinance.

"But we don't want to get into the business of collecting fees like Boston was."

"I'd like to see different fines for business and residential zones," said Councillor Paul D. Harold. "The zones would have to be limited, too, so that they would mean something."

"It would be a good thing for Quincy," said Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi. "Particularly the area around the Shipyard. People pay taxes and their parking lots are empty because cars are parked illegally on the road."

"The people have indicated to us that they want a tow law," said Councillor Warren Powers.

"The police feel they need one and the people at the Quincy District Court feel they need it because the traffic tickets are piling up without one. If there's no teeth in the parking laws people just disregard them."

"Something has to be done about the flagrant parking abuse," said Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

"But I hope the law is not addressed toward the city as a whole, only against the flagrant violators."

Seniors Hot Lunch

Proposal Being Redrafted

Mayor LaRaia and the City Council have reached an informal agreement on a Senior Citizen Home Care-Hot Lunch Program, pending concurrence by the School Committee.

The program, part of an 11-community regional effort, has been held up by the Council's refusal to appropriate $7,700, which is Quincy's share of the money needed to implement the program.

The Mayor says he has assigned Pasquale DiStefano, director of Veterans' Services, and Robert Tweedy, director of the Council on Aging, to assist City Councillor Leo J. Kelly in redrafting the proposal for the Council.

The new program, he said, would include the lunch portion of the program under the School Department's supervision.

"I have further extended my support by relinquishing to the City Council the right to appoint two directors on the four-member home care corporation which will be set up to administer the lunch program," said LaRaia.

"However, I respect the School Committee's right to review the proposal before any commitments are made."

School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley has objected to the use of the school commissary in distributing hot lunches to senior citizens as not being within the province of public education.

Finn Vows Court Action

16 Downtown Stores To Open Sunday

By TOM HENSHAW

Most retail stores in downtown Quincy plan to defy the law and open their doors to Christmas shoppers this Sunday.

And Police Chief Francis X. Finn plans to take them to court.

At least five Quincy merchants took part last Sunday in a massive and apparently spontaneous campaign against the state's 300-year-old Blue Laws. All received citations to appear in Quincy District Court.

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association's executive committee voted unanimously Tuesday morning to support any store in downtown Quincy that chooses to open on Sunday.

"I took a phone survey Monday and the reaction was very positive," said Charles Ryder, owner of Ryder's Curtain Shop and president of the QCBPA. "Those who were on the fence were waiting for our decision."

Of the major retail outlets in Quincy Center, Sears Roebuck said it will observe national policy and remain closed, and Joseph Angelo, manager of Remick's of Quincy, said Remick's will close, too. "It was a hard decision to come to," he added.

Chief Finn's reaction was simple and direct.

"I intend to enforce the law," he said.

Finn's police enforced the law last Sunday when they cited Child World, Turnstile, Paperama, King's and Radio Shack for violation of the "observance of the Lord's Day" statutes.

Nevertheless, Steve Dryer, manager of Paperama, said his store will open again Sunday from 12 noon to 5 p.m.

Those stores reported moderate business.

"The fact that we couldn't advertise until the last minute had a lot to do with it," said Jerry Morreale, manager of Child World.

"We plan to be open for the next two Sundays [Dec. 19 and 26]. We hope that by then the courts will have decided what we can do. It would make it easier for all of us."

Morreale said clerks at Child World worked Sunday on a voluntary basis.

"We have a lot of college students, some working just for the holiday season," he said. "We paid time and a half. They jumped at the opportunity."

Mayor LaRaia maintained a hands off policy.

"I leave it to the judgement of the police chief," he said.

"It certainly creates problems for a businessman when competitors are able to operate on Sunday. But there has to be some control over business transactions. What is good for one should be good for all."

"A lot of laws need revision to keep pace with the times."

The Blue Law hassle started last Friday when Justice Herbert Wilkins of the Mass Supreme Judicial Court declined to issue an injunction against enforcement of the law sought by Zayre's but remarked that he thought the laws unconstitutional.

Economic Development Secretary Howard N. Smith said the Blue Laws "are crumbling right before our eyes," and Gov. Michael Dukakis and Atty. Francis X. Bellotti split on the issue. Bellotti for enforcement of the law, Dukakis against.

Norfolk Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt said he agrees with Bellotti.

"When I was in the legislature I voted to repeal the Blue

Under 10% Of Quincy Residents Receive Flu Shots

Just under 10 per cent of the eligible citizens of Quincy received flu shots between Oct. 14 and Dec. 3, Health Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon has reported.

The Health Department administered 9,000 flu immunizations of monoavalent and bivalent vaccines.

Dr. Solomon said 1,200 people received flu shots on Dec. 2 during a clinic that was held between 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. on a stormy night.

Staff personnel of the Health Department and volunteers from the Quincy Red Cross assisted in the program.

Murphy.

The Mayor said he is studying the possibility of using the land as a parking lot or a library in conjunction with a planned Community Service Center across the street.

These Stores To Open Sunday

At pre-10 Tuesday, the following 16 stores in downtown Quincy had signified that they definitely would open Sunday [Dec. 19] in defiance of the Mass. Blue Laws:

Colman's Sporting Goods
Ryder's Curtain and Drapery Shop
Consumer Value Stores [CVS]
Turnstile
Child World

Fewter Pot
Cardon's News and Book Stand

SHATTERPROOF PLASTIC BOTTLE

SPHERE AFLOAT - Giant 850-ton aluminum ball, first of its kind and size ever transported by sea as a single unit, arrives at the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard where it will be installed in the first of 12 liquefied natural gas (LNG) tankers under construction at the yard.

12 Stories High

Jumbo LNG Tanker Spheres Arriving At General Dynamics

Aluminum balls will be rolling into the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard by sea at the rate of one every 2½ weeks to be installed in a dozen liquefied natural gas (LNG) tankers being built at the Yard.

The first of them, 12 stories high and weighing 850 tons, arrived last week on the specially built barge "Hercules", after a 900-mile tow by tug over wintry ocean waters from Charleston, S.C. The trip took four days.

It was the first such sphere ever to be constructed and transported at sea complete as a single unit.

Each of the LNG tankers will be equipped with five of the spheres, 120 feet in diameter and each capable of carrying 25,000 cubic meters of liquefied natural gas at a temperature of minus 265 degrees Fahrenheit.

The recently built multi-million dollars facility in Charleston can work on eight of the giant spheres at one time.

Each is composed of more than 100 formed and machined aluminum plates, weighing from 4½ to 12½ tons each, fastened together by some 60 miles of precision welding.

The first sphere was completed in September, underwent hydrostatic testing and then was covered with more than 10,000 panels of polyurethane insulation and sealed with coatings of rubber and polyurethane.

Seven other spheres are in various stages of completion, one ready for insulation and another scheduled to start hydrostatic testing in mid-December.

The first of the 12 spheres to be built at the Yard is scheduled for delivery in the second quarter of 1977. Five of them will carry gas from Algeria to the United States. The other seven will run between Indonesia and Japan.

$59,501 In New Wiring

The Department of Wire Inspection issued 49 permits for wiring estimated to cost $59,501 during the month of November, Inspector William H. Pitts reports.

The major project was a new building for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Recreational Facilities at 357 West Squantum St., North Quincy.

The department collected $690.75 in fees, issued 50 certificates of approval, made 162 inspections and noted 17 defects. There were 15 reinspections and two fire calls.

Tide Gate Opening Shows:

Spring St. Culvert May Be At Wrong Elevation

Preliminary analysis of the results of opening the tide gate to the Third Marsh in Houghs Neck has turned up some unexpected information, the Quincy Conservation Commission reported.

The gate was opened last Saturday and Sunday at high tide as the Commission sought to prevent the marsh on Spring St. from becoming a meadow and thus a fire hazard.

"It looks like the culvert at Spring St. is possibly at the wrong elevation," said the Commission. "It never lets all the water out of the marsh. This condition of standing water in a salt marsh is not a healthy condition and combines with the restricted tidal flow to contribute to the poor condition of the marsh."

Also, the Commission said, "it appeared that because the tide was coming in from Spring St., it created some sort of suction effect so that when the tide receded the 'vacuum cleaner' effect pulled the tide right through the marsh and out the Edgewater Drive end.

"It requires a lot of research to assess the data and figure out what to do with it."

The gate was opened by a man from the Public Works Department Saturday from 7:45 a.m. to 2:15 p.m. and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Those days were selected because the high tide is then at a low of 10 feet.

The opening was ordered by the Conservation Commission.

over the objections of City Councillor Leo J. Kelly who said he feared the water in the marsh eventually would flood neighborhood homes.

Kelly called the opening "useless and costly."

James F. Donahue, chairman of the Commission, said the group at this time does not have any intention of having the tide gate all open or all closed.

"It seeks to find some middle ground where there will be no flooding but there will be an adequate entry of salt water into the marsh," said Donahue.

"In recent on-site inspections of the locations, Commission members have noted that the tall reed called Phragmite, which covers all of Broad Meadows, is spreading in the area. This reed grows in marshland which is undergoing change.

"Phragmite spreads rapidly once established and can become a serious fire hazard within very few years in this area which is surrounded by homes.

"Also, the change in vegetation because of inadequate supplies of salt water entering the marsh adversely affects the sponge action of the marsh, its ability to absorb and retain water which would otherwise invade homes.

"It is the hope of the Conservation Commission that with carefully monitored opening of the tide gate to admit additional sea water the invasion of phragmite, golden rod and other meadow plants will be reversed and replaced with healthy marsh vegetation."

Don't Put Regular Mail In Santa's Mailboxes

To the folks who are putting U.S. Mail in Santa's Mailboxes in Quincy Square: Stop!

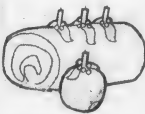

A number of letters and Christmas cards have been found in Santa's Mailboxes and have had to be rerouted through the regular mailboxes placed by Uncle Sam, reports Richard J. Koch, chairman of the Santa's Mailbox program.

The Santa's Mailboxes are small, wooden boxes located at McIntyre Mall, Sears Roebuck and Rite Aid Stores on Hancock St. and in the Ross Parkway at the rear of the Child World Store.

They are for Santa's mail only, Koch points out.

Where Do I Turn?

Mayor's Commission Publishes Booklet On Available Women's Services

Where do women turn to find out about the services available to them in Quincy?

Where are the health clinics, the community centers, the family services designed to meet daily living needs?

Substantial guidance in locating these services can be found in a new booklet, "Where Do I Turn? A Directory of Services Available to Women in Quincy and the Surrounding Area."

The directory was compiled by the Community Services Task Force of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, consisting of Trudy Buckley and Eleanor Tanofsky, co-chairmen; Rose Toye, Mary Vallier, Arloa Webber and Adrienne Clarke, editor.

According to Mrs. Clarke, the idea for the booklet grew out of meetings with women's groups over the past two years held to identify the needs of Quincy women.

"One of the concerns frequently expressed at these meetings was a booklet listing services available to women, particularly in the field of health care," she said.

"This booklet is intended to serve as a vehicle for putting women in contact with people, organizations, and agencies which can help them meet their needs both in daily living and crisis."

The booklet contains addresses and telephone numbers of organizations and agencies dealing with more than 35 different areas of concern are listed.

A wide variety of subjects is covered, including housing, health care, legal aid, alcoholism, mental health, drug abuse, sex education, tenants' rights, consumer protection and senior citizen services.

Information on family services, immunization for infants, pregnancy, and women's counseling services is also provided.

Separate sections of the booklet list community centers and health care facilities such as the Quincy City Hospital, JFK Health Center, Southwest Quincy Community Center, Atlantic Neighborhood Center, Germantown Service Center, and the YMCA. The clinics and services available are explained and hours listed.

"We feel that this booklet can be an important resource for these types of centers because people turn to them for a variety of services," said Ms. Buckley. "By providing a comprehensive guide to community services, people can be referred to a number of agencies to meet their specific problem."

In addition to the listings, the booklet deals with a number of issues of special concern to women. Important but often confusing laws about credit and credit discrimination are explained in detail. The Credit Bill of Rights under the State Fair Credit Reporting Act is summarized.

Five myths about menopause are cited and the facts presented. Breast self-examination is explained. The problems of women and tranquilizers is discussed.

A separate section of the booklet deals with rape - how to report it and the steps involved in a rape prosecution. Counseling services and race crisis lines are identified.

Emergency consultation services and hot lines for other problems such as mental health, alcoholism, drugs, and poisonings are also included in the booklet.

A thousand copies of the booklet were printed as a public service by the Production Department of the Quincy Public Schools. They are free to the public and will soon be available at the Quincy Public Libraries, Quincy City Hall, the Court House, Southwest Community Center, Atlantic Neighborhood Center, Germantown Service Center, JFK Health Center and the YMCA.

The booklet is also being made available to nurses and counselors in the Quincy Public Schools.

Groups interested in obtaining copies should contact the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, City Hall.

DIET AND DIVERTICULOSIS

By age 45, nearly a third of all Americans develop diverticuli, a usually mild disorder that starts when bubbles or tiny pockets of mucous membrane about the size of a pencil eraser push out from inside the intestinal wall. If the pockets become inflamed and perforate or rupture, it then becomes diverticulitis, a painful and potentially dangerous ailment. Some 3,000 people die each year from the complications.

Nobody knows the exact cause, but some researchers now believe diet plays a role. A clue can be found in the eating habits of rural Africans, who seldom get diverticulosis. One thing such people have in common is their diet, which is rich in "fiber" - the parts of whole grains, vegetables, fruits, and nuts that resist complete digestion.

Such diets create "bulk" in the intestines, which acts as a natural laxative. The form of fiber that is cheapest - and more effective than fruits and vegetables for this purpose - is unprocessed bran, which should be washed down with water, milk or fruit juice.

MAYBE YOU NEED A NEST EGG FEDERAL TAXES WON'T CRACK.

If Social Security is all you have to look forward to when you retire, look into a Quincy Cooperative retirement plan. With either our I.R.A. or Keogh Plan you pay no Federal Income Tax on your savings until you retire. And probably by that time you'll be in a lower tax bracket.

$180,000 at age 65.

Our Individual Retirement Account (I.R.A.) is specifically for those not covered by a pension or profit-sharing plan where they work.

If you qualify, you can save 15% of your income up to a maximum of $1,500 each year.

Save the maximum amount each year for thirty years and you'll retire with over $180,000 at age 65.

$900,000 at age 65.

Many self-employed businessmen and professional people have no retirement plan.

That's why we offer the Keogh Retirement Plan. This category can save $7,500 or 15% (whichever is less) of their annual taxable income. Thirty years of saving the maximum in our Keogh Plan would mean an account balance of over $900,000 upon reaching age 65.

*Income is compounded at a current rate of 7 1/2%. This rate is subject to change. Contributions and interest income are not exempt from Massachusetts taxation.

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

The Big Poll:

What Did It Show?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

A recent opinion-preference poll focusing on next year's mayoral election has Quincy political circles buzzing and wondering.

What they're mainly wondering about is [1] who was the poll taken for and [2] what does it show?

Answers to both of those questions are being closely guarded but from bits of information gathered from here and there, part of the answer at least, can be pieced together.

The poll, according to those who called The Sun to report they had been queried, was made via telephone Dec. 5.

It was taken by Cambridge Survey Research, Inc. and was quite "extensive" in both the number of questions asked and the number of people called.

Who was the poll taken for? Well, it has to be one of the following whose names are mentioned in the poll:

Edward Kennedy, Edward Brooke, Michael Dukakis, Elliot Richardson, Joseph LaRaia, Arthur Tobin, James McIntyre, Walter Hannon, James Sheets, Daniel Raymond.

All of those names were involved in a question to rate their image as "favorable" "unfavorable" "no opinion" "never heard of him", etc.

We all know that Kennedy, Dukakis, Richardson and Brooke aren't planning to run for mayor of Quincy next year so they can be dismissed.

That leaves LaRaia, Tobin, Hannon, McIntyre, Sheets or Raymond among those named in the poll as mayoral possibilities.

McIntyre's name, however, reportedly was not mentioned in mayoral preference questions. That would seem to narrow the field down to LaRaia, Tobin, Hannon, Sheets and Raymond.

The poll obviously was taken for one of them. But which one? You can do your own figuring on that.

What does the poll show?

Well, there was a lot of criss-crossing of questions and criss-crossing of the names of LaRaia, Tobin, Hannon, Sheets and Raymond.

There were a number of questions to rate Mayor LaRaia's overall performance in office so far, his appointments, the handling of the $34.90 tax rate hike and Tobin's overall performance in office.

There were more questions pitting LaRaia against Tobin in a mayoral contest, LaRaia against Hannon, LaRaia against Sheets, LaRaia against Raymond.

And still more questions with LaRaia, Tobin and Hannon in the same race, LaRaia, Tobin and Sheets and LaRaia, Tobin and Raymond, etc. etc.

And finally, the biggie: "Who would you vote for mayor if the election were to be held tomorrow?"

Well, how does it all come out in the end?

Tobin reportedly emerges as the strongest of the mayoral candidates. If the election were to be held now, he would win, against any of the other names according to the poll results.

And interestingly, both Hannon and Sheets making impressive showings indicating either would be a formidable challenger against LaRaia.

Raymond reportedly appears as "a comer". Given more time in the City Council he could be a serious mayoral contender in the future.

Well, that's the way we hear it. Maybe more will come later.

SOME POLITICIAN WATCHERS no doubt will wonder about the absence of Councillor Dennis Harrington's name in the poll.

Some still think he will run. If Tobin doesn't get into the mayoral race. And if Tobin does get in, Harrington will probably run for Tobin's at-large seat.

The poll, however, seems to write him off as a mayoral contender.

SPEAKING OF NEXT year's city election, David Crowley is giving "serious consideration" to running for the Ward 1 city council seat.

Crowley, who owns a service station, is the son of former City Councillor David [Jim] Crowley.

His mother, Roberta, is former assistant city treasurer.

WHILE VISITING Washington, D.C. over the weekend, Councillor Paul Harold met Paul Martin, former Quincy resident and one-time editor of the defunct Quincy Evening News. Martin is now political editor for U.S. News and World Report in Washington. And, you are a young Quincy old-timer if you can remember when Quincy had two daily newspapers. The News was located on Washington St. and at one time even published a Sunday edition. Remember?

LIVING TODAY

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX

The Total Man Feels . . .

The Total Man is at home with his feelings. He knows what guilt is ... and has learned to use guilt as a signal that something isn't quite right in his life. He does not let the feeling of guilt destroy him, nor cause him to act deviously. He deals directly with it, he treats it as he would a toothache ... a signal that something needs attention. If he has a conflict with another person, he makes every effort to get the matter squared away. When he's wrong, he's able to apologize. Then the gnawing stops.

He knows what anger is ... and has learned to use his anger constructively. I remember, as a pastor, being called one night to a home where a man had just beaten his wife. The children were screaming ... the wife was laying on the floor, her nose broken and her face bloody. Her ear was torn. I literally had to restrain myself in my anger. My verbal punishment of this man must have been of some value, because from that night his whole life began to change. As we talked his subdued feelings began to be released and over the weeks he learned to direct his feelings and use his anger in constructive ways. Today he's a highly respected professional man in his community. He was able to turn that ugly night into a relationship with his wife which has been rewarding to both of them through the years. For a long time he felt awful guilt. He learned to forgive himself. He learned to ask God's forgiveness. He learned to ask forgiveness of the one he had hurt. He had learned the better ways to use guilt - and anger.

What most people want in a man is warmth ... real warmth, honest concern, genuine interest. So much of what we see as warmth is really only "good business". The "I can be very friendly, yes I can" image of the filling station ... or "the friendly skies of United" ... or the "enjoy your dinner" of the waitress is, hardly the warmth that gives feelings of true acceptance.

In our sophisticated lives we've skillfully learned to cover up what we really are ... what we really feel. Others expect us to do it. We're personally afraid not to.

I suspect what I've felt, you feel also.

Why are we so often untrue to ourselves? To our feelings? There are probably many reasons.

One is that often we do NOT UNDERSTAND OUR FEELINGS. Some are even frightened of feelings ... and the expression of feelings ... of tears ... laughter ... fear. Many people have grown up in homes where feelings were not allowed to surface. There is a dull sameness about such persons. You can see how difficult it is for a husband or wife who is sensitive ... aware ... knows his/her feelings to live with one who doesn't admit to feelings.

A second reason why people are untrue to their real feeling is that we desperately WANT THE APPROVAL OF OTHER PEOPLE. We criticize politicians for talking out of both sides of their mouths ... most of us do it too in the area of feelings. I know a woman who pushes her husband away if in a restaurant he leans over to touch her cheek. "Stop that ... behave yourself" ... she'll say ... "don't you know you're in public". She's uncomfortable with the expression of feelings. Many women ... on the other hand, would welcome such affection from her husband or male companion. What's the difference? The focus upon "what other people will think". Of course ... this falsely assumes that others will disapprove ... which is not necessarily true.

How do we overcome this slavery to phoniness? This falsity to our true feelings? For one thing ... "Know thyself ... and to thine own self be true". We cannot be true to anyone else unless we are true to ourselves.

Secondly ... look to the joy and experience the thrill of being free to feel and to express your feelings. Only when you do can you really be happy. A race horse must run to be happy. An artist must paint to be happy. A musician must compose or make music in order to be happy. Whoever we are ... a person must express his true feelings to be happy.

I guess we sum it all up by saying, if I really love myself ... respect myself ... then I express my feeling without fear or guilt ... I am being my true self.

THE READER SPEAKS OUT

Says N. Quincy Residents Should Be

Getting More Services For Their Taxes

[Ed. Note: The following letter sent to Mayor LaRaia has been submitted by the writer for publication by The Quincy Sun.]

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia
City Hall
Quincy Mass. 02169

Dear Mayor LaRaia:

Have you ever stood on an open platform in below freezing weather waiting for a train to come along - and then when it finally came it was too crowded for you and others to board?

Well, this has been happening on these cold below freezing mornings at North Quincy Station. The people who are profiting by the MTA are those from outside Quincy who board the cars at Quincy Station and when the people from North Quincy try to get on the trains there is very little room or no room at all.

Now I venture to ask why the people of North Quincy have had their taxes raised. We do not get service in our own station, we have no bus service after 7 P.M. in the evening, practically none at all on Sunday, and none on holidays. We have no supermarket - the one we had was closed sometime ago and we are forced to go to other towns or to Quincy Sq. to shop - and if a person has no car, there is a waiting period for a cab - sometimes 20 to 25 minutes.

The dogs run freely through the area - although there is supposed to be a leash law in Quincy. Once upon a time the garbage was picked up from our backyards. Now, we have to buy plastic bags and drag these loose ourselves. Frequently the loose running dogs tear these apart.

For working people - there is no gas meter reading. We have to do that ourselves and call it in to the gas company.

Now - I know all about inflation and higher tax rates etc., but don't you think the people in North Quincy should be allowed a few of the good things for which they are paying taxes?

Very truly yours,
Ann E. Hagerty
40 Quincy Shore Drive
North Quincy

A 'Thank You' From Morgan Memorial

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Thank you is such a simple phrase, such a meaningful phrase when it comes from the heart of grateful people. We at Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries are grateful.

It is traditional for us during November to join with the 160 other Goodwill Industries across the United States in thanking you for the help you have given us to help handicapped people help themselves throughout this past year.

Your support has been the difference between a smile or a frown on the 2000 faces of handicapped, disadvantaged and needy persons of all ages and creeds we are dedicated to serve.

Goodwill has had a fine year, but most importantly, the people served at Goodwill have had a fine year working hard to improve the quality of their life through vocational rehabilitation. So at this Thanksgiving season, Thanks-for-Giving your support to the activities and program of Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries.

Sincerely,
Stuart D. Chase

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

When Is Next State Census?

"When will the next state census be taken?" a caller recently asked the Voter Information Phone. "In 1985", answered the VIFone volunteer. The state census is taken every 10 years: the last census was taken in March 1975. The federal census, which is also taken every 10 years, will be taken again in 1980.

This question is one of many now being received by the Voter Information Phone, a statewide free public service sponsored by the League of Women Voters. Lotte E. Scharfman Memorial Fund. Individuals with any questions about government - local, state or national - may call the VIFone Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 358-5880. Callers elsewhere in Massachusetts should dial the toll-free WATS number, 1-800-882-1649.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS

Dec. 16 - 22, 1944 - 32 Years Ago This Week

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By ERIC SWIDER

Good, Bad And Lousy

Last week Chamber Director and Merriman, Inc. President Jack Williams invited me to sit in on a reporting session he conducted for his management team on the results on their first quarter's business plan.

Jack opened up the session with some thought provoking comments. He agreed to allow me to share them with you. Here they are:

"The question that is most asked of me today is 'How's business?' I have usually been able to answer with some degree of certainty that it's either good, fair or lousy. But today I really have to tell you that it's all three.

Incoming orders have been good, our backlog is fair, but the outlook is lousy. Not lousy in the sense that business will be bad, but lousy in the sense that there is little optimism.

Today, in areas where businesses should be hiring, they are developing layoff plans because everyone is concerned that the bubble will break and people and businesses will stop buying. Everyone is watching inventory levels, having learned a costly lesson in 1974. The so-called leading indicators have only to shift a point or two and panic sets in.

The automotive industry starts to discount cars and people wonder what's next. We elect a Democrat as President and the stock market gets the jitters. It all boils down to the fact that we are running scared because the confidence that we once had in our economy is gone. I can't help but feel that it is all the result of the deficit budgeting that has been the order of the day both at the State and Federal levels for the last few years. We are living in an artificial economy whether we want to believe it or not. An economy that has been stimulated again and again with further tax cuts, while at the same time, our Social Security program is on a collision course with bankruptcy that will make New York City's problems look like child's play.

We can't even take credit for inventing the problem because it was designed in Europe, and today England and Italy are wrestling with the problem with little success.

England's new Prime Minister James Callaghan pretty much put the finger on their problem recently when he said:

"When we reject unemployment as an economic instrument, as we do, and when we reject also superficial remedies, as all socialists must, then we ask ourselves unflinchingly: What is the cause of unemployment? Quite simply and unequivocally, it is caused by paying ourselves more than the value of what we produce.

"We used to think that you could just spend your way out of a recession and increase employment by cutting taxes and raising government spending. I tell you, in all candor, that that option no longer exists and that it only worked on each occasion since the war by injecting bigger doses of inflation into the economy, followed by higher levels of unemployment as the next step.

"Each time we did this, the twin devils of unemployment and inflation have hit hardest those least able to stand them—the poor, the old and the sick—not those with the strongest bargaining power."

Not surprisingly, many of the problems Prime Minister Callaghan has identified are very parallel to our own. We are paying ourselves more than we produce and it can't go on. I can't help but believe that it is this environment that keeps us wondering about what our economy will do next.

In the meantime, life goes on and we must continue to forecast as we are doing today for our mid-year plan, and to try to get the most out of a bad situation. We will continue to create and take advantage of opportunity to the best of our ability, and perhaps someday soon we'll see a return to a stable economic climate.

[Eric Swider is Executive Vice-President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.]

Koch Club Has Number Of Christmas Projects Underway

The Koch Club of Quincy, for the 28th season, is deeply involved in Christmas projects.

Santa Claus visits to shut-in children will be conducted Saturday and Sunday [Dec. 18-19] between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m., the 12th year that such visits have been made to youngsters who are shut in for the year round.

Visits may be requested only by parents of shut-in children by contacting Richard J. Koch, 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, 328-8286, to arrange for a convenient time. Richard M. Morrissey is visitation chairman.

The Koch Club's 21st annual Christmas Basket Fund Drive is also underway under Thomas F. Nestor, chairman. Deadline for donating canned goods or non-perishable foods for the baskets is Monday [Dec. 20].

Donations may be made through officers of Koch Club bowling or basketball leagues or district directors. Money may also be given to buy turkeys that accompany each Christmas basket.

The Koch Club is seeking used toys, books, games and dolls for distribution to needy children, a project that dates back to 1971 when 200 were given out. Last year thousands of toys, repaired and repainted, were distributed.

The Dress-a-Doll program is being carried out for the third year. Women or girls who wish to help recondition the dolls may sign up by calling Mrs. Simone Koch, 24 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

The Koch Club delivered 150 gifts to the Boston Indian Council in Jamaica Plain yesterday [Wednesday].

Shipyard Launches 37th Warship Of Year

The Fore River Shipyard was preparing to launch its 37th warship of 1944, the cruiser Providence, with 28 Quincy school children attending as special guests for their work in the sixth War Loan Drive.

The youngsters represented 24 public schools, three parochial schools and the Woodward School for Girls, the students of which sold $108,546 worth of war bonds and stamps during a three-day campaign.

They not only attended the launching but they were driven to the Yard from City Hall in a new-fangled vehicle called a "jeep" and were guests of Mayor Charles A. Ross at a buffet luncheon in Quincy USO headquarters.

Meanwhile, workers at the Fore River Shipyard, rushing to complete work on the cruiser Columbus, set what was believed to be a world record by lifting into place the vessel's 300-ton deckhouse.

ALL-STAR JUNIORS

The North Quincy Junior High School football team placed four members of its junior squad on the Junior High League's all star team. Selected to spots on the club were:

POLLUTION FIGHT URGED

Quincy Health Commissioner Dr. Richard M. Ash warned that a program to rid Boston Harbor of pollution should get underway right away instead of waiting until the end of the war.

"This job is a must for 1945 at the latest," he said. "To defer action until a later date is to gamble with the health of our own people and those of other communities on these waters."

A measure authorizing construction of a sewerage treatment plant at Nut Island at a cost of $3 million was placed on the shelf when the war brought to a halt grants of federal funds.

SAD REUNION

Oscar Bartolini, the Quincy handyman serving life for the murder of Mrs. Gracely Asquith, held a tearful reunion in Norfolk Prison Colony with his son, Stefano, an Italian soldier captured in Tunisia and brought to the States as a prisoner of war.

Stefano was located in an upstate New York prison camp by Quincy Attorney Robert A. Zottoli, who was instrumental in having Bartolini's death sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

The Big Poll:

What Did It Show?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

A recent opinion-preference poll focusing on next year's mayoral election has Quincy political circles buzzing and wondering:

What they're mainly wondering about is [1] who was the poll taken for and [2] what does it show?

Answers to both of those questions are being closely guarded but from bits of information gathered from here and there, part of the answer at least, can be pieced together.

The poll, according to those who called The Sun to report they had been queried, was made via telephone Dec. 5.

It was taken by Cambridge Survey Research, Inc. and was quite "extensive" in both the number of questions asked and the number of people called.

Who was the poll taken for? Well, it has to be one of the following whose names are mentioned in the poll:

Edward Kennedy, Edward Brooke, Michael Dukakis, Elliot Richardson, Joseph LaRaia, Arthur Tobin, James McIntyre, Walter Hannon, James Sheets, Daniel Raymond.

All of those names were involved in a question to rate their image as "favorable" "unfavorable" "no opinion" "never heard of him", etc.

We all know that Kennedy, Dukakis, Richardson and Brooke aren't planning to run for mayor of Quincy next year so they can be dismissed.

That leaves LaRaia, Tobin, Hannon, McIntyre, Sheets or Raymond among those named in the poll as mayoral possibilities. McIntyre's name, however, reportedly was not mentioned in mayoral preference questions. That would seem to narrow the field down to LaRaia, Tobin, Hannon, Sheets and Raymond.

The poll obviously was taken for one of them. But which one? You can do your own figuring on that.

What does the poll show? Well, there was a lot of criss-crossing of questions and criss-crossing of the names of LaRaia, Tobin, Hannon, Sheets and Raymond.

There were a number of questions to rate Mayor LaRaia's overall performance in office so far, his appointments, the handling of the $34.90 tax rate hike and Tobin's overall performance in office.

There were more questions pitting LaRaia against Tobin in a mayoral contest, LaRaia against Hannon, LaRaia against Sheets, LaRaia against Raymond.

And still more questions with LaRaia, Tobin and Hannon in the same race, LaRaia, Tobin and Sheets and LaRaia, Tobin and Raymond, etc., etc.

And finally, the biggie: "Who would you vote for mayor if the election were to be held tomorrow?"

Well, how does it all come out in the end?

Tobin reportedly emerges as the strongest of the mayoral candidates. If the election were to be held now, he would win, against any of the other names according to the poll results.

And interestingly, both Hannon and Sheets making impressive showings indicating either would be a formidable challenger against LaRaia.

Raymond reportedly appears as "a comer". Given more time in the City Council he could be a serious mayoral contender in the future.

Well, that's the way we hear it. Maybe more will come later.

SOME POLITICIAN WATCHERS no doubt will wonder about the absence of Councillor Dennis Harrington's name in the poll.

Some still think he will run if Tobin doesn't get into the mayoral race. And if Tobin does get in, Harrington will probably run for Tobin's at-large seat.

The poll, however, seems to write him off as a mayoral contender.

SPEAKING OF NEXT year's city election, David Crowley is giving "serious consideration" to running for the Ward 1 city council seat.

Crowley, who owns a service station, is the son of former City Councillor David [Jim] Crowley.

His mother, Roberta, is former assistant city treasurer.

WHILE VISITING Washington, D.C. over the weekend, Councillor Paul Harold met Paul Martin, former Quincy resident and one-time editor of the defunct Quincy Evening News. Martin is now political editor for U.S. News and World Report in Washington. And, you are a young Quincy old-timer if you can remember when Quincy had two daily newspapers. The News was located on Washington St. and at one time even published a Sunday edition. Remember?

LIVING TODAY

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX

The Total Man Feels . . .

The Total Man is at home with his feelings. He knows what guilt is... and has learned to use guilt as a signal that something isn't quite right in his life. He does not let the feeling of guilt destroy him, nor cause him to act deviously. He deals directly with it. He treats it as he would a toothache... a signal that something needs attention. If he has a conflict with another person, he makes every effort to get the matter squared away. When he's wrong, he's able to apologize. Then the gnawing stops.

He knows what anger is... and has learned to use his anger constructively. I remember, as a pastor, being called one night to a home where a man had just beaten his wife. The children were screaming... the wife was laying on the floor, her nose broken and her face bloody. Her ear was torn. I literally had to restrain myself in my anger. My verbal punishment of this man must have been of some value, because from that night his whole life began to change. As we talked his subdued feelings began to be released and over the weeks he learned to direct his feelings and use his anger in constructive ways. Today he's a highly respected professional man in his community. He was able to turn that ugly night into a relationship with his wife which has been rewarding to both of them through the years. For a long time he felt awful guilt. He learned to forgive himself. He learned to ask God's forgiveness. He learned to ask forgiveness of the one he had hurt. He had learned the better ways to use guilt - and anger.

What most people want in a man is warmth... real warmth, honest concern, genuine interest. So much of what we see as warmth is really only "good business". The "I can be very friendly, yes I can" image of the filling station... or "the friendly skies of United"... or the "enjoy your dinner" of the waitress is hardly the warmth that gives feelings of true acceptance.

In our sophisticated lives we've skillfully learned to cover up what we really are... what we really feel. Others expect us to do it. We're personally afraid not to.

I suspect what I've felt, you feel also. Why are we so often untrue to ourselves? To our feelings? There are probably many reasons.

One is that often we do NOT UNDERSTAND OUR FEELINGS. Some are even frightened of feelings... and the expression of feelings... of tears... laughter... fear. Many people have grown up in homes where feelings were not allowed to surface. There is a dull sameness about such persons. You can see how difficult it is for a husband or wife who is sensitive... aware... knows his/her feelings to live with one who doesn't admit to feelings.

A second reason why people are untrue to their real feeling is that we desperately WANT THE APPROVAL OF OTHER PEOPLE. We criticize politicians for talking out of both sides of their mouths... most of us do it too in the area of feelings. I know a woman who pushes her husband away if in a restaurant he leans over to touch her cheek. "Stop that... behave yourself"... she'll say... "don't you know you're in public". She's uncomfortable with the expression of feelings. Many women... on the other hand, would welcome such affection from her husband or male companion. What's the difference? The focus upon "what other people will think". Of course... this falsely assumes that others will disapprove... which is not necessarily true.

How do we overcome this slavery to phoniness? This falsity to our true feelings? For one thing... "Know thyself... and to thine own self be true". We cannot be true to anyone else unless we are true to ourselves.

Secondly... look to the joy and experience the thrill of being free to feel and to express your feelings. Only when you do can you really be happy. A race horse must run to be happy. An artist must paint to be happy. A musician must compose or make music in order to be happy. Whoever we are... a person must express his true feelings to be happy.

I guess we sum it all up by saying, if I really love myself... respect myself... then I express my feeling without fear or guilt... I am being my true self.

THE READER SPEAKS OUT

Says N. Quincy Residents Should Be Getting More Services For Their Taxes

[Ed. Note: The following letter sent to Mayor LaRaia has been submitted by the writer for publication by The Quincy Sun.]

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia
City Hall
Quincy Mass. 02169

Dear Mayor LaRaia:

Have you ever stood on an open platform in below freezing weather waiting for a train to come along - and then when it finally came it was too crowded for you and others to board?

Well, this has been happening on these cold below freezing mornings at North Quincy Station. The people who are profiting by the MTA are those from outside Quincy who board the cars at Quincy Station and when the people from North Quincy try to get on the trains there is very little room or no room at all.

Now I venture to ask why the people of North Quincy have had their taxes raised. We do not get service in our own station, we have no bus service after 7 P.M. in the evening, practically none at all on Sunday, and none on holidays. We have no supermarket - the one we had was closed sometime ago and we are forced to go to other towns or to Quincy Sq. to shop - and if a person has no car, there is a waiting period for a cab - sometimes 20 to 25 minutes.

The dogs run freely through the area - although there is supposed to be a leash law in Quincy. Once upon a time the garbage was picked up from the backyards. Now, we have to buy plastic bags and drag these out ourselves. Frequently the loose running dogs tear these apart.

For working people - there is no gas meter reading. We have to do that ourselves and call it in to the gas company.

Now - I know all about inflation and higher tax rates etc., but don't you think the people in North Quincy should be allowed a few of the good things for which they are paying taxes?

Very truly yours,
Ann E. Hagerty
40 Quincy Shore Drive
North Quincy

A 'Thank You' From Morgan Memorial

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Thank you is such a simple phrase, such a meaningful phrase when it comes from the heart of grateful people. We at Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries are grateful.

It is traditional for us during November to join with the 160 other Goodwill Industries across the United States in thanking you for the help you have given us to help handicapped people help themselves throughout this past year.

Your support has been the difference between a smile or a frown on the 2000 faces of handicapped, disadvantaged and needy persons of all ages and creeds we are dedicated to serve.

Goodwill has had a fine year, but most importantly, the people served at Goodwill have had a fine year working hard to improve the quality of their life through vocational rehabilitation. So at this Thanksgiving season, Thanks-for-Giving your support to the activities and program of Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries.

Sincerely,
Stuart D. Chase

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

When Is Next State Census?

"When will the next state census be taken?" a caller recently asked the Voter Information Phone. "In 1985", answered the VPhone volunteer. The state census is taken every 10 years: the last census was taken in March 1975. The federal census, which is also taken every 10 years, will be taken again in 1980.

This question is one of many now being received by the Voter Information Phone, a statewide free public service sponsored by the League of Women Voters. Lotte E. Scharfman Memorial Fund. Individuals with any questions about government - local, state or national - may call the VPhone Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 358-5880. Callers elsewhere in Massachusetts should dial the toll-free WATS number, 1-800-882-1649.

THUMBNAIL THOUGHTS

By Senator Snuffy

Bostonians don't get robbed just in the Combat Zone. Any ticket office of a major sports team also obliges.

When the next generation of loud singers hit the airwaves, happily most of us will be so deaf from the present crop we won't be able to hear them.

Governor Dukakis is now in the middle of the road, with ex-Governor Sargent trying to pass him on the left.

YESTERDAYS

Shipyard Launches
37th Warship Of Year

The Fore River Shipyard was preparing to launch its 37th warship of 1944, the cruiser Providence, with 28 Quincy school children attending as special guests for their work in the sixth War Loan Drive.

The youngsters represented 24 public schools, three parochial schools and the Woodward School for Girls, the students of which sold $108,546 worth of war bonds and stamps during a three-day campaign.

They not only attended the launching but they were driven to the Yard from City Hall in a new-fangled vehicle called a "jeep" and were guests of Mayor Charles A. Ross at a buffet luncheon in Quincy USO headquarters.

Meanwhile, workers at the Fore River Shipyard, rushing to complete work on the cruiser Columbus, set what was believed to be a world record by lifting into place the vessel's 300-ton deckhouse.

ALL-STAR JUNIORS

The North Quincy Junior High School football team placed four members of its powerful squad on the Junior High League's all-star team. Selected to spots on the club were:

POLLUTION FIGHT URGED

Quincy Health Commissioner Dr. Richard M. Ash warned that a program to rid Boston Harbor of pollution should get underway right away instead of waiting until the end of the war.

"This job is a must for 1945 at the latest," he said. "To defer action until a later date is to gamble with the health of our own people and those of other communities on these waters."

A measure authorizing construction of a sewerage treatment plant at Nut Island at a cost of $3 million was placed on the shelf when the war brought to a halt grants of federal funds.

SAD REUNION

Oscar Bartolini, the Quincy handyman serving life for the murder of Mrs. Grayce Asquith, held a tearful reunion in Norfolk Prison Colony with his son, Stefano, an Italian soldier captured in Tunisia and brought to the States as a prisoner of war.

Stefano was located in an upstate New York prison camp by Quincy Atty. Robert A. Zottoli, who was instrumental in having Bartolini's death sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By ERIC SWIDER

Good, Bad And Lousy

Last week Chamber Director and Merriman, Inc. President Jack Williams invited me to sit in on a reporting session he conducted for his management team on the results on their first quarter's business plan.

Jack opened up the session with some thought provoking comments. He agreed to allow me to share them with you. Here they are:

"The question that is most asked of me today is 'How's business?' I have usually been able to answer with some degree of certainty that it's either good, fair or lousy. But today I really have to tell you that it's all three.

Incoming orders have been good, our backlog is fair, but the outlook is lousy. Not lousy in the sense that business will be bad, but lousy in the sense that there is little optimism.

Today, in areas where businesses should be hiring, they are developing layoff plans because everyone is concerned that the bubble will break and people and businesses will stop buying. Everyone is watching inventory levels, having learned a costly lesson in 1974. The so-called leading indicators have only to shift a point or two and panic sets in.

The Automotive industry starts to discount cars and people wonder what's next. We elect a Democrat as President and the stock market gets the jitters. It all boils down to the fact that we are running scared because the confidence that we once had in our economy is gone. I can't help but feel that it is all the result of the deficit budgeting that has been the order of the day both at the State and Federal levels for the last few years. We are living in an artificial economy whether we want to believe it or not. An economy that has been stimulated again and again with further tax cuts, while at the same time, our Social Security program is on a collision course with bankruptcy that will make New York City's problems look like child's play.

We can't even take credit for inventing the problem because it was designed in Europe, and today England and Italy are wrestling with the problem with little success.

England's new Prime Minister James Callaghan pretty much put the finger on their problem recently when he said:

"When we reject unemployment as an economic instrument, as we do, and when we reject also superficial remedies, as all socialists must, then we ask ourselves unflinchingly: What is the cause of unemployment? Quite simply and unequivocally, it is caused by paying ourselves more than the value of what we produce.

"We used to think that you could just spend your way out of a recession and increase employment by cutting taxes and raising government spending. I tell you, in all candor, that that option no longer exists and that it only worked on each occasion since the war by injecting bigger doses of inflation into the economy, followed by higher levels of unemployment as the next step.

"Each time we did this, the twin devils of unemployment and inflation have hit hardest those least able to stand them—the poor, the old and the sick—not those with the strongest bargaining power."

Not surprisingly, many of the problems Prime Minister Callaghan has identified are very parallel to our own. We are paying ourselves more than we produce and it can't go on. I can't help but believe that it is this environment that keeps us wondering about what our economy will do next.

In the meantime, life goes on and we must continue to forecast as we are doing today for our mid-year plan, and to try to get the most out of a bad situation. We will continue to create and take advantage of opportunity to the best of our ability, and perhaps someday soon we'll see a return to a stable economic climate.

[Eric Swider is Executive Vice-President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.]

Koch Club Has Number

Of Christmas Projects Underway

The Koch Club of Quincy, for the 28th season, is deeply involved in Christmas projects.

Santa Claus visits to shut-in children will be conducted Saturday and Sunday [Dec. 18-19] between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m., the 12th year that such visits have been made to youngsters who are shut in for the year round.

Visits may be requested only by parents of shut-in children by contacting Richard J. Koch, 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, 328-8286, to arrange for a convenient time. Richard M. Morrissey is visitation chairman.

The Koch Club's 21st annual Christmas Basket Fund Drive is also underway under Thomas F. Nestor, chairman. Deadline for donating canned goods or non-perishable foods for the baskets is Monday [Dec. 20].

Donations may be made through officers of Koch Club bowling or basketball leagues or district directors. Money may also be given to buy turkeys that accompany each Christmas basket.

The Koch Club is seeking used toys, books, games and dolls for distribution to needy children, a project that dates back to 1971 when 200 were given out. Last year thousands of toys, repaired and repainted, were distributed.

The Dress-a-Doll program is being carried out for the third year. Women or girls who wish to help recondition the dolls may sign up by calling Mrs. Simone Koch, 24 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

The Koch Club delivered 150 gifts to the Boston Indian Council in Jamaica Plain yesterday [Wednesday].

Education Benefits For Children Of K. Of C. Members

Grand Knight John J. Lydon, Jr. of the North Quincy Knights of Columbus has announced that special educational benefits and loans are available to children of servicemen, law enforcement officers and firefighters through membership in the K of C.

The Supreme Council in New Haven, Conn., Lydon explained, "maintains a million dollar Educational Trust Fund which provides a four-year college education for children of members who are slain or permanently and totally disabled as a result of military service or by criminal violence encountered in work as a full-time law enforcement officer or firefighter.

"These scholarships include tuition, fees, room and board and books.

"According to the provisions of the student loan program, eligible students can apply for a maximum annual loan of $1,500 for each full academic year continuing for as many as five years.

"Eligibility for the loans is restricted to members of the order, their wives, sons and daughters and widows, sons and daughters of members who were in good standing at the time of their deaths.

"The Knights of Columbus is the first fraternal organization to become involved in such a guaranteed student loan program."

Recovery, Inc. Marks 40th Anniversary

Recovery, Inc., the Association of Nervous and Former Mental Patients, celebrates its 40th anniversary of community mental health service this week.

Quincy has two recovery groups: one meets Mondays at 8 p.m. in United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq., and the other Wednesdays at 8 p.m. at Wollaston Methodist Church, Beale St.

An international self-help group, Recovery was founded in 1937 to prevent relapses in former mental patients.

More than 1,000 group meetings are held each week throughout the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico, and Ireland.

[Cont'd from Page 1]
Laws," said DeLahunt. "But now it is my responsibility to enforce them. The Governor is asking for selective enforcement. That is a dangerous precedent."

The campaign against the Blue Laws apparently has the support of the general public in Massachusetts since they voted overwhelmingly for repeal on a referendum in last November's election.

Eric Swider, executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, said the Chamber is on record against Sunday openings.

"But," he added, "there are no practical steps the chamber could take in light of the whole situation statewide. There is no way to stop what obviously is shopper preference. You can't hold back the tide."

Swider said members of the Chamber were polled on the question of Sunday openings some time ago.

"The food people felt their customers would not buy any more groceries in seven days then they would in six," he said. "It would only increase their costs which would have to be passed on to the customer, in higher prices."

"The small merchants felt they could not afford to hire the extra help for six or seven additional hours and they couldn't ask the help to work seven days a week. Most of them work six days a week now."

"The biggest opposition on the Chamber's board of directors came from Clark Doherty, who was operations manager of the South Shore Plaza, who is now working in Milwaukee.

"He said he felt that the whole retail business was getting so demanding that few bright young people were going into it. There was so much go, go, go that it was demoralizing."

Point-Webster 'Care' Poster Contest Winners Announced

The student advisory board of the Point-Webster complex announces the winners of a poster contest with the theme, "We Care".

The advisory board consisting of students in Grades 4 - 9, chose the theme in an effort to keep the rest of the student body thinking and caring about the condition of the school. The school was recently renovated by completely painting the interior in attractive colors, new flooring and student lockers.

More than 150 entries were submitted in the contest which had three divisions: Kindergarten - Grade 3, Grade 4

- 6, and Grade 7 - 9. First place winners were awarded savings bonds, second place entries were awarded subscriptions to the magazine of their choice.

The winners were: Laura Paolucci, Grade 9; Joseph Collette and Robert Willard, Grade 6 and Mark Abraham, Grade 3. Second place winners were: John Ricciarelli, Grade 8, Mark Gavel, Grade 4, and Brett Heeney, Grade 3.

Among those receiving honorable mention were: George McCray, Lee Ann DiSalvo, Joseph Lusso, Lila Abraham, Tricia Flaherty and Matthew Raymond.

WOLLASTON / NORTH QUINCY

Arthur Chandler Re-elected QCA President

Arthur M. Chandler of 320 Belmont St., Wollaston, was re-elected president of the Quincy Citizens Association, during the association's recent annual meeting.

Other officers re-elected were vice president, Joseph N. Gildea Sr., of 45 Division St., North Quincy; Saul Lipsitz of 40 Harriet Ave., North Quincy, treasurer; and Miss Dorothy C. Kelly of 108 Davis St., Wollaston, secretary.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Gerald Ridge, president of Metrobank. Ridge said he believes a cultural center in Quincy will revitalize business and create jobs in the downtown area.

Directors elected from each ward of the city are:

Ward 1 - Robert Lunney, Paul Kodak, David Coltray and James McDonough.

Ward 2 - Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beatrice, Maria Coffin, Laurence J. Curtin, Mildred Dahlby and Gerald Connor.

Ward 3 - Peter Macdonald, Elinda Lipsitz, Rita O'Toole, Dr. Donald MacLeod, Bernard Nolan, Anne Gaffey and Raymond Rivera.

Ward 4 - Albert Conti, Ann Corcoran, Jennie Vanelli and Bernard Turnquist.

Ward 5 - Albert Anderson, Joseph E. Brett, Lillian Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. George Stebbins, Thomas Dowd and Robert Noonan.

Ward 6 - Robert Granahan, Walter Hickey, Fred Wiedemann Jr., Theodore Dimock and George Haddad.

Sacred Heart Youth Tag Day Saturday

Sacred Heart Youth Organization of North Quincy visited Providence Civic Center recently as part of CYO Night at the Ice Capades.

Featured attraction was Miss Dorothy Hamill, former gold medal Olympic skating winner.

As a Christmas present for 12 Sisters of St. Joseph who teach at Sacred Heart the 66 youths treated the Sisters to the performance, as well as clergy and the director of their recent musical and his wife.

On Saturday, Dec. 18 the Sacred Heart Youth Organization will be holding a tag day in the City of Quincy to raise additional monies for future social and charitable events.

Moderator of the youth organization is Fr. Thomas Garrett.

Morrissey Files 3 Bills

Rep.-elect. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) doesn't take office until January but already he's filed at least three bills for the 1977 session of the State Legislature.

One would permit motorists to make right turns on red lights at designated intersections, as currently done in Texas and Rhode Island.

Another would permit the 70-year-old tax abatement, which currently begins in January, to be changed to July to coincide with the start of the fiscal year.

A third would guarantee a tax abatement to low income and handicapped persons under the hardship abatement clause.

Morrissey said he is also working with the MDC on requests by residents for a snow fence on Quincy Shore Drive between North St. and Bay State Rd. and concerns with swaying traffic lights and dangerous curves at the intersection of the Drive and East Squantum St.

He and Rep. Thomas Brownell (D-Quincy) also are seeking removal of a sign that obstructs the traffic light at the intersection of the Drive and Sea St., Morrissey said.

Atlantic Neighborhood Center Activities Schedule

The Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 150 East Squantum St., will be closed Friday, Dec. 24, for the Christmas Holiday.

City May Purchase Boilmakers Headquarters

The Mayor's office is considering the purchase of the Boilermakers' Union headquarters at 68 Sagamore St., Atlantic, as a new home for the Atlantic Community Center.

The property, which has been up for sale, would be taken by eminent domain and paid for out of a Federal community block grant with no city funds involved.

Mayor LaRaia met Monday with members of the City Council at the site to discuss the possibility of the purchase.

'Would Cost City $18,000'

LaRaia Won't Delay Rubbish Contract Awarding For Probe

Mayor LaRaia says he sees no reason to delay or question the awarding of a contract for rubbish and garbage removal for the coming year.

City Councilor James A. Sheets had asked the Mayor for a six months postponement while his Oversight Committee holds hearings into allegations of illegal dumping practices at the city dump in West Quincy.

And F and R Services, Inc.,

of Newton, one of the unsuccessful bidders on the contract, had asked for a meeting with the Mayor and the City Council to explain the validity of its bid, which was not opened.

LaRaia said that to delay the awarding of the contract would cost the city about $18,000, "which would not be an easy thing to do in this period of economy."

The low bidder on the contract for 1977 was Charles Lee Disposal, Inc., of South Boston with a bid of $680,000 annually. Browning Ferris Inc. of Dorchester holds the current contract at $716,730 per year.

"If we delay awarding the new contract," said the Mayor, "we would have to keep the current contract under the existing price."

The bid by F and R Services was not opened on the advice of Assistant City Solicitor Robert Fleming, who noted that it was not accompanied by a deposit or a promise of a performance bond as required.

William C. Roberts, vice president of F and R, claimed that his company's bid was $266,000 lower than Browning Ferris over a three year period.

"F and R had the same opportunity that was afforded the other five bidders," said LaRaia. "In fact, we held it up once to allow them to bid a second time. It would be senseless to give them any more consideration."

The Mayor said he has not yet decided which of the five bids to accept.

Host Homes Sought For Foreign Students

Quincy Public Schools is seeking homes for foreign students who will participate in classroom studies of their native lands.

The homes will be needed in mid-January and in March when the Amity Aide program brings foreign university students to the city's classrooms.

The students will assist teachers of foreign language classes until the end of May and provide demonstrations, guide small conversational groups and hold discussions about their native cultures.

"The presence of these aides in the classroom, generates enthusiasm and interest in the students and helps to make learning a lively, enriching experience," said Kathy Swanson, a Spanish teacher at North Quincy High.

The countries of Chile, Argentina, France, Switzerland and Italy, will be represented by the Amity Aide students.

Persons interested in providing a home for any of the students should contact Kathy Swanson at North Quincy High School.

Cerasoli Establishes Community Service Awards

"Often times people are criticized for a job poorly done but seldom commended for a job well done," said Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli (D-Quincy). Whereupon he did something about it.

Cerasoli announced that he has established a community awards program consisting of monthly citations in four categories "to commend and honor people who help many other people in Quincy and Weymouth but seldom receive acknowledgement for their public service."

The categories are:

- Life Saver, given to a person who performs above and beyond the call of duty to save another's life.

- Community Service, awarded to an individual, organization or business that has given extensive time, hard work and effort to make the community a better place in which to live.

- Senior Citizen, presented to a senior citizen who has given extensive personal time, effort and hard work to make life better for fellow citizens.

- Civil Servant, given to a municipal, state or federal employee who has contributed personal time, effort and hard work to make government more efficient and responsive.

"Hopefully," said Cerasoli, "the artfully decorated special citations I award will make individuals realize that they are appreciated by the community."

"These awards will be printed at my own expense because I believe it is important to let people know that hard work and personal sacrifice are still attributes to emulate."

$3,480 To Nursing School

Quincy City Hospital's School of Nursing will receive

$3,480 in additional federal funds for loans to its students, Congressman James A. Burke announces.

The money is an extra allocation for the 1976-77 school year, and will be combined with $5,520 already granted for loans and $3,433 for scholarships to provide almost $12,500 in assistance for the School's students.

LaRaia Seeks Houghs Neck Building For Service Center

Mayor LaRaia has requested that the city acquire by eminent domain the Dickerman building at the intersection of Sea and Macy Sts., Houghs Neck, for construction of a community service center.

The property, consisting of 10,495 square feet of land, is valued at $37,000. Funds for the landlaking have been awarded from a community development block grant.

"Plans for the community center include a health care facility and a senior citizens drop-in center," said the Mayor. "The center is a key element in a major effort by the city to redevelop the Houghs Neck area."

He said the city plans to refurbish the property pending approval of a certificate of need by the Department of Public Health and funding by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

QAO Receives

$94,000 Grant

Quincy Community Action Organization, 372 Granite St., has been awarded federal assistance in keeping its program operable for another year, Congressman James A. Burke announces.

The $94,000 grant, from the Community Services Administration, will run through the end of 1977, and will allow Quincy CAO to perform such services as a youth campership program for low-income youth; a prenatal, pediatric, and geriatric care center; and assistance in obtaining emergency food.

Lt. Paul Goldberg Resigns From Auxiliary Police

Lt. Paul Goldberg of the Quincy Auxiliary Police internal affairs department resigned recently because he will be moving out of the area.

Track Club Girls Win AAU Cross Country Title

Sparked by outstanding performances by Sheila Barrett and Michelle Millane, the Quincy Track Club's 10-11 girls' cross country team captured the team title in the New England AAU girls and women's championship recently over the Franklin Park course.

Quincy won the meet with 35 points as Barrett placed third in 8:43 and Millane took fifth. Denise Santo, Linda Kennedy and Patty Storer were eighth, ninth and 10th respectively.

Miss Barrett received an engraved AAU championship medal and others in the top ten also received medals.

Also finishing for Quincy and receiving ribbons were Tricia Canavan, 11th; Sheila Bellotti, 12th, and Liz Wiot, 13th.

In the 9 and under division one-mile run, Quincy's Geraldine Murphy came from seventh place with a tremendous spurt to finish fourth.

"This was a dramatic win," Coach Harry Williams said. "When one girl tried to cut her off, she cut back and passed her on the other side. Both girls stumbled but Geraldine kept her balance and crossed the finish line." In the same race Lynn

Storer placed seventh and Mary Ann Kelleher was eighth.

In the 12-13 two-mile race Linda Kelleher placed 13th and Denise McCall 18th.

The 10-11 championship marked the third NEAAU title won by a QTC team.

The next day the club participated in the Region 1

AAU junior Olympics competing with teams from New England, New York and New Jersey. In the 9 and under girls Miss Murphy placed ninth and in the 9 and under boys Jimmy White placed 12th.

In the 10-11 girls Miss Barrett was 10th and Bernadette Murphy 11th.

O'Brien Club Bombs Brockton In Opener, 106-78

The O'Brien Club of Quincy, last year's New England semi-pro basketball champion, opened its Cranberry League schedule Sunday with an impressive 106-78 win over Brockton Ringside.

The O'Briens, who this year are also playing in the TARO League, have most of last year's players back with one outstanding newcomer, 6-4 Jim Moxley from Northeastern University.

Returning are Mark Raterink (6-7) from B. C., Rico Cabral (6-4), Boston State; Mike Dunn (6-2), B. C.; Gary Bowen (6-9), Fairfield U.; Al Dalton (6-2), Suffolk; Jim O'Brien (6-1), B. C.; and Brian Hammel (6-2), Bentley.

In two non-league games, the O'Brien Club walloped the Racquet Club of New Bedford, 115-88, at Boston Garden, and 111-88, in the league "Tappoff Tourney." New Bedford is one of the strongest members of the Cranberry League.

In the league win over Brockton, Bowen scored 28 points. Dalton and Hammel 16 each, Moxley 14 and Cabral and Dunn 12 apiece.

In the New Bedford game at the Garden, Dalton scored 29 points, Bowen 20, Raterink and Hammel 17 each.

In the second New Bedford game, Bowen had 36 points, Hammel 25, Raterink 24 and Dunn and O'Brien 13 each.

With the loss of the North Quincy High gym, the O'Brien Club will play home games this year at East Jr. High in Weymouth.

Next Sunday the team will play the Brockton Huskies at 6 p.m. at West Jr. High in Brockton.

The O'Brien Club is again coached by Leo Papile.

Raiders Lack Size But Have Desire

Although his team is small in stature, averaging only about 5 foot 7 and 155 pounds, North Quincy Hockey Coach Ron Erikson is hopeful of improving on last year's 8-8-4 Suburban League record.

The Raiders opened last night [Wednesday] against Cambridge Latin and Saturday at 6 p.m. will play Waltham at the Waltham Sports Center. North will be at Brockton Tuesday at 6 at the Asia Rink and next Thursday will be home to Weymouth South at 6:40 at the Quincy Youth Arena.

"We don't have much size but the boys skate well and they have a lot of desire," Erikson said. "We have a good goalie and a promising defense but our offense is a question mark. We never have had an outstanding scorer and this year is no exception."

Erikson is disappointed by the fact he has received little from the junior high program. "Most of the ninth graders went to private schools and I had my smallest turnout ever [24 players]," he added.

North's first line is made up of senior Co-Capt. Paul Hurley and juniors John Cooney and Jim Moore.

On the second line are juniors Mike Marks and Paul McDonald and senior Frank McGinnis.

The third line includes juniors Mike Pitts, Tom Koelsch and senior John Reardon and sophomore Paul Cooney, who share the center spot.

The number one defense unit has seniors John Andrews and Matt Schaefer and the second duo comprises seniors Mike Smith and Dennis Doherty, quarterback on the football team. Sophomore Mark Rooney is another promising defenseman.

Ron Bereszniwicz, senior Co-Capt, is the starting goalie backed up by sophomore Tim McCormack.

Bereszniwicz, like a number of the other players, are or have been standouts in Quincy youth hockey.

"Schaefer is a fine forward but sacrificed this spot to help out on defense and it is this kind of spirit which should help us," the Raider coach said.

Erikson feels Andrews and Smith will be two of the best defensemen in the league and if some of the potential scorers can come through, he sees a successful season. A lack of depth is his biggest concern and he is hoping the players can stay healthy as the loss of any key personnel could be costly.

Bob Troupe is back as the North junior varsity coach.

Amorosino Has Strong Nucleus

Quincy Opens Against Weymouth N. Friday

By TOM SULLIVAN

Last year Joe Amorosino led his Quincy High basketball team into the Eastern Mass. tournament for the first time.

It was the first time in 11 years for the Presidents and they made a fine showing.

After defeating Braintree, Quincy lost a close decision to Durfee's powerhouse.

This season Amorosino has an excellent nucleus and has high hopes of again qualifying for the tournament.

The returnees are led by 6-6 senior Jack Uhlar, an all-scholastic center last year and a starter since his sophomore season; Ed Daley, a 5-10 senior guard, and Mike Lamie 6-2 senior, who scored 18 points against Durfee in the tournament. Uhlar scored 24 against Braintree and Daley 13 against Braintree.

"We are building around these three outstanding players," Amorosino said. "They all played tremendous games in the tournament and were excellent players all year long. They form a fine nucleus for this year's team."

Following several scrimmages, the Presidents open Friday night at 8 at Weymouth North in a Suburban League game and included in the lineup will be two other varsity returnees, Mike Kennedy, 6-1 forward, and Lyle Morrison, 6-1 guard, who saw quite a bit of action a year ago.

Other seniors are Roger Kram, 6-2 guard, and Dennis Walter 6-1, the two top scorers on last year's junior varsity club, and 6-3 Ed Callahan, a transfer who started the last two years for Sacred Heart, Weymouth.

Rounding out the squad are juniors Dave Casey [6-5], Mitch Finnegan [6-1], John Faulkner [5-8], John Connolly [6-1], Ken Ames [5-10] and Mike Cortez [5-11].

"This is a fine group of boys and all are eager to be a part of the team," Amorosino said.

"Everyone is willing to help each other out and, in addition, all are excellent students in the classroom."

"Uhlar has to be one of the best centers in the league. Daley is an outstanding guard-and is quick, while Lamie is a fine shooter who displayed his talents against Durfee in the tournament last year. He shows good leadership."

"I am pleased at the improvement shown by Kennedy and Morrison and Kennedy, a three-year goalie in soccer and captain this fall, is a good leader. I am also looking to Walter, the quarterback on the football squad, for leadership.

"Casey has improved a lot and Finnegan, whose father was coach here before me, is a good fundamental player. He has been around basketball for a long time and should have a good season."

Mike Saniuk is back as junior varsity coach and has a good group of sophomores to work with.

Following Friday's opener at home against Weymouth North, the Presidents play North Quincy Tuesday and next Thursday play at Weymouth South.

Home Games At Vo-Tech

Former Jayvees In Key Roles For Raiders

Eddie Miller, who excelled at North Quincy for three years and captained the squad his senior year and then was the Raiders' junior varsity coach for the past four years, gets his chance to coach his alma mater this year.

His first North varsity team opened Tuesday against Revere in a non-league game.

Due to renovations at North Quincy, the Raiders will play all home games at Vo-Tech.

A year ago Miller, who captained Boston State College and has been a semi-pro standout for the past several years, led his North Jayvees to their finest season, compiling a 17-2 record and winning the Suburban League crown.

The varsity, with Bob Nolan completing an 11-year tenure as coach, missed out by one win of qualifying for the Eastern Mass. tournament. Nolan took 7 of his 11 teams into the tournament.

Miller will be depending heavily upon his strong junior varsity team as he inherited only three players from Nolan's final varsity team and only one is really experienced.

The lone varsity returnees are Dan Cuddy (6-1), the most experienced; John White (5-8) and Keith Lindberg (6-2). All saw some varsity service but White and Lindberg spent a lot of time with the Jayvees. All are seniors.

Miller expects big things from a lot of last year's Jayvee champs. Seniors include Tom White (5-8), Bill McIntyre (6-0), Jim McGinley (5-8) and Jamie Watts (6-6).

"McGinley should be a fine guard and I'm hoping Watts will come along and help us on the boards," Miller said. "He has little experience and never played basketball until his sophomore year."

Juniors are Kurt O'Sullivan (6-3), Wink Phelan (6-0), Joe

Deane (6-1), Steve Germaine (5-10), Tom McLaney (5-9), Mike McCormick (5-11) and Pete Johnson (6-2).

"Lack of varsity experience is our big problem and it is too bad the season opens so early," Miller said. "I think the boys will do all right when they get their feet wet but we might be in for some trouble at the start, due to the inexperience and lack of practice time."

The Quincy Park-Recreation Board announces a new schedule of instructional ski lessons.

The program, designed to instruct skiing to those aged six through adult in the important ski fundamentals which will prepare a skier for sound and safe skiing.

Instruction is at two sites. Indoor lessons are held at the Wollaston School gymnasium,

"The spirit is super and the boys have shown great desire from the first day of practice. They are great workers and the practices have been intense from the start."

"I am fortunate to be taking over the boys I've coached, as we know each other. It would have been more difficult if I had taken over at a new school. We will be competitive, but I wish we weren't playing Quincy so early."

Ski Lessons Schedule

Beale St. Outdoor lessons are at the Heavenly Hill Ski Tow at the Furnace Brook Golf Course.

Indoor instructions are three-week sessions which include the introduction to equipment, flat turns, climbing, falling and turns. Participants are allowed time to practice on the indoor ski slope designed by the Recreation Department staff. This slope allows the beginner to experience the "feel" of skiing in a warm setting before making the journey to the usually cold slopes. The outdoor sessions are held whenever there is sufficient snow cover. They include instruction from beginner to free style. Merit tests are held each Saturday to determine the level of achievement of participants. Special classes are held for adults.

Presidents Green, Young, But Enthused

Quincy High's hockey team opened last night [Wednesday] against Weymouth South and coach Bob Sylvia is going with the youngest and most inexperienced team in his 11-year tenure at Quincy.

Although we are loaded with sophomores and this is my youngest squad, I am more enthusiastic than ever because of the tremendous enthusiasm of these kids," said Sylvia. "I've never had a finer group of kids. They are working awfully hard and are determined to make a good showing in the Suburban League despite their youth."

Last winter Sylvia took his sixth team in 10 years into the state tournament but the Presidents, who had to win or tie six of their last seven games to qualify, went one better and won or tied all seven for a 13-4-3 record and second place in the league.

"I have just three players with any varsity experience to speak of," Sylvia said. "Goalie Jim Buchanan, defenseman Mike Gulizia and forward Tom Cahill all played regularly a year ago and are outstanding players. Several of the others played on their unbeaten junior varsity and there are several promising sophomores."

Cahill is the number one scorer on the team, while Gulizia is a fine defenseman and Buchanan an excellent goalie.

Although most of the players lack varsity experience, most of them are playing or have played youth hockey and all have a lot of game experience. Both Quincy and North are now realizing the fruits of youth hockey.

As of this week, following a week of practice, Sylvia was sure of only one line. Cahill, a junior, will center for sophomore Jack Campbell and junior Brian Jolly. Other forwards are seniors Dave Previte and Jack Caraban, junior Mike Van Tassell and sophomores Bob Malloy, Mike Furey and Billy Deitsch.

"One of the keys to our success is the availability of Mark Giordani, one of our best forwards who sat out most of the football season with an injury and is still a big question mark," Sylvia pointed out. "If he can play it will help us tremendously as he is an outstanding player."

Sylvia was due to receive the doctor's decision on Giordani today (Thursday).

Another player sidelined with a knee injury is Mark Ricciardi.

Joining junior Gulizia on the defense corps are senior Dan Barry, juniors Pat Bamberry and Kevin Boudreau and sophomores Bob Brennan, Chris Erickson and John Norton.

Jim Deitsch, a junior, is the number two goalie and behind him and Buchanan are seniors Paul Gaudiano and Tony Riley.

"We will be strong in goal but the defense is a question mark and, although the forwards are promising, it will take a while to see what they can do," Sylvia concluded. "Although this has to be called a building year, we are out to make the tournament again, make no mistake about that. We may be a year away but the other league teams will know they have been in games."

Jack Crowley is back with his former coach for the second year as jayvee coach.

Following the opener Wednesday, Quincy will host Brookline on Saturday, the 18th, at the Quincy Youth Arena at 6:40.

Saville Breaks Indoor 2-Mile Mark

John Saville, Quincy junior, made an outstanding showing last Friday at the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., when he ran the two-mile in the annual Coast Guard track and field meet.

Running against experienced college runners, Saville broke his own record and the school indoor mark with a 9:39.8. He placed fifth among 30 runners. John's time also broke the school outdoor record of 9:40.2. The previous indoor mark was 10:03, set last year by Bob Thorne.

John's high school coach, Joe Catalano, took him to the meet and was delighted with his showing.

Mixed Feelings For Erikson Family

The Erikson family of Quincy will have mixed feelings this season when the Quincy and North Quincy hockey teams face each other.

Chris, sophomore defenseman for the Quincy team, is the younger brother of North's head coach, Ron. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Russ Erikson.

Forrest I. Neal, Jr. Quincy Co-operative Board Clerk

Forrest I. Neal Jr., senior Director of the MBTA, has been elected Clerk of the Board of The Quincy Co-operative Bank.

Announcement was made by John R. Herbert, President and Board Chairman of the bank.

Neal, who was born in Quincy and now lives in Hanover, has been a director of the bank since 1969, and is a member of the bank's Finance Committee. He succeeds Francis J. Mitchell as clerk of the board. Mitchell joined the bank staff Dec. 1 as Administrative Vice President. He has been a Director of the bank since 1969 also.

Neal, in addition to his directorship of the MBTA, is a director of the Fore River Railroad and a Trustee of Thayer Academy. He is an advisor to the Board of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, which he headed from 1961 to 1967.

Edwin Beck Suffolk Franklin Mortgage Officer

Edwin J. Beck Jr., of Quincy, has been elected Mortgage Officer of Suffolk Franklin Savings Bank, Boston.

He has been in the mortgage department since he joined the bank in 1973. A graduate of Curry College, Beck also attended the University of Massachusetts for real estate appraisal offered by the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks. He is also an Associate Member of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers.

Natalie Lee Completes Realtors Course

Natalie A. Lee of Tuttle Real Estate, 216 Sea St., Merrimount, recently completed the prescribed courses at the Realtors' Institute of Massachusetts.

HELLO, DOLLY -- Weymouth Savings Bank is sponsoring a Christmas Doll Program and employees have donated and dressed these 40 baby dolls. They were on display at the main office and North Weymouth office and are now on exhibit at 295 Washington St., Weymouth through Dec. 18. There will be a Doll Beauty Contest, with the customers serving as judges by voting for their favorite doll.

Brian Alosi Named Chamber General Manager

Brian A. Alosi of Plymouth, who has been serving as manager of the Membership Development Group since he joined the staff of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce in 1973, has been promoted to general manager of the Chamber.

Eric Swider, executive vice president, said Alosi will continue to have staff responsibilities for increasing the member base of the Chamber but will assume other internal functions in the finance and program areas.

"Much of the dramatic growth that has occurred to the South Shore Chamber in recent years can be attributed to our highly motivated Membership Development Group," said Swider.

"Brian Alosi, as a key member of that team, has earned the right to develop broader Chamber management skills.

"Other staff members will benefit from his counsel and I will be able to devote more attention to specific programs that the Executive Committee deem vital to the region's future."

Alosi is a 1965 graduate of Southeastern Mass University with a degree in Management in Business Administration. He is currently completing studies in the Institute for Chamber of Commerce Management at Notre Dame.

He served as district executive for the Boy Scouts of America in Massachusetts and New Hampshire before joining the Chamber staff. He and his wife, Barbara, have two children.

FALLING FOR FRILLS

Many people go househunting in a remarkably casual way - and sometimes end up making costly mistakes. One of the mistakes a househunter can make is to buy the frill instead of the house. All too often a family will fall in love with an eye-catching feature and buy the wrong house. This mistake happens frequently and in all price ranges.

Families skip over careful consideration of the major features because something minor has really grabbed them. The lure may be a charming fireplace, a glamorous lighting fixture, a garage door opener, or even a dogwood in bloom.

Yielding to superficial attractions like these can result in your family winding up with a thoroughly unsuitable house. Bear in mind that these same alluring features can usually be added to another house at a relatively small cost, considering the amount of the overall purchase.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

Crusaders Win 3rd

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team, off to a fast start under its new coach, Ron Bradley, an all-time ENC-North Quincy great, is off for the annual holiday vacation and will return to action Jan. 7 and 8 when it plays in the annual "Fighting Scots" tournament at Gordon College.

The Crusaders will take a 3-1 record into the tournament, which will be followed by a home game Jan. 11, against Roger Williams College at 8 p.m. at the LaHue Physical Education Center.

ENC suffered its first loss to Barrington, R. I. College, 87-70.

after winning its first three games.

ENC led, 40-38, at the half, but Barrington came back to take a four-point lead with four minutes remaining and an effective full-court press enabled it to pull away down the stretch.

Gordon Wetmore had another big night and sparked the Crusaders with 24 points.

In its previous game ENC had defeated Western New England, 89-75, and before that had edged U-Mass-Boston, 68-65, as Mike Barefoot, having a big second half, scored 23 points, Terry Parerra had 19 and Wetmore 13.

Executive League

Sundowners, Hofbrau Battle To 5-5 Tie

Sundowner's Cafe and Hofbrau battled to an exciting 5-5 tie Sunday in the Quincy Executive Hockey League.

In the opening period Al Bonani, with Fran Bonani assisting, and Tom Roberts, with an assist for Lee Staskiewicz, scored for Sundowner, while Paul Millot scored for the Hofbrau, with Art Boyle assisting. Each team scored twice in the second period, with Fran Whalen, assisted by Joe Verlicco and Boyle, assisted by Warren Mills, scored for Hofbrau. Al Bonani, with an assist for brother Fran, then Fran unassisted, scored for Sundowners. In the final period Roberts scored for Sundowners, with Bob Quintiliani assisting, to make it 5-3, but Jack Powers came right back for Hofbrau, with Millot assisting, and Millot, with 26 seconds left, scored the tying goal with Powers assisting.

Ken Wright and Mike Haynes had two goals each to spark Al's Cafe to a 6-5 win over Darcy's Pub. Also scoring for Al's were Frank Kelly and Dick McCabe, Ralph Gibbs, Jim Milano, Kelly, Harry Crisbo, Dave Hussey and Ed Holt had assists. For Darcy's, Kevin McGlynn and Bob Donovan had two goals each and Bob O'Connell the other. Jim Daly had three assists, McGlynn two and Dennis Larkin one.

Washington Tap walloped Sportlight Cafe, 6-1, with Bob Murray and Paul Malchow scoring twice apiece. Kevin White and John Emmott had the other goals. Emmott and Marty Tolson had three assists each. Wayne Gauthier two and White, Malchow and Ed Grogan one apiece. Charlie Chambers scored for Sportlight with Bill Sweeney and Ron Fletcher having assists.

LEGAL NOTICE

ORDER NO. 78
ORDERED:

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy, as follows:

That the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1960, as amended be further amended as follows:

Chapter 14, Sections 79 and 80, of the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy are hereby deleted. The following Division is hereby added to follow Article IV, Division 2.

DIVISION 3 TOW-AWAY ZONE REGULATIONS

In accordance with the provisions of Chapter 40, Section 220 of the General Laws [Ter. i.d.] the City Council of the City of Quincy hereby enact the following regulations authorizing the removal to a convenient place of vehicles parked or standing in such manner, or in such areas as are hereinafter described on any way under the control of the City of Quincy. Vehicles specifically exempt by Chapter 40, Section 220 shall not however be subject to such removal.

SECTION 2 Authorization of Police

The moving or towing of any vehicles under the provisions of this Article shall be by and at the direction of the Chief of Police or such other Officer[s] of the rank of Sergeant or higher as he may from time to time designate.

SECTION 3 Fees

The City Council of the City of Quincy hereby imposes upon the owner of any vehicle moved or towed to a convenient place, under the provisions of this Article, the following fees:

[a] Removal or towing fee not to exceed that which is provided in or as authorized by Statute Law.

[b] Storage Fees:
Not to exceed that which is provided in or as authorized by Statute Law.

SECTION 4 Liability for Damage During Removal or Storage

The contractor shall be liable to the owner for any damage arising out of negligence caused to a vehicle in the course of removal and storage.

PROPOSED TOW LAW - CITY OF QUINCY

SECTION 5 General Prohibition Towing Zones

No person shall stand or park or allow, permit or suffer any vehicle registered in his name to stand or park in any of the following places. Vehicles found in violation of the provisions of this Section except those specifically exempt by law, shall be removed to a convenient place under the direction of an officer of the Police Department as specified in Section 3 and the owner of the vehicle so removed or towed away shall be liable to the cost of such removal and storage, if any, as set forth in Section of this Article. The owner of any vehicle removed or towed away under the provisions of this Section shall also be subject to the penalties provided in Chapter 90, Section 20A of the General Laws [Ter. E.d.].

[a] Upon any way in such a manner as to impede the removal or plowing of snow or ice.

[b] Upon any sidewalk.

[c] Upon any crosswalk.

[d] Upon any way within twenty [20] feet of an intersecting way except alleys.

[e] Upon a way within ten [10] feet of a fire hydrant.

[f] On a roadway side of any vehicle stopped or parked at the edge or curb of the way.

[g] In front of a public or private driveway.

[h] In front of any way where the parking of a vehicle will not leave a clear and unobstructed lane at least ten [10] feet wide for passing traffic.

SECTION 6 Parking Prohibitions, Towing Zone

No person shall stand or park or allow, permit or suffer any vehicle registered in his name to stand or park on any of the ways or parts of ways hereinafter described and during the periods of time set forth. Vehicles found in violation of the provisions of this Section except those specifically exempted by law shall be removed to a convenient place under the direction of an Officer of the Police Department as specified in Section 3 and the owner of the vehicle so removed, or towed away shall be liable to the cost of such removal and storage, if any, as set forth in Section 3 of this Article. The owner of any vehicle removed or towed away under the provisions of this Section shall also be subject to the penalties provided in Chapter 90, Section 20A of the General Laws [Ter. E.d.].

South Street. Both sides from Washington Street to East Howard Street.

Des Moines Road. On the southerly side.

Winter Street. On both sides.

East Howard Street. On the easterly side.

Clevery Court. On both sides.

SECTION 7 Official Traffic Signs

The provisions of Section 6 shall be effective only during such time as a sufficient number of official traffic signs bearing the legend TOW-AWAY ZONE are installed, erected, maintained and located so as to be visible to approaching drivers, said signs to be appended above or incorporated into the legend of Parking Prohibition Signs.

SECTION 8 Police to Keep Record of Towed Vehicles

The Police Department shall keep a record of all vehicles towed or removed under the provisions of this Article. Such record shall be retained for one [1] year and shall contain the following information:

1. The registration of the vehicle.
2. The location from which it was towed, and time and date of tow order.
3. The location to which it was moved.
4. The fee charged for towing.
5. Name of towing contractor, if any.
6. Name and rank of officer who authorized towing.

SECTION 9

If a vehicle is removed pursuant to a rule or regulation adopted under this section, such vehicle shall be held until all charges lawfully imposed for such removal and storage following the same have been paid, and if in the calendar year in which such vehicle is so removed and in the preceding calendar year, five or more notices, in the aggregate, have been affixed to said vehicle as provided in section twenty C of chapter ninety of the General Laws, until due notice has been received that either the fines provided in such notices have been paid or security for the payment thereof has been deposited. In addition, a motor vehicle may in any calendar year, if in such year and in the calendar year immediately preceding five or more notices in the aggregate have been affixed to said vehicle as provided in said section twenty C and have not been disposed of, be removed to, and stored in, a convenient place in the city until all charges lawfully imposed for such removal and storage have been paid and due notice has been received that either the fines provided in such notices have been paid or security for the payment thereof has been deposited.

Speed Limit On Willard St. To Be Reduced To 30 MPH

Senator Arthur H. Tobin, Rep. James A. Sheets, announce the speed limit on Willard St., West Quincy, from West St. to Furnace Brook Parkway, will be lowered to 30 miles per hour.

At the request of Tobin and Sheets, the state DPW conducted a traffic survey and determined the speed in the area should be 30 miles per hour.

The Registry of Motor Vehicles concurred. The necessary regulation has now been signed by the state DPW. The Quincy City traffic sign department will post the speed signs in the near future.

Tobin said he was gratified by the cooperation he received from DPW Commissioner John J. Carroll. He said, "The area in question is very heavily traveled, with a good many small children crossing the street, and the posting of the speed-zone was necessary for the safety of these children."

Tobin also said he has requested the state police to keep a close watch on the down ramp at Furnace Brook Parkway where children from the Willard School and St. Mary's School cross. While there is a crossing guard at the location, it has been observed that traffic is proceeding down the ramp at rapid rates of speed and creating dangerous conditions for these children.

Tobin will ask both police departments to keep a close watch on both areas.

Food Baskets, Gifts To Many

Salvation Army, Elks, Koch Club Put 'Merry' In Christmas

The spirit of Christmas that brings out the generosity in most of us was never more evident than it was in Quincy this week.

A record number of baskets of food, toys and other gifts were distributed to the city's needy families by major volunteer agencies as the Christmas holiday drew near.

The Koch Club passed out 25 large food orders and thousands of toys, many of them used items that were repaired, cleaned and delivered to their happy new owners.

The Quincy Lodge of Elks gave out 152 baskets of food, including turkey and all the fixings, in four different sizes, depending upon the number of people in the needy family.

The Salvation Army was prepared to reach about 300 families with direct aid for Christmas, not including about 700 "Sunshine Boxes" of personal articles distributed in nursing homes.

Capt. Allen Rustad of the Salvation Army said the group plans to withhold some of the money collected in its Christmas drive so that it will be prepared to provide emergency fuel and clothing to the needy during the rest of the winter.

The Salvation Army acted as clearing house for the distribution of baskets to the needy, trading names with other groups to make sure that the lists of families do not overlap.

Richard J. Koch called the Koch Club's Christmas charitable efforts the most successful and far-reaching in the program's 28-year history.

Twenty-five large food orders, including fresh fruit, vegetables, canned goods, turkeys and toys, were distributed to large families in the Quincy area. The orders were designed to last several days, rather than just Christmas dinner.

Smaller food packages were delivered to elderly persons who live alone. They included fresh chickens, fruit and vegetables.

The used toy program, which started in 1971 with the delivery of 300 gifts to children who were the victims of a Christmas fire in Uphams Corner, Dorchester, reached into the thousands this season.

For the fifth year, Massachusetts Field School children took part in the used toy program and the Parker School PTA, through its children, also provided canned goods for the baskets.

Woodward School for Girls again wrapped more than 100 gifts in Christmas paper for delivery.

Members of the South Shore Junior Ten Pin Bowling League and the Quincy Junior Wonders Candlepin Bowling League donated and Christmas-wrapped more than 150 gifts for the Koch Club program.

Three hundred dolls were donated to the "Dress-A-Doll" program. When the program was started in 1972, a total of 75 dolls were contributed to be cleaned, groomed and dressed by volunteer women and girls.

Mrs. Simone Koch has been responsible for coordinating the program in the Quincy area while Mrs. Ginny Derringer handled the South Weymouth location.

The Koch Club's annual Santa Claus visit to year 'round shut-in youngsters was also conducted again.

Members of the Quincy Lodge of Elks were on the road at 8 a.m. Sunday [Dec. 19] delivering Christmas baskets to the needy. Capital Market assisted in the preparation of the baskets.

Harold Slawsky, president of Capital, along with Quincy store manager Jim Ceady, assistant manager Kevin McHugh and Roger Lutz and Matty Gallahue assisted the Elks in loading the truck.

Among the Elks present were Marty Blake, basket chairman, Bob Graham, co-chairman John MacPherson, Leo Nunnari, Dick Canty, Bob Furtado, George Alcott, George Alcott III, Dick McCormick, Ed Cahill, John Moreschi, Ollie Svensson, Bill Hurley.

Bill Thoburn, Norman Dunbar, Al McNulty, Joe McArdle, Jim McArdle, Al Barilaro, Fred Parsons, Gene Clifford, John Sullivan, Thomas Palmer, Harold Mulligan, Fred Blasty, Ted Malkos, Jack Hennessey, Bob McDonald, Kevin Coleman, Bob Guiney.

The Elks have been distributing Christmas baskets for the past 40 years.

In addition to basket distribution, the Salvation Army also held a Christmas dinner for Sunday School youngsters at its headquarters, 6 Baxter St., Sunday [Dec. 19]. About 75 kids were on hand.

The Sunshine Boxes, containing toilet articles, were given out at a dozen nursing homes.

The Salvation Army held candlelight services Sunday at Baxter St. and its 20-member choir and 22-member band participated in a one hour presentation at the South Shore Plaza Saturday.

Mayoral Poll Reaction:

- LaRaia Questions Validity
- Tobin Thinks Results Count
- Hannon Says Mayor In Trouble
- Sheets 'Gratified' By Showing

A mayoral preference poll which reportedly shows Senator-Council President Arthur Tobin topping Mayor Joseph LaRaia brought mixed reaction from political figures this week.

Denial by a Cambridge survey firm that it took the telephone poll set the scene for political intrigue.

Mayor LaRaia seized at the firm's denial to attempt to shoot down the validity of the poll's results.

Tobin and former Mayor Walter Hannon who reportedly also did well in the poll expressed belief LaRaia should be more concerned with the results of the poll rather than with who took it.

Rep.-Councillor James Sheets who reportedly also made a strong showing in the poll said he was pleased with the results and left the door open for a possible run.

The Quincy Sun last week disclosed that an extensive poll had been taken showing Tobin would defeat LaRaia for mayor if the election were held now.

The Sun also said that both Hannon and Sheets emerged as formidable challengers for LaRaia and that Councillor Daniel Raymondi appears as a "comer".

The following day, The Patriot Ledger followed up The Sun's disclosure with a story of its own saying, according to reliable sources, the poll showed Tobin won the poll over LaRaia by a near 2-1 margin.

The Ledger said their sources also informed them that Hannon and Sheets both had an approximate equal edge over LaRaia.

In its article, The Sun identified Cambridge Survey Research, Inc. [which two years ago had taken a poll for LaRaia], as the firm that had done this one.

James V. Murphy, general manager of the Cambridge firm, said in a letter to The Sun:

"I'd like to advise you that Cambridge Survey Research, Inc. disclaims any knowledge or involvement with regard to a telephone poll conducted on or around Dec. 5, 1976, concerning the mayoral race."

He said Cambridge is conducting its own investigation of the affair.

"We would give it a lot of thought before we would accept any work in the Quincy area in the future," Murphy told The Sun.

Mayor LaRaia challenged the validity of the poll.

"First of all," he said, "the fact that nobody admits to having authorized it casts serious doubt on the credibility of the poll."

"Secondly, the firm which is rumored to have conducted it denies any connection whatsoever with it."

"In light of these facts, I believe the results of the poll are totally invalid and I question as to whether the poll was conducted for the benefit of a political figure or figures in the city."

Political figures whose names were said to have appeared on the poll were rather coy about it.

"It seems to me we should be more concerned with the results than with who took it," said Tobin.

"If some dispute the validity of the poll perhaps the press or

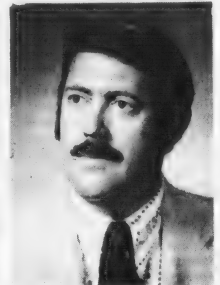

JOSEPH LARAIA "I believe the results are totally invalid..."

ARTHUR TOBIN "We should be concerned with the results rather than who took the poll..."

WALTER HANNON "The Mayor is in serious trouble in the city..."

JAMES SHEETS "...gratified by the results..."

radio of the city could take their own poll and put the matter to rest."

Former Mayor Walter J. Hannon, who lost his bid for re-election to LaRaia in a bitter campaign in 1975, agreed with Tobin.

"The Sun should take its own poll," he suggested. "I think you'll find out it probably would come out the same."

"I feel the poll is accurate. The Mayor is in serious trouble in the city. When you've been in politics 12 to 14 years as I have you can sense when someone is in trouble."

"The poll reflects the attitude of the city. People are concerned with the direction the city is taking."

"If the Mayor feels he can turn it around between now and September I don't know. But he's whistling in the dark if he thinks he's in a good position."

Councillor Sheets said he was "gratified by what I read about the results of the poll."

"It indicated that if the election were held today I would do very well. Being a ward councillor it is encouraging to hear that you would do well across the city."

"However, the results of the poll have not changed my thinking on the mayoral race."

Earlier, Sheets said he was not contemplating a run for Mayor but he added: "I'm not closing the door. No one can do that."

'Happy Holidays' Theme For Young Ideas

By CATHY CONLEY

Mrs. Donna Wilkie's first, second and third graders at Hunting School wish everyone "Happy Holidays" in this week's Young Ideas on Pages 17, 18, 19 and 20.

This four-page pull-out section is sponsored by Weymouth Savings Bank and as a special gift, the bank is giving a complimentary copy to each elementary school child in Quincy.

The Christmas issue features a picture story of the first Christmas by the children. Other students tell us one gift they would give if they were Santa - everything from a watch for President-elect Carter so he won't be late for his inauguration [Joey Milisi, 9] to a new non-leather spring jacket for Fonzie [Austin O'Malley, 8].

Harvey Ruback, 7, explains the background of the feast of Hanukkah. Several other children tell about interesting Christmas customs from around the world.

Highlight of the Christmas issue is a Dress-the-Doll contest sponsored by Weymouth Savings Bank. The bank is having a similar contest for its employees. The contest is open to all elementary school children. All the child must do is draw an outfit on a doll, and return to Young Ideas. The entry blank is in Young Ideas. One winner will be chosen from each grade from kindergarten to sixth grade.

Each winner will receive a $10 bank account from Weymouth Savings Bank. Deadline is Jan. 7.

QJC 'Buckwatchers' Course Teaches You To Better Plan Financial Affairs

By TOBY FELTON

Would you like to take control of your life, identify your dreams and the things you want most and then learn to rearrange your financial affairs to get more of these things?

This is what financial counselor Kay Buck helps you do in the Quincy Junior College Community Education course "Buckwatchers".

By examining the tough questions - the ones that are easy to duck - such as, what am I doing with my time, my money, and my life, am I satisfied, how would I like it to change - you can assess your values and your situation and learn to use your resources wisely.

The course focuses on money, but these questions apply to all aspects of life. Many people feel trapped by bills, debts, obligations, and inflation. This course can help you explore your options.

Class exercises will include questions such as identify three things you spent money on last year that still bring you satisfaction today. Learning to use the answers to such questions enables a person to better plan the wise and enjoyable use of financial resources.

Miss Buck does not tell people what to do with their money or their lives. She does know the questions they should ask to identify their goals.

Also included in the course are sections on insurance, investment, record keeping and savings.

Time will be reserved for individual problems, questions, and interests.

This non-credit course will meet Thursdays from 7:30 p.m., starting January 27, 1977. For more information and an evening brochure, call 471-9100 or 471-2470.

Milton Troop 553 Girl Scouts Visit Quincy Sun

Girl Scouts from Troop 553 of Milton visited The Quincy Sun recently to view the workings of a newspaper firsthand.

The girls, sponsored by St. Agatha's School in Milton, are: Susan Caldwell, Claire Carolan, Kathleen Carolan, Kathleen Costello, Karen Cummings, Paula Fucile, Christine Hynes, Donna Kellalea, Carolyn Lamott, Mary Lou Martin, Mary McDonough, Lisa Nichols, Susan Sablock and Annmarie Welch.

Margaret E. Fucile, leader, and Frances Nichols and Maureen Connolly assistant leaders, accompanied the girls on their tour.

Mary Kinsella and Marie MacNeil were absent from the tour.

Their visit to The Quincy Sun was part of their efforts to earn the Sign of the Arrow.

First, the scouts visited the editorial and advertising department of the office.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine. They also Sheridan.

The course explored the historical background of cornhusk dolls, embroidery, quilting, patchwork, macramé, apple dolls and weaving with the teachers learning the basic techniques and how to teach each craft to her class.

saw newstories being set on the Compugraphic Jr.

They watched a paste-up artist fix the story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed, the girls asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

Student Nurses Aid United Way

Six student nurses at Quincy City Hospital are actively involved in the United Way of Mass. Bay Campaign to raise $18,600,000, for 165 agencies.

The young students, as part of their training in assisting a worthwhile endeavor in the community, are donating at least 30 hours each to United Way. The girls are working on solicitation and other areas in the campaign with the guidance of Quincy's Community Chairperson, Andrew T. Walsh, Jr.

The students, all Quincy residents, are: Kathleen Madden, Cheryl Cahill, Margaret Dineen, Jeanne Madden and Janet Dauphine.

MAYBE YOU NEED A NEST EGG FEDERAL TAXES WON'T CRACK.

If Social Security is all you have to look forward to when you retire, look into a Quincy Cooperative retirement plan. With either our I.R.A. or Keogh Plan you pay no Federal Income Tax on your savings until you retire. And probably by that time you'll be in a lower tax bracket.

$180,000 at age 65.

Our Individual Retirement Account (I.R.A.) is specifically for those not covered by a pension or profit-sharing plan where they work.

If you qualify, you can save 15% of your income up to a maximum of $1,500 each year.

Save the maximum amount each year for thirty years and you'll retire with over $180,000 at age 65.

$900,000 at age 65.

Many self-employed businessmen and professional people have no retirement plan.

That's why we offer the Keogh Retirement Plan: This category can save $7,500 or 15% (whichever is less) of their annual taxable income.

Thirty years of saving the maximum in our Keogh Plan would mean an account balance of over $900,000 upon reaching age 65.

*Income is compounded at a current rate of 7 1/2%. This rate is subject to change. Contributions and interest income are not exempt from Massachusetts taxation.

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

Mr., Mrs. Philip Gacia Celebrate 40th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Gacia of 3 Nicholl St., South Quincy, celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary recently at a dinner dance held at the Chateau de Ville, Randolph. The reception was given by their children: Peter B. Gacia of Quincy, Philip P. Gacia of Hingham, and Mrs. George A. [Ann Marie] Cavrich of Wethersfield, Conn.

Some of the members of the original wedding party attended. They are: Mrs. Charles F. Edgarot of Quincy, maid of honor; Mrs. Guido D'Alessandro and Miss Lea Aspesi, both of Quincy, bridesmaids; Louis Guarcello of Quincy, best man; and Anthony Gacia of Quincy, usher.

The couple were married Nov. 8, 1936, in St. John's Church, Quincy. The former Pearl Bianchi, Mrs. Gacia was born in Italy but came to Quincy shortly after. She is a past national president of the Emblem Club.

Mr. Gacia, a life long Quincy resident, is owner of the Gacia Contracting Co., Quincy. They have six grandchildren.

Heredity And Heart Attack

No doubt about it. Heart attack is the biggest killer of adults, taking more than 600,000 lives a year. Two thirds of the victims die before they reach the hospital. It is evident, today, that prevention is a lot more effective than cure.

Experts generally agree that people with close relatives who die between 40 and 60 years with premature atherosclerosis run an increased risk of developing the disease. If this is the case in your own family, you can use this knowledge to improve your chances of a prolonged life.

The fact is that most of the leading risks associated with cardiovascular ailments can be minimized by a combination of medicine, diet, weight loss and reduction of smoking. Make your doctor aware of any cardiovascular conditions within your immediate family. If there is an inherited predisposition toward heart disease or diabetes, he will work out a program that may reduce your risk.

Sheets Hopeful Hospital School Of Nursing May Yet Be Saved

City Councillor James A. Sheets has held out hope that powerful forces at work to save the School of Nursing at Lynn Hospital may also be harnessed to save the Quincy City Hospital School of Nursing. Both schools are due to be phased out by 1979. "Two bills have been filed in the State Legislature to try and save the Lynn program," said Sheets.

"Since Lynn is represented by House Speaker Thomas W. McGee and Sen. Walter J. Boverini, chairman of the Education Committee, it might be possible to work out a general solution for all Schools of Nursing that are being phased out."

Sheets, who is a member of the House Education Committee, said Quincy school officials recently held a meeting with Education Commissioner Gregory Anrig to discuss the future of the Quincy School of Nursing.

"One of the major recommendations to come out of the meeting," said Sheets, "was that an effort be made to see if the Regional Board of Community Colleges would be willing to contract directly with Quincy Junior College to train and grant degrees, to a number of students who could not gain admission into the nursing program at Massasoit Community College in Brookton."

Others who attended the meeting were School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, Dr. Edward F. Pierce, president of Quincy Junior College; School Committeeman Francis Anselmo, Sen. Arthur H. Tobin and Sheets.

Sheets said he is in the process of contacting Jack Callahan, acting president of the Regional Board of Community Colleges.

Sheets, who is also chairman of a blue ribbon committee named to find alternative plans for the nursing school, said the State Nursing Board of Registration had indicated that it would not support the concept of placing the nursing program under the Quincy Vocational Technical School.

"Such a program," he said, "would have been the first in the Commonwealth and still is a possibility because it is not prohibited by the General Laws."

Sheets emphasized the importance of a nursing school in Quincy.

"Unless a means can be discovered to provide for the continuation of a nursing program in Quincy, hundreds of people from middle income families on the South Shore will find it very difficult to pay the high tuition rates at private colleges," he said.

"The closest state-funded nursing program is at Massasoit Community College in Brockton, which has approximately 60 to 65 openings per year for registered nursing students but already has in excess of 700 applications."

"Since Quincy is on the outer radius of the educational zone for Massasoit, it is unlikely that any substantial number of Quincy students will be admitted."

Sheets said the average cost for educating one student in a nursing program in a private college is in excess of $2,000.

He also said that he has filed legislation that would allow the state to reimburse Quincy Junior College and the Quincy Public School System for a nursing program that could be established at the Junior College.

St. Nick Has Gladdened Hearts Since 4th Century

If ever there was a true world traveler he has to be Santa Claus.

A lot of folks may think Santa came to life first in 1822. When Dr. Clement C. Moore gave him ever lasting fame in his poem, "The Night Before Christmas." Not so.

Santa, with one name or another, has been around some 1,700 years and has visited in most regions of the globe. It's just that he became popular as "Santa Claus" in Dr. Moore's poem, which pictures the fabled gift-giver as a "jolly old elf" with "a round little belly that shook when he laughed like a bowl full of jelly."

Before that poem, Santa often was pictured as thin, tall, short or obese, according to where he was at the time.

Not only that, but Santa originally rode earth-bound horses instead of reindeer in the sky. And in some nations he delivered gifts at times other than Christmas Eve or Christmas day.

If you're wondering why Santa has white hair, it's those 1,700 years of making toys and then delivering them to every corner of the earth.

Santa began his apprenticeship in the fourth Century in Turkey, which has nothing to do with why we eat turkey on Christmas Day. The Turks called him St. Nicholas, the patron saint of children, because of his kindness and generosity. St. Nicholas, or St. Nick, has stuck as one of Santa's monickers over the centuries.

In a spirit of fun, the Scots adopted St. Nick and christened him "Abbot of Unreason" and "Lord of Misrule." The British raised him to a higher station and crowned Santa "King of the Bean."

In Germany, religious leader Martin Luther in the 1400's decreed Christmas as the birthday of Christ and put emphasis on the fact that the three Wise Men took the Child gifts of gold, myrrh and frankincense. He christened St. Nicholas "Christkindlein," after the Christ Child, and for a time German children thought it was He who brought gifts secretly on Christmas Eve.

When German people began to arrive in America as immigrants many years later, they changed "Christkindlein" to Kris Kringle. It still is used today among some families in this country.

It was the Dutch people who finally began calling St. Nicholas "Santa Claus." The Norwegians call their Santa "Julenissen" while the lady Santa in Italy is named "La Befana."

As for his clothes, Santa has tried a variety of styles. And he rode a horse until the Scandinavians put him in a sleigh because it snows so much in that part of the world. Then the reindeer learned to fly, and so did Santa.

The Scandinavians were thinking of the Norse god, Thor, who was said to have ridden through the sky in a chariot. Santa's red coat was selected to be reminiscent of the pagan feast of Yule.

While Christmas Eve finds Santa the busiest, he delivers gifts on a lot of other dates in various countries. In Mexico, Spain and Italy, presents are given Jan. 6,

THUMBNAIL THOUGHTS

By Senator Snuffy

Things were tough in the depression years because prices were going down. Now they're going up. Moral: take your pick.

"Thinning out" is a nice, placatory phrase for what happens to deer in the hunting season.

Santa Claus got a break. The United Parcel strike ended.

New England winter weather is only mildly disruptive when compared with China's earthquakes.

Weighty Question

Can Mayor Veto A Council 'Wish'? And, Can Council Override The Veto?

By TOM HENSHAW

The City Council, in one of its serio-comic moods, got hung up for the better part of half an hour Monday night on the question of whether the Mayor could veto a wish and whether the Council, in turn, could override the veto if it wished to.

At issue to begin with was a Council resolution requesting the Council President to appoint a committee of three Councilors to meet with the Mayor to discuss the possibility of Quincy joining the Massachusetts League of Cities and Towns.

Mayor LaRaia vetoed it.

As a result, according to Council President Arthur H. Tobin, the issue escalated into the separation of government powers.

Councillor Paul D. Harold started the whole thing when he asked the Council to override the Mayor's veto so that he could ask representatives of the League to come to Quincy simply to discuss the possibilities of membership.

Tobin pointed out that what LaRaia had vetoed was a resolve, not an order, and he proceeded to deliver a lecture in civics.

"You must distinguish between a resolve and an order," he explained. "An order is ordaining that something be done. A resolve is a wish that something be done."

"I supported this resolve because it was a wish to express our wish to the Mayor but once the Mayor vetoes a resolve it is a moot question."

"If we override the Mayor's veto we're just overriding a wish. He still doesn't have to do it."

Councillor Dennis E. Harrington disagreed. "I've never seen a wish vetoed before so I don't see anything wrong with overriding the veto of a wish if someone can veto one," he said.

Harrington recalled that the Mayor, in his inaugural address last January, promised open government.

"Vetoing a request for anyone to sit down with him ought to tell us something about his open door policy," he said. "I only wanted the authority to ask the League people to meet with me..." said Harold, but the Council was warming up to another task.

"I think this displays the kind of arrogance that's coming from the executive branch of city government," said Councillor Daniel G. Raymond. "This is one of the basic issues of city government reflecting the people's right to know."

Said Harold: "The reason I asked for the override was that I had gone through some negotiations with the League and they were prepared to take the day off from work to make some detailed presentation to the committee and the Mayor."

"I wanted to have some authorization..."

Said John Salenius, the Mayor's executive secretary: "It never ceases to amaze me how some councilors, particularly one, never cease to jump to conclusions in taking an opportunity to attack the Mayor without hearing the other side."

Councillor Leo J. Kelly, who was chairing the meeting at the time, cautioned Salenius about attacking individual councilors.

"That's all right," said Raymond. "He was referring to me."

"I was, councillor," said Salenius. Salenius explained that the Mayor vetoed the resolution to impress upon the Council that there was no money [$3,000] in the city treasury to join the League.

"Subsequently," he said, "I told Councillor Harold we'd be glad to sit down with him but we wanted to make that formally known since some City Councilors were raising serious questions about how money was being spent, including Councillor Raymond."

"Perhaps I'm missing something here," interjected Councillor James A. Sheets. "It sounds to me that the Mayor is willing to do precisely what the resolve asks him to do if it wasn't vetoed by the Mayor."

"I only wanted the authority..." said Harold. "I'd like to move this back to the table," began Harrington. "It's never been off the table," ruled Kelly.

"That's correct," said Harrington. "It was so long ago I forgot."

It was then that Council President Tobin brought the issue into perspective.

"I couldn't concur more with Councilors Raymond, Harrington and Sheets," he said. "We supported Councillor Harold in his resolve. But that's not the issue. We are missing the whole point."

"We are getting into the separation of government powers. We have the executive, the legislative, and the judicial branches of government. Neither can supercede the authority of the other."

"If the Mayor does not wish to sit down there's no way the legislative branch can compel the Mayor to sit down. It can't be done and vice versa."

The dispute ended when Salenius promised that "the Mayor is willing to sit down and, at this point, I can say he'll send a letter to Councillor Harold and each of the councilors extending the opportunity to sit down with him."

The resolve, the wish, was left on the table.

Annual Report 2½ Years Behind, City Trying To Catch Up

The city is moving to catch up with its annual report, now some 2½ years in arrears.

Mayor LaRaia said this week he expects the report for the year ending in June 1975 to be ready in March and for the year ending in June 1976 by next June.

"It is my understanding that both reports will be completed before the end of the fiscal year," he said. "When both are ready, then we will be caught up."

The last annual report issued by the city covered the period

Jan. 1, 1973 to June 30, 1974. It came out last winter.

John Salenius, the Mayor's executive secretary, told the City Council Monday night the report for 1974-75 "has been compiled in rough form and is nearly 100 per cent edited."

"Department heads had to go back two years in their records," he said. "It took considerable time. They sent the information to me but it was a job too massive to handle."

"I was able to call on the Planning Department for help and they're now working on the 1975-76 report."

"I anticipate we will have both reports edited before the month is out and we'll be ready to get a price from the printer."

"The question of price in this tight budgetary year is paramount. We want a report that is accurate and gives the required details but we don't want to be extravagant."

Mayor LaRaia said the 1974-75 report "will be just the basics, not embellished as it usually is."

Council Approves 5 For Industrial Authority

The City Council Monday night approved Mayor LaRaia's five nominees to the revived Industrial Development Finance Authority to attract business to Quincy by raising bond money for private development at low interest rates.

They are George Montilio of Montilio's Bakery, one year term; Robert E. Keddy Jr., of Quincy Cooperative Bank, two years; Vito A. Barresi of President Real Estate, three years; Harold R. Davis, an attorney, four years; and Paul N. Anderson, community development director, five years.

Cerasoli Backs Closing Of 19 Small Welfare Offices

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli [D-Quincy] has assured Welfare Commissioner Alexander E. Sharp of his support in his proposal to close 19 of the state's smaller welfare offices and consolidate them with larger offices.

Under the plan, recommended by the Welfare Department's State Advisory Board, the welfare offices in Hingham and Randolph would be consolidated with that of Quincy.

Said Cerasoli in a letter to Sharp: "I support any efforts that your department can make to achieve more efficient deployment of staff, more effective supervision and basic dollar amount savings through these and other methods."

"You may be assured of my support for the closing of welfare offices with relatively low caseloads, especially in communities with small or middle-sized population which are relatively well-off on the socio-economic scale."

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS

By TOM HENSHAW

Dec. 23 - 29, 1962 -- 14 Years Ago This Week

A Shivering Santa Came To Town

Sub-zero temperatures and near gale force winds brought Quincy and the South Shore to a virtual standstill as the New Year approached.

Thermometers outside the Observatory on the Blue Hills registered minus eight degrees and wind gusts were clocked at 81 miles an hour.

Doors blown open by the wind touched off burglar alarms at Jordan Marsh Co. on Willard St., West Quincy; Hayne Junk Yard on Intervale St., South Quincy; and the Bargain Center.

Plate glass windows were smashed at Gilchrist's in the Parkingway; Whiteman's Department Store and the Fruit Basket on Billings Rd., Norfolk Downs.

GROSSMAN PLANS DEVELOPMENT

Bernard Grossman, treasurer of Grossman Industrial Properties, said work will start in the spring on two large retail stores with parking facilities across the New Haven right of way from the Ross Parking Area.

Grossman said the $1 million development would be undertaken with Turnstyle Stores, a division of Jewel Tea Co. The 12-acre tract would provide parking for 1,000 cars off Granite St.

HIGH SCHOOLS SPLIT

The North Quincy High School basketball team romped to its fourth straight Greater Boston League victory, a 55-47 squelching of Everet.

Ted Stevenson had 16 points, Dave Olson 14 and Tom Kiley 10. Bob DeBoer and Rich Ericson also started for the Raiders.

Meanwhile, Quincy High School dropped a close 81-79 decision to Chelsea, despite 22 points from Ken DiBonna and 19 from Peter Mariano.

The Chelsea pair of Lou Perkins [45] and Steve Karll [27] accounted for all but nine of their team's points.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By ERIC SWIDER

OSHA, Ho, EPA, Ho, FCC, Ho, Ho, Ho!

It now costs about $489,000 a year to keep a congressman in Washington, not counting mistakes. And some of their mistakes are lulu.

Last year, Congress inadvertently repealed the federal corporate income tax. Amended the wrong section of the Internal Revenue Code. Nothing to get excited about. The little boo-hoo was quickly corrected. Besides, it was only $40 billion.

Ever generous with other people's money, the Hill people are a little tight-fisted, it seems, when it comes to spending their own. Out of 140 federal employee groups taking part in a 1975 united charity drive, the House [members and employees] managed to ante up only 1.5% of its goal, and the Senate 1%, ranking them, respectively, 139 and 140.

Business people have been having fits trying to comply with the Byzantine requirements of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970. Little things like the fine that was levied against Pratt & Whitney for keeping the doors locked on a rocket engine plant doing supersecret work for the Defense Department [fire hazard, you know].

But, misery loves company. It seems the feds aren't doing so well themselves. Earlier this year, a House Government Operations subcommittee disclosed that the majority of U.S. agencies are failing to comply with the Act.

To be fair to the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, it does have its problems. Like the time it ordered vehicles at construction sites to use back-up warning beepers, and was told by the Environmental Protection Agency that the beepers exceeded EPA's noise standards.

EPA is very sensitive about noises that could wake the dead, as the State of Indiana learned when a proposed highway overpass was vetoed by the agency because the State failed to conduct a noise abatement study for a cemetery a quarter of a mile away.

But EPA, too, has its problems. According to the General Accounting Office, one of these problems is that health standards in EPA laboratories violate the law.

Since EPA is seeking the right to jail officials responsible for violations of its regulations, I assume that those who are tolerating these nefarious conditions will be dealt with severely.

But fear not! They're on the ball over at the Federal Communications Commission. In a burst of speed, the FCC wrapped up its longest running case earlier this year: A dispute between two high-powered AM radio stations that first hit the Commission 35 years ago. Now it's settled. Unless, of course, there's another appeal.

Meanwhile, employers are trying to figure out how to promote members of minority groups without simultaneously discriminating against those who might have a better claim on the job because of seniority or ability. Not remedying the effects of past discrimination leads to trouble. And so does discriminating while making the attempt.

Isn't it nice to know what we're getting for our tax money?

Someday soon they'll require sufficiently cumbersome emission control and safety equipment on his rig so that Santa might become an endangered species.

Merry Christmas!

LIVING TODAY

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX

Virtue Turned Into Vice

Frank looked beat and haggard. "I'm trying hard to understand myself," he was saying to me. "I'm seeing that one of my problems has always been that I wanted so much TO BE CLOSE TO SOMEONE ... for someone to accept me for what I am ... and not try to twist me into something different than I am," a normal Total man expectancy.

What Frank wants many people want, too. Frank's problem was not so much that he wanted this normal desire to be accepted by someone ... particularly a woman. His real problem was that he paid too great a price for that acceptance. In relationship after relationship he had done just that ... with his wife, his children, as an employee and later employer, he gave and gave to get acceptance. He wanted people to like him so much ... to be thought of as a kind, fine, virtuous man, that he didn't stand up for his own rights. This was why he was beat and haggard. This had become his downfall. His virtue became his vice.

Another way in which many people turn a virtue into a vice is by WRONGLY TRUSTING PEOPLE ... by over-trusting, or trusting the wrong persons. To live in this world one must learn to use sound judgement ... good "common horse sense" as my father used to say. He was a very trusting man but he seemed to have a sense about who to trust and who not to. I'm tardily trying to acquire this ability. The dubious virtue of trusting all people can cause destruction, because everyone simply isn't trustworthy.

One must learn TO LOVE ONESELF sufficiently that he doesn't let himself get backed into the proverbial corner, because there are plenty of human vultures in every level of our society and in every walk of life who literally thrive on sucking the substance from another person. One needs to learn early how to protect himself/herself, even from friends and relatives, or expect to be exploited. Let your virtue of trusting be tempered with sound judgement. Otherwise this virtue can become your vice. The total man trusts, but wisely.

Another virtue which often becomes a vice is MOVING TOO FAST. Back to this fellow Frank again ... he moved too fast, almost impetuously. He often acted upon partial information, and this combined with over-trusting people led him in often to go ahead in business matters and in relationships, before the light turned green. He was always jumping the caution light. Divorced people often do this in forming new relationships ... even to moving too quickly into a second marriage. Some are lucky, but many find that the fine virtue of wanting to get their lives put together with one partner in a nice home, with the dignity and respect of friends and neighbors, has blown up in their faces. Moving too fast in choosing a wrong partner, turns the virtue into a vice. Total men don't move too fast.

But, someone objects, if one learns to be protective and defensive of oneself and one's virtues, isn't this being selfish? I think not. Jesus taught, "love your neighbor as YOURSELF." You are important. The standard of loving other persons is how you love yourself. Don't leave yourself unprotected. The real world doesn't measure your virtues and pass over you because you intend well. Learn to be as "wise as a serpent and as harmless as a dove." Thus, your virtues will not get turned into vices. That's a Jesus quote too.

ON THIS WONDROUS HOLIDAY Let Us Pray Together in Church

The Christmas Story

Luke, 2, 1-14. At that time, there went forth a decree from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. This first census took place while Cyrenus was governor of Syria.

And all were going, each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also went from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem - because he was of the house and family of David - to register, together with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child.

And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled.

And she brought forth her firstborn Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the Inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night.

And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the glory of God shone round about them, and they feared exceedingly.

And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people: for today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you, Who is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign to you; you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

On Sunday, Dec. 26, junior high school students will attend a Bruins-Cleveland Barons hockey game at Boston Garden. A pizza parlor night will be held for high schoolers Sunday, from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. in Brockton, and will include movies, pizza and other refreshments.

Monday and Tuesday, the students will roller skate and bowl in Waltham and will make their own ice cream sundaes at Zips.

Junior high school students will have an open swim and gym Wednesday at the Brockton center from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. followed by a movie, "Mystery Michigan". Pizza and refreshments will be served.

Thursday, Dec. 30, both groups will attend the Proposition Theater's performance of "Soap", a parody on soap operas.

Students must be members of the center to participate in the programs. For information on membership, transportation to programs, and fees, contact Joel Kaplan at 773-3000.

Harvey Tells Us About Hanukkah

As Christians are celebrating their feast of Christmas, Jewish people are celebrating their feast of Hanukkah. Harvey Rubeck, 7, tells us the history of this holiday. He also drew the candle holder called a Menorah.

The story of Hanukkah begins more than 2100 years ago in Judea. Today Hanukkah is celebrated for eight days with joy. There are two reasons for the celebration. The Syrian ruler of Judea, Antiochus wanted the Jews to pray to his Greek Gods but the Jews wanted to pray to their God, Jehovah. A war broke out. It lasted many years. The war ended when the Jews captured Jerusalem, capitol of Judea. The Syrians had put Greek statues in the Temple. Now the Jews destroyed the statues and made it their Temple again. The day the Temple was ready, a holiday was proclaimed to last eight days. They called it Hanukkah which means

"dedication" in Hebrew.

The second reason for Hanukkah is the miracle of the oil. On the first day of Hanukkah, the priests wanted to light the Temple Menorah but there was only enough oil to last 1 day. It took 8 days to make new oil. So the priests put one day's worth of oil into the lamp and it lasted 8 days.

Menorahs today are made of wood, brass, copper, silver or gold. A Hanukkah Menorah has 9 cups for candles. Eight represent the 8 days the oil burned in the legend of the first Hanukkah. The ninth cup is for the shamas or servant candle. Each night the shamas is lit first, then it is used to light the other candles. One more candle is added each night. Each night the candles burn all the way down.

Hanukkah is a family holiday which begins at sunset with the lighting of the candles and a recitation of blessings in Hebrew. Children receive presents. One might be a dreidel, a four sided top used to play, an old Jewish game.

Harvey Rubeck, 7

Word Smcraeble (Oops!)

Six children in Mrs. Wilkie's class scrambled the letters of these holiday words. Can you unscramble them? Joey Milisi, 9, drew a picture of his word.

Candy Kane Explains

What's A Christmas Club?

The children in Mrs. Wilkie's class are interested in everything about the holidays. Weymouth Savings Bank sponsored this issue of Young Ideas. Kristen Melver, 6, and Kutbuddin Doctor, 7, were chosen to visit the bank and bring one question from the class. What's a Christmas Club? The name of the first person they met at the bank was Candy Kane! That's her real name. She answered the children's question like this: "A Christmas Club is a way to systematically save money every week or so during the year so that at Christmas time you have enough to buy your presents. While your money is in the bank, it grows. It gets 5 1/2% interest at Weymouth Savings Bank. If you saved up $20 during the year, you would get about $21 at the end of the year." After answering the children's question, Candy Kane gave them, you guessed it, candy canes. [Speaking of unusual names, Kutbuddin Doctor is from India. His father is a dentist. So his father's name is Doctor Doctor!]

Forty beautifully dressed dolls were put on display at the bank. Here Janet Frafer, an employee, and Kristen McIver, 6, look at some.

Some Interesting Christmas Customs

In Norway, it was a custom to make a new broom out of hay and a stick on Christmas Eve, and then clean the barn very thoroughly. This was a symbol of getting ready for the birth of the Christ Child who was born in a barn.

Kuthuddin Doctor, 7

My grandmother came from Ireland. It was an old Irish custom to put real candles in the window and light them. Only a girl named Mary could blow out the candle, because Mary was the name of the Christ Child's mother. It was not hard to find a girl named Mary because practically every family had one.

Valerie Murray, 8

In Holland on Christmas Eve, the children used to stuff their wooden shoes with carrots and hay for Santa's horse. Santa, which Dutch children call Sinter Klaus, used to come by horse. But because it was hard for a horse to travel in the snow, now the children believe he comes by reindeer. And they put food out in their wooden shoes for the reindeer.

Amy Rowbotham, 7

Would you like to know why the poem Twas the Night Before Christmas was written? Clemens C. More was putting his children to bed on Christmas Eve. They were very restless. He told them if they went right to sleep, he would have a special present for them. They did. And he wrote Twas the Night Before Christmas that night as their present.

How To Keep Thieves From Playing 'Scrooge' This Christmas

HELLO

Christmas is a time to renew friendships...celebrate the season with loved ones. Enjoy!

from all of us at

520 Southern Artery
QUINCY

Police Chief Francis X. Finn has issued a list of things to do to discourage theft over the holiday season:

- When shopping, lock all packages in the trunk of your car. Do not leave valuables in plain view for a thief.
- Do not openly display large sums of cash or reveal your check-book balance.
- Be Alert. Pickpockets do their best work in large crowds. Men should carry wallets in front pockets. Keep purses and handbags securely fastened.
- When leaving your home for any length of time, secure all windows and doors. Leave lights on, both inside and out, or set timers to turn on lights, giving the appearance that your home is occupied.

- Refrain from displaying wrapped or unwrapped gifts under Christmas trees.

Join Operation Identification. Borrow an engraver from the Police Department and engrave your new valuables with your social security number; make a list of your valuables and display the window decal that you receive when you join the program. This will deter most burglars.

Swim Program At Lincoln Hancock During Vacation

A swim program open to all elementary, junior and senior high school students will be held at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School during the December vacation period.

The program, sponsored by the school council, will be under the supervision of the Quincy Recreation Department personnel.

Elementary students over 6-years-old, may swim from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. or from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 28, 29 and 30. Each child will be allowed only one hour of swimming per day, so a child swimming from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m., will not be allowed to stay in the pool from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Junior and senior high school students may swim from 11 a.m. to noon on the same three days.

Students may use their Recreation Department participation cards for the program.

If students do not have a card, they must use a special parental permission slip available at all schools or at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School today [Wednesday] from 2:30 to 3 p.m.

Brownell Files Bill For Wollaston Beach MDC Police Substation

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell announces he has filed a bill for the establishment of an MDC police substation at Wollaston Beach.

During the summer months the facility could also be utilized as an MDC first aid and service facility, he said.

"With the recently completed improvements to the beach and upgrading of Caddy Park, Wollaston Beach will be drawing many more people in the coming summer," Brownell said. "A highly visible MDC substation would insure the Wollaston neighborhood of instantaneous police protection and availability.

"No land takings would be involved since the MDC already owns two parcels of land at the site.

"The MDC Policemens' Association will be strongly supporting the substation as they believe it will provide better police coverage for MDC facilities in the South Shore area."

Atlantic Neighborhood Center Activities

The Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 150 East Squantum St., will be closed Friday, Dec. 31, the legal New Year's Day holiday.

The program for the rest of the week includes:

Monday - Norma Barriere will be available from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon with information on the Womens Health Clinic. Appointments may be made at this time. Mrs. Carol Bray will hold a class in ceramics for 15 children at 6:30 p.m. Food stamp information is available from 7-9 p.m.

Tuesday - Mrs. Stephanie Peterson will conduct a ceramics class for adults at 7:30 p.m. Mrs.

Grace Ilacqua, a senior volunteer, will teach girls to knit at 2:30 p.m. Food Coop members may pick up their groceries.

Wednesday - Senior Citizens Day. Knitting from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon. Seniors wishing to participate in the lunch program sponsored by the Atlantic Neighborhood Association should make reservations by calling Mrs. Mary Travers at 328-1708 by 12 noon Tuesday. Lunch is 65 cents. Bingo from 1-3 p.m.

Thursday - Energy information is available from 12 noon to 2 p.m.

Friday - Closed for the holiday.

John Flaherty Completes Navy Training

Navy Airman Recruit John M. Flaherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Flaherty of 37 Rawson Road, Wollaston, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Orlando, Fla.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Among the subjects he studied, were seamanship, close order drill, naval history and first aid.

A 1976 graduate of North Quincy High School, he joined the Navy in July, 1976.

Major Street Lighting Project For Quincy Shore Drive

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell reports that a major street lighting project will be launched next year on Quincy Shore Drive.

At the request of Brownell, and members of the Merrymount Association, the MDC has agreed to use wooden type light poles for the new system. This type of pole will blend in with the environment along Quincy Shore Drive, Brownell noted.

The project calls for the installation of 33 wooden poles and lamps, from Furnace Brook Parkway to Sea St.

Brownell said plans are now being prepared by the MDC and should go out for bids in June, 1977.

When completed, the new lights will replace an antiquated system which was put in operation in 1931.

Brownell, who was instrumental in having the MDC approve the project, was given a preview of plans during a recent meeting with MDC Commissioner John F. Snedeker.

Brownell declared:

"On behalf of the residents of Quincy, I would like to thank Commissioner Snedeker and the MDC for their kind consideration and understanding in granting this request which will help preserve the residential character of Quincy."

Carl Johnson In NATO Exercise

Navy Fire Control Technician Seaman Apprentice Carl G. Johnson, son of Mrs. Rosalie Johnson of 357 Newport Ave., Wollaston, participated in the NATO Exercise "Display Determination" in the Mediterranean Sea.

He is a crewmember aboard the guided missile frigate USS Talbot, deployed with the U.S. Sixth Fleet. His command joined with naval forces from Portugal, Italy, Turkey and the United Kingdom for the combined exercise which included convoy operations, amphibious assault landings and anti-submarine warfare maneuvers.

The primary objective of the exercise was to train NATO naval forces in combined sea operations, to refine NATO procedures and ensure that operational plans were current.

Participating units evaluated increased standardization of doctrines, equipment and armaments among NATO forces, plus command and control procedures for coordinated action by NATO sea, land and air forces.

4 Quincy, North Girls On Suburban All-Star Swimming Team

Four members of the Quincy and North Quincy girls' swimming teams have been named to the Suburban League all-stars.

Quincy's two standouts, senior Sheila Burke and junior Susan Murphy were selected as were two of North's stars, senior Linda Walker and sophomore Maureen Santry.

Both teams, in only their second year of competition, recently completed their seasons with wins over Blue Hill Regional's first-year team.

Quincy's win was its only one of the season [1-8], while North finished with a 3-6-1 mark, having previously defeated Quincy and Randolph.

The First Ladies, coached by Elaine Murphy, won, 102-70, in what Elaine called a "fun meet". "Ronnie Dunn, Blue Hill's coach, and I had previously arranged a different format," Miss Murphy said. "We shortened the events to make them more interesting for the winners and, as a result, had many close finishes. Laurie Davis and Laurie Burke, first year swimmers, were strong in their back and breaststroke events."

Quincy had two triple winners, Sue Murphy winning the 100 backstroke, 100 individual medley and diving, and Sheila Burke winning the 50 breaststroke, 50 butterfly and 100 breaststroke. Both girls also swam with the winning 200 medley relay team which included Laurie Burke and Jeanne Milne.

Val Collins won the 100 freestyle and 50 freestyle as well as placing second in the 200 freestyle and swimming with the winning 200 freestyle relay team, which also included Laurie Davis, Jane Morrison and Cory Morrison.

Jane Morrison won the 200 freestyle and Laurie Davis the 50 backstroke.

Quincy second places were taken by Val Collins, 200 freestyle; Laurie Burke, 100 individual medley, 50 breaststroke and 100 breaststroke; Jane Morrison, 50 freestyle; Laurie Davis, 100 backstroke, and Cory Morrison, 100 freestyle.

Sue Murphy won the diving for the sixth time in nine meets with 149.25 points, performing six dives. She set a team record with 153 points against Randolph.

North won its meet over Blue Hills, 100-78, sparked by double winners Maureen Santry and Linda Walker. Maureen 100 individual medley and 100 freestyle, and Linda won the 200 and freestyle and 100 breaststroke.

Other Raiderette winners were Ingrid Pagliaro, one-meter diving; Eileen Feeney, 100 backstroke; Pam Henry, 50 freestyle; Barbara Tolland, 50 backstroke; Ann Joyce, 50 butterfly as well as swimming with the 200 freestyle and 200 medley relay teams.

North Wrestlers Off To Good Start

The North Quincy wrestling team, which suffered through a rough first season two years ago but rebounded to compile an 8-11 mark a year ago, is off to a good year under first-year coach Vaughn Lovejoy.

The Raiders, with a fine nucleus from last year's team, coached by Art Fallon, opened with an easy 50-15 win over Plymouth-Carver and followed up with a 31-24 decision over Duxbury.

North opened its Suburban League season Tuesday against Weymouth North and Friday at 1 p.m. will be at Newton. Monday the Raiders will travel to Catholic Memorial for a 9-30 a.m. meet and Tuesday will host Newton at 1 p.m. All home meets are held at the Quincy Armory.

In the opening romp over Plymouth-Carver, Art Dorgan set the pace with a superior decision (16-0) in the 128-pound class. Andy Provost won by decision at 100 pounds, Ed Beck took a decision at 107, Rick Schiarizzi won by a pin at 114, Butch Montoy pinned his opponent in the 134-pound class, Dan McGuigan won by a pin at 140, Ed Evanson won by a pin at 157, Ed Hanrahan won by a pin at 169 and Harry Knudsen won by forfeit in the heavyweight class.

In the Duxbury meet the North winners Brian Donaghy, 100 pounds; Beck, 107; Schiarizzi, 144; Montoya, 128; Steve Ketches, 147; Evanson, 157, and Knudsen, heavyweight.

Holiday Basketball Tourney At Vo-Tech Gym

The athletic department of the Quincy Public Schools will sponsor a holiday basketball tournament Monday and Tuesday nights at Quincy Vo-Tech gym.

Tickets are $1 for students and $2 for adults at the offices of the four high schools represented in the tourney.

Monday at 7 p.m. Stoughton and Plymouth-Carver will meet and at 8:30 host Quincy will play Dorchester, last year's Eastern Mass. Division Two champion and state runnerup.

The losers will meet at 7 Tuesday in the consolation game and the winners will play for the championship at 8:30.

"If this invitational tournament, featuring four of the top schoolboy teams, proves successful, I hope to make it an annual undertaking in the city," Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone said.

Raider Pride Makes Up For Inexperience

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy's winter track team, which got underway with a triangular win over Jamaica Plain and Dorchester last week, opened its third Suburban League season Tuesday against powerhouse Brockton.

The Raiders will face Cambridge Latin Monday at 11:30 a.m. and next Thursday will meet Weymouth North at the same time. All league meets are held at Newton North.

Coach Lou Tozzi's North team has an impressive 19-4-1 two-year record in the Suburban League but the Raiders were hit hard by graduation, losing such standouts as Bart Petracca, Brian Doherty, Ken O'Brien and Dave Lorman, who scored nearly half of the points last year when North tied Weymouth South for the league championship with an 8-1 record. Overall the Raiders were 10-1 and they won the state Class B title.

"We have only eight seniors on a squad of 35, so we are young and very inexperienced," Tozzi said. "Most likely we will need about another month to answer most of our questions, so right now we are simply trying to work hard for a winning season."

"We just don't have enough experience to come close to last year's season. Our program continues to function on pride and a winning attitude. With no locker room we have been bused to the Lincoln Hancock School most days."

In the sprints senior Matty King is a three-year veteran and Tozzi expects him to be among the top five in the league. Junior Russ Chisholm scored some points last year and Mike Larsen, a junior, is another promising dashman.

Top candidates in the 300 are sophomore Tim O'Neill, an outstanding prospect who scored both in the 300 and high jump as a ninth grader; senior Steve Doherty, junior John Rowell, junior Tom Burke, the 300-yard low hurdler outdoors, and Rick Smith, who was the outstanding goalie on the soccer team this fall.

In the hurdles, the weakest event, there is no one with any experience. Sophomore Dan McIntyre, an excellent athlete; sophomores Rich Schaezel and Bob Ferrara and junior Steve Budrick are the hopes in this event.

In the shot put junior Mike Gallagher is the most improved returnee and is expected to hit 47 feet. Also working hard on the weight program are junior Paul Ahern, sophomore Ted Kuberski and Larsen.

Ferrara and O'Neill are the best in the high jump. Senior veteran Steve Bonoli, school record holder in the pole vault, and junior Jim Conboy also are experienced jumpers.

Top returnee among the middle distance runners is senior Jerry MacKenzie, last year's Class B champ in the 600 who also anchored the championship relay team. He should be one of the best in the state this year. Tom Fennessey, a junior, is the most improved veteran and should do well in the 600. Senior Rich Kennedy is a dependable veteran and also available are seniors John O'Donnell, and Billy White, juniors Brian Balzarini, Peter Regie, Charles Williams and Marty Hernon; sophomore Jim Mackiewicz, freshman John O'Hare and Conboy.

North is strong in the distance runs but is hurting with the loss of Marty Levenson with a foot injury. He figured to be one of the league's best off his 9:36 two-mile outdoors. Jim Gavigan also was lost through ineligibility because of age and six members of the 10-1 cross country team decided to work this winter.

Senior Mike Morin should be the top two-miler and one of the best in the league, having already run a 9:58 this winter. Also outstanding is junior Mike Barrett, who keeps improving. Senior Mike Ketzner is another dependable veteran.

The top miler will be senior Bob Levenson, the team leader and one of the toughest competitors on the squad. He was second in the all-league mile last winter at 4:32, losing only to Petracca. An impressive newcomer is sophomore Paul McCormick.

"Overall, being realistic, a winning season would be a goal we would like to achieve," Tozzi concluded. "But most of the kids have too much pride for a 6-5 record, so we'll try to maintain a positive attitude."

"We have a separate girls' program this year with 16 girls signed up. My assistants are George Liset, former Weymouth North great, and Jeff Strungis, a former North Quincy standout."

In last week's non-league opener North had 58 points to 25 for Jamaica Plain and 23 for Dorchester.

The top performances were turned in by Kennedy, who won the 600 in 1:21.8, and Gallagher, who won the shot put with a toss of 46 feet, 8 inches.

The other winners were MacKenzie in the mile, Levenson, 1000; King, 50; Morin, two-mile, and the relay team of King, McIntyre, O'Neill and Fennessey.

Track Club Ready For 3rd Indoor Season

The Quincy Track Club will open its third indoor season next Tuesday when several senior members compete in the Beverly Holiday Invitational at Beverly High School.

Quincy entrants include Loretta Garvin and Karen McCarthy, 50-yard dash; Nancy DiChristofaro, 50-yard hurdles; and Linda Cellini, 220.

Also Jeff Hennessy, high hurdles, and Harry Williams, 50-yard dash.

After Jan. 1, the club will begin its age group program, busing large numbers of boys and girls to meets at Franklin High School and Holy Cross College.

Boys and girls selected as all-stars in summer track or cross country are eligible as well as several new members, all of whom will be contacted prior to the meets.

Further information regarding the winter season and any upcoming meets can be obtained by calling Hennessy at 472-5537 or Williams at 479-7321.

Grilli Wins 3rd

Tufts Varsity Letter

Rich Grilli of Quincy, a junior defensive end, has earned his third varsity letter with the Tufts University football team.

Rich, a standout at defensive end, is a former three-year football letterman at Abp.

Williams and is the son of Ettore and Mary Grilli of 268 Liberty Street, Quincy.

The Jumbos posted a 6-2-0 record this fall, their first winning season in seven years.

Raiders Home To Brookline, Presidents At Weymouth South

The Quincy and North Quincy basketball teams met Tuesday for the first time, with the Presidents seeking their second win in a row and the Raiders, under first-year coach Eddie Miller, trying for their second win in three outings.

Tonight (Thursday) North will host Brookline at Vo-Tech and Quincy will play at Weymouth South. Next Thursday it will be Brookline at Quincy and North at Brockton.

Joe Amorosino's Quincy team put on a brilliant defensive show in the first half and, sparked by Mike Lamie's 28 points, topped Weymouth North 62-44, in a Suburban League opener last Friday.

Quincy held Weymouth to 11 points in the first half while rolling to a comfortable 30-11 lead. "That first half defense was the finest half of defense I've ever seen," Amorosino said.

Joe was pleased with the performances of Lamie, Ed Daley, Ken Ames, Mike Kennedy and Ed Callahan. Callahan, a 6-3 senior, came off the bench when starting center Jack Uhlar ran into foul trouble, and led the Presidents in rebounding.

Uhlar with 10 points was the only other President in double figures.

Miller's first North team got off to a flying start with an easy 67-41 non-league win over Revere, but the Raiders suffered an ice-cold final period in their second game Friday and bowed to Waltham, 53-42, in their league opener.

Against Revere, North was strong defensively and only in the second period did the Patriots score more than nine points.

North was held to a 23-23 halftime tie but broke the game wide open in the last two periods, outscoring Revere, 44-18.

The scoring was evenly divided with 12 players scoring and only Dan Cuddy with 12 points hit double figures.

The game was highlighted by the ball handling of John White. The 5-8 guard lived up the third period and the game with some tricky behind-the-back, over-the-head and through-the-leg passes.

"White was fantastic," Miller said. "He really got us going and he can surprise you with what he can do sometimes."

Against Waltham, the Raiders led, 36-32, after three periods but fell behind and had to foul, enabling Waltham to win going away.

Cuddy had 15 points and White 14 to pace the losing attack.

Crusaderettes Rest After Win Over Barrington

The Eastern Nazarene College women's basketball team, with a 1-1 record and operating under a new coach, is enjoying the annual holiday vacation and will return to action on Jan. 11, when it hosts U Mass-Boston at 6 p.m.

Don Constantine, former North Quincy High and ENC standout, replaces Nancy Detwiler, who is now ENC's athletic director.

Don was an all-scholastic at North Quincy and is a 1974 graduate of ENC, where he was presented the Carroll F. Bradley Award for his outstanding athletic performance. After teaching and coaching in Alexander Bay, N.Y., Constantine returned to Quincy last year and is currently teaching at Central Junior High along with his coaching assignment at ENC.

Although this year's team is a young one, Don is anticipating a good season with a effective pressure defense and a quick running offense.

The squad includes four Quincy players, led by senior Jean Macchi, a brilliant all-around athlete at Quincy High who was outstanding this fall for the strong ENC volleyball team.

Junior Donna Fandel stands 6-4 and will put her height to good use as she did with the volleyball team.

Sophomore Maureen Mulcahy and freshman Cindy Tozzi, a three-sport standout for the past three years at Quincy High, are the other local players.

Others on the squad are Gen Beck, Regina Gomes, Janet Ranstrom, Pam Smith, Lene Stanton, Beth Sturtevant, Laurie Weir and Cynthia Tozzi.

The Crusaderettes were defeated by Wheaton College, 74-58, in their opener, but bounced back last week to wallop Barrington, R. I., 70-51.

Gomes sparked the attack with 22 points and 13 rebounds and Fandel had 16 points.

● Soccer

3 From ENC On All-Conference Team

Glenn Karker, Dave Wilfong and Don Reed of Eastern Nazarene College were selected to the Colonial Interscholastic Soccer All-Conference team.

Reed, a Quincy resident, playing his fourth and final season for the Crusaders, was the backbone of the ENC defense. Hampered by a lower back injury, he gave 100 percent in each game despite severe pain. Don was earlier named to the NCAA all-star team.

Goalie Wilfong of Kennett Square, Pa., playing his first year in a varsity sport, led ENC to a 4-5-1 regular season record, winning all four games by shutouts. Dave established an ENC record by allowing only 1.58 goals a game.

Karker of Johannesburg, So. Africa, scored five goals and added an assist his freshman year at ENC. His exceptional skills displayed this year will be an asset to the Crusaders in the years to come.

Over Or Under-Spending

Some people spend more than they can afford when buying a house. Equally painful is the mistake of buying the cheapest possible house and then suffering through its shortcomings.

I have no intention of stating how much anyone can afford for a house. This is a very personal decision. There are guidelines of monthly averages that lending institutions use for housing expenses. But — like the 'height/weight' charts printed on scales — these are only averages.

Don't hold back if you feel you can exceed the guidelines. When you are willing and sufficiently disciplined to economize on other expenses, you can get a better house than the average calls for. A good house may seem costly, but the rewards are well worth it.

Investing in a house that's a little more expensive gives you an excellent inflation hedge while your whole family enjoys a better place to live. And often, the resale opportunity is brighter.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

Phone or drop in. We are here to help.

Quincy At Newton, North Hosts Weymouth South

The Quincy and North Quincy hockey teams are off to slow starts, but both hoped to pick up their first wins Tuesday when the Presidents faced Rindge Tech and North played at Brockton.

Today, (Thursday) Quincy plays at Newton at 5 and North Quincy hosts Weymouth South at 6:40 at the Quincy Youth Arena. Tuesday the Presidents and Raiders clash at 6:40 at the Youth Arena.

Ron Erikson's small but spirited North team apparently took too much for granted and was held to a 3-3 tie by underdog Cambridge Latin in the opening game.

"We just weren't prepared," Erikson said. "The boys had the game 'won' on the way over because Cambridge doesn't have a reputation as a hockey power. Well, they learned tonight you have to be ready for any team."

After a scoreless first period, the teams scored five goals in the second, three by Cambridge. North's goals were scored by Paul McDonald, with assists for Frank McGinnis and Mike Marks; Jim Moore, with Matt Schafer and Paul Hurley assisting. Mike Smith scored the tying goal at 4:20 of the final period with Hurley and John Andrews having assists.

North had a big edge in shots, with Cambridge's Joe Cavallaro having 22 saves to only 8 for North's Ron Berezewicz.

Saturday night, North dropped a 4-0 decision to Waltham, which scored all its goals in the final period.

Bob Sylvia's youngest and most inexperienced Quincy team was edged by Weymouth North, 4-3, in its opener.

Trailing, 4-1, midway in the final period, the Presidents rallied for two goals, the first by Jack Campbell with Mike Gulizia and Tom Cahill assisting, and the last by Mark Giordani with Gulizia and Campbell assisting. Quincy's first goal was scored by Giordani, who had been given the green light to play by the doctor only a few days before the game. Pat Bamberry assisted on that goal.

Saturday, the Presidents bowed to defending Suburban League champion Brookline, 6-3.

Scoring for Quincy were Giordani, unassisted, Cahill with Giordani and Gulizia assisting, and Giordani again (his fourth in two games), with Dan Barry and Jim Deitsch assisting.

North Swimmers Win, Quincy Bows

A year ago Quincy and North Quincy had their first boys' swim teams and the only win between them was the Raiders' decision over the Presidents.

Last week Bill Walker's North team gained the first outside decision, defeating Waltham, 44-37, in a Suburban League meet.

The Presidents weren't so fortunate as they were walloped by Brockton, always a league power, 117-55.

The teams are now idle until Jan. 4, when North hosts Cambridge Latin at 7 p.m. and Quincy entertains Weymouth North at 3:30 at the Lincoln Hancock School pool.

In North's win over Waltham, Ed Melanson won the 200-yard individual medley and the 100-yard butterfly, while John Conley took first in the 100-yard freestyle and 50-yard freestyle;

Fowkes, 100-yard freestyle; Braun, 50-yard freestyle; Kevin Greene, one-meter diving; John Flate, 100-yard breaststroke; Jim Stockless, Quinn, Thor Halstead and Flate, 400-yard freestyle relay, and Melanson, Flate, Greene and Quinn, 200-yard medley relay.

Jim LaHive was a double winner for Quincy and set a school record, but it was far from enough. He won the 200-yard individual medley and set a school record of 50.9 seconds in winning the 100-yard freestyle.

Alan Kenney, Pete Sullivan, Ed Fenby and LaHive also set a school record of 4:08 in winning the relay.

The medley relay team of Fenby, Doug Haskins, John Connolly and Dave Notarangelo was third. Other scorers were: Ed Regan, second in diving; Sullivan, third in the 200-yard freestyle; Notarangelo, third in the 50-yard freestyle; Connolly, third in butterfly and 100-yard breaststroke, and Fenby, third in the 100-yard backstroke.

Curious And Determined

Q. Would you kindly give me a brief synopsis of my Sign, also my Rising Sign? My birth date is May 5, 1949. I was born in Cambridge, Mass. at 7:26 P.M.

D.M.S.

A. At the moment of your birth the Sign of the Zodiac Scorpio was Rising. The Sun, Venus and Mars were all in Taurus; Mercury and Uranus were in Gemini; the Moon, Pluto and Saturn were in Leo; Neptune in Libra and Jupiter was in Aquarius.

It is interesting to note the fact that your Ascendant and seven of the ten planets were all in so called Fixed Signs of the Zodiac. These usually indicate a very strong will and great determination.

That which you like, you like, there is no indecision, likewise, for the things and folks you do not like, you are just as set. Those who agree with you admire your excellent will power but those who try to get you to change your mind come to the conclusion that you are very stubborn.

You are observant and fully aware of what is going on around you. You do not rely entirely on that which is obvious, since you were blessed with a form of extra-sensory perception, a sixth sense or "feeling" about folks and things which is correct more often than not. You are intensely curious.

You appear to have an excellent imagination as well as a fine intellect. You could have benefited from a formal education but whether same was obtained or not, you are capable of using good judgment.

You seem to be able to get your way in many things but a word of caution, the Mars - Jupiter Aspect of your horoscope warns that taking chances or a gamble, in the end, could prove costly.

The Streets, Reddy Teddy In Rock Concert Dec. 27

A rock concert featuring The Streets and a special appearance by Reddy Teddy will be held Dec. 27 at the Strand Theater for the benefit of the proposed Ruth Gordon Cultural Center.

The event is being presented by Jack Donahue Productions in conjunction with the Mayor's office.

"The concert will be an entertaining evening for the city's youth and will also help us to realize the long-overdue cultural center," said Mayor LaRaia. "I personally support this kind of endeavor and encourage a favorable turnout."

The concert is one of a series planned by Donahue Productions with the succeeding promotions contingent upon the success of the first one.

Tickets are on sale at the Strand box office, Jason's Music Shop in Quincy Center and the Wollaston Florist, on Hancock St.

Quincy Residents In 'Christmas Tableau'

Six Quincy residents will participate in the "Christmas Tableau" to be presented Sunday, Jan. 9 at 7 p.m. in Sacred Heart Church, Weymouth Landing.

Participants are Madeleine Geiger, Mary Geiger, Aloysius Geiger, Elizabeth Dowd, Leo Koelsch and Thomas Dowd.

The Tableau, planned to provide an appropriate closing to the liturgical Christmas season, was composed by George F. Krim, Jr., of Holbrook, choir director and organist at Holy Trinity Church, Boston.

Krim's original piece is for massed choirs, organ, timpani and brass.

The public is invited to the free performance. Refreshments will be served at a social hour afterwards.

QJC Offering Course On Movies

Quincy Junior College will offer "The Development of the American Film", a three-credit undergraduate course, on Wednesdays from 6 p.m. to 9:20 p.m., beginning Jan. 26.

An introduction to motion pictures, the class will focus on film making from the late 40's to the 70's, and will emphasize different kinds of film, including westerns, comedy, gangster, musicals and social commentary. The importance of film as an art form will also be stressed.

No prerequisites are required. For more information, call 471-9200 or 471-2470.

Council Ponders Regulating Stores Closing Times

Sheets Says Foot Patrolmen Needed To Control Youthful Gangs

City Councillor James A. Sheets sees trouble ahead from Quincy in the coming summer months unless some controls are exerted over youthful gangs that have been disrupting some neighborhoods.

"I think we are moving gradually toward some real crises," he told the City Council Monday night.

"Unless we can reinstate on a regular basis a foot patrolman program in every ward we are going to have severe problems this summer."

"You cannot expect a police car to respond to a juvenile problem when it is responding to an accident on the Expressway or Furnace Brook Parkway or a robbery or a car theft."

"On an average of five nights out of seven last year, we had one police patrol car in the area between State Street South, Raytheon and Adams St. In some cases the response time was down to 20 minutes."

Sheets' warning came as the Council discussed the problem of young people who have disrupted the neighborhood around the Dacey Brothers store at 139 West Elm Ave.,

Wollaston, for the past two years.

Some residents of the surrounding area have been seeking to force the store to close at 7 p.m. instead of the current 11 p.m.

Council President Arthur H. Tobin said he has conferred with the attorney general, the city solicitor and the licensing board and "it seems that on the local level our hands are tied."

He offered his services as a member of the city's delegation to the state legislature to propose and support legislation that would enable the city to regulate the closing times of retail stores.

Tobin said Asst. City Solicitor Louis Bertucci has assured him he will draft legislation giving the city the right to regulate hours "to show that we mean business and we are concerned about our neighborhoods."

Councillor Warren A. Powers, who brought the problems of the Dacey Brothers store before the Licensing Board, denied that he and the complaining residents are anti-business.

"This business is operating in a residential neighborhood, not a business neighborhood," he said.

"It is not a 'ma and pa' store but chain operators with a disregard for the peace and tranquility of the neighbors."

"Cities and towns should be allowed to control the hours of businesses like these that operate in the neighborhoods, not in commercial districts."

"If the business is in a business district or runs at normal hours, fine. But where do we go from here? Are we going to have businesses open 24 hours a day?"

Most of the Councillors expressed support for Tobin's legislative suggestion.

"This legislation is absolutely essential," said Councillor Sheets. "This is the only way we have to provide increased protection for the people. We have no choice but to pass it."

"I've seen bars that are better managed than some of these convenience stores," said Councillor Paul D. Harold. "But we have to be careful that we don't get too heavy handed in restrictions."

Tobin Reconvenes Council

$800,000 More May Be Needed For NQHS, Merrymount Additions

Council President Arthur H. Tobin reconvened Monday's recessed meeting of the Council last night [Wednesday] to hear Mayor LaRaia's request to increase the $15 million bond issue for construction at North Quincy High and Merrymount School.

Bids for the two projects were opened at noon Tuesday and they came in higher than expected, leaving only a contingency fund of $60,000, which is not deemed high enough for a $15 million bond issue.

A spokesman for the LaRaia administration said the Mayor is readying a request for close to $800,000 — some $550,000 for North Quincy and $200,000 for Merrymount School.

Alicia Coletti Director

QJC Women's Center

Mrs. Alicia Coletti, former President of the League of Women Voters of Quincy, has been appointed Director of the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College, announces School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

"The school system is extremely fortunate to be able to secure a director with the excellent credentials held by Alicia Coletti," Creedon said.

A member of the executive board of the League of Women Voters for 10 years, she served as president of the organization from 1968 to 1970.

An active member of the Massachusetts Committee to Ratify the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA), she also was a member of the Steering Committee of the South Shore Women's Caucus.

From 1974 to 1976 she was chairwoman of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

Mrs. Coletti helped organize programs in the Quincy Public Schools in cooperation with the Quincy Arts Alliance and formulated recommendations for the city's observance of the Bicentennial.

In 1973, she served on the ad hoc committee for judicial reform and interviewed prospective candidates for a judicial vacancy at Quincy District Court.

From 1970 to 1974 she was a member of the Quincy Rent Grievance Board and was a substitute teacher in the Quincy Public Schools from 1958 to 1960 and last year.

A 1950 graduate of Mt. Trinity Academy in Watertown, she was a full-time teacher in the Weymouth Public Schools from 1954 to 1957, has taken graduate courses in literature at Boston State College and holds a bachelor of science degree in education from Boston State College.

She will assume the directorship of the Women's Center of Quincy Junior College on Jan. 3.

Mrs. Coletti lives at 165 Samoset Ave., Merrymount.

In Wake Of Arrests

LaRaia: Will Not Resign

By TOM HENSHAW

Embattled Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia has no intention of quitting in the wake of the stunning arrest by the FBI of two of his top aides on extortion charges.

"That's the last thought that would enter my mind," he told a Monday morning news conference.

"The City Council probably will seize on the situation to be more critical, even to the extent of asking me to leave office so they can step in and run the city themselves.

"Anyone who wants this seat has got to run for it."

Public Works Commissioner Vincent LoCicero and Herbert Reppucci, assistant director of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), were arrested Dec. 23 on charges of extorting $7,000 from the Rochefort Construction Co., the Natick firm that was low bidder on a $1 million contract to build an addition to the Merrymount School.

They were released on $5,000 personal surety each and their cases were continued for a probable cause hearing Jan. 12.

Both were suspended without pay by LaRaia "because it would be impossible for them to effectively provide the services to this city for which I appointed them until the issue of their innocence or guilt is resolved." If they are innocent, he said, "they will be given every reconsideration as to their reinstatement."

Meanwhile, LaRaia indicated that the city plans to go ahead and award the contract for the Merrymount addition to the Rochefort company.

City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams said he spoke to the U.S. attorney's office and "as far as they are concerned there are no plans to prosecute Rochefort for anything. It is up to the city who gets the contract."

Williams said he still plans to ask the U.S. attorney for a letter of approval clearing the Rochefort company but "I don't know if it's really needed."

He said Rochefort indicated a willingness to carry on with the contract but asked to get together with city officials before further action is taken. No date was set for the meeting.

Any contract involving the Merrymount School addition and the North Quincy High School projects cannot be signed until after Jan. 3 since the bond issue came some $750,000 short when the bids were opened Dec. 21. The additional funds have been approved by the City Council and are being advertised.

LaRaia said if for any reason Rochefort cannot take the contract right away it will go to the next lowest bidder.

"I don't want to see the school scuttled or delayed," he said. "Historically, they don't resolve these things overnight."

The $13.5 million North Quincy project is not involved in the LoCicero-Reppucci case, said the Mayor.

LaRaia said he had no prior knowledge of the arrest of LoCicero, which took place in the parking lot of the DPW garage on Sea St., or Reppucci, which took place in the Howard Johnson's Restaurant on Route 138 in Canton.

"I was not contacted by the investigators," he said. "I heard about it for the first time Thursday afternoon about 4 or 4:30 when a reporter from the Herald called me. I didn't know what to make of it. I couldn't contact Mr. LoCicero and no one else had any information. Mr. LoCicero came up here Thursday night."

The Mayor said he had named Edward Leone, the city engineer, as acting commissioner in place of LoCicero, adding "I'll make a decision in a couple of weeks as to whether Mr. Leone will continue as acting commissioner," or a new permanent commissioner is chosen. Reppucci's replacement will be picked in a week, he said.

Even if LoCicero and Reppucci are proven innocent, said LaRaia, "I'm not sure they would want to come back and serve under the circumstances."

The Public Works Commissioner has been continually harassed on his job. Previously there was the investigation of the city dump. He was not made aware of that investigation. Neither was I.

"The District Attorney found no criminality involved but my people have been under that kind of harassment ever since I have been in office. It is that kind of atmosphere in this city."

But the Mayor added he had no reason to believe that politics was involved in the arrest of LoCicero and Reppucci.

"There is no suggestion of that now," he said. "It did not involve local people to my knowledge."

LaRaia, who has been at odds with some members of the City Council for the past year, indicated that he expects the

LaRaia's Inaugural, Political Turmoil, $34.90 Tax Increase, Mayoral Appointments, Extortion Charges, NQHS, Merrymount Additions, Hospital Problems Among Year's Highlights

MAYOR JOSEPH J. LARAIA takes office in January as Quincy's 28th Chief executive from City Clerk John Gillis. He is the 25th man to hold the job as three Mayors held split terms.

departments and its consequences affect all of our citizens."

Prophetic words. One of the first actions taken by Mayor LaRaia was to name Lt. Corady Solimini, who worked in his campaign, to replace Capt. Paul Nestor as inspector of divisions, in effect, second in command to Police Chief Francis X. Finn.

"The fact that the Chief and his top assistant [Nestor] campaigned for my opponent in the election had nothing to do with it," said LaRaia.

Finn filed suit against LaRaia, charging that the Mayor had exceeded his powers.

In a way, that early action set the tone for the first year of the LaRaia Administration.

Every appointment, every action, of Mayor LaRaia came under close, often aggressive, scrutiny by a City Council that was at various times suspicious, angry, frustrated and always highly partisan.

There was the "January Massacre", in which most of the holdovers from the administration of ex-Mayor Walter J. Hannon were swept out of City Hall by the new broom of LaRaia.

"My election would mean nothing if I retained most of the appointees of my predecessor," explained the Mayor with considerable logic. "I need individuals in those positions who will serve with regard to my goals and not in opposition to them."

One of LaRaia's early appointments, James C. Short, 21, lasted 11 days. Later, he was convicted of stealing $500 and trying to steal $10,000 more from Bruno Izzo of Westwood in connection with licenses for a restaurant Izzo planned in Quincy Center.

When former School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly called for the City Council's Oversight Committee to investigate LaRaia's appointments, the Mayor himself appeared before the Council to defend them.

"I feel there are political overtones to what has been going on for the past two weeks," he charged.

"If there are charges by the City Council or an individual citizen, I want to be confronted with him tonight," demanded John Salenius the Mayor's top appointment as executive secretary.

No one appeared to confront him.

There was another stormy [Cont'd on Page 13]

Afficionados of political intrigue will long remember the year 1976 in Quincy.

It began with a promise and a warning from Joseph J. LaRaia, the 25th man to hold the office of Mayor.

It ended with two high city officials charged with extortion and homeowners staggering under a $34.90 tax rate increase.

The new Mayor, in his inaugural, pledged to "restore fair, open government to Quincy," but he cautioned that Quincy, "like every other city in this nation, faces a severe financial crisis."

"Ours," he said, "has been brought about chiefly by the deliverately less than realistic election year budget which is our legacy from the previous administration."

"The postponement of new taxes in an election year is already showing budget deficiencies in several

HARDENING OF ARTERIES

Most heart attacks are the result of the 20th-century epidemic called atherosclerosis. It is the most prevalent form of hardening of the arteries which begins when fats being transported by the bloodstream for energy and storage in tissue are deposited instead in the inner layers of the arterial wall. The passage abnormally narrows, a blood clot (or thrombus) may form next to the fatty deposit and block the channel, or the fatty deposits themselves may clump together to block the artery.

In either case, the coronary occlusion that results reduces or completely cuts off blood flow through the artery. Deprived of nutrients and oxygen, some tissue of the heart muscle dies, and the heart loses part of its pumping capacity.

Despite years of intensive research it still isn't known why the inner walls of the coronary arteries thicken, or, for that matter, why the process so often becomes a fatal condition in some and not in others. Studies on thousands of patients show a combination of factors at work.

Today's Women

For A March Weekend

Mayor's Commission On Women Plans Money Management Workshops

By MARY WEAVER

A March weekend of workshops covering a variety of issues relating to women and a monthly series of workshops on money management matters is planned by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

Miss Toby Felton, chairwoman of the Women and Work Task Force, said the weekend of workshops will provide women the opportunity to meet in a concentrated period of time and participate in a number of different programs. "The workshops will be substantive," she said, "averaging between 1½ and 2 hours and will involve some role playing and much discussion."

Subjects related to work which will be covered include a practical guide to the job search writing resumes and interviewing techniques and career awareness and goal clarification. A special workshop will feature women who have started their own businesses who will examine their problems and successes.

Human service programs of interest to women will be the subject of other workshops. Carol Mahoney, the Commission's representative on the Norfolk County Rape Crisis Center Unit will coordinate a workshop on rape. The problem of abused wives will be the topic of another workshop coordinated by the Social Services Task Force.

As part of the monthly series on money management, a special workshop on this topic will be presented at the March weekend. The monthly series is scheduled to begin the end of January. Some of the topics which may be scheduled include: How to prepare a Budget, Taxes, Insurance, Wills, Estates, Credit - How to Obtain It and Use It, and Consumer Purchasing and Protection.

Elizabeth Van Twuyver, chairwoman of the Women and Money Task Force, said the series is planned to educate all women on the importance of money management issues.

"At some point in their lives, most women face a situation regarding money which they are unfamiliar with - our intent is to help women deal with these concerns," she said.

Both programs will be free of charge and open to the public. Details of the scheduling shall be forthcoming.

Cerasoli Files Bill On Conduct Of Rape Trials

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli has filed bills in the 1977 session of the legislature guiding the conduct of rape trials.

One would bar the public from certain proceedings in the trials and the other would prevent the introduction of irrelevant previous sexual conduct from being admitted into evidence.

The bills are co-sponsored by the Mass. Caucus of Women Legislators.

"The first piece of legislation provides for the exclusion of the general public from the courtroom during the trial of certain proceedings involving the crimes of incest or rape," said Cerasoli.

"This legislation is aimed at protecting the parties involved provided that the complaining witness has requested the trial be held in camera and also that the defendant in such trial waives his right to public trial by written statement.

"The second piece of legislation concerns the introduction of a woman's previous sexual conduct in rape cases.

"This legislation is designed to protect the privacy of a woman's previous sexual conduct and prevents such conduct committed more than one year prior to the date of the alleged crime from being admitted into evidence unless such conduct was with the defendant.

"This bill is designed to prevent irrelevant previous sexual conduct from being admitted into trial evidence.

"Rape is such a heinous crime that it is about time action be taken to protect the victim in light of the large number of alleged rapists who are acquitted.

"Crime statistics prove that many rapes go unreported because of the ugliness of the trial proceedings and the humiliation that the victim is subjected to during the trial.

"It is about time we put our laws into perspective by protecting the victims instead of the criminals."

MAYBE YOU NEED A NEST EGG FEDERAL TAXES WON'T CRACK.

If Social Security is all you have to look forward to when you retire, look into a Quincy Cooperative retirement plan. With either our I.R.A. or Keogh Plan you pay no Federal Income Tax on your savings until you retire. And probably by that time you'll be in a lower tax bracket.

$180,000 at age 65.

Our Individual Retirement Account (I.R.A.) is specifically for those not covered by a pension or profit-sharing plan where they work. If you qualify, you can save 15% of your income up to a maximum of $1,500 each year.

Save the maximum amount each year for thirty years and you'll retire with over $180,000 at age 65.

$900,000 at age 65.

Many self-employed businessmen and professional people have no retirement plan.

That's why we offer the Keogh Retirement Plan. This category can save $7,500 or 15% (whichever is less) of their annual taxable income. Thirty years of saving the maximum in our Keogh Plan would mean an account balance of over $900,000 upon reaching age 65.

*Income is compounded at a current rate of 7 1/2%. This rate is subject to change. Contributions and interest income are not exempt from Massachusetts taxation.

JOSEPH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

Mr., Mrs. Matthew Morana Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Morana of Dysart St., Quincy Center, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently at a reception given by their three children.

The reception, held at the South Weymouth Knights of Columbus Hall, was attended by about 80 guests, including members of the original wedding party.

The couple renewed their wedding vows and received the Papal blessing. Congratulatory messages were read from Most Rt. Rev. Joseph F. Maguire, and Marchese Franco Faa Di Bruno, Italian consulate general.

The couple were married Dec. 27, 1926, in Sacred Heart Church, Boston. She is the former Maria A. Sansone.

They have been communicants of St. John's Church and residents of Quincy for the past 50 years.

A retired master tailor, Mr.

Morana was employed by the U.S. Army Research and Development Laboratories in Natick. He aided in the preparation of foul-weather gear for the armed services, and space apparel for astronauts. He was awarded the title of Cavalier in the Order of the Vittorio Veneto six years ago by the Italian Consulate General.

Members of the original wedding party in attendance at the reception were Mrs. Domenic J. Tantillo, sister of the bride, matron of honor; Mrs. Frank Caristi, bridesmaid; Mrs. James Orr, flower girl; and James Tantillo, ring bearer.

Mr. and Mrs. Morana are the parents of Nicholas J. Morana of Hingham, Mrs. Joseph Dooner of South Weymouth and Mrs. Donald Ramsay of Braintree.

They have 13 grandchildren. Anniversary pictures were taken in front of five-foot enlarged reproduction of the original wedding photograph.

Scantum Association Holds Christmas Party

The Scantum Community Association held its annual Christmas Party recently at the Scantum School.

"Holiday Spirit" was the theme for the party, which included a pot luck supper.

Entertainment was by the Sacred Heart Folk group.

Santa chatted with the youngsters and distributed candy canes. He also presented Rance and Sue Gillespie with a gift certificate from the Scantum Community Association in appreciation of all their work on the annual Fourth of July celebration.

Jane and Richard Betzger of the social committee and Mary Gougian, program chairman, arranged and supervised the party.

Funeral Mass Thursday For Cornelius Keohane, 74, Retired Funeral Director

A funeral Mass will be celebrated at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy today [Thursday] at 10 a.m. for Cornelius V. Keohane, 74, of 333 Hancock St., North Quincy, founder of the Keohane Funeral Homes in Quincy.

Mr. Keohane, a lifelong resident of Quincy, died Monday at Quincy City Hospital. Burial will be in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Mr. Keohane was a graduate of the New England School of Embalming and founded the funeral home in 1933. He retired six years ago.

He was a past president of the Mass. Association of Funeral Directors and was a member of several organizations related to his business.

In addition, he was active in the Knights of Columbus, the Quincy Elks, the 100 Club and the Quincy Rotary Club of which he was a former director.

Mr. Keohane is survived by his wife, Frances K. [Higgins], three sons, Edward J. Keohane of Wollaston, the present manager of the funeral homes; C. Robert Keohane, of Lakeville and Paul

CORNELIUS V. KEOHANE
F. Keohane of Old Orchard Beach, Maine.

Mr. Keohane also leaves four daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth McGowan of Woburn, Mrs. Marie Barry of North Quincy, Mrs. Sheila Lotti of Stoughton and Mrs. Kathleen Noel of Cumberland, Me., and a sister, Mrs. Mae Schumb of Milton.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St.

Blood Drive At Wollaston Baptist

A blood drive will be held at Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church of Wollaston, 81 Prospect Ave., Wollaston, Saturday, Jan. 8 from 11 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.

The drive is being organized by Frank LaPierre, a Life Scout of Troop 19 in Wollaston with the co-operation of the American Red Cross as part of his Eagle Scout Project.

He asks that anyone who would like to donate call 773-8586 for an appointment or more information since the success of the program depends on the number of donors.

In addition to helping Frank get his Eagle Scout rank, the blood drive will help the Red Cross meet the demand of blood for the community.

If a donor belongs to a blood bank, the donations in this drive may be credited to their bank.

Services Held For Michael Peatridge, 23, Mayor's Information Officer

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Michael J. Peatridge, 23, information officer for Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, who was killed early Christmas Day when the car he was driving crashed into two utility poles on Adams St., Milton.

Monsignor Mark Keohane, pastor, celebrated a funeral Mass at Star of the Sea Church, Squantum. Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery, Quincy.

A Quincy resident for 12 years, Mr. Peatridge was actively involved in Quincy politics and government. His home address was 766 East Squantum St., Squantum.

In addition to his job as the Mayor's information officer, he was a local co-ordinator for the election campaign of Jimmy Carter and had been an unsuccessful candidate for the

MICHAEL J. PEATRIDGE

Quincy City Council in 1973 when he was defeated by Councillor Warren Powers for the Ward 5 seat.

Mr. Peatridge graduated from North Quincy High School in 1971 and was a part-time student at the University of Massachusetts/Boston.

He was a member of the North Quincy Council of the Knights of Columbus and had been active in scouting programs in the city.

Son of the late William J. and Margaret [O'Connor] Peatridge, he is survived by two brothers, Christopher W. Peatridge and William F. Peatridge of Quincy, two sisters, Mrs. Mary Collins of Quincy and Mrs. Martha C. McGoldrick of Rockland as well as several nieces and nephews. He also leaves a close family friend, Henry Kennelly, who cared for the Peatridge children after the death of their parents.

Funeral arrangements were by the Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Tobin Would Exempt College Campus Meals From Tax

Senator Arthur Tobin announces he has filed a bill for the next session, beginning in January, to exempt meals service on college campuses from the meals tax.

"Certainly, with the tremendous burden that the young people of Massachusetts are undergoing, the meals tax that they pay is a severe burden not only to them but to their parents, many of whom are struggling to further their children's higher education," Tobin said. "The return of this money to the state at present is certainly not equitable when you consider the hardship that many of these students are undergoing to try to better their futures. Massachusetts should not be penalizing the young people for sacrificing in spending their time and dollars so that we might have a better educated community."

Men's Fitness Program At Lincoln-Hancock School

The Quincy Park-Recreation Board announces a program of men's fitness utilizing the universal weight machine at the Lincoln Hancock Community School.

The program will be held

Mondays and Wednesdays from 6 to 8 p.m. beginning Jan. 3. Instructors will be on hand to explain the proper use of the universal weight equipment. The free program is open to male residents of Quincy who are at least 19 years of age.

30 IS ABOUT THE RIGHT AGE TO THINK ABOUT RETIREMENT.

With inflation the way it is, anyone planning to live out his retirement comfortably on Social Security is only kidding himself.

How secure can you feel on $340 a month?

It takes a long time to prepare for your retirement. Starting at age 30 is certainly none too soon.

South Shore Retirement Accounts.

Recently, an act of Congress made it possible for you to set up your own retirement program if you're not already covered by a plan.

At South Shore this means that you can set aside up to $1500 or 15% of your salary (whichever is less) in a special tax-exempt Retirement Account.

This money is tax free from federal taxation so long as it stays in the account. (That could amount to several hundred dollars a year.)

And since when you draw on your retirement fund you will most likely be in a lower tax bracket, this will result in even further tax savings.

The only caution is that since this fund is intended for retirement, it must be used that way. If you withdraw any money before age 59½ the federal law insists that there be a penalty.

$248,160 when you retire.

Let's say you set up a retirement account at South Shore National at age 30 and at the beginning of each year you deposit $1500 in your retirement account.

At the end of the thirty-fifth year you will have contributed $52,500, taken tax benefits amounting to $13,125 and due to interest earnings, accumulated $248,160 by the time you retire at age 65.

If you contributed $1500 at the beginning of each year for 35 years, here's how your fund will be computed.
Annual contribution	$1,500
Total tax saving per year (25% tax bracket)	$375
Total contributed at age 65	$52,500
Interest earnings at 7.25%	$195,660
YOUR TOTAL RETIREMENT FUND	$248,160

It's amazing how it all adds up.

The convenience of Multistatement.

If you wish, your Retirement Account at South Shore National can be still another part of Multistatement. Multistatement automatically entitles you to such services as free checking, NOW Accounts, automatic transfer of funds and preferred personal loan rates. It's a most convenient way to handle your banking.

Sooner or later you are going to retire. Why not do it as comfortably as you possibly can?

Start planning now with a Retirement Account from South Shore National... and live happily ever after.

Will your retirement party be something to celebrate?

30-year-old man practicing for Big Day.

Can LaRaia Survive Politically?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

The LaRaia administration, beset by problems from the outset and now rocked by alleged scandal, faces a mighty big question: Can the Mayor himself survive politically?

In recent years and perhaps never before in the city's history, has a mayor in a short period of one year had so many negative developments pile up on him.

The two officials—both his appointees—arrested by the FBI last week and charged with extortion are, of course, innocent until proven guilty.

Unfortunately, even if they are found innocent, the taint will be there in the minds of many. They will insist something was wrong.

Like, ironically, Mayor LaRaia still insisting, despite evidence to the contrary, that there was wrongdoing in last year's mayoral election.

A mayor is not personally responsible for the actions of appointees and others around him, but what they do affects him politically.

If an aide, for example, came up with a plan to save the city millions of dollars and lower the tax rate, the mayor would be a hero.

But if an appointee gets into a jam, it makes the mayor look bad. It rubs off.

Mayor LaRaia has had his share of lumps since taking office in January. More than his share. It has been a year of turmoil, feuding, fussing and very little of anything that can be labeled progress.

If you read The Quincy Sun's review of Quincy events during 1976 [starting on Page 3 of this issue], you will find a negative theme woven throughout the year—month after month, week after week and sometimes, day after day.

Fuads with the City Council, the School Committee, the Hospital Board of Managers, the controversial $34.90 tax hike, the questionable appointments, loss of U.S. Public Works funds, the extortion charges, etc., etc. All make you wonder if Mayor LaRaia can not only politically survive but keep his mind on his job.

There are some in the city who feel sorry for him. They believe he sincerely tried to do a good job.

Others are not that sympathetic. They remember the cemetery department probe and how LaRaia as a councillor relentlessly pursued the then cemetery superintendent.

They think he rode into office on a probe and now will be ridden out by another one. They see it as poetic justice.

That recent mayoral poll does show, according to usually reliable sources, that Senator Council President Arthur Tobin would defeat LaRaia in an election if held now and that former Mayor Walter Hannon would be a formidable challenger. And, that was BEFORE the alleged extortion business.

The feeling now is that Mayor LaRaia is in grave trouble as far as his political future is concerned. It would seem he would need a small miracle to turn things around.

If he doesn't find one in the next few weeks, he looks like a one-term mayor.

WHILE THINGS ARE looking down for Joseph LaRaia, they seem to be looking up for Arthur Tobin.

Tobin appears to be a "sure thing" for an eighth consecutive term as city council president at mid-term ceremonies Jan. 3. City Hall sources say he has more than enough votes among council colleagues to wield the gavel for another year. They wouldn't be surprised to see his election unanimous.

Tobin long ago set a record for consecutive one-year terms as council president. He will now be starting his 10th year in the council, his eighth as president.

SPECULATION AROUND Quincy Point is that Deputy Sheriff Richard Gilmore, long-time supporter of Sheriff Clifford Marshall, is giving serious consideration to running for the Ward 2 City Council seat, occupied by Daniel Raymond. Gilmore was one of Marshall's campaign aides when the latter ran for the Ward 2 seat.

NICE GESTURE DEPT: For the second year in a row, Councillor Paul Harold served Christmas dinner to the needy at the Pine St. Inn in Boston's South End.

BUMPER STICKER: Support Bingo. Keep Grandma off the streets.

THUMBNAIL THOUGHTS

By Senator Snuffy

Politics does too get better: we no longer have Dick Nixon and Spiro Agnew to kick around.

Marriage is an agreement between two individuals, seemingly even more fragile these days than treaties between nations.

No matter who's elected, we'll still get pie in the sky...and little tax relief, if any.

Powers Wonders:

Should Quincy City Hospital Be Sold To Private Interests?

Would the taxpayers of Quincy be better off selling the City Hospital to private interests?

City Councillor Warren A. Powers posed the provocative question Monday night in the midst of a City Council hearing into a rezoning request that would eventually clear the way for modernization of the Hospital.

"I don't know that come 1987 the escalating costs of running a hospital will be such that the taxpayers will be able to afford it," said Powers.

"Maybe the city should consider divesting itself of the hospital."

"People are coming to Quincy and utilizing our facilities and because we're a public hospital we have to take in patients from everywhere and we're not getting the federal and state reimbursement."

"We are becoming a regional hospital for anyone who wants to use the facilities but the hospital is being subsidized by the taxpayers of Quincy."

"If, in the next few years, it becomes an increasing expense and goes from a hospital that traditionally ran in the black but now will run in the red we should seriously consider selling the hospital."

The question at hand was the rezoning of a plot of city-owned land on Whitwell St. from Residence A to Residence C so that it could be used by the hospital, first as a parking area, later as part of a hospital expansion.

At present, said Dennis F. Ryan, a member of the Hospital's Board of Managers,

"As you come in from Whitwell St. we have parking at both sides of the driveway. If we ever had a fire in the West Wing it would be physically impossible to bring fire apparatus in there without moving those cars. It could be serious."

Hospital Director Anthony DeFalco reiterated Ryan's warning.

"It is extremely important that we relocate that parking out of there, particularly for emergency vehicles such as fire trucks, police cars and ambulances who must get in and out quickly," he said.

But that so alarmed Councillor James A. Sheets that they had to back up a bit.

"Are you saying," he inquired, "that if we were to have a fire in the West Wing tomorrow at 11 a.m. the fire apparatus could not adequately reach the area to extinguish the fire?"

"Certainly they can get there," replied DeFalco, "but it makes little or no sense to allow people parking along the right of way who may be backing out when emergency vehicles are on the way in."

"Then there is no immediate danger," pressed Sheets.

"No," said DeFalco, "but there could be some small delays to emergency vehicles by allowing parking where it presently exists."

Council President Arthur H. Tobin, noting that the land was purchased by the city in 1974 for more than $100,000, thought that was pretty steep for a parking lot.

"When the Hospital Board of Managers came before the City Council to take this property," he said, "we were told it was wanted for expansion purposes. Tonight we are being presented a different concept."

"Now we're being told the property is needed for a parking lot. Just for the sake of round figures, if you put 100 cars there that's $1,000 a car. This in times of economic hardship and a $35 increase in the tax rate."

DeFalco pointed out that the figure Tobin was rounding off actually was 155 cars.

"The Councillor's arithmetic is wrong," he said. "If it's 155 cars that's $800 per parking space. That's cheap."

Anyway, the hospital director said, the land would be used for parking purposes only temporarily.

"The parcel has a great deal of importance to any plan we try to evolve in modernization of the City Hospital," he said.

"Our building advisory committee has now seven alternatives before it which have evolved out of architectural recommendations. Two of the alternatives infringe upon this lot."

"If this land is not zoned in the very near future I can no longer continue any planning process involving that land."

"Whatever I submit to the state's certificate of need group I can only show land that is already in possession of the Hospital and is zoned for hospital use."

The Council has 90 days to decide on the rezoning.

LIVING TODAY

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX

You Must Do It Yourself

"You're the doctor" ... Al said ... "Anything you say." Al said the words ... but he didn't feel it in his heart. His resolution was only surface. His temper tantrums continued ... so also his lazy habits ... and his excuses ... his lack of affection for his wife ... his drinking. Marie was fed up. She'd blamed herself for his conduct. He'd tried to make his behavior her fault. Their relationship was in jeopardy ... so typical of what is happening to many marriages.

Finally ... I said "Al ... I'm going to level with you. We can go on this way with these counseling sessions 'til hell freezes over ... and nothing will happen. But I don't feel good about taking your money with no results. You listen ... agree with me ... and go out and do exactly as you did before. You and I have gone to the very heart of your problems ... [he was emulating his father in every way he could] ... "you still say you love Marie and want to be happy with her. But until YOU DECIDE TO CHANGE nothing can improve. Think about this now ... and if you decide to do something about your life, call me ... and I'll see you again. If you decide to go on in this same pattern, all I can say is ... "good luck to you." It's your choice now, Al."

A week went by ... and I didn't hear from him. Two weeks. Three weeks. Meanwhile Marie was facing up to the decision of what to do with her life. She wanted marriage ... and with Al. But not on this basis.

During the fourth week Al called. "Dr. Knox," he said, "you really jolted me. I thought I was conning you and Marie by going through the motions of counselling. But you sorta blew the whistle on me. I want to come back."

He came ... a different man ... open ... honest ... sincere. He began to deal with himself ... his temper ... his jealousy ... his drinking ... his father complex ... his laxness ... his selfishness. Suddenly the tide began to come in for Al. He stopped drinking completely. Now he could think rationally. He began to see his relationship with his father as it really was ... a little boy dependency ... a false respect for his father whose qualities were not worthy of his respect.

Al changed ... suddenly and beautifully. Marie and Al became a beautiful couple. Why? Because he stopped conning himself ... and began to be the man he wanted to be.

These much-sought-after GEMS OF HAPPINESS ... PEACE ... LOVE ... come not from Washington ... nor miracle pills ... nor Kohoutek ... nor a husband/wife. The environment around you may make these easier to come by ... or harder. BUT YOU MUST DO IT YOURSELF ... nobody can bring fulfillment to you but YOU. Again I say ... get a clear image of what you want to be ... and do. Then move toward that goal. You have the power in you to be what you want to be. Stop waiting for someone else to do it for you. YOU MUST DO IT YOURSELF.

Commends HN Post For Fire Engine Rides

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would like to take this occasion to both congratulate and thank the Houghs Neck American Legion for providing free fire engine rides for children in Quincy Center during the Christmas shopping period.

The program was enjoyed by many children and parents, and in a small way, helped to promote downtown Quincy.

The continued vitality of downtown Quincy is dependent on our support, and programs such as the Houghs Neck Post's help the downtown continue as our neighborhood shopping center as well as providing jobs for our citizens and substantial tax monies to stabilize property taxes.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS

By TOM HENSHAW

Dec. 30, 1947 - Jan. 5, 1948 - 29 Years Ago This Week

Mayor Ross Warns $33 Tax Rate Will Rise

Mayor Charles A. Ross warned in his inaugural address that Quincy was faced with an increase of $1.5 million in the cost of running the city government in 1948. He predicted a $7 or $8 boost in the tax rate.

"I would like to maintain our present tax rate [$33] but I can readily see that such cannot be done," he said.

Ross listed a new municipal health center and widening of Revere Rd. and Canal St. as two of the chief objectives of his administration, the last before Plan E goes into effect.

He also promised a city-wide recreation program, construction of more stands and a garage at the municipal stadium and completion of plans for a proposed new surgical and medical addition to City Hospital.

Ambrosio Della Chiesa was chosen president of the City Council and A. Wendell Clark was re-elected vice chairman of the School Committee for the fourth year by a 5-1 vote over Mrs. Helen Spencer.

RAISE MORATORIUM ASKED

William M. Edmonston, executive secretary of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, asked that the Mayor, the City Council and the School Committee declare a moratorium on pay raises for city employees.

Said Edmonston:

"Unless the Quincy homeowner becomes articulate in regards to telling his councillor and the School Committee that he is opposed to any additional pay expenditures it will become too expensive for him to own a home in Quincy."

"What Quincy needs in 1948 is a majority of the Quincy City Council and members of the School Committee with fortitude enough to say 'no' to all suggestions of pay raises."

GALA NEW YEAR'S EVE

Quincy's smart set welcomed the New Year with a midnight show at the Art Theater - "Golden Earrings", with Marlene Dietrich and Ray Milland, the movie that asked the question: "Was there a man bold enough to earn the tigerish caresses of wild and fabulous Lydia?"

Less daring celebrants danced to the music of Lundin's Orchestra at the Finnish Temperance Hall, Suomi Rd. and Nelson St., West Quincy, and Vick Vill's Band in the Brewster Boat on the Neponset River near the bridge.

RAIDERS WIN

Tom Finneran scored 13 points and Sid Cedrone had 12 as North Quincy bombed Gloucester, N.J., High School, 53-20, in the Raiders' first game ever against a team from outside Massachusetts. North led 14-1 at the quarter and 24-4 at the half.

The other starters for North Quincy were Norm Nelson, Al Strecker, Richie Sullivan while Bill Reilly, Bob Brigham and Frank Hines performed ably as substitutes.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By ERIC SWIDER

Maintaining And Expanding Job Opportunities

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce is in the business of maintaining and expanding job opportunities in this region.

In 1976, the Chamber accomplished the following through its Economic Development Group, under the leadership of David Loveless, President of Boston Whaler, and Vice President for Economic Development: Thomas Curtis, Curtis Enterprises, and President of the South Shore Economic Development Corporation; and Walter Hannon, Manager of the Economic Development Group:

- Arranged $3.8 million in SBA financing for 12 area firms that resulted in the retention and addition of 500 new jobs [expands our 2-year total of $5.3 million for 17 firms for 700 jobs];

- Secured an additional 150 on-the-job training slots, 50% salary reimbursement, totaling $310,000;

- Job Fair resulting in 300 placements from 4,000 attending;

- Secured a $100,000 Environmental Impact Study on Fore River Bridge replacement and began program to secure design funds and federal participation;

- Our Quincy D.E.S. office reorganization involvement resulted in 30% placement increase;

- Our Job Expansion Team has developed an ongoing contact with 126 local manufacturers;

- The South Shore Economic Development Corporation has been restructured to actively seek State and Federal Grants and loans for industrial park development.

As businesspeople, we recognize that most of the business expansion activity that goes on in this marketplace will be done by our members without our direct help. We applaud this and plan to take no credit for it. However, when our help is needed, our Economic Development team is readily available. Here's what we anticipate doing in 1977:

- Assist qualified firms secure SBA 502 financing, allowing for retention, expansion and addition of 350 jobs through our South Shore Economic Development Corporation.

- Secure a completed Environmental Impact Study on the Fore River Bridge by March, 1977 by working closely with consultants, state officials, local government leaders, labor unions and citizens groups. We will attempt to determine the potential for Federal funding; promote that potential with Congressional delegation, and begin work to secure $3 million design fund project approval. [This effort represents the long term retention of 5,500 manufacturing jobs at the General Dynamics shipyard and 5,500 supporting jobs in the South Shore economy.]

- Enlarge the Job Expansion Team program so that each South Shore manufacturer has a JETeam representative that is regularly contacting them and offering our aid to remove obstacles to their growth and expansion here [as outlined in our Business Development Aids kit.]

- Conduct Job Fairs sufficient to find employment for 300 citizens. Assist in placing 200 citizens in On-The-Job Training programs with local firms [CETA-50% salary reimbursement.]

- Conduct VIP tours for "foreign" developers or expansion-minded businesses to expose them to appropriate opportunities here.

- Through our South Shore Economic Development Corporation determine the desirability of purchasing and developing land and/or buildings for industrial purposes. Consider creating a foreign trade zone park. If feasible, proceed.

- Continue to work with local IDC's, the Department of Commerce and Development, County Development Councils and Jobs for Massachusetts to retain, attract or expand manufacturing employers.

- Maintain an updated computerized inventory of industrial land and our active referral system on vacant buildings.

- Continue to work for further improvements in the services offered by the local offices of the Division of Employment Security by regular meetings with DES personnel and our Advisory Committee.

- Carry out our innovative pilot Career Education program with the Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Hingham and Scituate School systems; and if successful, carry it forth to other systems; obtain appropriate grants to accomplish same.

- Make the Personnel Managers Group relevant to all members by having it conduct annual salary, wage and fringe benefit surveys, as well as hold regular meetings on emerging and existing topics of general concern; continue our basic supervisory training programs.

- Identify South Shore firms that would benefit from oil and gas drilling efforts on Georges Bank and encourage them to develop appropriate business relationships.

- Work with freight shippers and receivers to monitor rail reorganization; Promote upgrading and expanded freight line use.

[Eric Swider is Executive Vice-President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.]

U.S. Mail Box Returned To Germantown

The U. S. Mail has returned to Germantown.

A mail box was placed in the lobby of 9 Bicknell St. Dec. 15, replacing three earlier ones that were taken out by the Postal Service because of vandalism.

The new box is the result of a long campaign on the part of Mrs. Joan Kennedy of the Quincy Housing Authority's Office of Tenant Services.

It is available between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Quincy Receives $637,087 From State Lottery

The City of Quincy has received $637,087.71 from the Mass. State Lottery Commission as part of the Game's $46.3 million payment to the state's cities and towns.

The payment to Quincy places the city 11th from the top of the Lottery's Christmas gift list, with Boston leading in amounts received at just under $9.75 million.

State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane, chairman of the Lottery Commission, in announcing the payments, said the Lottery reached the $100 million mark in sales for the first time this year, and this increase allowed the returns to cities and towns to increase by $4.7 million over last year.

2 Mayoral Appointees Resign, Probe Launched

meeting of the Council, well attended by city employees, that brought charges from Council President Arthur H. Tobin of "jamming the Chamber with people to bring pressure on the Council."

Councillor Dennis E. Harrington called it "a zoo".

Said LaRaia:

"I think there is still a bitter feeling with some of the Council members over the fact that I am Mayor and I wasn't supposed to be."

Another appointment, that of Stephen N. F. Anderson, son of former City Councillor Carl W. Anderson, as assistant director of City Hospital, also drew the fire of the City Council for reasons never fully specified. Anderson resigned after going unpaid for two months.

"Due to the constant bickering between the Hospital Board and the Mayor's office over my appointment I can't see that I could be an effective administrator," said Anderson. "Bickering" was a word heard frequently in Quincy in 1976.

A third mayoral appointment broke the dam on whatever restraint remained in the City Council.

Daniel F. McGinley of Squantum resigned five days after he was named Cemetery Superintendent when it was discovered that he had been under indictment for two years in Suffolk County on two criminal complaints.

Councillor Daniel G. Raymond, a first term who was emerging as a constant LaRaia critic on the Council, called for appointment of a blue ribbon committee of citizens to probe the appointments of Short, Anderson and McGinley.

"I have done nothing wrong," responded the Mayor, "but they just can't let a situation go by without making an attempt to get their hooks into Joe LaRaia."

The Council dropped the appointments controversy into the lap of Councillor James A. Sheets, chairman of its Oversight Committee, which promptly got bogged down in procedural questions until Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. piped up:

"Is it too simple a thing to go to the Mayor and simply ask him for an explanation of the appointments?"

As it turned out it was the thing to do and the Mayor astonished everyone by agreeing to appear before the Oversight Committee to explain the appointments. A defiant Daniel in the lions' den, as it were.

The confrontation was a fiasco.

After angry exchanges with Tobin and Councillor Dennis E. Harrington, the Mayor brought the proceedings to a halt.

"I feel that we have nothing to gain by further discussing at length and in great detail what I feel has turned into an inquisition," he said and he walked out, inviting the Council to come and see HIM next time.

Frustrated, the Council asked The Sun, the Patriot Ledger and Radio WJDA to take over the investigation. The request was turned down and the probe of Mayor LaRaia's appointments was marking time when the year ended.

But two days before Christmas, two more appointees were in trouble.

Public Works Commissioner Vincent LoCicero and Herbert Reppucci, assistant director of the Retired Senior Citizens Volunteer Program [RSVP], were arrested by the FBI charged with extorting $7,000 from the low bidder on a $1 million addition to the Merrymount School. Both men were suspended without pay by LaRaia. The cases were continued to Jan. 12.

For a while in 1976, it was thought that the long and knotty problems of the additions and renovations to North Quincy High School and

Compromise Reached On NQHS Controversy

[Cont'd from Page 13]
the Merrymount School had been settled at last.

It was to cost $15 million and North Quincy High School was to be closed for three years during construction while North students attended Quincy High School on double sessions.

The Mayor's opposition to the plan was well known but that seemed to have been brushed aside when Prof. Earle F. Littleton, the Mayor's own special adviser on the North Quincy project, recommended that it begin as soon as possible.

Then the Mayor stunned the city by refusing to sign the bond issue.

"I do not want to commit the taxpayers in our city to this financial burden," he said.

The School Committee hired former Atty. Gen. Robert Quinn to seek ways to force the Mayor to sign the bond. The Concerned Citizens for North Quincy High School was formed to fight for the addition.

"If need be we'll go to court," said a spokesman. "Somebody has got to stop him before he fouls things up completely."

Finally, after the Mayor explored a plan to renovate the 50-year-old high school for $1 million or less, a compromise was reached. The project was trimmed to $13.5 million for 1,700 students, not 2,000, and the double sessions were to be at North Quincy alone, leaving Quincy High out of the plan.

But the long controversy over North Quincy High School didn't end there.

The Kent Corp. was hired for $310,000 as management consultant to speed the project along but it had barely gotten underway when it was discovered that a clerk of the works at $600 a week had also been hired to act as liaison between the city and the contractor.

The City Council, by this time acutely tuned in to everything that emanated from the Mayor's office, thought that was a bit extravagant.

A Council investigation turned up the fact that Kent Corp., under its contract, could also bill the city for a series of apparently unlimited additional expenses, and some Councillors figured out that the city could be billed twice for some $170,000 in expenses.

That was settled to the complete satisfaction of no one when Kent President George Coker signed a "memorandum of agreement" specifying that the city would be billed for $310,000 in fixed fees and would not be billed twice for the same employees.

And over all the furor around appointments and North Quincy High School hung the spectre of financial crisis.

It began when reports seeped out of the Mayor's office of the imminent firing of 70 city employees in a desperate effort to hold down a proposed budget that was running away with itself.

The reports moved Council

President Tobin to sit down and dash off an ordinance to block the layoffs.

"No permanent employee of the city of Quincy shall be terminated for reasons of economic necessity until and unless all provisional and temporary employees of the city have been terminated."

The Mayor vetoed it as an illegal restriction on the powers of his office to hire and fire people.

Finally, a month late but legal under a blanket extension granted by the state, Mayor LaRais presented a $78.7 million budget, up $10 million from the previous year, to the City Council - and virtually begged them to cut it if they could.

The budget requests of Police Chief Finn were trimmed by $700,000.

"The Mayor has deliberately exposed our city to the criminal element by irresponsibly cutting our budget," charged the Chief.

Fire Chief Edward F. Barry, whose budget proposals were slashed by $950,000, said:

"The Mayor is making a tragic mistake."

And virtually everyone expressed concern over a predicted tax rate increase of about $40.

The Council trimmed what it could and sent the budget back to the Mayor, apparently satisfied that a little juggling here and there would produce a tax rate hike of not much more than $10.

But the Mayor and his budget coordinator, Sarah Saccone,

Controversial Tax Rate Set At $194.60

began saying disquieting things about a tax boost of at least $25.

Alarmed, the City Council asked for the budget back for further cutting and, failing that, voted an amendment slashing certain parts of the budget by 20 per cent and sent it to the Mayor.

"He can veto the amendment if he wants," said Councillor Harrington, "but he should be put on record by his veto whether or not he wants a $25 tax rate increase."

As the day approached for city officials to go into Boston to get state approval of the tax rate, members of the City Council pleaded, threatened and stormed in an effort to convince the Mayor that it had the solution to the tax problems.

"Jack," said Tobin to Executive Secretary Salenius at one tumultuous Council meeting, "please don't go into Boston tomorrow and set a $40 tax rate increase. Don't do this great injustice to the city of Quincy."

Harrington said the administration had failed to appeal to the state in its efforts to keep the rate down.

"They don't do it because they don't choose to do it or because they're too incompetent to do it," he raged.

"I'm not sure that the whole system of setting the tax rate is understood by the Administration," said Councillor Sheets.

The tax rate was set at $194.60 on a Wednesday. On Thursday, the state permitted $1.3 million in anticipated hospital receipts to be considered and the rate went down to $189.40. On Friday, that was disallowed and $1.4 million in Blue Cross-Blue Shield coverage was disallowed too and the final rate was pegged at $196.80, a rise of $34.90.

Mayor LaRaia blamed the increase on deliberate underbudgeting by the previous administration and on "interference by the Council President in the procedures traditionally followed in establishing the tax rate."

"I know the public is disgusted with the bickering that is going on in their city government," he added.

It may have been the one precise statement to have come out of the whole affair.

Quincy City Hospital was a nagging trouble spot all year.

Erratic accounting procedures delayed payment of some bills from suppliers to the point where, Council President Tobin told a stunned Council, "nine or ten vendors representing large medical supply houses have shut off the city's credit for non-payment of bills."

On Thanksgiving Day, Councillor Sheets disclosed, his 8-year-old son was taken to City Hospital for stitches in a cut on his head and the Hospital had no No. 4 sutures with which to do the job.

The No. 4 sutures were part of a bundle of orders being held up by a pharmaceutical company that had not been paid," said Sheets. "Fortunately, a No. 5 suture could be used instead.

"But what would have happened if someone was brought to the hospital with a very serious wound? I was told there were materials necessary for that sort of problem that were also being withheld."

By the end of the year, the Hospital's past debts had been whittled to a mere $8,852.72 in bills that had not yet been certified.

The troubles at the Hospital cost Harlan Paine the job of director that he had held since 1962. He was succeeded in the post by Anthony DeFalco, former secretary of administration and finance in the administration of Gov. John A. Volpe.

The South Quincy MBTA station, which was opposed by virtually every political figure in Quincy, won final approval when the Urban Mass Transportation Administration in Washington approved a $21 million grant for work that included its construction.

QUINCY POINT residents and supporters picket in vain outside City Hall in January demanding earlier closing times for bars in their area.

Tied in with the station was the Upland Rd. Extension, sought by the business community as a connector between downtown Quincy and the Southeast Expressway, and the Town Brook Flood Control Project, long a desire of the South Quincy community which was tired of pumping water out of its cellars.

When some community leaders showed signs of further foot-dragging on the projects, Charles A. Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank, urged an immediate start to construction, calling the station "inevitable".

"This is not the time for stalling tactics," he said. "It is time to get going—now."

The election of 1975, in which Joseph J. LaRaia defeated then-Mayor Walter J. Hannon in a recount, was probed, reprobed and then probed again during 1976.

Quincy District Court Judge Albert L. Kramer held an in-depth inquest into the election, seeking particularly the answer to why 600 votes in blocks of 50 changed hands in the recount, giving LaRaia a 473-vote upset victory over Hannon.

Judge Kramer's report found

No Wrongdoing In Election, Recommend Improvements

no criminal actions but turned the spotlight on a number of flaws in the election process in Quincy. He recommended that city election officials:

- "Establish a uniform method of counting ballots which would clearly prohibit the use of the 'flash count' system. [Flash counting was described as a quick method of obtaining a result by counting in blocks of 50 votes for a candidate.]

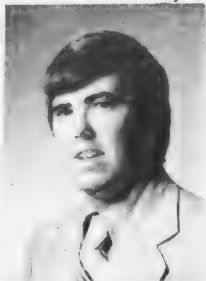

- "Establish a uniform practice for the tabulating and transposing process which would require that blocks of votes be entered on the total sheet in numerical order, that zeros be entered in the total column whenever a candidate receives no votes, and that all entries on the tally and total sheets be double-checked by the warden and clerk.

- "Prohibit municipal that they would be easily recognizable."

Later, a citizens' committee, appointed by LaRaia at the judge's suggestion, reviewed the evidence in the case and came to the same conclusion - the election was conducted honestly but rather sloppily.

The Mayor, however, was not fully convinced.

"You can never erase that small doubt from your mind," he said.

The state and national elections in Quincy saw the veteran Cong. James A. Burke, 66, repel two challengers less than half his age; but longtime State Rep. Joseph E. Brett, 69, lost the seat he held for 18 years to a 22-year-old upstart, first in the primary, then in the general

I can't get off the plane without 25 potential candidates gathering around to feel my pulse," complained Burke when he returned to the 11th Congressional District after a brief stay in the hospital with pneumonia.

He proved healthy enough to defeat Patrick H. McCarthy, 30, of Randolph in the Democratic primary by 43,939 to 32,330; and Danielle de Benedictis, 30, of Milton, an Independent candidate, by better than a 2-1 margin in the final election.

Brett was stunned by Michael W. Morrissey, a recent graduate of UMass-Amherst, in the Democratic primary.

"You can call it overconfidence," said Brett. "I've been in office 18 years and I'm beaten by a 22-year-old boy who just got out of college in June. It's unbelievable."

It was so unbelievable to Brett that he tried it again on stickers in the general election and was trounced again by the 22-year-old boy, this time by a margin of 6,231 to 1,804.

Republican Gerald Ford and Democrat Henry [Scop] Jackson, the senator from Washington, topped their respective primary ballots in Quincy in the spring Presidential primary.

Ford easily outpolled former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, 1,883 to 994; but Jackson barely slipped past former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, 3,934 to 3,446. A darkhorse entry, former Georgia

Gov. Jimmy Carter, was a distant fourth on the Democratic side.

But it was a different story on the first Tuesday in November. Carter, the Democratic nominee and no longer a darkhorse, drew down 57 per cent of the Quincy vote, 22,906 to 16,687 for Ford.

In the midst of the campaign, Carter found the time to send a bouquet of American beauty roses and a note to Mrs. Mary Johnson of Merrymount, a Radio WJDA personality, who had entered the hospital with a recurring illness. Said the note:

"Wishing I could be with you. You have been a sincere friend to me. Because of you and Russell we will enjoy a great Democratic victory in November. Love, Jimmy and Tosalynn Carter."

Mrs. Johnson and her husband, Russell, both Republicans, had met Carter on a speaking visit to Massachusetts in May, 1973, and were so impressed that they worked for his election as Quincy campaign coordinators. Carter called them "my first friends in Massachusetts."

A couple of days after the election, Mrs. Johnson was dead. John J. Sullivan was elected vice chairman of the School Committee and Frank Anselmo, who thought he had the post in his pocket, promptly resigned from the Committee, charging Sullivan had broken his word. He reconsidered his resignation, however, a day later.

Capt. Henry Cassani, 46, the Quincy boy who learned to love flying by watching planes from Squantum Naval Air Station circle his home, retired as commanding officer of the South Weymouth Naval Air Station to take over the Navy ROTC program in Port St. Joe High School in Florida.

Navy Capt. Richard A. Stratton told the graduating class at Quincy Junior College that he kept his balance through years of captivity in North Vietnam because of tradition - "the aggregate of American culture my country and city

Mrs. Ruby C. Bigelow of 42 Lunt St., North Quincy, celebrated her 100th birthday with a plaque from Mayor LaRaia and letters from President Ford and Gov. Michael Dukakis.

The 1976-77 enrollment in Quincy schools was pegged at 14,772 students, the lowest in 10 years. Said a puzzled School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon:

A Quincy girl who found fame and fortune on the stage and screen returned home to celebrate her 80th birthday in a gala Ruth Gordon Weekend.

About 1,400 people attended her Birthday Ball in State Street South on Saturday and 750 more were at her Birthday Banquet on Sunday at the Chateau de Ville in Randolph. Proceeds went to the proposed Quincy-South Shore Cultural Commission, which is to include a Ruth Gordon Theater for the Performing Arts.

The occasion was marked by the introduction of Quincy's new official song, "Quincy Is Our Name", composed by John Fantuchio of Quincy, a student at the Berkley School of Music.

About 9,000 Quincy residents, some 10 per cent of the population, received swine flu vaccine shots at clinics set up by Health Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon. The program in Quincy was over by the time it was cancelled nationally due to unexpected reactions on the part of some who had received it.

A number of Quincy stores stayed open on Sunday in defiance of the 250-year-old Massachusetts Blue Laws, drawing support from the Quincy Center Business and Sons of two Quincy police officers have won $500 scholarships in the fourth annual scholarship award of the Massachusetts Police Association.

They are Brian M. Gilfeather, son of Officer and Mrs. John J. Gilfeather of 55 West Elm Ave., Wollaston, and Thomas M. Mitchell, son of Officer and Mrs. Maurice P. Mitchell of Randolph.

Gilfeather is going to Harvard; Mitchell to Bowdoin. Gilfeather is a 1976 graduate of Boston College High School, where he had a final average of 4.1, receiving three student council awards, an Academic Gold Medal and the Thomas Murphy Memorial Sportsmanship Award.

He was a four-year member of the student council, serving as secretary during his junior year and vice president as a senior. He was also vice president of BC High's chapter of the National Honor Society.

A three-year starter on the football team, he also participated in basketball and track and spent three months in Spain as an exchange student.

Mitchell, one of eight children, was a member of the National Honor Society at Randolph High School and captained the cross country and indoor and outdoor track teams. He placed in the top five in the State Class A track meet on four occasions.

A biology major with an intended future in medicine, Mitchell also received scholarships from the Randolph Elks and Lions Club and the Quincy American Legion Post.

Mayor LaRaia Vows He Will Not Resign

(Cont'd from Page 2)

Council to step up its attacks on him.

"They have been investigating my administration since January," he said. "It would be no surprise to me what they do."

LaRaia met with Council President Arthur H. Tobin, his most frequent critic, briefly in the Mayor's office before the news conference Monday.

"We discussed the events of the past several days," said Tobin. "I tried to ascertain how the City Council could be helpful. He thanked me for coming in."

"He said, 'I suppose you'll be having a field day with this,' and I told him, 'Quite the contrary. The City Council will act in a very professional manner in its concern for the future of the city.'"

Tobin denied LaRaia's charge of harassment, noting that three previous appointments by the Mayor have left office under unusual circumstances.

"One was convicted of soliciting a bribe," Tobin said. "Another was under indictment when he was appointed. The third resigned when the question arose of a possible investigation into a previous appointment. Now two others are arrested for extortion. Isn't that the concern of the City Council?"

"What the City Council has been doing since January is only its job. If the Mayor says that the Council has asked him to resign then once again he is telling the big lie. In the bizarre happenings since last Thursday, the City Council has acted in a very professional manner."

La Raia declined to speculate on the guilt or innocence of LoCicero and Reppucci.

"Unfortunately," he said, "when anyone is involved in an arrest or any confrontation with the law, innocent or not, that person is considered guilty in the eyes of the public. Even the innocent are tarnished."

"There are two systems of justice, one for public officials and one for those who are not public officials."

The Mayor said he has not yet received a reaction from the public on the arrests.

"I have never looked at this case from the aspect of my re-election," he said. "I am just trying to do the business of the city. If I felt that my accomplishments justified it, then I would think of re-election."

"I am confident that the people who know me have trust in their Mayor."

The Mayor's statement follows:

"On Dec. 23, in response to inquiries by the press, this office released information as to the suspension of two officials of this administration. Commissioner of Public Works Vincent LoCicero and Assistant Director of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program Herbert Reppucci. The circumstances surrounding their suspension are now public knowledge.

"At that time, due to my limited knowledge of those circumstances, I was not able to provide the public and press with adequate information as to the course of action this office must take. It has always been my policy, both as Councillor and Mayor, to promote honesty and openness in government. I have therefore, this morning, called a press conference both to issue an official statement and to address myself more thoroughly to any questions the press and public might have.

"Firstly, let me say that both Mr. LoCicero and Mr. Reppucci have well-served the City of Quincy and this administration during the last year. While I am relentless in my belief that a violation of public trust must be dealt with accordingly, I also believe relentlessly in the American system of justice which accords each individual the right to due process of law.

"I cannot and will not presume upon their innocence or guilt, and am confident that the public is in agreement that this is a matter for the proper legal authorities.

"It is, however, incumbent upon me as Mayor to carry on with the business of administering this City's government as best I know how. This is my primary obligation as I see it.

"I have, therefore, suspended these officials because it would be impossible for them to effectively provide the services to this City for which I appointed them until the issue of their innocence or guilt is resolved.

"I have appointed Mr. Edward Leone as Acting Commissioner of Public Works and will appoint a replacement for Mr. Reppucci's position within the week.

"Should circumstances determine that the accused officials, whom have been suspended, are innocent, they will be given every reconsideration as to their reinstatement.

"I have furthermore directed City Solicitor, Thomas Williams to obtain a letter of approval from U. S. Attorney Gabriel's office, regarding the Rocheford Company, which was the low-bid contractor for the Merrymount School, and which was party to the arrest last Thursday of these officials. As it has consistently been my policy to award contracts to the low-bidder, I will stand by that policy pending the letter of approval."

Raymondi Charges LaRaia Playing Politics With Point Water Main Project

Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi claims Mayor LaRaia with trying to make a political issue out of a Quincy Point water main repair project.

In a letter to the Mayor, released this week, Raymondi said the Mayor is trying to use the water main issue "to force the City Council to create more positions on the city payroll."

Raymondi asked the Mayor to look at the program "on its own merits" and not to bring into play "the kind of power politics that you campaigned so vehemently against."

He said the program would not affect either the tax or water rates of the city and would bring relief to hundreds of Quincy residents who are currently affected by the poor conditions of certain water mains.

Anthony P. DeFalco, director of Quincy City Hospital, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association Jan. 5 at 8 p.m. at the Montclair Men's Club, Holbrook Rd., North Quincy.

DeFalco will outline conditions at the hospital for the QCA members and will summarize his plans for improving hospital services as well as planned construction and renovations.

The January business meeting of the QCA will follow

DeFalco's address. Refreshments will be served.

Installation of newly elected officers will take place during the business meeting and reports from Elinda Lipsitz of the Dinner Dance Committee, Paul Harold of the Scholarship Committee, and other committee reports will be delivered.

In addition, plans will be made for the public hearing on the QCA's zoning petition at City Hall Feb. 2.

Morrissey Attends Seminar, Tours Walpole State Prison

Rep.-elect Michael W. Morrissey of North Quincy recently attended a day-long seminar conducted by the Massachusetts Department of Corrections.

The seminar included a tour of Walpole State Prison and a visit to a pre-release center on the grounds of Boston State Hospital.

Morrissey said his attendance at the seminar was a great opportunity to gain first hand information on problems plaguing the state's penal institutions. He emphasized that this kind of information was necessary to make intelligent decisions on prison issues during the 1977 legislative session.

Tobin, Morrissey Seek Lower

Insurance Rates For Under-25

Two Quincy legislators have filed legislation for the 1977 Legislative session which would do away with higher automobile insurance rates for drivers under 25 years of age.

Senator Arthur Tobin and North Quincy Rep. Michael W. Morrissey filed the legislation because, as Morrissey said, people under 25 are being harshly punished in their auto insurance rates.

Under the new "merit auto insurance", each driver should be charged according to his individual driving record, but people under 25 are automatically assigned to the high risk pool whether they are good drivers or not.

Morrissey said he feels strongly that the auto insurance companies should not be allowed to discriminate on the basis of age.

10 Seats Open On

South Metro Health Council

Ten seats on the South Shore Metro Health Council, a health advisory group made up of consumers and health professionals, are open for election.

Quincy residents may become candidates by filing with the Health Planning Council for Greater Boston by 5 p.m., Jan. 10, at 47 Birmingham Parkway, Brighton.

Candidates will have an opportunity to present their views on health care at the Jan. 25 meeting of the South Metro Health Council.

The council is composed of residents of Quincy, Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Holbrook, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Randolph, Scituate and Weymouth. Rosemary Wahlberg of Quincy is chairman.

17 Complete Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation Course

Seventeen members of the Quincy Recreation Department swimming staff, recently completed a cardio pulmonary resuscitation course.

The course, run in cooperation with the Greater Quincy Red Cross Chapter, was taught in a one day institute for Recreation employees. Instructors for the C.P.R.

modular system were Nancy Laing and Carolyn Bowe. Each person who successfully completed the course received a certificate from the Red Cross.

Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation is a Life Saving technique that's a combination of artificial respiration and manual artificial circulation that is used in cases of cardiac arrest. Those who received cards are:

Kenneth Taft Installed Veterans Council Comander

Kenneth B. Taft of 29 Athorp St., Wollaston, commander of the Quincy Disabled Veterans, was installed as commander of the Quincy Veterans Council recently at ceremonies in the Wollaston Legion Post.

The principal speaker was John J. Comer of Quincy, past commander of the Massachusetts Department American Legion. Arthur Senter, president of the QVC's past commanders club, was the installing officer.

Other officers installed were: Joseph Callahan, senior vice commander; Irving Isaacson, junior vice commander; Walter Johnson, finance officer; Thomas Hurlebaus, assistant finance officer; James Lynch, historian; Joseph McDonough, judge advocate; William Ash, chaplain; Joseph Sullivan, assistant chaplain; Larry Carnali, graves registration officer; Roger Whitcomb, publicity officer.

Other officers are: Walter Fuller, adjutant; Tom McDonald, officer of the day; Ralph Paul, sergeant at arms; Tom Quinn, assistant sergeant at arms; John Gillis, parade chairman; Edward Roberts, civil defense; James McIntyre, state legislative officer; Paul Harold, city legislative officer.

Members of the executive committee are: Joseph McDonough, Tom Hurlebaus, William Ash, Arthur McLean and Anthony Famigletti.

$3,930 Grant For Library Use

Dr. Edward Pierce, president of Quincy Junior College, announces the college has received a $3,930 College Library Resources Grant. The grant will be used to assist the college library in acquiring additional print and non-print material for student use.

Dr. Pierce, said the college is continuously seeking funding from the federal government so as to provide the best education possible without being a burden to the Quincy taxpayer.

Dr. Pierce also expressed "delight" that the student use of the college library has increased tremendously since it moved to better facilities.

Quincy Junior College is now interviewing day students for the January semester.

Ninety different credit courses and 46 non-credit community service courses will be offered in Quincy as well as additional courses being offered in QJC off-campus centers at Hingham, Hingham, Norwood, Scituate, Hanover and Weymouth.

All credit courses are applicable to an Associate in Science Degree. Among the college degree programs are Law Enforcement, Accounting, Management, Marketing, Retailing, Real Estate/Insurance, Early Childhood Education, Computer Science, Electronics Technology, Secretarial and Liberal Arts.

Three new credit courses this semester are Introduction to Mass Communication, on Tuesday night, Classical Theater: The Humanities in Drama, on Wednesday, and Medical Transcription, on Thursday.

Monday night's class schedule includes Business Math, Physical Science II, General Psychology, Psychology of Human Adjustment, Major Religions of the World, Principles of Acting, English Composition, Creative Writing, French, Economics, Accounting, Introduction to Data Processing, Personnel Management, Shorthand, Business Communications and Electronic Instruments.

On Tuesday night the following courses will be offered in Basic and College Math, Chemistry II, Environmental Science II, Biology I, Abnormal Psychology, State and Local Government, Drawing, Painting, Music Appreciation, English, Literature, Economics, Accounting, Real Estate Finance, Advertising, Typing I and II, Shorthand, Introduction to Early Childhood Education, Police Work with Juvenile Delinquents.

The Wednesday night course selection includes Chemistry, Biology, General Psychology, Child Psychology, The Roles of Women in Society, Contemporary Social Problems, International Relations, U.S. History, Photography, English, Oral and Interpersonal Communications, Development of the American Film, French, Spanish, Federal Taxation, Insurance, Introduction to Law Enforcement and Criminology.

Thursday night's class schedule includes Adolescent Psychology, Psychology of Human Motivation, General Sociology, History of Western Civilization, Drawing, Painting, English, Spanish, Introduction to Journalism, Accounting, Marketing, Real Estate, Computer Programming and Criminal Law, among others.

The registration period has been expanded to allow students more ease in registering, beginning Dec. 27 and running through until Jan. 21, 1977. Classes begin Jan. 24.

For more information and a brochure, call 471-2470 or 471-9200.

3 More Contracts For Bid

4 Projects Near Completion At Nut Island Plant

Four of the five current projects at the Nut Island Sewage Treatment Plant will be completed by the end of the month and three more contracts are going out for bids.

MDC Commissioner John F. Snedeker so reported to residents of Hought Neck in his December monthly letter issued through the office of Rep. Thomas F. Brownell.

The report said: "Contract activity at the Nut Island Treatment Plant has essentially remained constant throughout the past month.

"During December it is expected that four of the five contractors who have been working will be finished.

"These include repairs to Diesel Engines Nos. 2 & 3, repairs to Pump No. 4, reconditioning of heat exchanger for Digester No. 2 and removal of debris from Digester No. 3.

"New work which is expected to start during December includes the installation of air diffusers and removal of grit from Aeration Tanks 1 through 5.

"Bids for three contracts for corrective work at the treatment facility will be received this month. This work will include roof repairs, the installation of a sluice gate for one of the outfalls, and the rehabilitation of the grit channels. The estimated cost for these three contracts is $154,000.

"One contract I would like to expand on this month is the one pertaining to the removal of debris from Digester No. 3.

"A digester is a device which naturally speeds the biological decomposition of pollutants which exist within sewerage. One result of this decomposition is a gas called methane which is used as a fuel to run the pumps at the facility. In this way we are taking advantage of a biological process by saving fuel costs, and at the same time benefitting our harbor by not allowing direct sewerage discharge."

New Access Road Into Blue Hills Nears Reality

One of the last hurdles to the compromise plan for a new access road into the Blue Hills from Rte. 37 in West Quincy has been cleared, announces Senator Arthur H. Tobin.

Tobin said he has been assured by MDC Commissioner Snedeker, that the roadway will be a separate, distinct, undertaking from the proposed MDC pipeline to be laid in the same area.

The roadway which was acceptable to a majority of the selectmen in Braintree and to Rep. Sheets of Quincy, is an integral part of the solution of the Wood Rd., Braintree, traffic problem.

Tobin said he would follow this project closely and expressed hope that the entire Topics Program in Braintree "can now proceed with the utmost in dispatch."

Quincy Faces Cambridge Latin, Raiders Meet Weymouth N.

Although Quincy's track team dropped its season's opener to Weymouth North, 49-37, last week, first-year coach John Lavery was pleased, especially since the Presidents lost to the same team by 40 points a year ago.

While the Presidents were losing, North Quincy Coach Lou Tozzi suffered the worst indoor defeat in his four years at North, as Brockton's powerful team rolled, 58-28.

Today [Thursday] Quincy meets Cambridge Latin and North faces Weymouth North at 11:30 a.m. at Newton North. Next Tuesday it will be Quincy vs. Brookline at 6:30 and North vs. Newton North at 7:30 at the same site.

Quincy had four winners against Weymouth North, John Saville, the state Class A two-mile champion, winning the mile, Jim Oriola the 600, Mark Buchanan the high jump and Mark Assad the shot put. Lavery was especially pleased with Buchanan's effort as he had been jumping only for two weeks. Buchanan also was second in the dash.

He also was extremely pleased with the performance of Assad, who had been throwing only a week and a half and had an infected hand.

Overall, Lavery, Tozzi's

assistant at North last year, was satisfied with the opening day performance. "This is one hard-working group of kids," he said.

Meanwhile, Tozzi was not too disappointed at his team's second loss since last January of 1975, saying, "Brockton has a superb team. We are very young and inexperienced, with only six seniors. I was pleased overall."

North had only two winners, Bob Levenson in the mile and Mike Gallagher in the shot put. Also turning in fine efforts were Mike Morin and Mike Barrett in the two-mile, Jerry MacKenzie in the 1000 and sophomore Bob Ferrara in the high jump.

North Swimmers Seek 3rd, Quincy Looking For No. 2

The North Quincy boys' swim team, off to a fine start, will seek its third win without a loss Tuesday, Jan. 4 at 7 p.m. when it hosts Cambridge Latin at the Lincoln Hancock School pool.

On the same day at 3:30 Quincy will face Weymouth North, also at Lincoln Hancock, seeking to make its record 2-1.

Bill Walker's North team, whose only win in its first season a year ago was over winless Quincy, easily defeated South Boston, 97-67, last week to make its record 2-0.

Kevin Greene won the one-meter diving and the 100 meter backstroke to pace the Raiders. Other winners were Mike Braun, 500-yard freestyle; John Flate, 100 breaststroke; and the 400 meter freestyle team of Braun, John Conley, Neil Quinn and Dan Fowkes. North took several seconds and thirds to pile up its winning margin.

Meanwhile, Quincy won its first meet as it topped Randolph, 85-81.

Peter Sullivan won two events, the 200-yard individual medley and the 500-yard freestyle, for the Presidents.

Other winners were Bob Almquist, diving; Jim LaHive, 100-yard butterfly; Ed Fenby, 100-yard freestyle; John Connolly, 100-yard breaststroke, and the 400-yard freestyle relay team.

Raiderettes Host Brockton, Ladies At Brookline

The North Quincy girls' basketball team, fresh from a convincing 48-34 win over rival Quincy last week, hosts Brockton today [Thursday] at 10 a.m. at the old Quincy High gym and next Tuesday will be home to Cambridge Latin at the same site at 3:15.

The Quincy girls, losers of their first two games, play at Brookline this morning at 10.

North, [1-1] under first-year coach Brian Tilley, played without one starter and two other players against Quincy but forced the First Ladies into many mistakes with a fine press.

The tempo was set in the first minute of the game when the Raiderettes stole the ball three times in Quincy's backcourt.

"It is the same story for the second game in a row," Quincy Coach Barbara Webster said [her team lost to Weymouth South in its opener]. "We just had far too many turnovers."

Sparking North's girls, who had dropped their opener to Waltham, was Ruth Widman, who scored 18 points. She was ably assisted by Lynda Ayles and little Linda Henry.

Veteran Lois Malvesti had 19 points for Quincy and Clair Oliverio also had a good game for the First Ladies.

Quincy Off Fast, Raiders Sluggish

Quincy's high flying basketball team, with a 4-0 record, faced Stoughton Tuesday night for the championship of the first annual Christmas tournament at the Vo-Tech gym.

Joe Amoroso's Presidents defeated Dorchester, last year's Eastern Mass. Division Two champion and state runnerup, 73-57, in the first round Monday, while Stoughton nipped Plymouth-Carver, 63-61.

Quincy's big scorers, Jack Uhlir and Mike Lamie, scored 19 and 16 points respectively, to spark the attack against Dorchester.

Tonight (Thursday) Quincy hosts Brookline and Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 will be home to defending Suburban League champion Rindge Tech.

Meanwhile, North Quincy, with only a 1-3 record, goes to Brockton tonight and plays at Cambridge Latin Tuesday at 7 p.m.

Quincy's bench strength paid off last Thursday when, with 6-6 Bob Uhlir, who had scored a school record 40 points in his previous game against North Quincy, being held to seven points as he ran into early foul trouble, the Presidents still defeated Weymouth South, 75-62.

Amoroso, who always seems to find a capable replacement, this time picked football quarterback Dennis Walter, who came into his own and scored 16 points.

"This had to be the finest performance of any bench man I have coached," said the pleased Quincy coach. "He is five inches shorter than Uhlir but did an excellent job of containing their big man in the middle, shot well and I liked the way he handled the ball and the press. I'm very pleased to know there are players on the bench who are ready to and can do the job."

Mike Lamie had another big night with 27 points, 16 in the first half. Amoroso also praised Mike Kennedy, who had nine points and seven rebounds.

North Quincy, under first-year coach Eddie Miller, continued to find the going rough as it lost to Brookline, 55-47, to drop its record to 1-3.

Miller has only one player with any real varsity experience and is depending upon his outstanding jayvees of last year. "They are coming along and we'll win our share of games before the season is over," Miller said.

John White was the only Raider in double figures with 14 points. Dan Cuddy had nine.

Earlier in the week Uhlir's 40 points, which broke the school mark of 37 points set by Bob Pike in 1970 and John Riggs last year, paced the Presidents to a 78-65 win over North Quincy.

It was far from a one-man effort as his mates, Lamie, Kennedy, Ed Daley and Ken Ames played fine ball and set Uhlir up.

North had taken a 17-15 lead in the opening period but Quincy exploded to outscore the Presidents, 24-14, in the second.

Lamie had 10 points for Quincy, while Keith Lindberg paced North with 18 points and White had 14.

Razer Holds Pee Wee Lead, Lydon Paces Bantam Division

Razer's Edge maintained its slim lead in the close Pee Wee Division race in the St. Ann's Hockey League with a 4-2 win over Noble Sporting Goods.

Andrew Pugliese, Neil Fisher, Jim Burgess and Bob Climo scored for Razer's Edge and Neil Beagle, Burgess and Joe Riley had assists. For Noble Ben Klingenstein and Brian Webb had the goals and Pete Clark and Webb had assists.

Dairy Queen and Dunkin Donuts stayed one point behind as DQ topped JDA, 6-2, and Donuts blanked Keohane's, 6-0.

Steve Hogan had the hat trick and Ed Riemann two goals for DQ. John Downing had the other goal. Mike Walsh and Riemann had assists. Jamie Fennell had both JDA goals with assists for Ed Page, Dom Peters, Mike Watt and Greg Gale.

Tom Barron and Tom Foley each had the hat trick for all the Donuts' goals. Barron, Mike Kubera and Foley had assists. Goalie Jim Boudreau earned the

Raider Matmen Undefeated

The undefeated North Quincy wrestling team goes to Dedham today (Thursday) for a noon meet against Dedham, Quincy and Norwood and next Wednesday will be at Brockton at 6:30.

First-year coach Vaughn Lovejoy, who is being helped by Art Faion, coach for the past two years, a veteran squad which shows up with the area leaders. Raiders lost only two of last year's wrestlers, who compiled an 8-11 record.

This is only North's third year of wrestling and the Raiders last week won their Suburban League opener, 40-24, over Weymouth North, following up non-league wins over Plymouth-Carver and Duxbury.

The squad includes seniors Brian Donaghue, Rich Schiarizzi, Artie Dorgan, Danny McGuigan, Steve Ketches, Eddie Hanrahan, Harry Knudsen, John Minukas, and Rick Mak; juniors Eddie Beck, Charlie Matthews, Butch Montoya, Eddie Evans, Frank Costa, Wayne Smith and John McKillop, and sophomores Andy Provost, Rich Donna, Chris Little and Jim Kyranas.

Heavyweight Knudsen extended his unbeaten string to 23 dual matches and Beck (107 pounds) extended his to 22 against Weymouth North. Other North winners were Donaghue, 100 pounds; Schiarizzi, 114; Dorgan, 121; Montoya, 128; Evanson, 155, and Hanrahan, 169.

Sacred Heart Faces St. Angela's Sunday

The Sacred Heart hockey team of North Quincy, which moved into second place in its league last Sunday, will face the league champion, St. Angela's of Mattapan, Sunday at 9 p.m. at the Boston Harbor Marina rink in Squantum.

Sacred Heart took over second place with a 4-2 win over St. Mary's of Randolph as Bill Bent and Dave Mitchell scored two goals each. Mitchell, Steve Ryan, Pat Martin and Frank Sears had assists.

Jack Ridge received the Most Valuable Player award from Fr. Thomas Garrett of Sacred Heart.

This was the third win in a row for Steve King's Sacred Heart team.

Time Change For Instructional Gym Program

The Quincy Park-Recreation Board announces a change in time for its Instructional Gymnastics Program.

Effective immediately, classes for junior and senior high girls only will meet Tuesday from 6-9 p.m. and the junior and senior high co-ed group will meet Wednesday from 6-9 p.m.

Both programs held at the Atlantic Junior High Gym, Hollis Ave., N.Q., are open to Quincy residents who can register at the time of the classes. Participants should wear proper gym attire for instruction in basic gymnastics including tumbling and apparatus.

Quincy Hosts Weymouth N., North Meets Rindge Tech

Quincy's hockey team, still trying to get untracked, hosts Weymouth North today [Thursday] at 6:40 at the Quincy Youth Arena, and North, winless but with two ties, plays Rindge Tech at noon Friday at the Charles River Rink in Newton.

Next Wednesday, Quincy [1-3] plays Cambridge Latin at 6:30 at Charles River and North hosts Newton North at 6:40 at the Youth Arena.

Ron Erikson's North team turned in one of its best efforts a week ago to hold unbeaten Weymouth South to a 1-1 tie, making the Raiders' record 0-2-2. Weymouth had won its first three games.

All the scoring was done in the first period with Weymouth's Steve Salvucci putting his team ahead at 4:20 with his eighth goal of the year. North used its power play to good advantage with a Weymouth player in the penalty box with Jim Moore converting passes from John Andrews and Paul Hurley to tie it at 9:01. After that the goalies, North's Ron Bereszniwicz and Weymouth's Walt Parry, took over.

Earlier in the week North had bowed to powerful Brockton, 7-2, with Mike Smith and Moore scoring the goals and Andrews and Ennis having assists.

Last Thursday Bob Sylvia's young and inexperienced Quincy skaters lost to Newton North, 5-1, with Jack Campbell scoring the Presidents' only goal on a power play.

Earlier in the week Quincy had exploded for a 13-4 win over Rindge Tech as Tom Cahill and Mark Giordani had three goals each, Mike Guizia and Mike Furey two apiece and John Norton, Brian Jolly and Billy Deitsch one each. Cahill had two assists and Furey, Jack Clifford, Campbell and Jack Cavanaugh one each.

"We are young and are struggling," Sylvia said. "We are making a lot of bad mistakes but I think we can turn it around. The kids are really trying and only time will tell."

Quincy Matmen Look Strong

Quincy High's wrestling team is off to a fast start with two wins in a row and it appears Coach Carmen Mariano had good reason to say "I am really excited about this team."

Wrestling was revived at Quincy and North two years ago after more than 30 years and both schools suffered through the first-year trials and tribulations with little success as far as won and lost records were concerned but delivering some fine individual grapplers.

Last year both teams came along by leaps and bounds with Mariano's Presidents compiling a creditable 12-9 record.

Even bigger things are expected this winter.

"Our program is three years old now, which means that for the first time we have boys with two full seasons of high school experience behind them," Mariano said. "I'm sure their experience is going to pay great dividends in terms of our dual meet performance."

Quincy's seniors are all experienced and most of them had fine records a season ago.

Joe Moran has captained the team since his sophomore year and was 10-3-1 last year, finishing second at 148 pounds in the Division One South section.

Co-Capt. Tim Cahill, 11-5-2 last year and fourth at 140 in the sectional tournament and, like Moran, should be one of the best around this season.

Gary Oriola, 14-6-1, is also back for his third year and should be tough to beat.

Tony Luongo was fifth in the sectionals at 188 last year and improved tremendously over the summer, while Wayne Gardiner [7-3] and Brian Kelly [5-5] will also help out greatly at 148 and 167 respectively.

Other seniors back for a third year are Dan Thibeault, Eddie Towers, Craig Shea, Tom Bambrery, Jon Golub and Peter Pagnano.

There are some outstanding juniors back from last year including Louis Venturelli [10-5-2 as a sophomore], Lenny Picot, expected to be one of the best 188-pounders in the section, and Danny Madden. Other juniors are Mike Aristide, Ed Graham, Lou Rizzo, David Flynn and Peter Marino.

Mariano has more talented sophomores than ever before, all benefitting from the excellent junior high program in the city.

They include Steve Notarangelo, Mike Shea, Jim Mullarkey, Steve Venturelli, and a very promising heavyweight, Chris Panara, who will see a lot of varsity action. Kevin McCarthy and Mark Romano will add depth to the lower weight classes.

Gerry McDonald, Stephan Pagnano, Joe Shea, John Shea, Walter Steen, John Bonome, George McCarron, Rene Crowe and John Vespaziani have given Mariano what he calls "two excellent weeks of practice and help round out the largest, most talented team we've had to date."

Quincy opened with a 26-24 win over Wakefield in a non-league meet as Notarangelo won by decision in the 107-pound class, Lou Venturelli took a decision at 114, Shea took a decision at 121, Oriola won a decision at 140, Thibeault won by a pin at 147, Kelly took a decision at 167 and Picot took a decision at 188.

The Presidents followed up by defeating Weymouth North, 34-26, in their league opener.

Madden, Doherty and Lou Venturelli pinned their opponents and Tower, Oriola, Cahill, Moran and Picot won by decisions.

The Presidents today [Thursday] engage in a quadrangular meet at Dedham at noon against North Quincy, Dedham and Norwood. The next meet will be next Wednesday at 6 p.m. a home meet with Marshfield at Vo-Tech gym.

Puzzled

Q. I was born on May 17, 1953 at 6:30 A.M. in Boston, Mass. I have calculated my horoscope but find myself puzzled about the aspects to my Moon. I would like to know whether the Moon Squared to Saturn conjunct Neptune is a stronger influence than the Moon conjunct Uranus? In short, what does it all mean, having the Moon in aspect with two extremely diverse planets and aspects?

Thomas
A. You are correct in the calculation of some of the aspects to your Moon and undoubtedly you also know your Moon was in Square aspect to your Venus and in Favorable aspect to both your Mercury, Sun and Mars among others. Also your Venus was "opposite" your Saturn which was Conjunct Neptune and Square your Uranus.

In any young man's horoscope, the Moon is indicative not only of his emotions but also his attitude towards and possible experiences with the opposite sex. The entire horoscope must always be given consideration in judging it's parts.

Emotionally and instinctively you are apt to seek the unusual in your love life. Unconventional relationships, while temporarily exciting, are bound to end abruptly.

You are very sensitive to both real or fancied offenses and can be easily hurt. You have a strong desire to be independent and are very much in need of love and affection and yet, you may "stand in your own light", so to speak.

Unless you are patient and cautious you are likely to be confused in your love life. You may seek to deviate from strict conduct which if you do, will likely lead to regrets and unfortunate experiences.

You have excellent possibilities, try to express your emotional drives by sublimation into intellectual development. Let your energies flow to the mind away from the sensational.

South Area Jewish Center Planning Single Adults Activities

In mid-January, the South Area Jewish Community Center will offer a variety of activities for single adults 21 to 35, and 30 and over.

Programs for the younger singles will be of a cultural and recreational nature, and will provide a casual atmosphere of group interaction and socialization.

For singles over 30, separate cultural, social, recreational and educational activities will be planned. The center also plans to develop workshops for singles on "Jewish Lifestyles for the Single Adult", "The Recently Divorced, Separated, or Widowed Person", "Today's World of the Young Single Adult", "Man to Man", and "Intimacy", and any other topics the members are interested in.

The center might also develop sports nights at their gym and pool, trips, dances, theater parties shabbat and Jewish holiday programs, and classes and discussion groups on many topics.

Quincy Man Directs Concert Artist Management Firm

A new professional concert artist management firm, directed by a former Quincy man, lists a number of soloists from the Boston Symphony Orchestra among its clients.

He is John P. Murdock, 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Francis Murdock of 43 Crabtree Rd.,

Squantum, for several years professional audio consultant for Old Colony Stereo and Tweeter, Inc., in Quincy.

A graduate of Oberlin College in Ohio, he interned with BSO Personnel Manager William Moyer; he has been a member of the Tanglewood Festival Chorus since 1975; and he has managed several community orchestras.

Murdock's firm, Boston Concert Artists Management of Brookline, gives New England sponsors for the first time direct access to musicians and ensembles through a local rather than New York management firm.

Special Interest Courses Planned At YMCA

Special interest courses will begin in early January at the Quincy YMCA.

A Crafts for Fun and Profit class begins Monday, Jan. 10 at 7 p.m. This class is designed to be especially helpful to church, school, Scout and Senior Citizen leaders.

Thayer Academy Student Newspaper Wins Top Quill And Scroll Award

The Tiger's Eye, the Thayer Academy student news-journal, is the 1975-1976 recipient of the first place international award given by the National Quill and Scroll Society.

The distinction was accorded to The Tiger's Eye for excellence of style, content, and visual appearance. Competition for this prize was among schools nationwide. Quill and Scroll is an honorary society for high school journalists.

The Tiger's Eye is printed by The Quincy Sun.

Lt. Gordon Parry Receives Law Enforcement Degree

Lt. Gordon E. Parry, 48, of 105 Putnam St., Quincy Center, a 25-year veteran of the Quincy Police Department, received a bachelor of science degree in law enforcement at Northeastern University's September commencement.

Lt. Parry, a 1946 graduate of Quincy High School, and a two year member of the U.S. Navy, has been a consistent Dean's List student.

He is married to the former Irene Nicholson and is the father of eight children, Melinda, 23; Bonnie, 21; Gordon, 19; Deborah, 9; Donna, 8; Diane, 7; Darlene, 6; and Dale, 3.

To Change Name To South Shore South Shore National Seeking State Charter

Robert L. Blair, Chairman of the Board and President of South Shore National Bank, announces the bank plans to make application for a state charter.

"The change to a state charter from a federal charter will enable us to drop our membership in the Federal Reserve System," Blair said. "As a member, the Federal Reserve System dictates certain actions that restrict earnings on reserves which member banks are required to maintain. State regulations treat these reserves in a different manner which will immediately create a positive impact on our earnings."

"We will be able to invest certain previously idle funds, some of which may be invested for the benefit of the economy of the bank's market area. This action by the bank is not uncommon to the banking industry as many banks in Massachusetts and throughout the United States have done the same."

The bank will continue to be a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

"This," said Blair, "assures all depositors that all deposits will be insured to the legal maximum as before. This is illustrative of the fact that the change in charter will in no way adversely affect the bank's quality of service."

"The only perceptible difference to the public will be the bank's name. The word 'National' will be dropped. Over the next few months signage and other material produced by the bank will be changed to read 'South Shore Bank'."

Harold Slawsby Elected S.S. Chamber Director

Harold W. Slawsby of Quincy, president of Capitol Super Markets, Inc., has been elected a director of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce for a three-year term, beginning Jan. 1.

As a member of the Chamber's governing board, Slawsby will help establish policy and make decisions based on that policy, being responsible at the same time to the membership for productive action of the Chamber.

A Boston native, Slawsby received his bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Michigan and was awarded a Master's in Business Administration from the Harvard School of Business in 1961.

Slawsby is a member of Boston's Harvard Club, past president of COSMA, past member of the advisory board of University Bank & Trust, a member of the advisory board of the Massachusetts Committee for UNICEF and a member of the advisory board of the Association of Massachusetts Consumers. He served as a Sp/5 in the U.S. Army Reserve.

He lives at 400 Adams St., with his wife, the former Ann Harrington, and their two children.

UNSEEN FACTORS

When you consider buying a home in a new locality, you'll want to know as much about the town and neighborhood as possible. Much of this information you can get from "eyeballing" the area, but there are important factors which the eye cannot see.

For example, local property taxes, public services, public transportation, hospitals, churches, community facilities. What are the zoning restrictions? Are there any unusual deed restrictions common to the area on how you might use, alter, or expand your property? What are the future prospects for the neighborhood?

A good, local Realtor can be a quarry of such information. He should have a feeling born of the familiarity for the specific neighborhoods in his territory. Level with him at the outset about what you want and he'll do his darndest to help you find it. That's what he's there for.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 336 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

Phone or drop in. We age here to help.
